The two gentlemen to whom the ratepayers decided to entrust, along with Mayor Denne, the management of the town waterworks for the ensuing year are Messrs. T.F.Matthews and W. H. Hill. Both these gentlemen are eminently qualified for the position. Mr. Hill has been on the board of the Waterworks Company for some years, where he has assisted in framing the policy of the company that has been so successful in the past. He is a capable business man, and may be relied upon to work in the best interests of the town at large.

Mr. Matthews is well known to the people of Peterborough, but he has never before offered himself for any public office. The fact that he headed the poll speaks well for his personal pupularity, and the reputation he bears as a business man. He is the Secretary-Treasurer of the Geo. Matthews Company, Limited, where he has gained a business training that will be of service to him in his new position of Water Commissioner.

With regard to the labour candidate, who stood next to the two winning candidates, the friends of Mr. Ball are not discouraged with the result, and consider that, as the representative of the labour party, he made a strong run. The president of the Labour Union explains that no systematic arrangements were made for getting out their vote, many of their members were not aware that a labour candidate had been selected, and the stormy character of the weather prevented others from getting to the polls.

The result of the vote was as follows:

Mr. T. E. Bradburn, while his name appeared on the ballot paper, was not a candidate. He was out of town at the time the nominations took place and did not return in time to officially withdraw. Notwithstanding that he published a statement to the effect that he did not desire any one to vote for him, 25 persons marked their ballots in his favour.

TOM WRITES HOME.

Mrs. F. W. Miller Received a Letter From Her Son in South Africa.

Mrs. F. W. Miller has received the following letter from her son, Tom, who is serving in South Africa;

Bloemfontein, Dec. 28th, 1901.

Dear Mother, — We had a very good Christmas this year, with plenty of plum pudding, oranges, roast beef, cigarettes, tobacco, etc.

I believe we have to go home for the coronation, which takes place in June, so they will have to get us out of this very soon. My chum, T. L. Davis, who comes from London, Ont., has been discharged as having bad teeth. Two of our members died on Saturday last and we buried them on Sunday.

They say that we are going down to the Colony next month, down near Cape Town to do garrison duty. I only hope that we are, so that we can get out of this place.

Well, dear mother, I don't know of any more to say this time, so hoping to hear from you soon, I remain, with love to all, your loving son,

TOM.

P.S. — I have received all the papers you have sent me, so please forward some more.—Tom.

CARD OF THANKS.

To the Ratepayers of the Town of Peterborough,—

Ladies and Gentlemen, — I desire through the press to express my sincere thanks for the honour done me, and the confidence expressed in me, by my election as Water Commissioner.

I will endeavour to the best of my ability, to serve all interests of the community impartially, and with the one aim in view to make a success of the people's investment in the Waterworks.

Yours respectfully,
T. F. MATTHEWS.

CARD OF THANKS.

To the Editor of the Examiner,—

Dear Sir, — Permit me to express through your columns, my thanks to the Electors for the generous support given me yesterday for the position of Water Commissioner. I cannot but feel flattered by the confidence they have shown in me, and will use my utmost efforts to prove that their confidence has not been misplaced.

I am, very respectfully yours,
W. H. HILL.

CARD OF THANKS.

Ladies and gentlemen,—I take this means of returning my sincere thanks for the generous support accorded me yesterday in the election for Water Commissioners. The splendid vote which I received is evidence that my friends turned out in large numbers to the polls in spite of what must have been great personal inconvenience owing to the inclemency of the weather. I wish therefore, to express my hearty appreciation of this manifested confidence and good will,

Yours truly,
GEORGE BALL.

THE LATE REV. DR. ANDREWS.

A message from Keene, this morning conveyed the sad news of the sudden death of Rev. Francis Andrews, D. D., the beloved pastor of the Presbyterian church of that village for over fifty years.

The golden jubilee which was held just a little over a year ago in Keene in honour of his fifty years pastorate will long be remembered as an epoch in the history of the village. The semi centennial of his work in the church was further marked by the degree of Doctor of Divinity being conferred upon him at the annual convocation of Queen's University last summer.

In the year 1851 Rev. Francis Andrews, was inducted pastor of the Keene Presbyterian church and has faithfully ministered to the spiritual wants of the congregation for fifty-one years. Rev. Mr. Andrews was born at Port Glenone, County Antrim, Ireland, in the year of our Lord, 1824. He was a graduate of Belfast and Edinburg Universities, and was sent to Canada as a missionary by the Colonial Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church of Ireland. He laboured in this capacity along the Grand River, Ontario, till he came to Keene. He received an unanimous call, was inducted on Jan. 11th, 1851, and has laboured faithfully and acceptably till the present time. During his pastorate he has seen many changes, and these have been in the direction of progress in the church, spiritually, numerically and materially.

He married late in life and in the fall of 1885 his wife passed away. Three children survive—two boys and a girl. The latter resided at home, one of the boys entered merchantile life and is in Toronto, whilst the other is studying for the Presbyterian ministry.

A short sketch of the history of the congregation and church with which Rev. Mr. Andrews had been associated so long will not be without interest. At the time of the establishment of the Presbyterian church in Keene, at the end of the first third of the past century—1833—the well-tilled fields that now spread their undulating fertility around the pretty little village, were covered by the "forest primeval," where, instead of the wide acres of waving corn, that now luxuriate, rose in lonely grandeur the thick-set boles of stately trees, and instead of peacefully grazing flocks and herds, the wild beast roamed and ravened. The first minister to minister to the sparse population was Rev. Archibald Colquhoun, and the services were held in the village school house. A liberal stipend for those days was paid—£125—of which, however, £50 was contributed from the colonial fund of the Church of Scotland. Considerable difficulty was experienced in meeting this stipend, and for this and other reasons, the first pastor resigned hi charge after nine year ministration. For the next three years religious services were conducted by ministers of other congregations and even denominations — Rev. John M. Roger, of Peterborough; Rev. J. Gilmour of the Baptist church, Peterborough, and Rev. Mr. Hayden of the Independent Church, Cobourg. In 1846 the first church was built, costing £300, on the site now occupied by the manse and nearly opposite the present beautiful church. At first this church was seated with planks, which were gradually superseded by pews, as each member of the congregation who provided each his own pew, felt inclined. The late Rev. Mr. Roger opened the church for worship in the fall of 1846, and in that year Rev. Mr. Wallace became the minister but after less than a year he resigned, owing to ill-health. Rev. Mr. Wallace became pastor of the West-End Presbyterian church, Toronto, and remained so till his death. He was father of Rev. F. H. Wallace, D. D., Dean of Faculty, Victoria University, at one time a well-known pastor in Peterborough. During his brief pastorate the first Sunday School was established. Rev. Mr. Andrews succeeded Rev. Mr. Wallace.

A special meeting of the Peterborough Presbytery has been called for Thursday morning when arrangements for the funeral will be made.

WEATHER NOTES.

The first month of 1902 in this district was marked by steady cold winter weather. There was not the usual January thaw, and in fact we only had it 3 days above the freezing point. On the 2nd day of the month we had the highest temperature, namely 38 degrees. The lowest temperature was on the 17th, 14 degrees below zero. The thermometer registered below zero on 13 days. The average daily temperature was between 3 and 4 degrees lower than usual. The chief feature of the month, however, was the tremendous snowfall of the 21st-22nd. On this occasion there was a snowfall of 29 inches on the level. Snow fell to a measurable extent on 11 days. There were light sprinkles of rain on the 18th and 26th. The total precipitation for the month was 4.50 inches—more than the average. On 11 days the sun shone from a cloudless sky.

DIE OF THEIR WOUNDS

John and Edward Biddie Pass Away in Butler, Pa., Jail.

MRS. SOFFEL IS STILL ALIVE

Some of the Biddle's Wounds Were Self-Inflicted—A Pathetic Parting Between the Brothers—Both Declared in the Presence of Death That They Had Not Murdered Kahney.

Butler, Pa., Feb. 3.—John Biddle died at 7.45 and his brother Ed. at 11 o'clock Saturday night. Until the end, John Biddle maintained vigorously that he and his brother did not murder Grocer Thomas Kahney of Mount Washington. The two brothers were practically shot to pieces in the fight Friday between them and the Pittsburg detectives.

Mrs. Soffel, the wife of the jail warden of the Alleghany County jail in Pittsburg, and the woman who, infatuated with Edward Biddle, gave the brothers the saws and revolvers with which they affected their escape, is in a very dangerous condition, though it is believed she will recover. She has developed symptoms of pneumonia after having come safely through an operation for the extraction of the bullet.

The death of Jack Biddle was caused by the bullet wounds in his abdomen. Early Saturday the physicians thought peritonitis was the principal danger in the case, but internal hemorrhage set in, and the man bled to death in a short while. As long as he was able, Jack was extremely talkative, and at times boastful. But as soon as death began to creep upon him, and he recognized his end, he weakened.

"I know," said he, "that my time here is short, and you can say for me that I am a Christian, and will die a sincere believer in God and hope. I will have strength enough to say so at the last. I know I have taken part in many wrongdoings, but I have never killed any man and was never implicated with anyone who did. I wish I could see Mrs. Kahney. I would tell her the truth about the killing of her husband. This life has been a pretty tough one to me, and the end cannot come too quick, and I don't care how."

Ed. Biddle had been unconscious for the greater part of the day, and it was evident to all that his lease of life was short. Internal hemorrhage of the lungs kept him almost continually choked. A sister of the Biddles arrived in town Saturday evening, and was admitted to the jail, but Ed. was unable to recognize her.

Saturday afternoon the Biddle brothers asked to be allowed to see each other, and John was carried to Ed.'s cell. The two brothers first put their arms about each other's neck and kissed each other, while the bystanders cried.

Ed. called out that John had been a good boy until led astray by him, and that they had never committed murder. The brothers said good-bye to each other, and John was taken to his own cell.

Jack Biddle's suffering was intense. In his ante-mortem statement, Jack Biddle said that both he and his brother shot themselves, according to previous agreement. Shortly after 6 o'clock at night, it became evident to the attending physicians that the life of the criminal was ebbing away, and Dr. Byers stated that it was only a matter of a few minutes until all Biddle's earthly woes would be over. Jack became so violent that opiates had to be administered to quiet him, and it required both physicians and the jail attendants to hold him on his cot in the cell.

At 5 o'clock he went into a delirium, and for the last hour of his life he was in a semi-conscious state. His last words were uttered shortly before 5 o'clock, when he asked Dr. Byers for a drink of water. The Rev. Father Walsh, who has been in attendance upon the Biddles almost every hour Saturday, was not present when death came. His last visit was made at 5 o'clock, and he did not return until after John had died. The holy office of the Roman Catholic Church was administered to both John and Ed. Biddle.

When Dr. J. E. Byers called at the jail at 12 o'clock Saturday, to learn as to the condition of the Biddles, Jack was perfectly conscious, although in great pain. He made the following statement to Dr. Byers, who gave it out:

"We never killed anybody. Neither one of us was present at the Kahney affair, and we had absolutely nothing whatever to do with it."

Here Jack repeated his first sentence to Dr. Byers, in as strong a voice as he could:

"We never killed anybody. When the three of us left the jail in Pittsburg last Thursday morning, it was agreed upon between us that we would not kill anybody. We also agreed that if we found we were to be captured we would kill ourselves. We did as we had planned. I shot myself and so did Ed., as the two bullets in his mouth showed. Mrs. Soffel shot herself; she was not shot by either of us. We did not shoot Charles Reynolds, the jailer to kill him. We saw in an instant he would make trouble for us, and, possibly, frustrate our plans for escape, and it became necessary for us to shoot him, in order to get away."

Saturday morning Mrs. Soffel's step-mother, Mrs. Dietrich, and her step-brother, Julius, called to see her. These were the only relatives she has seen since she left her home to go with the Biddles. Mrs. Dietrich remained at the hospital only a few minutes. After a brief conference, the step-mother left. Mrs. Soffel was weeping. Although she partly realizes her grave mistake, she continually asked all day for the Biddles. They and her children seemed to be her only thought.

A love letter from Ed. Biddle to his prison sweetheart, Mrs. Kate Soffel, found in the snow near the bloody scene of their capture, reveals the careful plot for their escape from the Allegheny County Jail. The letter clearly shows the hazardous attempts of the infatuated woman to secure the escape of the Biddles. Since December, 1901, they had been making preparations. The letter tells how Mrs. Soffel carried the saws to the cells of the Biddles. It shows the infatuation of Mrs. Soffel for the murderer and burglar, and also the wonderful influence Ed. Biddle had over Mrs. Soffel.

Mrs. Soffel fell in love with Ed. Biddle in November. It was not until later that he started to write love letters to her. About the early part of December he proposed a plan of escape to her. She consented to lend him her aid, and before December 14 they had made all arrangements to escape from the jail. Then they learned of the Governor's respite. After that Ed. Biddle persuaded Mrs. Soffel to fly with him and his brother. The contents of the letter show it was originally agreed that Mrs. Soffel was to leave the city for Canada on the eve of the boys' escape, and make for Toronto.

Hundreds View the Bodies.

Butler, Pa., Feb. 3.—At 6 o'clock last evening the bodies of the Biddles were removed from the jail to one of the hallways of the Sheriff's dwelling, and the public was given an opportunity of looking at the two notorious criminals. Hundreds of people braved the worst blizzard of the year to do so.

Mr. Campbell is, of course, well known in parliamentary circles, and will be given a rousing reception when he reaches here on account of his great victory in West York. Dr. Beland is a brilliant young practitioner, who makes his appearance for the first time in the Dominion arena. He was the local member for Beauce before his election to the Dominion House.

MISS CORA SWAYZIE KILLED.

Engine of St. Thomas Train Struck Her in London on Saturday.

London, Ont., Feb. 3.—A terrible accident occurred about 10 o'clock Saturday evening at the Maitland street crossing of the Michigan Central, in which Miss Cora Swayzie of this city lost her life. The young lady is said to have stepped from a street car to return to her home a short distance north, at the corner of Maitland and York streets, and had to cross the tracks at this point. She appears to have not noticed the 10 o'clock train from St. Thomas, which was approaching the crossing, and when fairly between the rails was struck with terrible force. One leg was taken off and her arm badly crushed. With the other internal injuries it proved fatal, the young lady dying early yesterday morning. She was about 21 years of age.

A CHINESE REVOLUTION.

The Court Entertains Women and Children—Exclusiveness of Royalty Abandoned—Penitent Dowager-Empress.

Pekin, Feb. 2.—The Dowager Empress, the Emperor and the Empress received the ladies and children of the members of diplomatic corps yesterday in the private apartments of the palace. Mrs. Conger, wife of United States Minister Conger, as Doyenes of the diplomatic corps, and the Dowager Empress, exchanged speeches.

The Dowager's reply was exceedingly friendly in tone. It was in part as follows:

"Last year the dissensions in the palace caused a revolution, which compelled our hasty departure; but it is a great gratification to us that our return to the capital has caused such rejoicing in China and abroad."

The visitors afterwards were entertained at a banquet, during which the Dowager Empress and the Emperor mingled informally with their guests. The Dowager Empress grasped Mrs. Conger's hand, wept copiously, and in broken words expressed the sorrow which she felt on account of the occurrences during the siege of the legations. Magnificent jeweled bracelets, rings and other souvenirs were presented to the visitors.

Extreme Case of Nervousness.

Female Weakness and Exhaustion—Had a Very Painful Operation—Was Pale and Weak and Fainted Often—Doctors Failed to Help her.

There is scarcely a limit to the sufferings which women endure when their nervous system become run down and give way beneath the burdens which they are forced to bear. There are ills peculiar to women, which in nine cases out of ten are the result of a low state of vitality and a depletion of nerve force. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food cures women of their ills, irregularities and weaknesses by thoroughly restoring the vigour of the nerves.

Every woman will read with interest the following letter from a lady who has been cured of a serious illness by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. She says the testimonials she reads are not half strong enough.

Mrs. Benjamin Hatfield, Hillyard street, St. Johns, N.B., writes: "For three years I was a sufferer from extreme nervousness and female weakness and found it necessary to undergo a very painful operation. I was pale and weak, had no appetite and would sometimes faint two or three times a day. For seven weeks I was under the doctor's care but he seemed unable to help me. Despairing of recovery, I took the advice of a friend, who told me that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food would build me up and make me strong and well again. After four months' use of this preparation I found myself greatly improved, but continued the treatment for one year, using in all sixteen boxes. I have been blessed with a young daughter now, and believe that I am as strong and well as ever in my life. As a result I cannot say too much in favour of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. It has performed a complete and thorough cure in my case, and I am healthier and fleshier than I have been for years. The testimonials I see are not half strong enough. I tell my friends and neighbours about it, and many of them join me in pronouncing Dr. Chase's Nerve Food the most effective restorative obtainable. Desiring that other sufferers may benefit by my happy experience with Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, I willingly give you permission to use this testimonial."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is an up-to-date scientific preparation of most extraordinary merit. It has proven itself the most effective nerve restorative of the age. It is certain to benefit everyone who uses it, because it forms new red corpuscles in the blood and creates new nerve force. It is especially efficacious in the cures of female ills and weaknesses; 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50. At all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. 9

A Loss of $2,000,000.

Waterbury, Conn., Feb. 3.—Shortly after midnight, the fire, which had seemed to be nearly under control, had attacked buildings on the south side of Bank street, and again raged furiously. It is now thought $2,000,000 will be a conservative estimate of the loss. The fire broke out at 6.30 o'clock, and was the most disastrous in the history of the city.

Gordon in Winnipeg.

Winnipeg, Feb. 3.—Walter Gordon, supposed to have murdered two men at Whitewater, arrived from the east Saturday afternoon, and was positively identified by Walter Scott and Chief Elliott as the man wanted. He is locked in jail and will remain here a week, while the Crown prepares its case. He seems very unconcerned.

Nova Scotia Legislature.

Halifax, Feb. 3.—An extra of The Gazette has been issued summoning the local Legislature to meet on Feb. 18. The session is likely to be a short one, as the only important government measure to be presented is one ratifying the contract with Mackenzie & Mann for the construction of the South Shore Railway from Halifax to Yarmouth.

The death is announced of Alexander C. Henry, general passenger agent of the C.P.R., aged 52. Mr. Henry succumbed at Montreal on Sunday night to an operation for appendicitis.

DIPLOMATS ARE BUSY

Unusual Activity at The Hague on Saturday Morning.

CONNECTED WITH DUTCH NOTE

First Secretary of the British Legation Makes an Unexpected Journey to London—Dutch Foreign Minister Had an Audience With Queen Wilhelmina—Dr. Leyds Tells of Burghers' Peace Idea.

The Hague, Feb. 3.—There was unwonted activity in diplomatic circles here Saturday morning, and it was generally believed to have some connection with the Dutch note to Great Britain regarding peace in South Africa. The German minister, Count Von Pourtales, had a long interview with the British minister, Sir Henry Howard; the First Secretary of the British Legation, A. F. G. Leveson-Gower, unexpectedly started for London, and the Dutch Foreign Minister, Baron Van Lynden, had a conference with Dr. Kuyper, the Premier of the Netherlands, and subsequently had an audience of Queen Wilhelmina.

Germany Presses Great Britain.

Paris, Feb. 3.—The Liberte affirms that it hears from an absolutely trustworthy source that Germany has advised Great Britain in the most pressing manner to consider the South African peace overtures of Df. Kuyper.

LEYDS ON NEGOTIATIONS.

Burghers Want No Peace Save on Their Own Usual Terms.

London, Feb. 3.—A representative of The Neue Freie Presse, whose statement is quoted by the Vienna correspondent of The Times, says he was informed by Dr. Leyds that the Boers had applied to the Dutch and other governments to use their good offices to end the horrors of the war. Dr. Leyds added, however, in the event of mediation by Holland, the Boers would relinquish their claim to absolute independence was incorrect. Dr. Leyds declared the situation in South Africa to be more hopeful and favorable for the Boers than ever, and said it would be an egregious error to conclude that the burghers wanted peace save on their own terms.

SEIZURE OF AMBULANCE.

Dutch Chamber Discusses the Question, But Does Nothing.

London, Feb. 3.—The Brussels correspondent of The Times says the debate in the Dutch Chamber Friday was mainly devoted to the seizure of the Dutch ambulance in South Africa. Replying to the demand for an inquiry to ascertain whether the contents of the incriminated letters constituted a breach of neutrality, the Foreign Minister pointed out that there were two distinct views of the matter. Inquiry by Holland would be difficult because the British who captured the ambulance could not be questioned, while the Dutch attendants were in captivity. There was sufficient evidence, however, that the attendants had been aware that it was imprudent to carry the correspondence.

NOT TO TEACH SCOUTS.

Major Burnham Says He Never Applied For the Job.

London, Feb. 3.—Major F. R. Burnham, the American scout, who has served with the British cavalry in the Boer war, sends a letter to the newspapers denying that he has applied for the place of instructor of scouts at Aldershot.

He says he has always received the most generous treatment from the War Office and the officers under whom he served in South Africa. He adds that he never considered himself competent to teach Britons how to fight or to act as instructor of officers who have fought in every corner of the world.

AN ATTEMPT ON CZAR'S LIFE.

Indefinite Rumors Are Current in Official Quarters in Vienna.

London, Feb. 3.—A Vienna despatch to The Sunday Special says rumors are current that an attempt has been made on the life of the Czar. The report is regarded as important in official quarters.

In March and April of last year there were persistent reports of plots to kill the Czar, and on April 1 it was reported that an attempt at assassination had been made by a member of the royal household. The story was to the effect that the man fired at the Czar and missed, and then shot himself before he could be taken. Nihilists have been credited with various attempts in recent years to blow up the Czar's palaces and to kill him in other ways.

Gen. Mite Dead.

London, Feb. 3.—Much interest was aroused at Cardiff last week by the death and funeral of "General Mite," who came to England with "Tom Thumb." "General Mite's" real name was Flynn. He was born in Chenango County, New York State, weighing two pounds and a half. When a year and a half old he stopped growing. He made his first public appearance in New York in 1877, in company with Minnie Oborn, a Swedish dwarf. He was then 13 years old, stood 22 inches high, weighed 6 pounds and was perfectly formed, displaying much intelligence.

A Railway Commission.

Ottawa, Feb. 3.—The County Council of Carleton has adopted a resolution, at the suggestion of the York County Council, favoring the appointment of an independent commission to deal with all disputes between railways and municipalities.

Two Appointments.

Ottawa, Feb. 3.—Saturday's Canada Gazette announces the appointment of Hon. Jabez B. Snowball as Lieutenant-Governor of New Brunswick, and of Thomas A. Snider of Cayuga as deputy judge of Haldimand County, in the absence of Justice Macmillan.

OVER A HUNDRED DEAD

An Explosion in the Hondo Mines, Mexico.

ALL OF THE 106 MINERS DEAD

All of Those Miners Were Entombed by the Explosion, Which Was Occasioned by a Gas Pocket—The Majority of the Victims Are Mexicans and Chinamen—Relief Work Begun.

San Antonio, Texas, Feb. 3.—The latest information from the Hondo, Mexico, mine explosion shows it to have been fully as serious as at first reported. There was a total of 106 miners at work in the mine when the explosion occurred and all of them are dead. The majority of the victims are Mexicans and Chinamen, very few Americans having been at work in the mine.

Every mule in the mine was killed, three dead ones being taken from the debris yesterday. The work of clearing away the wreck in order to get at the bodies is being rushed as rapidly as possible, but there is no hope that any of the men will be rescued alive.

The explosion occurred in mine No. 5, and was occasioned by striking a gas pocket. The mine is the property of Coahuila Coal Co., R. M. McKenny being superintendent. The names of none of the victims have been learned here. The loss to the owners of the mine is very heavy.

WESTERN LOAN TROUBLES.

The Shareholders Are Determined to Prosecute the Directors.

Woodstock, Feb. 3.—The Woodstock shareholders of the defunct Western Loan Company met at the Court House Saturday afternoon on call of Rev. J. C. Farthing, who presided. The meeting decided that the directors should be made to answer through the courts for certain proceedings which shareholders believe to have been unlawful.

There was a long list of counts against the directors. Among them are:

That they paid all dividends out of the capital.

That they were negligent in their duty as directors.

That they allowed the late manager Barclay Stephens, to appropriate funds and mismanage the affairs of the company.

That they allowed improper investments.

That they transferred the company's headquarters from the Northwest to Montreal without legislative authority.

W. J. White of Toronto, general manager of the National Trust Company, was present, and made a statement of the affairs of the company and what had been done, which proved thoroughly satisfactory to the meeting. Mr. White was given instructions to examine the directors under the Winding Up Act.

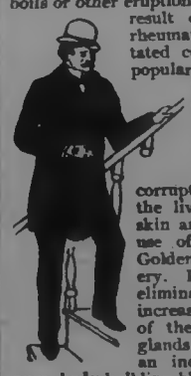
The King Wears the Red Badge.

London, Feb. 3. — The King and Queen and all the members of the royal family are scared by the prevalence of smallpox in London and have been vaccinated this week. The operation was performed at Miss Keyser's private hospital in Mayfair. The King, like all other vaccinated Londoners, wears a narrow red ribbon outside his right sleeve as a symbol of recent vaccination and as a warning to others not to jostle.

BAD BLOOD

Reveals itself in many ways. Sometimes the impurities in the blood mark and mar the skin with blotches, pimples, boils or other eruptions. Sometimes the result of bad blood is rheumatism or a debilitated condition which is popularly described as "feeling played out, hardly able to drag myself around."



The impurities and poisons which corrupt the blood, clog the liver and cloud the skin are removed by the use of Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It does more than eliminate the poisons; it increases the activity of the blood-making glands so that there is an increased supply of pure, body-building blood. It brightens the eyes, cleanses the skin, and gives new physical energy.

Accept no substitute for Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

"I thank God for the good your medicines have done me," writes Mr. James M. Sizemore, of Mitchell, Lawrence Co., Ind., Box 501. "I was not well for two years. My throat was always sore, head ached, and back ached nearly all the time. My weight was 155 pounds. I was taken sick with typhoid fever, and when the fever left me I had such a pain in my left side I could not breathe without pain. I thought I must die. My wife went to the drug store and procured a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and a vial of his 'Pleasant Pellets.' I discontinued the use of my doctor's medicine and began with the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pellets.' I at once began to feel better; the pain soon left my side and I could breathe with ease. In a week or so I felt so good I could not stay in the room. I began to walk about the streets; I felt better each morning. After a month's use of the medicine I was well. That was over a year ago. Now I weigh 184 pounds and feel better than ever in my life."

STORMS IN CHANNELS.

Both English and Irish Have Encountered Destructive Gales—Many Fishermen Are Reported Lost.

London, Feb. 3.—The storm on the English and Irish Channels is unabated, numerous minor wrecks have occurred and frequent reports of men washed overboard, and the crews of the lifeboats and rocket apparatus have been kept busy.

The British armored cruiser Immortalite encountered terrific weather. The seas washed clean over her 9.2-inch forward guns.

Many fishermen are reported to have been drowned.

In the Clyde upwards of 40 vessels are fog-bound between Greenock and Glasgow.

The mail steamer which left Dover for Ostend Saturday afternoon was sighted in distress in the Channel yesterday morning. She signalled that she was not under control, and tugs assisted her into port. Her passengers had a terrible experience. The steamer was swept by the seas for over 20 hours.

STORM WAS VIOLENT.

Twelve Inches of Snow Fell in Eastern Ontario—Ottawa Snowbound.

Toronto, Feb. 3.—Since Saturday morning a storm of great energy has developed over the United States, and is now centred in Maine. Between three and six inches of snow have fallen in Western Ontario, and in the eastern part of the province and in Quebec a foot of snow has fallen. Violent gales have occurred in the Maritime Provinces. The Observatory caused storm signals to be raised along the coast on Saturday night.

The snowstorm yesterday gave the railways another rough experience. It was only with the greatest of difficulty that the lines could be kept open, the high winds blowing the snow back onto the tracks just as fast as it was shovelled out. Superintendent Gormally at the Union Station had large gangs of men at work in the local yards all day. Both the C. P. R. and Grank Trunk had their snow plows out, while to all engines flanges were attached. All the trains were from 15 to 30 minutes late reaching the depot, and by their appearance they looked as if they had experienced extremely rough weather.

Ottawa Snowbound.

Ottawa, Feb. 3.—A thick snowstorm has been raging here all day Sunday, and showed no signs of letting up last night. The full equipment of the street railway is employed to keep the tracks clear. So far the railways have not reported unusual delays to trains, but it is feared traffic will be badly interfered with if the storm does not abate soon. A foot of snow fell during the day.

Liner Alcides Ashore.

St. John, N.B., Feb. 3.— The Donaldson liner Alcides is ashore near the entrance of this harbor. A wild snowstorm is in progress.

5. Its policy contract is one of the most liberal issued, consistent with safety and equity.

6. It has a Capital of $1,000,000, which makes policy-holders' security unquestionable. At the same time, the assured is practically in the same position regarding profits as if he held a policy in a mutual company, the Imperial's charter providing that at least 90 per cent. of all profits shall be divided amongst policy-holders.

THE BEET SUGAR INDUSTRY.

The Conditions Essential to Success

As Pointed out by the Organizer of the Wiarton Co.

The following is taken from last week's issue of the Monetary Times:

Sir,—My attention has been directed to an editorial in your esteemed paper of issue of January 3rd last, under the caption, "Beet Sugar Making." While there is no direct statement in that article which could be deemed injurious to the company I represent, viz., the Wiarton Beet Sugar Mfg. Co., Limited, yet an inference may be drawn from it which is unfair to us, at least. The Berlin proposition is not the only one containing the elements of success; in fact, I am convinced that when the facts are known, Berlin does not monopolize all the conditions which tend towards success in beet sugar making.

Your article is quite correct when it says that those who are projecting beet sugar enterprises in the province should be careful to inform themselves as to whether they have the nucleus of success in their propositions. This is just what has been done at Wiarton.

Putting it broadly, the following conditions are absolutely essential to success in the beet sugar business: First, an ample supply of beets assured; second, a high percentage of sugar content, and high purity of the beets; third, good transportation facilities by railway and water; fourth, good water supply, easy of access; fifth, a good factory site; sixth, a good supply of suitable limestone.

Of the first, Berlin no doubt is assured, and so is Wiarton. Wiarton now has enough beets assured to make a successful campaign for next fall. Of the second, it may be of interest to state that in the fall of 1899 Professor Shuttleworth analyzed the Wiarton beets and his report showed Wiarton beets to have the highest sugar content in the province for that season, with a very very high purity. The reason for Wiarton's exceptionally good showing is explained by the presence of Lake Huron and Georgian Bay, these immense bodies of water equalizing the temperature and prolonging our season of sunshine and high temperature into late fall, thus extending our ripening season weeks longer than in the midland counties. Today Toronto Bay is frozen solid, has been for weeks; Colpoy's Bay has not been frozen over this winter. At Guelph and Palmerston there is a foot of snow. At Wiarton there is barely enough for sleighing as yet. The temperature of Wiarton is almost as high as Hamilton. The presence of immense limestone deposits in this region gives a soil which produces beets of singular purity. When it is remembered that an increase of one per cent. in impurity prevents the crystallization of one per cent of the sugar content, this fact becomes one of the highest importance.

While we have a late, warm, sunshine fall, we have also a late, cold spring, which is, in the sugar business, a large advantage, as the cold weather prevents a deterioration of the beets. Thus the working season of our factory can be prolonged for two weeks to a month longer than at points where spring opens up early. For this reason, a factory of 350 tons capacity can handle approximately as many beets as a 500-ton factory, in a shorter run, with correspondingly less expense, because the skilled labour is paid by the year, whether they work or not.

Being situated on navigable water, as we are, all our coal and coke, and two-thirds of our beets can be brought in by water. It is estimated that steam coal can be laid down in Wiarton at a saving of a dollar a ton, and coke of $1.50 per ton, over the cost of at most inland points.

Our limestone can be put into the factory by cable carriers for the cost of quarrying, about 25 cents a ton; while for most of the factories projected in Ontario the cost will be enhanced to $1.50 per ton by freight charges. The ease with which water can be placed in the factory in great quantity, is a valuable economic feature at Wiarton. It has been estimated that Wiarton's savings in cost of coal, coke and limestone will amount to about $100 a day during operations.

Add to that the high percentage of saccharine matter in our beets, and consider the fact that a difference of one per cent. in sugar content means at 15 per cent. of saccharine, 105 tons more sugar from 70,000 tons of beets, and that 700 tons of sugar costs approximately nothing but the handling—the cost of working 14 per cent. beets being just as high as 15 per cent. beets—and it will be seen that the projectors of the Wiarton enterprise have well and truly weighed their situation and found it not wanting.

A Very Favourable Report Presented—Evidences of Public Confidence in the Company—Officers Elected.

The fifth annual general meeting of the shareholders of the Trusts and Guarantee Company, Limited, was held in the offices of the Company, 14 King street west, Toronto, on Wednesday, January 29th, 1902. The shareholders were well represented at the meeting.

The President, Hon. J. R. Stratton, having taken the chair, the general manager, Mr. T. P. Coffee, acted as secretary to the meeting.

After reading the notice convening the meeting, the report of the directors was read and the balance sheet submitted.

DIRECTORS' REPORT.

Your directors have pleasure in submitting this, their fifth annual report, accompanied by the financial statement exhibiting the affairs of the company for the year ending the 31st December, 1901, together with the auditors' report verifying its correctness and reporting the examination of the securities.

From the report it will be seen the profits for the year have been sufficient to enable the company, after payment of all expenses, to declare two half-yearly dividends at rate of five per cent. per annum, and, payment thereof, to carry forward to the credit of profit and loss account a balance of twenty-four thousand one hundred and fifty-five dollars and forty-seven cents ($24,155.47.)

The amount charged to the expenses of the company during the year includes a considerable sum which was employed in making known to the public the advantages the company offers in the capacity of a trusts corporation. Your directors believe that such extension of the knowledge of the company's methods and standing will result in an appreciable and profitable increase of business.

The assets of the company have been invested in good securities yielding satisfactory rates of interest.

The number of appointments of the company to act as Administrator, Executor, Guardian, etc., has been satisfactory, and in addition to these a large number of wills appointing the company Executor and Trustee have been made and deposits in our vaults, besides many others made and held by the parties and of which notice has been given to the company.

The officials of the company, through your directors, desire to acknowledge the uniform courtesy shown them by the different officials of the courts of the province.

During the year many shareholders have availed themselves of the privilege of paying the uncalled portion of their subscription, and as a result the amount of paid up stock of the company has been increased by the sum of ninety-six thousand three hundred and twenty-seven dollars and twenty-seven cents (96,327.27), making a total of one hundred and ninety-eight thousand, eight hundred and eight-one dollars and ninety-eight cents ($198,881.98), voluntarily paid up by the holders of partially paid stock since the privilege of making such payments was extended two years ago. The paid up capital stock is now $506,611.98.

It is a pleasure to your directors to be able to recognize the general efficiency of the officers, agents and staff of the company. They have all discharged their duties faithfully and satisfactorily.

J. R. STRATTON,
President.

The president, in moving the adoption of the report, said, in part:

Gentlemen,—The duty of moving the adoption of the fifth annual report of the company, is, in every way, a pleasant one. It is a pleasure to note that the conditions of prosperity prevailing and which have for some time prevailed throughout the country, show no indications of a decline. There seems to be a marked aggressiveness in financial, commercial and industrial activities, especially the latter — the large number of companies seeking incorporation indicates that capital has confidence that the development of our resources of various kinds by industrial and other means will yield satisfactory results. The report gives evidence of careful and capable management and involves an encouraging outlook. The statement of last year, 1900, shows a profit and loss credit balance of $5,568.79. This has been increased this year by $18,586.76, leaving a sum to be carried forward of $24,155.47. The net earnings of the company last year amounted to $41,928.17, from which there was paid two half-yearly dividends at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum, of the amounts of $11,102.98 and $12 238.51, respectively, leaving to be carried forward the balance just mentioned. The interest rate earned upon the capital employed was a fraction over 9 per cent., a very satisfactory indication of earning power. Confidence on the part of shareholders is shown by the fact that since the last annual meeting the shareholders have practically expressed their appreciation of the value of an investment in our stock by the payment voluntarily of an additional amount of $96,327.27 on their stock, thus increasing the paid-up capital stock of the company to a total of $506,611.98. You will recognise the wisdom of having had included in the expenditure of the past year a considerable sum employed to increase the public knowledge of the advantages the company offers in its capacity as a trusts corporation. With this in mind, and with a favourable report presented in view, I feel that I am not unduly sanguine in predicting an increasingly prosperous future for the company. I have much pleasure in moving the adoption of the report.

Mr. D. W. Karn, vice-president, in seconding the adoption of the report, said that the directors deserved to be congratulated upon the excellent outcome of the year's operation of the company, and the shareholders also had every reason to be satisfied with their investment in the stock of the company. Good substantial dividends and the very considerable strengthening of the profit and loss account, the evidence the report afforded of the stability of the company, as well as its general prospects, must be gratifying to all.

Mr. C. Kloepfer, vice-president, in supporting the motion expressed his satisfaction with the showing of the report, an excellent earning power, safe investment of the company's assets, and the generally satisfactory condition of the company's affairs, the results of careful management.

Several of the shareholders also expressed their approval of the gratifying report presented, of the policy and practice of the company which had led to such satisfactory progress, and to the gratifying increase of the profit and loss account.

The report was unanimously adopted and the following Board of Directors elected:

Hon J. R. Stratton, W. J. McKee, Peter Hamilton, A. W. Campbell, Richard Hall, A. F. Rutter, Hon. Senator McMillan, A. F. McLaren, M. P.; W. J. Sheppard, J. G. Wallace, A. C. Macdonell, C. Kloepfer, W. M. German, Alf. MacDougall, F. C. Taylor, A. L. Davis, F. M. Holland, A. M. MacKinnon, D. W. Karn, W. A. Stratton, T. S. Hobbs, T. P. Coffee, R. R. McLennan, M. P.

Subsequently at a meeting of the Board of Directors, Hon J. R. Stratton was re-elected president, and Messrs. D. W. Karn and C. Kloepfer, vice-presidents.

TO END BOER WAR

Negotiations Must Be Between the Leaders in the Field.

INTERVENTION FORESTALLED.

Text of Communications Between The Hague and London—Boer Credentials Are Old—Delegates Were Accredited to Holland by Authority Dated March, 1900—Their Powers Doubted—Without Authority.

London, Feb. 5.—The British Government replied to Dr. Kuyper, the Dutch Premier, that, if the Boers in the field desire to negotiate for peace, negotiations can be entered into, but only in South Africa. The British Government adheres to its intention not to accept the intervention of any foreign power.

The text of the reply of the British Foreign Secretary, Lord Lansdowne, to the communication of the Netherlands is as follows:

Lord Lansdowne's Answer.

"The Foreign Office, Jan. 29.

"Sir,—You were good enough to lay before me, January, 25, a communication from the Netherlands government, in which it was proposed that, with the object of bringing the war to an end, His Majesty's government might grant a safe conduct to the Boer delegates, now in Holland, for the purpose of enabling them to confer with the Boer leaders in South Africa. It is suggested that, after a conference, the delegates might return to Europe with power to conclude a treaty of peace with this government, and the Netherlands government intimate that, in this event, they might, at a later stage, be instrumental in placing the Boer plenipotentiaries in relation with plenipotentiaries who might be appointed by His Majesty's government. The Netherlands government intimate that if this project commends itself to His Majesty's government, they will enquire of the delegates whether they are prepared to make the suggested visit to South Africa.

"It may, therefore, be inferred that the communication I received was made on the responsibility of the Netherlands government alone, and without authority from the Boer delegates or leaders. His Majesty's government have given it their best consideration, and, whilst entirely appreciative of the motives of humanity which led the Netherlands government to make this proposal, they feel they must adhere to the position adopted and publicly announced by them some months after the commencement of hostilities by the Boers, that it is not their intention to accept the intervention of any foreign power in the South African war.

"Should the Boer delegates themselves desire to lay a request for a safe conduct before His Majesty's government, there is no question why they should not do so. But His Majesty's government obviously are not in a position to express an opinion on any such application until they have received it, and are aware of the precise nature and grounds whereon the request is made.

"I may, therefore, point out that it is not at present clear to His Majesty's government that the delegates retain any influence over the representatives of the Boers in South Africa, or have any voice in their councils. They are stated by the Netherlands government to have no such letters of credence or instruction of a later date than March, 1900. His Majesty's government, on the other hand, understood that all the powers of government, including those of negotiations, were now completely vested in Mr. Steyn, for the Boers of the Orange River Colony, and Mr. Schalkburger, for those of the Transvaal. If this is so, it is evident that the quickest and most satisfactory means of arranging a settlement would be by direct communication between the leaders of the Boer forces in South Africa and the commander-in-chief of His Majesty's forces, who has already been instructed to forward immediately any offers he may receive, for the consideration of His Majesty's government.

"In these circumstances, His Majesty's government has decided that if the Boer leaders should desire to enter into negotiations for the purpose of bringing the war to an end, these negotiations must take place, not in Europe, but in South Africa.

"It should, moreover, be borne in mind that if the Boer leaders are to occupy time in visiting South Africa in consulting with Boer leaders in the field, and in returning to Europe for the purpose of making known the results of their errand, a period of at least three months would elapse, during which hostilities would be prolonged, and much human suffering, perhaps, needlessly occasioned.

I have, etc.,
"(Signed)) Lansdowne."

The Dutch Note.

The text of the communication of the Dutch Minister in London to Lord Lansdowne is as follows:

"In the opinion of the government of Her Majesty the Queen, the exceptional circumstances in which one of the belligerent parties in South Africa is placed, which prevent it from communication directly with the other belligerent, constitutes one reason for the prolongation of the war, which is still raging without pause or end, and which causes so much misery. It is, in fact, an exceptional circumstance that one of the belligerent parties is completely shut in and separated from the rest of the world, and that the Boer representatives in Europe are deprived of all means of communication with the general commanding their forces. The difficulty thus arises that the authorities who ought to negotiate for the Boer side are divided into two sections, which are deprived of all means of deliberating together. It is evident that the Boer delegates in Europe can do nothing because they do not know the state of affairs in Africa, and that the Boers in the field are obliged to abstain from taking any steps because they are not cognizant of the state of affairs in Europe. Moreover, the delegates in Europe are bound by their letters of credence, which were drawn up in March, 1900, which bind them so strictly to the independence of the republics that they could not even be permitted to accept the re-establishment of the status quo ante bellum if a mode of settling disputes which might arise were not laid down at the same time.

"These circumstances give rise to a question whether the offer of good offices could not be usefully made by a neutral power in order to render, at least possible, negotiations which otherwise could not be opened. For this reason, it would be important to ascertain whether it would be agreeable to the Britannic government to make use of the good offices of a neutral power. If such good offices are confined to the task of placing in communication negotiators to be appointed by the two parties, the Holland government might, perhaps, be considered as indicated for the performance of this task, seeing that the Boer delegates are in Netherland territory and accredited to that government alone. If His Britannic Majesty's government should agree to this view, the government of Her Majesty the Queen would have to inquire of the Boer delegates whether they are willing to proceed to South Africa and deliberate with the Boer leaders on the spot, returning to Europe after a stay of fixed length, say a fortnight, armed with adequate, full powers providing for all eventualities, and authorising them to conclude a treaty of peace which should bind absolutely both the Boers in Europe and the Boers in Africa.

"In the event of an affirmative reply, it would be necessary for His Britannic Majesty's government to hand the Netherlands government three safe conducts, permitting the Boer delegates to proceed freely to Africa, remain there freely for the time agreed upon, and return freely to Europe. It would further be necessary for the British government to allow the use of a telegraph code, with the view of appointing a place where the delegates would meet the Boer leaders. On their return, the Netherlands governments could place them in communication with the plenipotentiaries appointed for that purpose by His Britannic Majesty's government, and would willingly undertake to place at the disposal of these gentlemen the accommodation necessary for their meetings. The Netherlands government would then consider their task at an end.

"It is quite evident that negotiations thus begun might lead to no result. But the possibility, on the contrary, is also not excluded, and in this condition of affairs it appears desirable to endeavor to open negotiations in the hope that they may be successful and face a difficulty, which exists for all belligerent parties, of taking the first step in this direction, and it might be useful that a third party should undertake the matter and serve as an intermediary.

"[Signed] "Gericke."

MR. SIFTON IN LISGAR

He Replies to An Attack by Mr. Richardson, Independent.

MINISTER NEVER SPOKE BETTER

Opening of the Liberal Campaign at Cartwright by the Minister of the Interior—Mr. Richardson Very Abusive, But Hon. Mr. Sifton Delivered a Ringing Reply to His Traducer.

Winnipeg, Feb. 5.—The opening Liberal meeting in the Lisgar election campaign was held at Cartwright Monday night, at which speeches were made by Hon. Mr. Sifton, Mr. Stewart, Liberal; Mr. Richardson, Independent, and Mr. Toombs, the Conservative candidate. Sympathy was divided between Messrs. Stewart and Richardson, as the latter received a majority of over 90 at the Cartwright poll last election. Mr. Richardson in his speech was most abusive of Mr. Sifton. In reply Mr. Sifton never spoke better in his life, and many of the audience who up to that time had been neutral, or even hostile, cheered him. He said that he was accustomed to receive abuse in his public life. Ever since he entered it, for some reason or other, he had been most bitterly attacked. In the last twelve years he had received the most violent abuse from political opponents. Mr. Richardson's insinuations were just the same as all the others. There was only a vague insinuation. He dared Mr. Richardson to prove one charge against him, and he would be content to retire from public life and let Mr. Richardson fill his position, that of Minister of the Interior, a position that gentleman seemed to covet; but he wanted to say that though no one had ever attempted to prove a charge against him, if the time should ever come when a judge would state about him, as in the recent trial was stated against Mr. Richardson, that he had seriously considered whether or not to personally disqualify him, he would not want any further verdict, but retire. (Cheers.) Mr. Richardson was the only member from the west that had ever been proved to have been elected to Parliament by the aid of a railway corporation.

Last night Mr. Sifton addressed a meeting at Killarney.

TREMENDOUS REFORMS IN CHINA.

Binding Girls' Feet Forbidden—Young Men to Be Educated Abroad.

London, Feb. 5.—The Dowager Empress of China has just issued an edict, in which she directs all officials, by diplomatic means, to discourage the binding of the feet of Chinese females, saying the custom is barbarous.

In addition, she has decreed that bright young men between 15 and 20 years of age are to be selected and sent abroad to the best seats of learning, the object being to employ them as instructors when they return.

Despatches from Pekin announce that she has issued an edict abolishing the prohibition of inter-marriage between Manchus and Chinese, a rule that has been enforced with the utmost rigidity ever since the beginning of the dynasty.

Heifer Sold For $6,200.

Chicago, Feb. 5.—The Aberdeen-Angus heifer, Black Cap Judy, was sold at auction at Dexter Park Amphitheatre Union Stock Yards yesterday to C. H. Gardner of Blandinsville, Ill., for $6,200. This makes the female record price of all breeds since 1878, a Missie Shorthorn heifer selling for $6,000 in Chicago on Dec. 5 last. The previous high record on Angus was $2,800.

THE REFERENDUM NO NEW PRINCIPLE IN CANADA.

Some days ago, says the Beacon, we pointed out that the principle of the Referendum had always obtained in legislation passed by both the Dominion and Provincial Parliaments—in the Dunkin Act, the Scott Act, and the provincial local option law. The law was in each care made general in its scope, but became operative only on a vote of the people. The Winnipeg Tribune points out that the principle is embodied in other features of legislation:

"The fact is that the taking of a referendum is a common proceeding in every part of the empire, including Canada. The submission to the direct vote of the people of bylaws passed by a municipal council, is one of the commonest occurrences in our public affairs. 'Referendum' is simply the name given to that proceeding. Certain kinds of bylaws before they become law must be passed not only by the council but also by the electors. The fact that a certain measure passed by a municipal or city council, is liable to be defeated by the ratepayers, does not relieve the members of such a council of their responsibility. In New Zealand, instead of having a House of Lords, or an irresponsible senate, certain measures, to become law, have to be passed, not only by the electorate, just as is the case with certain kinds of our municipal bylaws."

And the Tribune concludes, therefore, that there is nothing unusual or un-British in the submission of the prohibition question to the vote of the people. Certainly there is not, otherwise what would one call some of the best features of our municipal system? Nor is there any sound objection to offer against what our prohibition friends are pleased to call a "loaded referendum," that is, the requiring of a substantial majority for the measure submitted to make it operative. In the case of bonuses or loans to local industries a two-thirds majority of the vote on the rolls is required for the bylaw before it can take effect. This is to ensure an almost general endorsation of its provisions. Why should not a similarly strong endorsation be required in the case of prohibition? Such a law would involve the creation of a new crime, that of selling alcoholic liquours, and the surrender on the part of the people of the privileges of buying and selling such. We should think a strong public opinion for such a measure more necessary, for the enforcement of a money bylaw is a simple matter compared with the enforcement of a prohibition law. Some of our prohibition friends are, however, so dead set on a victory that they would take a snap victory at whatever cost. If they were really anxious for a permanent, effective law they would acknowledge the need of a substantial majority and work for it, instead of insisting on the vote being taken in such a way that the law might be passed without a strong sentiment in its favour, thus foredooming it to failure.

HOW ROYALTY SPENDS SUNDAY

And Why Should not Society Follow Their Example in Sabbath Observance.

When King Edward and Queen Alexandria were the Prince and Princess of Wales, the following interesting account of how they were in the habit of spending Sunday appeared in "The Quiver." The writer says:

"Sunday with Their Royal Highnesses the Prince and Princess of Wales is passed in much the same quiet way as with Her Majesty, the Queen, inasmuch as religious ceremonies are faithfully observed, and the household and servants are spared all unnecessary duties. The guests wend their way, as the hour of eleven approaches, towards the little church of St. Mary Magdalene in the park. There is a private footway direct from the house to the church gate; by this, the Royal Family and guests often proceed, driving round by the road only in case of unpropitious weather. Sunday afternoon is quietly spent in the house or park. Dinner is served at half past seven. Occasionally, however, dinner is a little later, as the Prince and Princess may be attending evening service in one of the village churches near. The small station some two miles away, where the Royal Family have their own waiting rooms, is closed on Sunday as no train whatever is run on that day. By this means, the church is kept clear of an attendance prompted by curiosity, and also the men employed have the entire day's rest secured to them. In fact, no unnecessary work in any shape or way is performed on Sunday in any one part of the Prince's domains.

"Sunday at Marlborough House differs slightly from Sunday at Sandringham, but the day is spent in comparative quietude. In the morning, Their Royal Highnesses attend Divine service held in what is known as the German (Lutheran) Chapel. After luncheon, the Princess and Her daughters may possibly attend one of the west-end churches to hear some popular preacher, or to be present at a children's service. It is not only at Sandringham and Marlborough House that Sabbath observances are rigidly adhered to by the Prince and Princess of Wales, but also in many of the continental places where they may be staying. There is an old saying that when you go to Rome do as the Romans do, but our Prince honours this rule in the breach, for although he has ever been a constant visitor to Paris, yet he has never seen the French Derby for the simple reason that it is run on the Sabbath. In a matter where hundreds and thousands of Christians have followed the fashion of the gay capital they are visiting, and indulged their love of horses and of pleasure, the Prince has set a good example and absented himself. In every way, the Prince and Princess have always faithfully observed the Sabbath, and we, as a Christian people, may congratulate ourselves that our future King and Queen will steadfastly uphold the sanctity of the Day of God, and the doctrines of the Christian church.

"A recent quotation from the St. James' Gazette, of London, England, saying that the King had refused to travel from Scotland to London on Sunday, and has "stunned society by putting all social functions and entertainments on Sunday under the Royal ban," would seem to indicate that His Majesty's accession to the throne of the "mightiest empire that has been" has not led to the relaxing of his scruples as to how Sunday should be spent."

must replace the feeling of lassitude and mental tiredness by clearness and strength of mind. Not that it goes directly to the brain, that were foolish. The true brain, food must be carried by rich, red blood. If mental fatigue worries and alarms you, look not to the brain, but the stomach and assimilative organs. No remedy yet discovered, possesses the marvellous brain strengthening power that Ferrozone has demonstrated in thousands of cases. Ferrozone does not stimulate the brain into a fitful glow, but by improving digestion, strengthening the nervous system, stimulating assimilation, giving new strength to the heart, it sends a stream of red vitalising blood to the brain. Thus it is a true brain food. Ferrozone is sold by Ormond & Walsh.

For the Children.

To Keep Their Digestion Perfect Nothing is so Safe and Pleasant as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Thousands of men and women have found Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets the safest and most reliable preparation for any form of indigestion or stomach trouble.

Thousands of people who are not sick, but are well and wish to keep well take Stuart's Tablets after every meal to insure perfect digestion and avoid trouble.

But it is not generally known that the Tablets are just as good and wholesome for little folks as for their elders.

Little children who are pale, thin and have no appetite, or do not grow or thrive, should use the tablets after eating and will derive great benefit from them.

Mrs. G. H. Crotsley, 538 Washington street, Hoboken, New Jersey, writes: "Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets just fill the bill for children as well as for older folks. I've had the best of luck with them. My three-year-old girl takes them as readily as candy. I have only to say 'tablets' and she she drops everything else and runs for them."

A Buffalo mother, a short time ago, who despaired of the life of her babe, was so delighted with the results from giving the child these tablets that she went before the notary public of Erie Co., N. Y., and made the following affidavit:

Gentlemen:—Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets were recommended to me for my two-months-old baby, which was sick and puny and the doctors said was suffering from indigestion. I took the child to the hospital, but there found no relief. A friend mentioned the Stuart Tablets and I procured a box from my druggist and used only the large sweet lozenges in the box and was delighted to find they were just the thing for my baby. I feel justified in saying that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets saved my child's life.

Mrs. W. T. Dethlope,

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 12th day of April, 1897.

Henry Karis,
Notary Public in and for Erie Co., New York.

For babies, no matter how young or delicate, the tablets will accomplish wonders in increasing flesh, appetite and growth. Use only the large sweet tablets in every box. Mark Twain's Moving.

A story is told of the days when Mark Twain was a hack writer in San Francisco on a weekly salary represented by one figure, Bret Harte and Joaquin Miller serving on the same staff with like pay. A woman of means who patronized Bohemia and gave the impecunious strugglers many a good dinner saw Mark Twain, thinly clad and imperfectly shod, standing with a cigar box under his arm and looking hungrily in at a confectioner's window. The patroness of letters asked what was in the box. "Oh," drawled the humorist, "I'm moving again."

SENATORS APPOINTED.

Montreal and Maritime Provinces Representation—They Number Four.

Ottawa, Feb. 5.—It is understood that Mr. Frederick Ligori Beique, K. C., of Montreal; Mr. F. P. Thompson of Fredericton, N.B.; Hon. Chas. Edward Church of Chester, N.S., and Dr. James Edwin Robertson of Montague, P.E.I., have been called to the Senate.

Sketches of New Senators

Mr. Beique was born in 1845 at St. Mathias, Que., and was educated at the College of Marieville. He was called to the bar in 1868 and has since been practising law in Montreal. He was created a Q.C. by the Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec in 1885 and by Lord Stanley in 1889. He was Batonnier of the Montreal Bar from 1891 to 1893. In 1896 Mr. Beique was one of the Dominion counsel in the Behring Sea claims. He is a leading member of the Montreal Bar.

Hon. Mr. Church taught school in early life, but afterwards adopted a mercantile career. He represented Lunenburg in the House of Commons from 1872 to 1878. In 1892 he was returned to the House of Assembly for Nova Scotia, and was re-elected at every ensuing election until last fall, when he retired. He held the office of Provincial Secretary from 1882 until 1884, when he became Commissioner of Works and Mines. He is 66 years old, and has held positions of trust in the Grand Lodge, British Templars, and in the Grand Division of the Sons of Temperance, Nova Scotia.

Mr. Thompson is a foundryman of Fredericton, where he has carried on a successful business for many years.

Dr. Robertson is an ex-member of the Dominion House, and is recognized as one of the leading Liberals of Prince Edward Island.

INTERESTING TO TRAVELLERS, ATHLETES, CYCLISTS, ETC.

Grove Villa, Bromar Road, Denmark Park,—

Gentlemen,—I scarcely know how to express my thanks to you for the great benefits I have derived from the use of Kelpion. Being an all-round athlete, I have of course experienced some bad sprains and bruises, but my late mishap at football, which resulted in a partial dislocation of the knee, was certainly the most serious.

For five weeks I have tried various embrocations, but to no purpose, except peeling the skin off, and making my leg smart. A friend then advised me to give Kelpion a trial, which I did. In three days my knee was considerably improved, and at the end of two weeks it was as well as ever, and quite strong enough to permit of me resuming cycling, etc. I shall certainly rely upon Kelpion for the future.

Several of the Borough Polytechnic Harriers have also expressed to me their high opinion of the Ointment, having made good use of it while training for their big race. They say that but for it several of them would have been too footsore to compete. Yours truly, W. Walker, Hon. Sec'y.

Gambling For Prayer Books.

The ladies of the town of Arensburg are passionate card players. Since they are not allowed to play at the local clubs they make up games at their friends' houses and gamble all day through. As soon as the cash funds run short they take to various articles, mostly toilet belongings. Thus one lost to another her corset, one lost a bonnet, a third some lace and perfumes, and they even go so far as losing their prayer books.

FOR PUBLIC CONTROL

Mr. Pattullo Urges the Principle in the Local Legislature.

Maiden Speech of Mr. Lee of East Kent—He Makes a Decidedly Favorable Impression—Brilliant Arraignment of the Inefficiency of the Opposition—Summary of Mr. Pattullo's Speech.

Toronto, Feb. 4.—In the Legislative Assembly this afternoon a large number of bills were introduced including the following: Attorney-General Gibson, to amend the Land Titles Act; Mr. Kribs, to provide for the printing of school books and Government printing; Mr. Conmee, to amend the Workmen's Compensation Act; Mr. Preston, to amend the Loan Corporations Act, and Mr. Brown, to amend the Municipal Act. There were also several railway and other private bills brought in.

Dr. Jessop, continuing the budget debate, urged that the experimental work carried on at the Agricultural College ought to be more generally distributed through the province. There ought to be an experiment station in Lincoln County. Men appointed as inspectors of fruit trees ought to have a thorough scientific education. He criticized the Government's forestry policy and did not believe it practicable to reforest the tracts that had been swept by fire.

Mr. Lee's Maiden Speech.

Mr. Lee of East Kent, who made his maiden speech, urged that the Opposition was grossly unfair in stating that the settler was wronged by the agreements made by the Government with lumbermen and pulp manufacturing companies. He quoted the conditions under which pulp concessions and timber limits were granted to show that the rights of settlers were amply protected. As regards the West Elgin election frauds he was sure that no member of this House would condone any rascality. He hoped that both parties would unite to suppress anything of the kind. In 1878 the province had been gerrymandered by the Tories so that hardly any man knew to what constituency he belonged. It would be very easy for the present Government so to gerrymander the province that very few Tories would be returned, and so that Mr. Whitney would not be again elected, but he would do nothing of the sort. The revenue from timber was amply sufficient to ensure them a permanent revenue. While under Conservative Government before Confederation the timber limits of this province were sold for an average of $9.75 per square. Under the Sandfield Macdonald Government the price obtained was $260 per mile, while under the Ross administration as high as $1,400 per square mile was obtained. He defended the right of Hon. John Dryden to invest his money outside of the province if he chose to do so, and only hoped it would yield him a good return. It was not so long since the Model Farm was subjected to attacks all along the line as a waste of money without any good result. Now the Opposition had shifted their ground and were blaming the Government because they were not doing enough for agricultural education. They assailed the Government for not preserving the forests and yet they had repeatedly opposed the appropriation for the Forestry Bureau.

Mr. Hoyle took exception to Mr. Lee's figures as regards the amounts realized for timber under successive Governments. Since the Blake administration 10,235 square miles of timber had been sold which realized only $725. He defined the position of the Conservatives on the succession duties as being opposed to unnecessary taxation. So long as the Government claimed a surplus such taxes were unjustifiable, but if taxes were really needed to enable the Government to be carried on estates of deceased persons were a proper subject of taxation. The same might be said as to taxes on corporations. The country was greatly disappointed that the administration had not proceeded with the work of law reform which was greatly needed to reduce the cost of the present expensive system. He went on to criticize some of the speeches delivered by members of the Government during the recess. The comparisons often made between the financial condition of Ontario and Quebec were misleading. The financial statements of Quebec Province were much clearer than those of Ontario and if they adopted our methods of reckoning they also had a surplus. Were the province to pay its indebtedness to the Dominion very little if any of the surplus would remain. Dealing with the subject of technical education he held that the sum of $10,000 in aid of that work was insufficient and was not justly distributed. He contended that the figures of the census showed that in 10 years the province had lost 126,000 of her population by the exodus. For 30 years the Government had been centralizing its forces and abusing its patronage. These methods kept the best men out of politics.

Opposition Inconsistency.

Mr. Pattullo said that the Opposition had quoted The Weekly Sun as against the Government. Would they accept its views on other questions—the Boer war for instance. They had heard a great deal of ancient history this session, but he believed there were newer and more important issues to be discussed. He did not believe there was a man in the country who seriously held the view that the tax on insurance companies had resulted in increasing the premiums paid by policy holders. If the Opposition were sincere in their condemnation of the Government's policy of taxing financial corporations the obviously correct course for them to pursue would be to introduce a resolution condemning that policy. If they did not do that they were inconsistent and all they had said on the subject was mere idle talk. As to the Government's action with regard to law reform, the Attorney-General's action in withdrawing his bill had met with the hearty approval of the Opposition leader. The question of law reform might well wait for solution by a new Legislature. He would be glad to believe that the financial affairs of Quebec Province were as satisfactory as the last speaker had said, but unfortunately for his contention a charge of $1,500,000 for interest appeared in the financial statement of that Province, which was proof positive of a large debt. The exodus from the older-settled districts was an old story. It had been going on for many years. But instead of going to the States as in former years the people who left Ontario now went to the Canadian Northwest. Moreover, the population of New Ontario had now increased to 150,000. The Opposition spoke of corruption and ballot-stuffing, but Mr. W. F. Maclean in a recent speech had declared that ballot-stuffing and personation had been resorted to by the Conservative machine to keep him out of the Mayoralty. With such an utterance on record against themselves, they should be slow to cast such imputations against Liberals. The Conservatives had condoned by a conspiracy of silence the offences of William Smith, Chamberlain and others.

After Recess.

Resuming his speech after recess Mr. Pattullo denounced the extraordinary lengths to which the Conservatives had shown themselves prepared to go in the policy of invective and declamation. They had dinned West Elgin and North Waterloo into the ears of the people until they were weary of hearing them. These tactics had simply resulted in increased majorities for Liberal candidates. The people turned with relief to those who offered them new issues and a practical policy of development. He urged the importance of more system in dealing with municipal bills which ought to be more closely considered in a judicial spirit. He would like to see these questions referred to a committee which should avail itself of the services of some of the permanent officials. Another matter which should be considered from a non-partizan point of view was the legislation in regard to joint stock companies for the protection of investors. There was a demand for legislation to check the abuses of watering stock. It would be of great benefit if it was provided that prospectuses should set forth the actual facts and if the auditing system were improved. In England, the Government had realized that they had a duty to perform in protecting the investor. The Provincial Government were deserving of credit for what they had done already in improving the law in relation to joint stock companies, but further legislation was needed. He hoped that the result of the investigations of the Assessment Commission would result in distributing the burden of taxation on such as were best able to bear it. He deprecated the criticism of the item for Hon. G. W. Ross' trip to England. Should Mr. Whitney by any possibly occupy the position of Premier the Liberals would never be found opposing any reasonable outlay necessary to keep up the dignity of his position on an official trip abroad. He defended the cold storage policy of the Government and advocated increased appropriations for cold storage stations. Considering the short time that the Good Roads measure had been on the statute book it had done fully as much as was expected of it. Already a number of County Councils were dealing with the question. A vast amount of money had been spent in perfecting the great arteries of transportation and to derive full benefit from that policy they must perfect the smaller arteries by which these were fed. Electricity was revolutionizing the conditions of transportation and industry, and some difficult problems were rising in connection with electrical distribution. Legislation should regulate its distribution upon equal terms, both as between municipalities and individuals. The history of railways in this country should throw some light on the principles to be adopted in dealing with electric railways. The C.P.R. should have been built as a Government enterprise, and he wished the principle of Government ownership had been adopted in the case of the Rainy River Railway. He trusted that the mistakes of the past would be avoided. The charter-monger was abroad who wanted to acquire special privileges simply in order to sell them. He would like to see a Minister of Railways appointed and that the Government should have full control of all rates. They should be careful of creating corporations to enrich themselves at the expense of the people. The Government had been criticized for not voting enough money for technical education, but whatever had been accomplished in this direction was due to the encouragement given by the administration. The Opposition had simply been criticizing and objecting while the administration had been establishing a system of agricultural and technical education. The Government had been responsive to the new conditions and demands and were moving on in every respect He strongly favored municipal ownership and congratulated the Government on having determined to build and own the Temiskaming Railway. Looking at what they were doing and what they were prepared to do it would be a national calamity if they were deprived of their opportunity to continue the good work.

Mr. McLaughlin said that he had not heard any of the farmers on the Government side support their agricultural policy.

Hon. Mr. Stratton—Who moved the address?

Mr. McLaughlin said he wasn't in the House on that occasion. Agricultural progress was due to the farmers themselves, not to the Government. He contended that the Conservatives had done more for labor than the Liberals. The municipalities would not go into the cold storage business. The report of the Financial Commission did not show that the commissioners had ever personally examined the books of the province.

State Control of Liquor.

Premier Ross yesterday morning held a private conference with Ald. Urquhart, Rev. Dr. Courtice, Rev. J. A. Macdonald, Dr. Lowrey, Prof. Hume, Rev. P. C. Parker, Prof. Goodspeed and John A. Paterson. Nearly all of the deputation spoke, and they urged that the sale of liquor under prohibition, for sacramental, medicinal, scientific and mechanical purposes should be under the management of the state, and not sold by drug stores. If this were done the liquor traffic would be deprived of any profit for the dealer, which is the reason he sold it.

The deputation also asked the Premier to reduce the proposed percentage of 60 per cent. of the votes necessary to carry the referendum.

SNARES FOR THE SIMPLE

WHAT the brand,—"Joseph Rodgers, Sheffield,"—signifies on a knife blade, the slate frame brand of—"The Slater Shoe"—signifies on a shoe sole.

But don't confuse mere personal names with registered brands!

The advantage of a brand, depends entirely upon its record for merit, established by the years certain goods have been publicly tested under that brand.

And, when such a brand has become a passport to people's confidence, there creeps in a species of piracy, which trades upon that confidence, by the selling of unknown goods, at a long profit, under some name which sounds like that of the brand.

This is how heedless Consumers are snared, and sold, and laughed at.

No purchaser should accept a blind excuse from a Retailer for the absence of the advertised trade mark, and the presence of something which resembles it superficially, but is not it legally.

There are thousands of men named "Rodgers," but there is only one standard brand of "Rodger's Cutlery," as there is only one standard brand of "The Slater Shoe."

If these words—"The Slater Shoe," are not stamped on the sole in a slate frame, it is not a genuine "Slater Shoe," and you buy it at your own risk.

The Slater Shoe Co. do not stand behind any but their own make—the shoe with a five year record of fixed value and uniform quality.

When you get the slate frame brand of "The Slater Shoe," stamped on the soles with the Makers price, you get the responsible, Goodyear Welted article.

CANADIAN CORDAGE COMPANY.

A Most Modern and Effective Heating System Installed.

Mr. J. C. Grant, travelling representative, has completed the installation of the hot-blast apparatus of the Sturtevant Co., Boston, for the Canadian Cordage Company. The principle of this system consists in a chest or chamber filled with stacks of pipe coils, heated with steam from a boiler. From this chamber the heated air is distributed by means of a large rotary fan, uniformly to all parts of the building, thus giving a steady and evenly distributed heat to the 700,000 cubic feet of space contained in the main buildings, which cover nearly an acre of superficial area.

The cost of the apparatus is understood to be about $4,000.00. Thus is completed another step towards the beginning of actual manufacturing operations, which will begin in April.

SPORTING PASTIMES.

HOCKEY.

Belleville Juniors won their first game in the district finals from Cobourg by 8 to 2 last night.

Wellington II. trimmed St. George's Intermediates by 11-3 last night.

Although no definite decision has been handed out by the O.H.A. Executive it is said to be practically settled that Peterborough will be drawn against the winners of the R. M. C. and Queens II., and the first game will be played here next week.

Practice to-night and each evening this week. The Intermediates will play the Colts to-morrow night.

Belleville Intelligencer.—It is said that the Peterborough sports are finding difficulty in collecting their wagers in the match with Port Hope, and a law-suit is threatened to recover the money. If the case gets into court it will develop some interesting features.

The money is being subscribed in Port Hope already for the erection of a new hockey rink next winter.

Contrary to the expectations there will be no match in Peterborough this week. It was thought that the first game of the second draw might be ordered on for Friday, but arrangements to that end could not be made. In the meantime the team is keeping in good shape.

CURLIANA.

There were no scheduled games played at the rink last night. It was too busy an evening.

Results in the Tankard draw yesterday were as follows:

47	Lindsay	Southampton	36
38	Ayr	Windsor	32
42	Dundas	Orillia	42
44	Caledonian	Galt	33

BASKET-BALL.

There will be an early game this evening at 7.15, between teams of the senior league Nos. 2 and 6. This will decide the tie game which was postponed. KILLED BY ELECTRICITY.

The Secretary of the Y. M.C.A. in Lindsay, Meets a Sudden Death.

Word was received in town, this morning, of the very sudden death by accident of Mr. J. B. Walker, Secretary of the Lindsay branch of the Y.M.C.A. It appears that Mr. Walker was in the cellar, making some changes in the position of the electric light wires, when he suddenly received a shock which was of sufficient voltage to cause instant death.

Mr. Walker was well known and highly esteemed in Peterborough Y. M.C.A. circles, he having spoken here a number of times. He was a native of Orangeville, and leaves a widow and baby child.

The regular meeting of the Fortnightly Club was held in the Y.M.C.A. last night, at which there was a fair attendance.

The distinguished scholar gave an able and instructive address upon the life of Robert Louis Stevenson, reviewing the different steps in his most interesting but pathetic life's story. At the conclusion of the address the chairman expressed the pleasure it gave those present in listening to Professor Alexander's able remarks. Altogether the evening was a very profitable one.

He will spend a few days with his parents at Bowmanville before leaving for the West.

SUCCESSFUL DANCE.

The Non-Coms of the 57th Scored a Great Success Last Night.

What will no doubt prove to be the last large dance in town, before Lent, took place in the opera house last night and proved to be very successful. The affair was given under the auspices of the Non-Coms. of the 57th Regiment, and under the kind patronage of the officers of that corps. For some time the Non-Coms. have been working very diligently in preparation for the event and it must be a source of great satisfaction to them to know that their efforts were crowned with success.

The decorations of the interior of the opera house were quite up to those used on former occasions of the kind, while the many coloured lights cast a pretty shade of light over the decorations and over the handsomely gowned ladies and the scarlet uniforms of the gentlemen. Every member of the Regiment present was in uniform as were also the members of other corps. The floor was in splendid condition, which, together with the perfect arrangements combined to make the dance an unqualified success.

The band of the 57 Regiment occupied the stage and provided excellent music for the first few dances after which the programme continued to the music of the piano presided at by the Misses Hurley in their usual obliging and efficient manner.

The supper was supplied by Mr. H. Long who, as is always the case, proved himself equal to the occasion.

A feature of the decorations was the display of arms, etc., that were placed in conspicuous places throughout the hall.

The patronesses were Mrs. (Hon.) J.R. Stratton, Mrs. T. A. S. Hay, Mrs. L. M. Hayes, Mrs. J. Crane, Mrs. C. B. McAllister, Mrs. R. M. Dennistoun, Mrs. E. C. Complin, Mrs. A. H. Stratton, Mrs. P. Campbell and Mrs. V. Eastwood.

The committee was composed of Amb.-Sergt. Sharpe, Col.-Sgt. R. Cottrell, Sgt. R. Watt, Corp. J. Lundy, Corp. Paddon, Corp. J. Gemmell, and Corp. E. Best. Sergt. G. C. Burnham was secretary of the dance.

The decorations were the work of Messrs. J. J. Turner & Sons, and the electrical display was installed by Messrs. Ross & Grant.

WATERWORKS MANAGEMENT.

Mistakes Made in Toronto an Experience for the Tax Payers.

A fact which emphasizes the need of great care being exercised in the administration of the newly-acquired waterworks system, is found in the report of City Engineer Rust, of Toronto, this year. The Mail and Empire speaks of the matter as follows:

"City Engineer Rust's estimates of the expenditure required in the Waterworks Department, are embarrassing for the advocates of public ownership. First he wants $187,283.96 for the maintenance of the system. The deficit must come out of the taxpayers. For this they have to thank an alderman who two years ago got the council to swallow these two strange propositions: First, that the waterworks ought not to be financially self-sustaining; second, that the capital charges on their account ought not to be included in the water rates.

"Besides the big shortage, which the taxpayers will have to make good, there are extraordinary outlays amounting to $613,308.79, which the City Engineer recommends to be made this year. He wants the following provided for: A steel pipe from the shore crib to opposite Island basin, cost $87,500; a steel pipe from opposite Island basin to tunnel shaft, $96,250; a 36-inch main along Bathurst street, Dupont street, and Yonge street, from College street to Rosehill Reservoir, $162,053.65; waste inspection, $10,000; a new 15,000,000-gallon engine at the main station, $150,000; a new 5,000,000-gallon engine at the high level station, $40,000. These improvements, along with others, which would bring the new capital outlay this year up to $613,308.79, the City Engineer considers of pressing necessity. The demand on the waterworks system is steadily increasing with the growth of population. The consumption of water in 1901 exceeded that in 1900 by 235,000,000. Unless means are soon provided for increasing the capacity of the plant the system will be overtaxed to supply the ordinary demand, to say nothing of any exceptional strain that it would be expected to answer in case of fire. The boilers of No. 1 engine are reported by the engineer in charge to be in a dangerous and dilipidated state liable to fall down at any moment and cause loss of life and property. We cannot go on continuously deferring these necessary improvements. Of course the $613,308.79 for carrying them out cannot be put on the year's tax rate. To raise the money we must go into debt. A bylaw authorizing the Council to obtain funds in this way and for this purpose would have to be carried by the ratepayers. But are the ratepayers inclined to vote themselves into any more debt for the enlargement of the waterworks? When they were asked once before to sanction the raising of money to make the very same improvements they refused. If the waterworks are brought to a break-down the blame will be on the Council rather than on the ratepayers. Had the Council not, with the worst of bad faith, cut down the water rates to increase the taxes, the money would have been voted when it was first asked for, and the improvements would have been now made. We cannot expect the ratepayers to to make more heavy for themselves the yoke that economists choose to put upon them.

"With a bigger waterworks deficit every year to be made up out of taxes, with the waterworks plant every year falling further short of the maximum requirements — with such a standing example of mismanagement, neglect, and demagogery as the administration of the waterworks affords—can the present Council have the faintest hope that the ratepayers will be insane enough to vote a credit of several million dollars to increase their experience of the evils of public ownership? Surely the level-headed members of the Council can see that all this bylay about purchasing the gas works works and paying from $1,500,000 to $2,000,000 for a power transmission line is simply a waste of time. Would it not be better to attend to the neglected and mismanaged property we have under public ownership than to fool away their time trying to saddle more works on the taxpayers?

MRS. ARMSTRONG DEAD.

Aged Mother of Warden Armstrong of Provincial Goal, Passed Away At 8 o'clock This Morning.

From the Daily Columbian, New Westminster, B.C., Jan. 24,

"The death occurred at 8 o'clock this morning of Mrs. R. J. Armstrong at the residence of her son, Warden Armstrong, of the Provincial Jail. For the last two or three years the deceased has been in poor health, and during the last twelve months she suffered from lung trouble. On one or two occasions she was apparently at death's door, but she developed extraordinary vitality, and even so late as yesterday evening seemed to be in better health and spirits than for weeks past. During the night, however, she had a very bad hemorrhage of the lungs, which left her weak, but even then the end was not deemed to be near. Shortly after 8 o'clock this morning she fell into a peaceful sleep, and so, before the watchers at her bedside were aware of the change, the spirit had fled.

"The late Mrs. Elisabeth Ann Armstrong was a native of Ireland, having been born in Wexford in 1825, and was aged 76 years and 4 months. While quite young she came to Canada—to Brookville, Ont.—but subsequently the family settled in Cavan Township, County of Durham. In 1885 she first visited British Columbia, and in 1890, having again come west, she permanently settled here, having been preceded by her husband, who died here Jan. 27, 1892. She leaves five children, Mr. George W., Warden of the Jail; Albert, of the Customs Department, Tacoma, Wash.; Mrs. Beattie, Mrs. Taylor and Miss Rose Armstrong.

"The funeral will leave the Warden's residence, at 1.30 p.m., on Sunday, for Holy Trinity Cathedral, and thence to the Oddfellows' Cemetery, Sapperton.

THE SNOW BYLAW.

What Belleville's Police Magistrate Thinks of it.

Belleville is having as much trouble with its snow bylaw as Peterborough apparently and the Police Magistrate writes to the press as follows, concerning his views of the bylaw:

My Dear Sir,—There are a few points advisable to be considered by the Council, before adopting any sweeping measures respecting vacant and non-resident lands. Consideration at the present time may avoid future troubles. Many vacant spaces of land consist of lots owned by different persons. Mr. Hulme is directed to put men on to clean the vacant spaces You cannot put taxes against a man's property and sell it, without first asking the owner to comply with the law and notifying him of the result of failure to obey. This would be reasonable and proper if there was no law requiring it. Mr. Hulme must see the solicitor, upon whom the responsibility of discovering the owners will rest. In city lots, the title is generally intricate, and involved. The solicitor, having consulted a map, will require an abstract of title to each lot, where the title is long. Abstracts cost from two to three dollars each. The Registry Office will not in all cases disclose the title, as many persons have unregistered deeds of land in their possession, and are therefore the owners, and the Solicitor, with all his skill, will in such cases be unable to find the owners. Supposing that the owner is discovered, a careful and correct estimate must be made of distances to be cleaned, etc., taxes to be apportioned. Lots are often described by metes and bounds. No man on the police force, or among the men employed to clean, would be able to take the description by metes, and find the lots, therefore necessitating in such cases a surveyor at $5 per day. I understand the authorities entertain doubts as to the corporation labourers performing their duties well, when not under the eyes of the inspector. Supposing extravagant and inaccurately calculated taxes are placed against a man's property, and the land sold. I fear, if the owner could show by positive evidence, that the land was improperly rated, that serious troubles might follow the sales. Many lands are undivided estates, the heirs scattered, what is to be done in those cases? Supposing sales made, and people build on land bought from the city, and the bylaw should subsequently be held to be invalid, what position would the city occupy with respect to the purchaser and builder? Another difficulty with regard to residents. Many are temporarily absent from the city. These cannot be reached by the police. Only one policeman is on duty during the day on the streets. How can it be reasonably expected that the law could be strictly enforced under such circumstances? This officer frequently has to attend to special duties. While in many cases difficulties might not arise, yet in many, they would certainly do so. The matter requires the wisest and most careful scrutiny in order to prevent "the remedy proving worse than the disease."

A PATAGONIA COLONY

Welshmen Preparing to Move to the Dominion of Canada.

AN INFLUENTIAL DEPUTATION

Mr. Chamberlain Will Receive Them on the 17th, When They Will Urge That Transportation Be Provided to Secure These British Subjects Again the Protection of the British Flag.

London, Feb. 4.—Mr. Chamberlain has appointed Monday, February 17, for the reception at the Colonial Office of a Welsh deputation regarding the provision of transport for the removal of the Welsh settlers in Patagonia to Canada. The deputation will be the most influential that has represented Wales in recent years, as the whole principality is most keenly interested in the suggestion that their fellow-countrymen should return to the protection of the British flag, while it is also fully recognized in Wales that Canada offers opportunities much superior to those found in South America.

The present deputation is the result of the reports on the Welsh settlement in Patagonia, which has just been made by Messrs. W. L. Griffiths and Rees, who were sent by Hon. Clifford Sifton to investigate the possibilities of transferring this Welsh colony to Canada, and by the Hon. Mr. Scott, a British diplomat, who accompanied the Canadian officials at Mr. Chamberlain's request.

A WOODSTOCK LADY.

For a Period of Twelve Years She Suffered.

Female Weakness Made her Life a Burden—Physicians all Assured her That she Could Never be Cured—Dodd's Kidney Pills Made her a Well Woman.

Woodstock, Ont., Feb. 3.—(Special.) Medical men are much puzzled over the case of Mrs. Wm. Rowe, of 311 Dundas street, this city.

For years (twelve or more) she had suffered with what is ordinarily called "Female Trouble" or "Female Weakness." She had consulted and had been treated by the very best physicians, but they failed to do her any good, and ended by the discouraging announcement that she need never hope to be well, as her disease was positively incurable.

However, Mrs. Rowe was persuaded as a last resort to try a treatment of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and to her great surprise and the joy of her family and friends she began to show signs of improvement. This change gave her a new hope, and the treatment was continued till at last she was completely cured and restored to the greatest good health possible to vigourous womanhood.

The case of Mrs. Rowe and the hopeless verdict of the doctors, had become widely known and as a consequence her satisfactory restoration to good health has created a profound sensation with the public, and not a little confusion among those physicians who had so positively pronounced her incurable.

Dodd's Kidney Pills have proven themselves an unfailing remedy for all diseases peculiar to womanhood, and thousands of grateful women are testifying to the fact that this remedy has saved them after everything else had failed.

Mrs. Rowe says; "I suffered as only weak women do suffer, for over twelve years. The doctors told me I could never be cured. I tried everything but could not get any relief. Dodd's Kidney Pills cured me, and I owe my life and health to them and nothing else."

CANADA IN THE OLD LAND.

Will Be Represented at Exhibitions at London and Cork.

Ottawa, Feb. 4.—Mr. W. D. Scott, who represented Canada at the Glasgow Exhibition last year, leaves to-day for New York to sail by the steamer Oceanic for Liverpool, so as to have the Canadian exhibit arranged for the opening of the Colonial Exposition, which is to be held at the Royal Exchange, in London, and is to be opened by the Prince of Wales on March 1. Canada will exhibit chiefly minerals, timber and fruits, in competition with similar exhibits from the other colonies. Mr. Scott will also arrange the Canadian exhibits for the exhibition which will consist chiefly of natural products. Simultaneous with this will be the Cork exposition, to be opened during the first week in May by His Majesty King Edward VII., to which the Dominion will contribute a special line of exhibits under Mr. Scott's controll.

Breach of Faith.

Winnipeg, Feb. 4.—Hugh Armstrong was nominated yesterday by the Conservatives to contest Portage La Prairie in the bye-election. A prohibition convention will be held to-day, but a despatch says a candidate will not be placed in the field, and the temperance people may withhold action until the general elections. Prohibitionists charge Roblin with breach of faith.

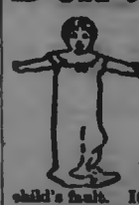
New Highest Official in China.

Pekin, Feb. 3.—General Yung Lu, whom the Emperor ordered to be executed for the part he took in the Boxer rising, is now the highest official in the empire. Under his directions, the Boxers destroyed half the legations here and massacred many converts in Pei Tang. To-day he visited the legations, where, apparently, he was on a friendly footing.

All Plump and Rosy.

If all the plump and rosy children in the world could be collected together into one place it would be surprising to find how many of them owe their strength and health to Scott's Emulsion.

Don't Chide the Children.



Don't scold the little ones if the bed is wet in the morning. It isn't the child's fault. It is suffering from a weakness of the kidneys and bladder, and weak kidneys need strengthening—that's all. You can't afford to risk delay. Neglect may entail a lifetime of suffering and misery.

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS

strengthen the kidneys and bladder, then all trouble is at an end.

Mrs. E. Kidner, a London, Ont., mother, living at 499 Gray St., says:

"My little daughter, six years old, has had weak kidneys since birth. Last February I got a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at Strong's drug store. Since taking them she has had no more kidney trouble of any kind. I gladly make this statement because of the benefit my child has received from this medicine."

WITH THE SPECULATORS.

Tenderfoot Tells What He Sees in a Toronto Bucketshop.

You go into a very ordinary looking room furnished with a few chairs, and perhaps a table, and you see a dozen or so earnest-looking men gazing at a black-board covered with figures. You feel sorry for these men at once, because your natural conclusion is that early in life their educations were neglected, and that now they have awakened to their defects and are endeavoring to study up on arithmetic.

You are an expert on arithmetic yourself, and you look again at the blackboard to see if there are any problems there you can't solve. After looking awhile you conclude there are. The arithmetic seems to be excessively complicated. All along the top of the board there extends a line of utterly unintelligible initials, and underneath each initial, pair of initials, trio of initials there droop columns of figures of varying lengths and in all sorts of fractional dimensions, to which a busy young man in black is constantly making additions with a piece of chalk.

The busy young man interests you. He is so excessively busy, and you wonder how he knows which column to put his figures in. Then you notice that he consults a long, narrow strip of paper which he tears off from a seemingly endless roll which keeps unwinding off a seemingly endless coil in the corner, where a noisy little machine keeps up a perpetual ticking. You go over and investigate this ticking thing, and you find it punching cabalistic figures and initials on the paper strip as it unwinds. "A C P," it says, "1,000 2 1-8, U P 100, 9 3-8," and so on ad infinitum, with other initials and other figures. Every minute or so the brisk young man steps up and tears off the strip, and transfers the figure to the blackboard.

Meanwhile, some of the men who have been studying the blackboard white surface and come over and get tired of looking at its black and study the little ticker and its constantly unwinding tape.

It seems to be a free and easy school they study in, for some of them smoke and some of them chat, and some of them occasionally read newspapers, but they always come back to the blackboard and the ticker.

Sometimes one of them gets up in a hurry and walks back to the counter and talks to one of the men behind. Then you hear something ticking over there, talking back to the little ticker by the blackboard, probably.

You go away, finally, puzzled exceedingly, but you come back again, and probably again, and finally you begin to see through it a little. The little ticker in the corner is talking off the fluctuations in stock quotations in New York, and the brisk young man in black is copying them off on the blackboard. For instance, the "A C P, 1,000, 2 1-8," means the sale of 1,000 shares of Amalgamated Copper at 72 1-8, and "U P, 100, 9 3-8," means the sale of 100 Union Pacific shares at 99 3-8, and so on. The answering click from behind the counter comes when one of the blackboard students turns in an order either to buy stock which he hasn't got, but thinks he needs, or to sell stock which he has and which he sees he can sell at a profit.

You see men in these little offices whom you seldom see anywhere else. Doubtless they have homes, and doubtless they get their meals somewhere, but you never see them anywhere save in one of these little offices studying these figures.

Some of them are young, but some of them are grey-haired. It is doubtless interesting to them, but to you it looks like an awfully monotonous way for a fellow to spend his life, sitting in a chair gazing at figures on a blackboard.—Ravenspur, in Toronto Star.

Save Your 1888 Quarters.

Take them to Ormond & Walsh's drug store and he will give you a bottle of Four T's, the best, safest and quickest cure known for coughs and colds. More than a quarter million bottles sold in 5 years proves Four T's the best lung compound known. It is a positive cure for whooping cough.

Sicily the Home of Sulphur.

The beautiful island of Sicily, with its huge volcano, Mount Etna, and its most interesting remains of classic Greek architecture, is the world's great source of supply for sulphur. The rocks and soil are largely of volcanic origin, and the sulphur mines in some places penetrate deep into the earth. A common sight is a train of freight cars loaded with bars of sulphur as yellow as gold. Some of the greatest mines are close by Girgenti, the celebrated Agrigentum of the Roman historians. About 90 per cent of all the sulphur produced comes from Sicily.

CHILDREN'S CLOTHES

They Are as Elaborate as Those of Their Elders.

Children's garments this winter follow the fashion of those of their elders. They are covered with fine tuckings, stitchings and embroideries. The babies' coats especially show a wealth of fine needlework. A pretty model has the triple cape effect, the edge of each tiny cape being finished with a scalloped application of white panne. One of the newest frocks for a little girl is made of fine white wool crape, the entire dress being laid in horizontal pin tucks. It is trimmed with heavy yellow guipure laid in shaped bands, and through this at intervals are passed narrow velvet ribbons.

A knotted sash of black velvet ribbon completes this thoroughly French costume. The prejudice against having black on a child's dress seems to have died out, for one sees these chic touches of black quite frequently even on very young children.

The smart child's coat here shown is of coffee brown cloth, lined throughout with satin of the same shade. The coat depends principally for style on the heavy stitchings, which simulate an empire effect. A narrow collar and revers of mink give it a softening touch. The muff is also of the mink. The large picturesque hat is of pale blue felt trimmed with pompons of dark brown and velvet ribbon of the same shade.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

Cold Affects the Liver.

Severe Headaches, Constipation and Kidney Disorders the Result—Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills Correct the Action of Filtering and Excretory Organs.

The liver is very easily affected by change of temperature, nervous strain and over-eating, and is the cause of more pains and aches than any other organ of the body. It is the duty of the liver to filter from the blood the poisonous bile, which it passes into the intestines to act as nature's cathartic. One of the first results of a sluggish, congested liver is constipation, alternating with looseness of the bowels and what is commonly called biliousness.

Bitter taste in the mouth, sallow complexion, a coated tongue, severe headaches, pain under shoulder blades, fulness in right side, dizziness, ill-temper, peevishness and depression of spirits are indications of an ailing liver. The remarkable effectiveness of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills in regulating the action of the liver, kidneys and bowels easily places it first as a treatment for derangements of these organs. There are few people who are not more or less subject to biliousness in the winter season, when more or less confined to the house, and so rendered sensitive to change of temperature. Meat diet and the artificial foods of winter also tend to make the liver sluggish, the kidneys inactive and the bowels constipated.

The promptness with which Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills correct the action of the filtering and excretory organs and rid the blood of poisonous bile impurities commend them to reasoning people as a suitable family medicine to be kept in the home all the time. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are prompt, pleasant and natural in action, far-reaching in effect and perfectly scientific. They have proven their right to your confidence in scores of thousands of cases, many, no doubt, in your immediate locality.

Do not imagine that you are experimenting when you begin to use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. If your liver, kidneys or bowels are deranged this preparation will set them right. It does not seem wise to suffer from biliousness, kidney disease, constipation or similar ailments when you may as well keep your health in perfect order with this tried and tested remedy. One pill a dose. 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Company, Toronto.

Still In the Ring.

"I hear your engagement with young Gotrox has been broken off," said the first fair daughter of Eve.

"Well, you are entitled to another hearing," rejoined fair daughter No. 2 as she held up a graceful hand on which a solitaire sparkled. "You can see for yourself that I am still in the ring."

Doctors see at once the advantage of taking a medicine right to the part that is sick. You see the doctor orders his own medicines for the disease, and has his patient use Vapo Cresolene at the same time. It destroys all germs of diphtheria, scarlet fever, measles, and other contagious diseases; and there is no remedy its equal for croup, sore throat and hard colds. You now see why it often cures whooping-cough in a few days.

Vapo-Cresolene is sold by druggists everywhere. A Vapo-Cresolene outfit, including the Vaporizer and Lamp, which should last a life-time, and a bottle of Cresolene, complete, $1.50; extra supplies of Cresolene 25 cents; illustrated booklet containing physicians' testimony is free upon request. A LABOR COURT.

Industrial Arbitration Court Invests Tribunal With Compulsory Powers—The Orders of Court Are Enforceable.

The Industrial Arbitration Act received royal assent in New South Wales a few days ago. It was drawn up by Mr. Bernard Ringrose Wise, the Attorney-General of New South Wales, and follows the lines of the New Zealand Act of Mr. Reeves. Its working will be watched with interest in all parts of the world, as it is contended, says a Sydney correspondent, to be the most resolute and consistent attempt yet made to deal with disputes between labor and capital, because it not only compels a reference of all such disputes to a competent court, with power to enforce its orders and awards, but it makes a strike or a lockout before such reference or during its pendency a misdemeanor punishable by fine or imprisonment.

The bill is based on the assumption that the tendency of modern industrialism is toward the organization both of labor and capital and the substitution of collective for individual bargains in all labor matters.

Industrial unions, which are the units recognized by the act, can be of two kinds—industrial unions of employers and industrial unions of employes. Only a registered trades union can registered as an industrial union of employes. The president of the court must be a judge of the Supreme Court. Every care has been taken to make the court an independent and dignified tribunal. Its powers are very large, and no appeal lies from its decision. Every industrial dispute—a phrase which is defined in terms which include every possible matter which can arise between an employer and his workman—can be referred to the court either by the industrial union interested or by the registrar. Orders of the court may be enforced, as in New Zealand, by injunction or by fines and penalties levied on the corporate funds of the union and on individual members. but they are also enforceable by a totally new method, upon the efficiency of which will probably depend the success or failure of this measure—namely, the declaration of a common rule.

This gives the court power to declare that any practice, usage, condition of employment or industrial dealings shall, with such limitations and exceptions as the court may declare, become a common rule for all persons employed in the industry which is under review. This authority will be a most powerful instrument to compel obedience to the decres of the court. Provision has been made that the legal machinery of the court shall be as elastic as possible, so that it may be adapted to the varying circumstances of each trade. Thus the court will become in time the regulator of the main conditions of employment, and will watch that these never fall below those which prevail in the best conducted establishments. The court also has power to declare a standard wage, and to direct that other things being equal, an employer shall give a preference to unionists when two or more men are applying for employment at the same time. This provision threatened at one time to cause a dispute between the Legislative Assembly and the Legislative Council, but Mr. Wise induced the Council not to insist upon the rejection of the clause, and all matters indispute between the two houses were adjusted.

A Story of the Bath.

A good story has recently been picked up in the west of Ireland by Mr. R. J. Mecredy, the well-known motorist. It concerns the rising little seaside town of Lahinch, a place which has recently developed tremendously through the tourist and golf booms. A few years ago the public baths, like most other institutions in the village, were very primative. They were situated in a little cottage, which was just above the high water mark. Shower baths were a specialty, and they were to be had in a room which had a bath tub placed in the middle of the floor. On pulling a string a perfect deluge of bracing sea water came through the ceiling. A lady visitor once stood ready in the tub, and gave the dread signal. But instead of the usual avalanche of green water there came from aloft the gruff voice of the fisherman-proprietor of the baths. "If ye'll move a taste more to the wesht, ma'am," said the voice, "ye'll get the full benefit of the shower." Looking up, she, to her horror, descried the old fisherman standing by the aperature in the ceiling and holding a barrel of sea water ready for the douche! Whether the lady moved to the west and received the shower or not the chronicler does not relate. But Lahinch has made giant strides onward since.—From M.A.P.

Giant Joins Diplomatic Corps.

Lord Pauncefote, the British Ambassador, is more than six feet tall, but he looked like a pigmy the other day beside the giant who accompanied him to the State Department in Washington. The giant is Arthur Stewart Raikes, the new first secretary of the British embassy, and Lord Pauncefote took him to the department to present him to Secretary Hay. Mr. Raikes is more than a head taller than Lord Pauncefote. He is a Cambridge graduate, who entered the British diplomatic service in 1879, and has served at Athens, Copenhagen and Rio de Janeiro. Queen Victoria conferred a jubilee medal on him in 1897.

Trades Unions Incomes.

The income of a hundred principal trades unions in England last year was £1,975,000 and their accumulated funds £3,767,000. During the last nine years these unions have spent over £8,000,000 on friendly benefits and about £2,750,000 on dispute pay.

Blood Disorders

are simply kidney disorders. The kidneys filter the blood of all that shouldn't be there. The blood passes through the kidneys every three minutes. If the kidneys do their work no impurity or cause of disorder can remain in the circulation longer than that time. Therefore if your blood is out of order your kidneys have failed in their work. They are in need of stimulation, strengthening or doctoring. One medicine will do all three, the finest and most imitated blood medicine there is

There's Nothing "Just as Good"

As Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for womanly diseases. No one knows this better than the woman who has tried local doctors and many medicines and found no cure until she began the use of "Favorite Prescription." It establishes regularity, stops weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

"I was troubled for three years with ulceration and female weakness and my doctor gave me but little relief," writes Mrs. Lulu Hunter, of Allenton, St. Louis Co., Mo. "I saw an advertisement in the paper of Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I began the use of it about a year ago. I took five bottles of it, and one bottle of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and my health is better now than it was for years. I have also recommended these medicines to some of my friends, who suffered from female weakness, and good results have followed."

COLORADO'S FIRST GOLD.

How the Discovery of the Precious Metal Was Made.

On May 8, 1859, as stated in Fossett's "Colorado" (1876), John Gregory, a prospector, climbed the hill into what is still known as Gregory gulch (midway between the present Central City and Black Hawk), scraped away the grass and leaves, filled his pan with dirt and took it down to the stream.

Upon panning (washing) it down, there was about $4 worth of gold in it. This was followed by a stampede to the Gregory diggings, as they were afterward called. Gregory employed five men from the new arrivals and by means of a sluice took out $972 in one week. Other rich strikes were made almost daily, and large amounts of gold were taken out in a short time.

The Bates, Bobtail, Mammoth, Gunnell, Gurroughs, Illinois and hundreds of other lodes were found, and thousands of claims were taken up. As the summer of 1859 advanced the wealth of the gold veins and gulches of what is now Gilpin county became more and more apparent. Over 15,000 men were congregated in Gregory, Russell and tributary gulches, and many of them were accumulating wealth rapidly, but everything valuable was soon preempted, and large numbers were forced to hunt their fortunes elsewhere.

A Curious Name Combination.

"What is in a name?" has been a question sufficiently unanswered to still remain a subject for discussion, but what is in two names should have a double interest. If you don't think so, take two names as well known as any in American history and look at them. They are the names of Lincoln and Hamlin. Of course there is nothing peculiar about them as they stand, but set them differently and observe the result. For an instance, place them this wise:

HAM LIN
LIN COLN

Read up and down and then across. There is something in that, isn't there? Now, again:

ABRA—HAMLIN—COLN.

Can you find two other names of two other men whose official lives and names combine as these do?

London as It Was.

Haydn's "Dictionary of Dates" makes the statement that the old name of the city of London was written Lynden or Llyndin, meaning "the city on the lake." An old tradition gives us to understand that London was founded by Brute, a descendant of Æneas, and called New Troy or Troynovant until the time of Lud, who surrounded the town with walls and named it Caer-Lud, or Lud's town. This latter is probably the correct version of the story, if for no other reason because it is an easy matter to detect a similarity between the expression Lud's town and London. It is claimed by some writers that there was a city on the same spot 1,107 years B. C., and it is known that the Romans founded a city there called Londinium A. D. 61.

When Silk Was Precious.

Common as is silk nowadays, in earlier times it was a most precious material. When it was first brought into Europe, silk commanded three times its weight in gold, and so valuable was it deemed that in the reign of Tiberius a law was passed forbidding it to all save noble ladies and prohibiting men from wearing it on the ground of its effeminacy. So unusual was it even 200 years later for a man to wear silk that every historian of the time of Heliogabalus noted the fact that that emperor had a silk gown. For ages it continued at an abnormally high price. Charlemagne in the year 780 could send to King Offa of Mercia no more valuable a present than two silk coats.

Straight Furrows in Kansas.

"How can you plow straight furrows over such an enormous cornfield as this?" asked the Englishman who had never been in Kansas before.

"That's easy," said the native. "We follow the parallels of latitude and the meridians of longitude."

If you think others talk too much, you are putting yourself under the same head when you say so.—Atchison Globe.

A Deathbed Question.

Not long before his death P. T. Barnum summoned his lawyer to the side of the couch where he was lying. "I am very much worried," he said, "about a certain matter, and I want to consult you. My neighbor keeps peacocks. Suppose some of them should fly over into my yard, which they are doing all the time, and lay some eggs here. Would those eggs belong to me or could my neighbor compel me to give them up?"

The lawyer, having duly scatched his head, answered: "Well, Mr. Barnum, I must take time to look into this matter. But the best thing for you to do would be to keep the eggs and let your neighbor sue for their possession. In that way your rights would be determined and we should have a very valuable test case."

"Well," said Mr. Barnum, "while you are looking into the matter will you find out how it would be if the eggs were laid by peahens?" The lawyer swore softly to himself, but never made any investigation.

Considerate.

An Albany lawyer with a penchant for billiards had occasion recently to visit a small town. While there, seeking to pass the time, he found a new and excellent billiard table. Upon his inquiring if there was anybody about who could play the landlord referred him to one of the natives, who may be called John Jones because that isn't his name. They played several games, but the result was against the Albany lawyer. Try as he might, the countryman won.

"Mr. Jones," he remarked, "I have quite a reputation at home. They consider me a good billiard player, but I'm not in your class. May I inquire how long you have played?"

"Oh, fer a spell back," replied the native. "Say, stranger, I don't want to hurt your feelin's, but you're the fust feller I ever beat."

It Strikes the Heart.

Not only is the victim of Rheumatism a constant sufferer, fut he lives in continual dread that the disease will reach the heart, which means sudden and unexpected death. Rheumatism can only be cured when the uric acid is removed from the blood by the healthy action of the kidneys. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills make the kidneys healthy and vigorous, and so gradually and thoroughly cure Rheumatism by removing the cause. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box.

The Silent Boatman.

"Who can swim? Who can swim?" shouted a man who wanted to cross a river in a boat. A crowd of boatmen gathered round him, crying: "I can, signor! I can!"

Only one was silent and remained in his boat all the time.

"And can't you swim?" inquired the stranger.

"No," was the man's curt reply.

"Then you shall take me across."

The gentleman had adopted this method to escape the importunity of rival boatmen in that part of the country. Perhaps also he shrewdly suspected that a man who could not swim would be the safer pilot.

A LETTER FROM CALGARY.

Mr. Harry Faint Writes Interestingly of the Western City.

The subjoined letter concerning Calgary and the West, has been received by the Examiner from Mr. Harry Faint, and will be read with interest;

Calgary, Alta., Jan. 28, 1902.

To the Editor of the Examiner.—

Dear Sir, — There is no country more renowned for its healthfulness than Central—(Sunny)—Alberta. Here is to be found that far-famed resort, Banff, situated in our National Park, and surrounded by some of the grandest scenes of nature. Invalids come here from all parts of the world to bathe in the mineral waters flowing from the fountains of the earth. The water at the hotel and controlled by the Grand View Hotel, has a temperature of 115 deg. Baths there for a week and found the waters very beneficial. In the waters of the Cave and the Basin, which are natural reservoirs, people of all classes manage to find a refreshment not found in ordinary waters. The air is dry, cool and invigorating.

Calgary, situated in the same belt, enjoys similar advantages. The Royal party stepped here for a day and enjoyed some typical western scenes. Two thousands Indians collected from all parts, and georgeously decorated in their variegated colours, presented one of these old-time gatherings, now so seldom seen, when the Red Man controlled the plains and dressed or undressed, according to the desires or customs of his tribe. Two hundred or more braves decorated in feathers and war paint lined the way leading to the pavilion, where their Royal Highnesses were received most enthusiastically by the chiefs, who in loyal terms, spoke of their adherence to the Crown. Seldom has such a scene been witnessed before. In the afternoon there was an exhibition of Rough Riding and cattle roping. The Premier was cheered whenever he appeared.

The weather has been remarkable this winter. Up to Jan. 23rd, the thermometer has been only below zero twice. During the last week, however, it has been much colder, reaching 32 deg. below zero. This will only last for a few days however, a chinook may change the condition to balmy spring weather.

The boys from Peterborough are well represented in this district. I have met Mr George A. Helson, who travels for a Lindsay leather firm; also Mr. James Bradley, formerly a prominent worker in the George street church and Sunday school, who has been in the west for the past three years. Messrs. A. Walsh and M. Miller of Keene, are also in the town, and Mr. Miller handles a hockey stick as of old.

Calgary is rapidly growing and building operations are being vigorously carried on. We expect for 1902 one of the best years in the history of the town. The city council have memoralized the Dominion Government to help in the erection of a sanitorium at Calgary, it being an urgent necessity, and many attracted by the healthfulness of this part for consumption and similar diseases are constantly coming in, but as they are not received in the hospitals they find very poor or no accommodation.

I am, yours truly,
HARRY FAINT

KEENE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

On Tuesday of last week a social evening was spent at the parsonage, when Dr. Harrison, the retiring superintendent of the Methodist S. S., was made the happy recipient of a beautiful oak cabinet secretary. The Doctor was taken entirely by surprise by the address and presentation. He made a very suitable reply in which he evinced his zeal in the work he had been performing and which he would be only too happy to still perform should his health permit.

The community was shocked on Tuesday morning to learn that Rev. Dr. Andrews, Presbyterian minister here, dropped dead immediately on rising from his bed. He had faithfully performed the duties of minister in connection with this and Westwood congregation for fifty-one consecutive years, and it was only last Sunday through the fury of the storm, he made his last visit to Westwood. His funeral will take place on Friday afternoon at three o'clock.

The last game of hockey will be played here on Monday evening with Norwood's swift seven.

CATTLE AND HORSES.

A Couple of the Former Associations and One of the Latter Meet and Elect Their Officers.

Toronto, Feb. 5.—There was a large attendance at the seventeenth annual meeting of the Dominion Shorthorn Breeders' Association, held yesterday afternoon in Richmond Hall, President Robert Miller in the chair. The Secretary-Treasurer in his annual report said that the registrations have shown a steady increase. Vol. 17 of the Herd Book contained 9,406 registrations. The association donated $1,100 to the Industrial Exhibition for prizes last year, and also distributed towards the prize lists of all the principal annual fairs in Canada. The total amount given was $3,571. When the volume now under way is completed a total of 161,251 pedigrees will be recorded. The association has now a membership of 1,565, being an increase of 314 over the previous year. With $8,220.44 cash in the bank at the commencement of the year, the total receipts from all sources amounted to $20,351.33 and the expenditures to $12,878.90, leaving a balance of $7,471.43 cash on hand.

The old officers and delegates were elected, with two exceptions: J. A. Turner of Calgary, N.W.T., was elected a vice-president in place of R. A. Wallace of High River, and John Isaacs of Markham a delegate to Dominion Cattle Breeders' Association, in place of Arthur Johnston of Greenwood.

Hon. John Dryden was present and gave an interesting address on matters relating to stock raising. He said that in view of the price realized from the sale of cattle at Chicago, the breeders in Canada should get a better price for their stock, and instead of $5.25 they were receiving at present per hundred, they would soon be receiving $6.

The Holstein-Friesian Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Holstein Friesian Association was held yesterday afternoon at the Palmer House, Vice-President James Rettie presiding, in the absence of the president.

The secretary-treasurer, G. W. Clemons, submitted his report, which showed the total receipts to be $1,918.64, and expenditures $1,252.16; leaving a balance of $666.48 cash on hand. There were 694 registrations during the year, making a total of 5,768 bulls and cows now registered. Twenty-one new members were admitted during the year.

The following officers were elected: President, A. Gifford, Meaford; first vice-president, James Rettie, Norwich; second vice-president, H. Ballert, Cassel; third vice-president, R. S. Stevenson, Ancaster; fourth vice-president, A. C. Hallman, New Dundee; directors (two years), George Rice, Currie's Crossing; G. A. Gilroy, Glen Buell; secretary-treasurer, G. W. Clemons, St. George.

Horse Breeders in Session.

An enthusiastic meeting of the Clydesdale Horse Breeders' Association was held last evening at the Albion Hotel. Peter Christie presided.

The report of the secretary-treasurer indicated that during the year 562 pedigrees had been recorded, being 226 more than in 1900. There were more exhibits and more exhibitors of Clydesdales at the various horse shows and fairs held during the year than on any former occasion. The total receipts amounted to $1,365.99, and after all expenses had been met a balance of $887.96 cash remained on hand.

The following officers were elected: President, Col. D. McCrae, Guelph; first vice-president, James Dalyetty, London; vice-president for Ontario, O. Sorby, Guelph; vice-president for Quebec, Robert Ness, Howick, Que.; vice-president for Manitoba, J. E. Smith, Brandon, Man.; vice-president for the Northwest Territories, John A. Turner, Mitharville, Alberta, and A. Munch, Lumsden, Assa.; directors, Thomas Graham, Clement; Robert Reith, M.P., Bowmanville; Peter Christie, Manchester; John Bright, Myrtle; James Vipond, Brooklyn;

A Fastidious Dog.

"Yes," said the manager of the defunct "Uncle Tom's Cabin" company, "it was our dog that broke up the show."

"The dog, eh? What was the matter with him?"

"Too fastidious. You never saw such a hound in your life. You know the play, of course. We tie a piece of meat in the folds of Eliza's frock, and that's what draws the dogs after her when she runs across the blocks of ice. Well, what do you thing this dog demanded?"

"Can't imagine."

"Porterhouse beefsteak, sir, and with the tenderloin left in! Yes, sir. How's that? And you couldn't fool him. He wouldn't chase Eliza a foot unless the meat was a choice cut. No, sir. And, by gum, sir, our company had to live on liver and bacon so that blamed dog could have his steak. Yes, sir."

"The demand was too much for you, was it?"

"No, it wasn't. That is, it wasn't until he began to insist upon mushrooms with his steak. Then we just threw up our hands and quit."

SALISBURY IS FIRM

A Little Flippant in His Discussion of the Dutch Note.

COULDN'T SEE THEIR OBJECT

"No Longer Any Question of Sentiment But a Matter of Business That We Must Push Through," Said Great Britain's Aged Premier—Ireland a Vital Point of Empire.

London, Feb. 6.—Lord Salisbury unveiled a life-size marble statue of the late Queen Victoria at the Junior Constitutional Club last night. Speaking at a dinner after the unveiling, the Premier referred to the recent Dutch note in a tone, for him, of unusual flippancy. The speaker said he was unable to imagine the object of the Dutch Government, for whose friendly feelings he had the greatest admiration, but he could not see the precise object they hoped to gain by this move.

The Premier explained that his only reason for alluding to such things was that a time was coming when the people must think more of the suggestions of their intelligence, and less of the suggestions of their emotions.

"There is no longer any question of sentiment," continued Lord Salisbury. "We have entered upon a matter of business which we must push through. What we are now seeking is security. Any peace which recognises fully the rights of the sovereign, and gives us security for the empire, we should accept, not only with willingness, but with delight.

"It is useless to tell us to behave so as to leave a pleasant recollection in the minds of those with whom we are fighting.

"The only result that can compensate for the sacrifice of blood and treasure is that, for the future, there shall be security in that part of the empire upon which the ambition of Mr. Kruger has poured this abundance of sorrow and desolation."

"The maintenance of our position in Ireland is the most vital object the empire has, and it can only be attained by strenuous exertions," said the Premier.

The Premier asked if the Irish people loved the Government better than they did formerly, and replied himself that they did not. He said the feelings of hostility which had been expressed were more uncompromising than any expressions which had ever issued from the lips of Parnell or O'Connell. An Irish Government with power to accumulate arms and ammunition, would constitute a more serious threat than had the Boers.

AYRSHIRE BREEDERS.

Pass a Resolution in Favor of Exhibiting at St. Louis.

Toronto, Feb. 6.—There was a large and representative gathering at the Canadian Ayrshire Breeders' Association, held here yesterday. President W. F. Stephen of Trout River presided. The annual report showed that during the year 1,476 pedigrees were recorded, and as this is four less than the previous year it is evident that the owners are not recording all their stock. The membership now numbers 226, an increase of 36 over the previous year.

The failure of the Dominion Cattle Breeders' Association to pay the $250 promised to the Ayrshire Association was brought up and discussed.

Volume xi. of the Herd Book is under way, and when completed will contain 1,282 pedigrees. The exhibits of Ayrshires at the different fairs, including the Pan-American and the Industrial, were the best on record, and the Canadian bred Ayrshires exhibited at Buffalo carried off the honors.

A resolution was passed favoring a large exhibit at the St. Louis Exhibition providing the Dominion and Provincial Governments provide the same transportation facilities that existed during the Pan-American.

The total receipts from all sources amounted to $2,310.92, the expenditures were $1,940.41, leaving a balance of $780.51 on hand.

The following directors were elected for a period of two years, which, with those elected last year, will constitute the Board of Directors for 1902: Alfred Kains, Byron; William Stewart, jr., Menie; W. W. Ballantyne, Stratford; J. C. Smith, Hintonburg; F. W. Hodson, Ottawa, and J. G. Clark, Ottawa.

Carriage and Saddle Horses.

Toronto, Feb. 6.—The annual meeting of the Canadian Carriage and Saddle Horse Society was held last evening at the Albion Hotel.

The annual report showed the financial condition of the society to be in a satisfactory condition. The constitution was amended changing the name of the society to the Harness, Hunter and Saddle Horse Society of Canada. The following officers were elected: President, W. Harland Smith; first vice-president, O. B. Sheppard; second vice-president, Thomas Crow; directors, W. C. Brown of Meadowdale, T. H. McCartney of Thamesford, William Hendrie, jr., of Hamilton, Adam Beck of London, S. B. Fuller of Woodstock, and James Murray, Dr. Andrew Smith, E. W. Cox, George Pepper and W. T. Merry of Toronto; secretary-treasurer, Henry Wade.

McGiverrin Acquitted.

Galt, Feb. 6.—Thos. McGiverin is a free man, so far as the charge of stealing $1,000 from the Methodist Church, Galt, is concerned. Committed here a week ago, he was tried in Berlin yesterday before Judge Chisholm. The case resolved itself into a point of law, purely technical at that, and he was acquitted. The indictment against McGiverin was based on clause 305 of the common code, while the section that could apply to him was 360, designed for trustees, factors, agents, etc.

Present System Favored.

Ottawa, Feb. 6.—Messrs. W. G. Parmalee and Dan J. Broderick returned yesterday from Brockville, where sittings were held Tuesday to enquire into complaints touching the system of weighing cheese and butter at Montreal. Twenty-one witnesses were examined, all of whom favored the existing system.

NO BRITISH KILLED

KITCHENER'S PLEASING REPORT

Dewet's Last Gun Taken—Byng Routs Wessels and Captures Three Field Pieces—Field Cornet Wessels and Captain Muller Among the Prisoners—Ammunition, Horses and Mules Also Captured.

London, Feb. 6.—Lord Kitchener has sent the following message from Pretoria: Major Leader's force surprised Delarrie' commando, killing seven and capturing 131. The British casualties were slight. No British were killed.

TOOK DEWET'S LAST GUN.

British Have Been Making Havoc in the Boer Ranks.

London, Feb. 6.—The British pursuit of General Dewet has been successful to the extent that his last gun has been captured and Commandant Wessels, one of his principal lieutenants, has been routed. Lord Kitchener sent the news in a despatch from Pretoria, dated Tuesday, Feb. 4, as follows:

"Byng's column, while proceeding towards Liebenburgvlei, after a night march, attacked and routed a considerable force of the enemy under Commandant Wessels. We captured a fifteen-pounder and a pom-pom taken from Firman's column, and also a Boer pom-pom that was the last gun Dewet had, and three wagons of ammunition, 150 horses and 100 mules. The Boer casualties were five men killed, six wounded and 27 men captured.

"Among the killed was Field Cornet Wessels. Among the prisoners is Captain Muller of the Staats Artillery. The enemy was scattered. Our casualties were slight.

"The National Scouts, near Middelburg, Cape Colony, captured thirteen prisoners."

"Plumer, near Amersfoort (Transvaal), captured seven prisoners and 500 head of cattle.

"General Gilbert Hamilton captured 32 prisoners."

India to Contribute.

Calcutta, Feb. 6.—The Government of India is likely to have a considerable surplus this year, so the proposal to contribute to the cost of the South African war is considered eminently practicable.

The transport Armenian sailed yesterday for South Africa with the 2nd Battalion Royal Enniskilling Fusiliers and 150 men of the 2nd Battalion Oxfordshire Light Infantry.

The 5th Dragoons and the 9th Lancers are now expected in India from South Africa in April. The depot of the 20th Hussars will proceed to England.

WAS AT PAARDEBERG.

Chester McLaren of London Passed Away Tuesday Night.

London, Feb. 6.—Chester D. McLaren, son of Mr. James W. McLaren, died at 11 o'clock Tuesday night, after an illness of several months. Deceased was one of the first to volunteer for this city for South Africa, and was wounded in the memorable fight with Cronje's command at Paardeberg. His injury was not attended to for several days, and he suffered in consequence. He subsequently contracted enteric fever, and several months ago he was detained at Wynburg and other hospitals. On his return he worked for the London Electric Co. He was 22.

Kincardine Man Ill.

Ottawa, Feb. 6.—A cablegram from the Colonial Office to His Excellency the Governor-General reports that Wilbert Edgar Hodgkinson, of C Division, South African Constabulary, is dangerously ill of enteric fever at Heidelberg. The Militia Department has informed J. B. Hodgkinson of Kincardine, Ont., of his brother's illness.

COLONIAL CONFERENCE.

Subjects to Be Discussed by the Premiers in London.

Melbourne, Feb. 6.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the Canadian Premier, has written to the Right Hon. E. Barton, Prime Minister of the Commonwealth of Australia, suggesting the discussion of the following four subjects at the Colonial Conference, to be held in London next June: Trade relations between Canada and Australia, a fast mail service and a better steamer service between Australia and Vancouver; the establishment of a line of steamers from Australia to a Canadian Atlantic port, via South Africa, and the effect of the Pacific cable project on the concessions granted to the Eastern Extension Telegraph Company by the Australian states. Premier Barton says he will be delighted to discuss these subjects with Sir Wilfrid Laurier, but that the Federal Government will not delay the settlement of the question until after the Colonial Conference.

'Tis All Over Now.

Pittsburg, Feb. 6.—The remains of Edward and John Biddle were interred in a single grave at Calvary Cemetery yesterday morning. There were not more than 25 persons present. At the cemetery Rev. Father Sweeney read the burial service of the Roman Catholic church.

COMPARED WITH EUROPE.

(From the Edmonton Bulletin.)

The northern latitude of the Canadian Northwest as compared with the settled districts and centres of population of Eastern Canada and the United States has always been considered the greatest drawback to its settlement. The people of the eastern provinces and states judge of the effects of latitude upon climate by their own conditions. The Lake Erie counties of Ontario are in latitude 42. They have a hot summer. But ice closes navigation on the lake for from three to four months in winter. Montreal and Ottawa are in latitude 45, and the rivers there are closed with ice at least a month longer than Lake Erie, snow falls far deeper and the cold of winter is much more severe. Quebec City is just below latitude 47. But the summer is short and the winter much longer and more severe than at Montreal. Latitude 49 is considered to be almost Arctic. Reasoning from these conditions which are always before their eyes it is small wonder that the Canadian West of which the 49th parallel is the southern boundary should be looked upon by Eastern people as next door to the Arctic, or that they should shudder when it is spoken of.

But latitude is only one of the conditions which determine climate. Altitude is quite as important as latitude and ocean currents as important as either. The rigorous climate of Eastern Canada is not because of its northerly latitude. For its latitude is that of central and southern Europe. It is because of the icy current setting southward along its shores from the Arctic ocean. This current carries the Arctic cold far south of its natural latitude, and affects the climate of all the region reached by the winds which blow across it. It is directly and unquestionably because of this current that the spring is later and the summer cooler in the Maritime than in the interior provinces of Eastern Canada. The Northwest is so far inland that it escapes the influence of this Arctic current and consequently spring is much earlier in all parts of the Northwest than in any but the most southerly districts of Eastern Canada, although both altitude and latitude are against it.

The effect of a warm current from the tropics is as marked on the western coast of Europe as that of the cold current from the Arctic is on the eastern coast of North America. It is universally conceded that there is such a current carrying the warmth of the waters of the Gulf of Mexico, northeasterly across the Atlantic to the British Islands and all the northwestern coasts of Europe. As the result of that current—or in any case what are cold latitudes in Eastern Canada are warm latitudes in Europe. The cities of Rome, Madrid and Constantinople, capitals of three of the most southerly European countries, are in the latitude of Lake Erie counties of Ontario. All are south of the seat of present day European production and civilization and wealth and power. The capitals which dictate the commercial, industrial, financial and political policy of the world are London, Berlin, Paris and St. Petersburg. Paris is almost in latitude 49. London in 51, Berlin in 52 and St. Petersburg in 60, within or far north of the latitudes of the prematly developed portions of the Canadian Northwest. With the seat of the world's empire in Europe in the same latitudes, whatever the drawbacks of the Northwest latitude cannot be one of them.

To be still more definite. The 49th parallel passes close to Paris and Vienna, and is not more than a degree north of Buda-Pesth. North of its lies a considerable part of France, nearly the whole of the German Empire, the greater part of the Austrian provinces of Bohemia, Moravia, and Galicia, four-fifths of Russia, and the whole of England, Scotland, Ireland, Belgium, Holland, Denmark, Norway and Sweden. Much more than half the area, and a still greater proportion of the population and wealth producing power of the continent.

The Saskatchewan Valley lies between latitudes 52 and 54. Between the same latitudes in Europe lie the central and southern part of Ireland, the centre of England, all Holland, all North Germany, the former Kingdom of Poland and the heart of Russia.

North of 54 lies Ulster in Ireland, the North of England, all Scotland, all Denmark, fully half of Russia and all Sweden and Norway.

Emerson and Gretna, Manitoba, and Cardston, Alberta, are in the latitude of Paris and Vienna; Winnipeg is a degree south of London and Brussels; Calgary is in the latitude of Berlin. Edmonton is in that of Dublin, Liverpool and Hamburg. Edinburg, Scotland, and Copenhagen, the capital of Denmark, are in 56, the latitude of the Peace River.

Three-fourths of Norway and Sweden, all of Finland and a third of Russia, are north of 60, the latitude of the Mackenzie River and the Upper Yukon.

THE CHINOOK and ITS EFFECTS.

The same forces which produce a flow of the warm waters of the tropics northeasterly across the Atlantic exist and produce like results in the Pacific. The coast of British Columbia receives the advantage of this flow of warm tropical water just as do the British Islands, in the same latitude. There is this difference, however, that while the Atlantic current is split up by the British Isles, and loses itself in the Arctic, the Pacific current is dammed back by the easterly projection of the peninsula of Alaska. The warmth of the current is thus retained and stored up, as it were, on the West coast of North America, while the like warmth goes to waste on the west coast of Europe. As a consequence the coast of northern British Columbia and southern Alaska, is even warmer than the same latitudes in northern Europe. The proof of this fact is that the harbour of Skagway in latitude 60 is as open and accessible in winter as in summer, while the ports in the same latitudes in Norway, Sweden and Russia are either altogether closed or difficult and dangerous of access in winter.

For the reasons given the waters of the northeastern Pacific ocean are warmer up to latitude 60 than the waters of the northeastern Atlantic up to the same latitude. There is a larger body of warm water in the north Pacific than in the north Atlantic, therefore the winds blowing over that larger area of warmer water must and do affect the climate of the adjacent regions of British Columbia and Northwest Territories for greater distances inland than will or can the winds off the North Atlantic affect Northern Europe. The disadvantage of our situation is that the mountain ranges of British Columbia intervene between the plains of the Northwest and the coast, and our altitude is greater than that of the agricultural regions of northern Europe. Were it not so, our climate would be warmer all the year round than theirs. As it is it is considerably warmer in summer, but is somewhat colder in winter. All the principal products of central and northern Europe flourish in the Canadian Northwest up to latitude 60, and most of them come to greater perfection here than there.

The mountainous region of British Columbia is about 400 miles in width. The Rocky range which is the most easterly of the British Columbia ranges forms the western boundary of the Territories and lies in the same northwesterly direction as the British Columbia coast. To some extent these mountain ranges hinder the warm winds of the Pacific in reaching the plains of the Northwest. But where breaks occur in the mountains these give a direction to the winds and on the plains the climate is modified in proportion as the locality is within the range of these warm currents. While the summer is of much the same temperature all the way from the 49th to the 60th parallel, the winter is shortened and its cold modified in proportion as the locality is nearer to or further from the mountains and as it is more or less directly in the path of the winds blowing through the passes. These west winds and the altitude have much more to do with determining the comparative climate of the different sections of the Northwest than the latitude.

The nearer to the mountains the warmer the winds. The further away the cooler. Consequently the western part of the Territories enjoys a much milder winter climate than the eastern. The west wind is called the chinook, and the region of the Territories chiefly affected by it is called the chinook belt. This is the region extending from two to four hundred miles east of the Rockies. In the southern part of this region the nature of the climate admits of cattle grazing on the prairie all winter. This is the ranching country of Canada. There is seldom snow enough for sleighing, and although the weather sometimes becomes very cold, the periods are not long and as the ground is generally bare of snow cattle can live and do well, without hay or shelter. Far north of the Saskatchewan valley in the Peace river region these winds are very strongly felt and there both the winter and summer climate is said to be at least as warm as on the Saskatchewan. The only remnant of the bison or buffalo of North America now running wild, is found in the country north of the Peace river about latitude 60. The range of these buffalo is not less than 300 miles east of the Rockies. Their existence is absolute proof as to the comparative mildness of the climate and the character of the pasturage. If further proof were needed it is supplied by the existence of the prosperous agricultural settlement at Fort Vermilion on the lower Peace river in latitude 58 1-2, 350 miles further north than Edmonton and fully 300 miles east of the mountains. Farming has been carried on in this settlement for the past fifteen years, and the same crops are produced as successfully as on the Saskatchewan, while the winter is said to be neither longer nor more severe. But still further north than Vermilion at Fort Providence, on the Mackenzie river in latitude 61 1-2, 550 miles further north than Edmonton, wheat barley, potatoes and the ordinary produce of the garden are reared successfully every year. So far from the Saskatchewan valley being at or near the northern limit of profitable agriculture in Canada, so far as the western portion—that part lying in the chinook belt is concerned—it is amply proven that agriculture can be carried on at least as much farther north as the international boundary is south.

No Argument Needed

Every Sufferer From Catarrh Knows That Salves, Lotions, Washes, Sprays and Douches do not Cure.

Powders, lotions, salves, sprays and inhalers cannot really cure Catarrh, because this disease is a blood disease, and local applications, if they accomplish anything, at all, simply give transient relief.

The catarrhal poison is in the blood and the mucous membrane of the nose, throat and trachea tries to relieve the system by secreting large quantities of mucous, the discharge sometimes closing up the nostrils, dropping into the throat, causing deafness by closing the Eustachian tubes, and after a time causing catarrh of stomach or serious throat and lung troubles.

A remedy to really cure catarrh must be an internal remedy which will cleanse the blood from catarrhal poison and remove the fever and congestion from the mucous membrane.

The best and most modern remedies for this purpose are antiseptics scientifically known as Eucalyptol, Guaiacol, Sanguinaria and Hydrastin, and while each of these have been successfully used separately, yet it has been difficult to get them all combined in one palatable, convenient and efficient form.

The manufacturers of the new catarrh cure, Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, have succeeded admirably in accomplishing this result. They are large, pleasant tasting lozenges, to be dissolved in the mouth, thus reaching every part of the mucous membrane of the throat and finally the stomach.

Unlike many catarrh remedies, Stuart's Catarrh Tablets contain no cocaine, opiate or any injurious drug whatever and are equally beneficial for little children and adults.

Mr. C. R. Rembrandt, of Rochester, N. Y., says: "I know of few people who have suffered as much as I from Catarrh of the head, throat and stomach. I used sprays, inhalers and powders for months at a time with only slight relief, and had no hope of cure. I had not the means to make a change of climate, which seemed my only chance of cure.

"Last spring I read an account of some remarkable cures made by Stuart's Catarrh Tablets and promptly bought a fifty cent box from my druggist and obtained such positive benefit from that one package that I continued to use them daily until I now consider myself entirely free from the disgusting annoyance of catarrh; my head is clear, my digestion all I could ask and my hearing, which had begun to fail as a result of the catarrh, has greatly improved until I feel I can hear as well as ever. They are a household necessity in my family."

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets are sold by druggists at 50 cents for complete treatment and for convenience, safety and prompt results they are undoubtedly the long looked for catarrh cure.

TERRITORIAL CROP ESTIMATE BULLETIN.

Owing to the prolonged threshing operations in the Territories, caused by the bountiful crop of the past season, complete threshing returns will not be available in the Territorial department of agriculture until the latter part of the winter, which will materially delay the issue of the annual crop bulletin. It has, therefore, been decided to publish the following estimate for the season of 1901, which has been compiled on a basis of several thousand returns of actual threshing results from all over the Territories now at hand in the Department.

The yield per acre may be considered as correct within a fraction. A final report of the season's crop, based on complete actual threshing returns will be issued in March or April next, but in the meanwhile the following estimate will serve as a fair indication of what may be expected to those who for business reasons are interested in the question:

UNEQUALLED IN THE WORLD.

Diamond Dyes Tested for Over Twenty Years are the Popular Home Dyes—Scientific Chemists say They are the Purest, Strongest, Fastest and Most Brilliant.

Diamond Dyes have no equals in the world; they are the only package dyes that can be used with safety and success. The imitation and crude dyes sold by some dealers for the sake of a little extra profit, are a source of danger to home dyers. These common dyes sold at the same price as the Diamond, are dear at any price as they ruin fabrics and garments. It is therefore wise to examine each package you buy. If the name "Diamond" is not on the package, they are deceptions and frauds. Diamond Dyes are fully warranted by the manufacturers; they guarantee success at all times.

Discussion on Mr. Pettypiece's Proposal For An Increase.

THE BILL WAS WITHDRAWN.

Premier Pointed Out That House Would Be Better Able to Deal With the Matter When the Report of the Assessment Commission Had Been Brought Down—An Opposition Amendment.

Toronto, Feb. 5.—In the Legislative Assembly to-day bills were introduced by Mr. Lumsden respecting the Carnegie Library at Ottawa. Mr. Pettypiece to amend the Assessment Act and Mr. Dryden to amend the Agricultural and Arts Act.

When the order of questions by members came up, Hon. G. W. Ross stated that many of the questions asked entailed considerable labor and investigation, and could not be answered offhand, and it would be better to put them in the form of motions for returns.

Hon. E. J. Davis in reply to Mr. Carnegie, said that under licenses issued since 1892 only pine timber could be cut in Algonquin Park. Earlier licenses included other woods.

Hon. G. W. Ross, replying to Mr. Little, stated that the question of road improvement under the act passed last year, had been before a number of County Councils, but no applications for government aid under that act had so far been made.

Returns Granted.

Mr. Barr moved for a return showing the number of indigent and insane confined in the different jails of the province.

Hon. Mr. Stratton stated that the return would be brought down. He pointed out that the number of such persons confined in jail had greatly decreased since a large number of the counties had provided Houses of Refuge at a total cost of $350,000. He thought it probable that before long legislation might be introduced making it compulsory for counties to provide proper accommodation for these classes of unfortunates.

Mr McLaughlin moved for a return of correspondence as to license commissioners in the County of Stormont and Cornwall. He contended that only one license inspector for the county and town was necessary.

Hon J. R. Stratton said that the second inspector was appointed at a time when extensive public works were going on which rendered additional vigilence necessary. The question of uniting the two license districts was under consideration and probably some action would be taken.

Mr Little secured a return of correspondence with the Department of Agriculture respecting the evil effects of the barberry shrub on the growth of grain. He quoted several authorities to show the injury to agriculture caused by the barberry.

Assessment of Corporations.

Mr. Pettypiece moved the second reading of his bill to amend the Assessment Act. He complained that the present law resulted in the large property holders and corporations escaping their fair share of taxation. The railways, telegraph and telephone companies had been specially favored. He quoted figures to prove that the railways of Ontario being assessed only on $14,700,000 paid only taxes amounting to $800,000, or three-fifths of a mill on their total capital of $500,000,000. The farmers whose capital was about $100,000,000, were assessed for $450,000,000, and paid taxes amounting to $4,600,000 or 4.06 mills on the dollar of their capital In other words the farmers were taxed 7 times as heavily as the railroad companies. The bill provided for a Provincial Board of Assessment to fix the assessment of railroad and other corporations. The system would result in an immense saving to the people. He quoted the example of the States of Michigan, Indiana, Connecticut and New Hampshire. Ohio and other American states where the system of fixing the taxation of railways by a central body was in vogue and had operated in a very satisfactory way. If the Indiana law were in operation here it would give a revenue of $3,600,000, while the Connecticut law would yield $5,000,000. The Grand Trunk railway, which was taxed at only $50 a mile in Ontario, was taxed for $590 on its mileage in Indiana. Numerous other illustrations to the same effect were given, showing that the railways were exceedingly lightly taxed in Ontario as compared with the United States. The farmers of the province were being discriminated against by the companies which they had aided so liberally. The rate on cattle from Chicago to Montreal was only 25 cents per hundredweight, while the rate from Bruce and Huron counties to Montreal was 35 cents. It would not be unreasonable to assess the railroads at 30 per cent. on their capital. The telephone and telegraph wires of Ontario if assessed on the Indiana plan would yield $81,800. He concluded that under the mode of assessment embodied in his bill there would, after deducting the expenses of the board, a total sum of $2,023,000 from railways, telegraph and telephone companies to distribute among the municipalities. Its adoption would effectually dispose of the scrap iron assessment difficulty. The money realized from the taxation of these corporations should be distributed among the municipalities in proportion to population, 15 per cent. going to the province to replace the present taxes they levied on them.

Hon. G. W. Ross congratulated Mr. Pettypiece on the thought and research he had devoted to the subject. There was no doubt that the proposal followed in the trend of modern American legislation. He urged that there was a widespread difference in conditions between the time when a country was new and was being developed and railways were aided on the ground of public benefit, and the more settled state of things reached in the United States. He thought the principle of considering such enterprises each as a whole, as a going concern, was a sound one, and this being admitted the country would be face to face with the problem of appointing a central board to regulate the assessment. If a railway commission were appointed by the Dominion which would guard against undue charges and discrimination the way would then be more clear for the creation of such a board as was proposed. When the report of the Assessment Commission came down the House would be in a better position to deal with the subject as he understood that they would recommend the appointment of a provincial board of assessors. He could not, however, hold out any hopes that it would be possible to consider it this session. In the meantime he thought the bill should be allowed to stand.

Mr. Carscallen thought action in the matter had been too long postponed. It must be admitted that corporations had not paid their fair share of taxation. If there were a proper basis of assessment and efficient assessors the bill would not be necessary.

Mr. Foy objected to the bill as introducing two systems of machinery for assessment. The adoption of this method would prevent municipalities from striking the rate of assessment on other property as they would not know how much they were going to receive in taxes from the corporations. Moreover, there was no provision in the bill for appeals from the board.

Mr. Pettypiece explained that he had been given to understand that the bill was out of order as a measure dealing with taxation could not be introduced by a private member and a clause in his bill abolished the existing taxes levied on corporations. He therefore withdrew the bill.

Mr. Joynt moved the second reading of a bill to amend the act respecting Assignments and Preferences by Insolvent Persons, which enabled creditors to be appointed inspectors.

Hon. J. M. Gibson said that the present act was satisfactory and he had not heard of any demand from the mercantile community for a change.

After some further discussion the bill was withdrawn.

Mr. Hill's bill to amend the Public Health Act and Mr. Barr's bill to amend the Municipal Act were read a second time.

Mr. Whitney enquired when the Prohibition Bill would be brought down.

Hon. G. W. Ross said that it would be presented early next week.

After Recess.

A number of private bills were reported from committee and about a dozen received a second reading.

Mr. Auld resumed the debate on the budget. The farmers, he said, were never as prosperous as at the present time. Everywhere the question of good roads was receiving attention. All the labor legislation on the statute book, with the exception of the Labor Day measure, was the work of the Liberal party. Dealing with the school book question he claimed that the Ontario text book were both better and cheaper than those with which they had been compared. He praised the cold storage policy of the Government and the regulations requiring the manufacture of sawlogs and other raw material at home. In several places companies were being organized for the manufacture of beet sugar. He replied to a number of the attacks of Opposition speakers and contended that the high standard of agriculture was largely due to the fostering care of the Government and their liberal expenditure in agricultural education. Going over the principal items of expenditure he asked which of these expenditures the Opposition proposed to cut down?

Mr. Miscampbell said that if the policy of the Opposition as to education were adopted it would remove that question from party politics. They proposed to have a consultative board picked from the different educational institutions. The University should not be the objective point of public school education. He charged the Government with having won the last election by means beneath the contempt of any honorable man. He dealt at some length with the timber policy of the Government, claiming that the Conservatives were entitled to the credit for the manufacturing provision in timber licenses and denounced the pulp wood concessions. The cutting of small timber ought not to be allowed and where a limit unfit for agriculture had been cut over it ought to be withdrawn from settlement and reforested. The Conservative party was the party of progress and the Liberals on attaining power were glad to adopt their cast-off clothes.

An Opposition Amendment.

Mr. Miscampbell, after speaking of the education question and the forestry question moved in amendment to the adoption of the budget:

"That all after the word "that" be struck out, and the following substituted:

"That in all future agreements made between the commissioners of the Queen Victoria Niagara Falls Park and any other person or persons power shall be reserved to the Provincial Government to at any time put a stop to the transmission of electricity or pneumatic power beyond the Canadian boundary," and that in the opinion of this House the waters of the Niagara River and its tributaries, as well as the waters of other streams necessary, should at the earliest moment, subjecting to existing agreements, be utilized directly by the Provincial Government in order that the latter may generate and develop electric or pneumatic power for the purpose of light, heat and power and furnish the same to municipalities in this province at cost."

On motion of Mr. Taylor, the House then adjourned.

ASSEMBLY NOTES.

Several deputations were received by the Government yesterday. Most of them pleaded for boons of a semi-public nature.

The Railway Committee yesterday heard many and serious complaints against the Toronto and Hamilton Railway Company's incorporation. The powers asked for were exceptionally large. The matter will be further investigated to-day.

The report of the Bureau of Forestry which was presented to the House, says that the proportion of wooded to cleared land in older Ontario is decreasing.

Several Minnesota farm delegates have been visiting the Rainy River district in search of land for 25 families, who wish to settle in Ontario. It is said that they have found satisfactory locations.

ELEVEN LOST THEIR LIVES.

Explosion of Illuminating Gas Kills All the Members of a Family.

Chicago, Feb. 6.—By an explosion of illuminating gas in the basement of a two-story frame building at 376 22nd street, yesterday morning a number of people, the total said to be 11, lost their lives and the building was blown into kindling wood. By 8.15 p.m. five bodies had been recovered from the ruins. They were all of one family. Not a memeber of the family escaped.

The bodies recovered are those of Otto Trostle, proprietor of the meat market at 276 22nd street; Mrs. Otto Trostle, Otto Trostle, jr., Minnie Trostle, Annie Trostle.

Persons who claim to know assert that there were at least six more people in the Trostle meat market when the explosion occurred.

Two other explosions of gas followed so quickly that it was hard to distinguish them.

The direct cause of the explosion is not known, but all indications show that it was due to escaping gas in the basement of the Trostle house.

Old Folks' Backache.

When people get past the meridian of life they are liable to be troubled more or less with kidney complaint.

Pains and aches, stiffness and soreness of the back, difficulty in urination and frequent rising at night are some of the troubles that seriously afflict the old.

There is no remedy brings such relief and comfort to those advanced in life as Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets. They soothe all irritation, tone up and invigorate the urinary organs, clear away all sediment, take the ache and pain out of the back and permit undisturbed rest at night.

SPRIGHTLY AT 69.

Mrs. Geo. Boutin, Harrington Street, Arnprior, Ont., says: "I have had so much benefit from using Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets that I do not hesitate to recommend them. Since I used them I am free from that constant backache that quite unnerved me and robbed me of all energy. My kidneys have been so invigorated that there now remains no annoyance or inconvenience from the secretions. I wish you could see my father. He is sixty-nine years of age and before using Pitcher's Kidney Tablets suffered acutely from rheumatism in his back. Now he is sprightly and nimble as a young man. He says never anything before did him as much good as Pitcher's Tablets. I am confident that those who have failed heretofore to obtain any relief from bad backs and sluggish kidneys will find themselves well rewarded by using Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets."

Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets are 50c. a Box, at all druggists or by mail, THE DR. ZINA PITCHER CO., Toronto, Ont.

FATHER O'SULLIVAN CANED

By Local Members of the C. O. F.

He was Presented With an Address—The Members Tell of His Interest in the Order.

At a special meeting of the Catholic Order of Foresters, which was held last night, Rev. Father Joseph O'Sullivan, who has laboured long in the interests of the Order in Peterborough, and who is a Past Chaplain of the lodge, was presented with an address and a cane as slight token of the esteem in which he is held by the members of the Order in Peterborough.

Rev. Father O'Sullivan has been appointed Parish Priest at Victoria Road, and will leave at once to assume his new duties.

There was a good attendance of members at the special meeting last night and a number of short speeches were made by the members, all of whom expressed their regret that Rev. Father O'Sullivan was about to leave them.

The address was read by Mr. Joseph Maher, and was as follows:

Rev. J. F. O'Sullivan

Rev. and Dear Sir,—It was with feelings of deep regret that we, the members of St. Peter's Court, learned that we were about to lose our much revered Chaplain, through your departure from Peterborough. But we cannot allow you to leave without giving you some expression of the deep sense of regret we feel at our loss. And our appreciation and gratitude for the great interest you have taken in the affairs of the Court.

On all occasions you have been most anxious for our welfare, you have always encouraged and exhorted us to the faithful practice of our religious duties, and what is better still, your daily life has been a model of those Christian virtues you have inculcated by your earnest teachings.

We earnestly pray that you may be long spared to perform your priestly office. In conclusion, Rev. and Dear Father, we ask you to accept this cane as a slight token of the esteem in which you are held by the members of St. Peter's Court.

Signed on behalf of St. Peter's Court,

JOSEPH MAHAR,
JAMES CLANCY.
JAS. P. BRYSON.

Mr. James Clancy then presented Rev. Father O'Sullivan with a handsome gold-headed cane.

Rev. Father O'Sullivan replied, thanking the members for the present and for the kind references towards him as contained in the address. His relations with them had been pleasant at all times, and he would ever look back with pleasant recollections to the time he spent amongst them.

Rev. Father McColl, Rev. Dr. O'Brien, Rev. Father John O'Brien, and Rev. Father Collins, of Bracebridge, and the Deputy High Chief Ranger, Bros. Begue, O'Brien and Joseph Maher, spoke expressing their appreciation of the services and personal popularity of Rev. Father O'Sullivan.

Rev. Father Collins was at one time a chaplain of the local lodge, and his remarks were particularly interesting as he told of the difficulties that were experienced in starting the lodge, but he was pleased to see it in so flourishing a condition at the present time.

ST. JOHN'S HIGH TEA

Was Held Last Night and was a Grand Success—The Programme.

The High Tea and entertainment in connection with St. John's church, which took place last night passed off most successfully. The affair was managed by Miss Errett, president of the Woman's Auxiliary; Mrs. Hammond, Mrs. Manning and others.

The tea was served in the basement of the Sunday School from 5 30 o'clock, and was very well patronized. The room was neatly decorated and the tables arranged in an attractive manner.

A short entertainment followed in the Sunday School room above.

Amongst those who took part were Mr. Joe Halpany, Miss McCollum, The Misses English and Little Miss Pringle, a pupil of Miss McCollum's.

Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Langfeldt, of St. Luke's, were amongst those who were in attendance. The proceeds of the affair will be applied to the Mission work of the Auxiliary

MR. HILL WAS RE-ELECTED

Chairman of the Board of Education.

A Ten Minute's Session was Held Last Night—Standing Committees for the Year.

The inaugural meeting of the Board of Education was held last night. The following members being in attendance:—Messrs. Jas. Stevenson, Dr. Caldwell, W. B. Bamford, J. J. Hartley, Dr. Burnham, W. H. Wrighton, Peter Hamilton, V. Eastwood, W. H. Hill and J. J. McBain.

The secretary of the Board, Mr. W. G. Morrow, announced that all the members present had taken the declaration of office and it was the duty of the Board to proceed with the election of a chairman.

Upon the first ballot Mr. W. H. Hill was re-elected chairman for for the ensuing year amid much applause.

Mr. Hill very heartily thanked the members for the honour they had done him in re-electing him chairman for the ensuing year. There was no position which he held that he considered more of an honour than chairman of the Board of Education. The duties of any Board of Education were very important inasmuch as the education of the young people depend upon their management to a great extent at least. He expressed the opinion that every care should be exercised in the selection of teachers, and in conclusion he thanked them for the support they had given him in the past.

The chairman then asked that the Board proceed with the appointing of Standing Committees.

Mr. Hamilton moved, seconded by Mr. Stevenson, that the old Committees be re-appointed, and that the name of F. J. Jameson be substituted for that of Henry Denne.

Mr. Eastwood wanted to see the Committees struck again, but his motion to this effect did not carry.

The Committees for the year are therefore:

Finance—W. B. Bamford, chairman; Messrs. Hayes, McBain, Fair, Wrighton and Hartley.

Supervision—J. J. McBain, chairman; Messrs. Burnham, Ferguson, Hamilton and Jameson.

Property—R. Fair, chairman; Messrs. Eastwood, Langford, Wrighton, Stevenson and Caldwell.

Committee on Appointments — W. G. Ferguson, chairman; The whole Board.

Visiting Committees—First term—Mr. Wrighton, convenor, and Messrs. Langford, Stevenson and Bamford. Second term—Mr. Eastwood, convenor, and Messrs. Hartley, Ferguson, McBain and Fair. Third term—Mr. Hill, convenor, and Messrs. Hayes, Jameson and Burnham.

CAPT. CAMPBELL HERE.

A Young Canadian, an Officer in the Imperial Service—His Experiences.

Captain Donald Campbell, D.S.O., of the 3rd Batt. Lancashire Fusiliers, was in town yesterday for a few hours, the guest of his old friend, Mr. C. H. Bradburn. Mr. Campbell is a nephew of Mr. Barlow Cumberland, but his old home is in Simcoe. He is one of the number of young Canadians who have been given commissions in the Imperial Service, and who have acquitted themselves with credit to their country. He is now on furlough after seeing considerable active service in South Africa. Capt. Campbell was with General Buller at Colenso, and was at Spion Kop on the day of the deadly conflict between the Boers and the British. He was badly wounded on this occasion. Captain Campbell has had the distinguished honour of being made a member of the Distinguished Service Order, a title that not many are given. He can relate many exciting incidents in connection with the recent war.

ST. ANDREW'S MEETING.

The Church Congregation Assembled Again Last Evening.

The adjourned annual meeting of of St. Andrew's church was held last night. After devotional exercises the business of the former meeting was resumed.

By a hearty and most unanimous vote it was agreed to retain the present system of voluntary offering instead of reverting to the pew rent system, and with marked enthusiasm a large number of those present signified their readiness to co-operate by increasing weekly and annual contributions.

It was also decided with regard to the Mission funds of the church that all members and adherents be exhorted to contribute, and that the moderator name a committee whose special duty it will be to promote liberality to the Missionary purposes of the church.

The following motion was then passed:

Realizing our great dependance upon God for His blessing upon our church work in all its branches, we hereby pledge ourselves to attend as often as possible the mid-week prayer meeting, and so strengthen the hands of the minister in his work among us, and stimulate a deeper spiritual life among our people.

Mr. John McClelland was appointed secretary-treasurer in place of Mr. F. A. Walden, resigned.

Reports of the Year's Work South Ward Mission School to be Built.

The annual business meeting of the congregation of St. Paul's presbyterian church was held on Wednesday, February 5th. There was a much larger attendance then usual.

Rev. Dr. Torrance in opening the meeting said he was glad to meet the congregation once more at their annual meeting and specially pleased to see so many present. It was gratifying to see so many men turn out in response to his invitation on the previous Sunday. He said his thoughts went back to the first annual meeting nearly 25 years ago, when he remembered many of the old and valued members, some of whose names he mentioned, that had passed away to their eternal rest. He was also reminded of an unusually large number who had been taken away since their last annual meeting—all of which was calculated to leave a deep impression on his mind. He then called upon the meeting to appoint a chairman for the evening.

Mr. Adam Hall proposed Mr. J. A. Fife as chaitman. The motion was carried.

Mr. H. S. Macdonald, in the absence of Mr. J. W. Bennet, the secretary, read the minutes of the last annual meeting, which were, on motion, confirmed.

REPORT OF THE SESSION.

Mr. Fife, on behalf of the Moderator, read the Report of the Session.

A reference in the report to the quarterly communions being well attended, was criticised by Mr. R. F. McWilliams. From his knowledge he did not think the session could congratulate the congregation on this matter. As one of the ushers, he had an opportunity of forming a good idea of the number who took communion, and felt satisfied that on an average not much more than one half of the members attended. Mr. McWilliams criticised the syste of communion cards, and felt that some better sbheme was desirable.

Mr. W. Madill thought that a record of the attendance at the communion services should be kept.

The report stated that there had been forty additions to the membership during the year. The removals by death were seventeen. There was a roll of 762 communicants at the end of the year.

The Session intended taking steps to organize a congregational temperance society in connection with the Y.P.S.C.E., the Bible Classes and the Sunday School.

BOARD OF MANAGERS.

The report of the Board of Managers was read by Mr. H. S. Macdonald, as follows:

Once more it becomes the duty of the Board of Managers to present to the congregation a statement of their work, another year having passed in the history of the church.

Our ordinary revenue is slightly in excess of last year, the amount collected in 1900 by envelope and open collection being $3,961.64, and for 1901, as per Treasurer's Statement, $4,516.29; increase in favour of 1901, $554.65. The number contributing by envelope in 1900 was 325, and for 1901, 333, an increase of 7 for the year. The arrears in envelope is about $200; of this amount considerable has come in. Your Board would take this opportunity of impressing upon the congregation the necessity of considerably augmenting the envelope contribution for 1902, especially those who are not now giving according to their ability.

The Board has under consideration the painting of the outside of the church and this matter must be attended to this Spring. Please bear this in mind when you are considering the amount you are to give this year; amount required about $300.

The number of sittings at present occupied in the church is 833, and the number of vacant sittings is 187.

Your Board has considered the building of a school house in the South Ward as per your instructions at last annual meeting, and the committee appointed by them will report to you during the evening.

You will note the Treasurer was able to reduce the Mortgage Debt by $175, which now stands at $3,125. This was done by contribution of $100 to Century Fund, and $75, amount of anniversary collection. Are there none among us able to come forward and offer some way towards substantial reduction of this amount?

Mr. John Crane, we are pleased to say, continues in charge of the musical portion of the Sabbath Day service of song, and the thanks of the congregation are due him and the members of the choir for the pains which they take in making the singing such a prominent feature.

The members of your Board retiring this year are Messrs. C. Brown, A. E. Lech, H. S. Macdonald, J. W. Bennet, all of whom are eligible for re-election. It will be necessary to appoint two auditors for 1902 at this meeting.

H. S. MACDONALD,
Sec pro tem.

On motion the report of the Managers was adopted.

On motion of Mr. J. D. Collins, Messrs. J. Crane and R. F. McWilliams were re-elected auditors for 1902.

REPORT OF THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Mr. A. Johnston read the report of the Sunday School. The report stated:

The year 1901 saw more changes on our teachers' roll through resignations than in any previous year in my term of office. Prolonged illness of quite a few teachers caused frequent changes of supply. These changes, and teacher's chairs frequently vacant, caused lack of interest on the part of the scholars, which has not yet been overcome.

The falling off in average attendance is in the intermediate and primary departments. This shows lack of interest in, and loyalty to, the school on the part of many of the parents. It is a question of great importance to both school and scholars. The children of to-day are certainly as strong in body, and as able as those of bygone years to attend regularly. Parents and teachers should try to overcome this fault by mutual co-operation.

The membership on the roll is 39 officers and teachers, and 383 scholars. The average attendance for the year was 31 officers and teachers and 206 scholars, a decrease of 49 per Sunday from last year. Of this the primary class attendance was 57, a decrease of 6. The attendance of one of our scholars is worthy of special memtion, Maggie Mein has not missed a session of the school in 9 years.

The Missionary collections were $261.43. Home department, $14.17. Interest, $6.46, a total of $282.06.

We lost one of our number by death, Miss A. A. Paterson, whose death on June 16th, after a very short illness, caused deep sorrow in our midst. Her quiet and faithful Christian life was helpful to all who came within her circle.

On motion the Sunday School Report was adopted.

REPORT OF THE MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

The Secretary-Treasurer of the Missionary Society reported as follows:

The total amount contributed for Missions during the year was $1657.59.

Of this amount the sum of $750.00 was specially contributed for the support of three missionaries in the Northwest during 1902 in response to an appeal made and addresses delivered at a Missionary meeting held in the church on the evening of 20th of November last, by the late lamented Dr. Robertson and the Rev. J. A. MacDonald, of the Westminister.

The balance of $907.59 is the actual amount contributed by envelope on the first Sabbath of each month, and has to be allocated at this meeting between Home and Foreign Missions and French Evangelization.

The number of those contributing by envelope to Missions in sums varying from 25c to $100.00 is 148, being an increase of 6 over 1900, but 27 less than in 1899.

As there are over 330 contributors to ordinary revenue, this shows that considerably more than half do not contribute to the mission schemes of the church. This ought not to be, and your committee would therefore strongly urge upon all the duty of contributing according to their means.

Respectfully submitted,
ROBERT INNES,
Sec.-Treas.

Rev. Dr. Torrance renewed his expressions of regret that so many of the congregation still declined to contribute to the mission schemes of the church. He reiterated the views he expressed at the last annual meeting on this matter and was sure that better results would follow by returning to the former system of having collectors call upon the members for their monthly missionary collections.

Sheriff Hall dissented from this view, contending that members should not have to be called upon to do their duty in this matter. The Lord loved a cheerful giver, and did not want the missionary contributions that had to be wrung from the giver.

On motion, the Missionary Report was adopted.

On motion the following allocation of the Missionary Funds, was adopted: To Home Missions, $425; to Foreign Missions, $375; to French Evangelization Missions, $107.59. Total, $907.59.

SOUTH WARD SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Mr. W. Madill read the following report:

St. Paul's Presbyterian Church,
Peterborough.

The Committee appointed at a meeting of the office bearers of the church to consider the erection of a Sunday School building in the south part of the town, beg to report as follows:—

1. The congregation are the owners of a lot on the corner of Wolfe and Reid streets, 114 feet square, suitable as a site for the erection of such a School house as required.

2. The cost of the erection of a commodious building, capable of seating two hundred and fifty people, and furnishing the same, would be in the neighborhood of $3000.00.

3. By using chairs for seating, the school room could readily be made suitable for public worship, and in this way be made to serve a double purpose, and would be available for holding Sabbath service as well.

4. The Treasurer of the Century Fund has now on hand, cash, $732.00, and a further sum of $150.00 promised, which amount will be available for the purposes of building, and the Sunday School has on hand $429.18, which they will apply towards the same end, leaving $1700.00 or thereabouts to be subscribed by the congregation.

5. Owing to the growth of the Southern portion of the town, it is felt by your Committee that it is high time a movement was made towards the erection of a Sunday School building.

6. The seating accommodation of the church is now so severely taxed that it is with difficulty accommodation can be provided for those seeking pews and sittings, and your committee are of opinion that now, having two clergymen, services might be held in the proposed building and thus relieve the pressure upon the seating capacity of the church.

7. Such services would also furnish a means of grace to many living in that vicinity, who probably seldome attend any church.

8. In the erection of the proposed building your committee would suggest that the basement be constructed of such a height as to serve, if needed, for a Sunday School room, when the upper story can be used for public worship: and should a congregation grow up there, that a church building may be erected on the same lot, and the proposed building used solely for Sunday School purposes.

9. Your committee would earnestly recommend that the amount mentioned above—$1700.00, be subscribed before the building is commenced, so that when completed it would be free from debt. With a large and prosperous congregation, such as St. Paul's, this would be but a very small effort.

Dated at Peterborough, this 5th day of February, 1902.

On behalf of the Committee,
R. E. WOOD,
Chairman.

Considerable attention was devoted to this report, which was discussed clause by clause, and finally adopted.

A number of other reports were taken as read, including the Women's Foreign Missionary Society, Young Peoples' Society of Christian Endeavour, Ladies' Aid Society, Fraser Mission Band, and Faithful Workers' Mission Bands.

VOTES OF THANKS.

Mr. Adam Hall moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Crane and the choir. He expressed the gratification it was to the congregation to have the musical services so efficiently rendered, and to know that the best of harmony existed among the members of the choir.

Mr. Crane acknowledged the vote in an appropriate and felicitious manner. It had occurred to him to request premiums from future members of the choir in view of the frequent marriages which were occurring among its members. This was the only thing he knew interfered with the "harmony" of the choir. (Laughter.)

Mr. J. D Collins moved a vote of thanks to the Misses Aggie and Katie Hall and other ladies, for their kindness in supplying flowers for decorating the pulpit.

REFRESHMENTS PROVIDED.

At the close of the business of the evening an invitation was extended to all present to partake of refreshments. The ladies of the congregation had thoughtfully provided for the occasion, and their hospitality was thoroughly appreciated. This, the most pleasant part of the evening, was spent with a good deal less reserve than the business meeting, thanks to the ladies.

WITH ALL SAINTS' MEN.

A Social Evening Held in the Church Hall Last Night.

The social evening for men which was held in All Saints' church last evening, proved thoroughly successful in every way. Between fifty and sixty of the men of the parish dropped into the church hall during the evening, where the Rector, Rev. W. L. Armitage, greeted them in a manner which made all feel thoroughly at home. A number of those present contributed vocal selections to the evening's entertainment, songs by Mr. Jas. Legg, Mr. Jos. Halpany and Mr. Firth being especially pleasing. Mr. F. H. Dobbin gave a short but most interesting address on Elbert Hubbard, the man who wrote "A Message to Garcia," and Mr. Armitage afterwards read "The Message." Mr. Douglas was present with his fine gramaphone, and Mr. Will Staples gave a number of brilliant instrumentals on the piano. Mr. Will Brundrette, with his electriot battery, provided a lot of amusement. Most appetizing refreshments were served at the close of what proved to be a most enjoyable evening.

DAILY MAIL FOR YOUNG'S POINT

Its Early Establishment may be Considered a Certainty.

The people of Young's Point have reason to be gratified that their petition for a daily mail service for that place has been favourably entertained. In compliance with the request thus expressed Hon. Mr. Mulock, Post Master General has, the Examiner is credibly informed, issued instructions for the establishment of a daily mail service without any avoidable delay.

It is therefore more than probable that the people of Young's Point and vicinity will before long be placed in daily postal communication with the rest of the world. This represents a benefit that will be highly appreciated and one which furnishes another example of the anxiety of Hon. Mr. Mulock to meet the wishes and serve the interests of the people.

DISTRICT OF ALGOMA.

Some Facts and Figures of Its Recent Remarkable Progress.

The first surveys of the Canadian Pacific Railway were made in this district between Sault Ste. Marie and French River in 1871, and continued from that time until the first sod of the Canadaan Pacific was turned at Fort William in 1875. Prior to that there were no railways in the district, said ex-Mayor George T. Marks of Port Arthur recently. There have since then been built or are building: (1) the Canadian Pacific; (2) the Canadian Northern Railway; (3) the Port Arthur, Duluth & Western Railway, now part of the Canadian Northern; (4) the Algoma Central & Hudson Bay; (5) the Manitoulin & North Shore Railway; (6) the Bruce Mines & Algoma Railway; (7) the Thunder Bay, Nepigon & St Joe Railway—this has a partial subsidy, but no work has been done.

The original canal at Sault Ste. Marie was built in 1855. It allowed vessels of a draught of 12 feet of water, and with a carrying capacity of about 1,000 tons to go through. That lock, when built, was the largest in the world. Subsequently there have been built at the American Soo the Poe Lock and the Weitzel Lock. The maximum capacity of these is a draught of 20 feet for steamers and boats carrying 10,000 tons could go through. The original American lock was torn out to take the place of one of these. On the Canadian side of the Soo there is one of the finest locks in the world, with a canal equal to, if not greater, than the American.

Thirty-five years ago the only steamer plying between eastern points and Port Arthur was the Algoma, a small, old-fashioned side-wheeler. She had a capacity of about fifty tons of freight, and about fifty first-class passengers. She was supposed to make trips semi-monthly, but was often a month on the round trip. To-day there are six passenger steamers plying between here and eastern points—they make in the aggregate five trips per week each way, and carry an average of fifteen hundred tons, besides, from two to three hundred passengers. This is exclusive of tramp steamers.

Cargo steamers have been loaded at Port Arthur and Fort William with seventy-five hundred tons of cargo, or equal to two hundred and fifty thousand bushels of wheat.

The cargo steamers belonging to the Canadian lake marine which ply to Port Arthur are twelve in number, built of steel. There are besides this two composite steamers; that is, steel frame, and wooden planking. These boats combined have a carrying capacity of from one million and a quarter to one million and a half bushels per week; that is, between Port Arthur and Georgian Bay and Lake Huron points. This is as much wheat as can be brought in per week during the fall months from the west over one railway. The ordinary upbound merchandise and the downward flour and other package freight is carried by the passenger steamers, which usually take care of all that.

The season of navigation usually closes about the 5th of December, and commences about the 1st of May, making it a little over seven months in length. This could be extended without any special cost for another month in the fall, say to the 1st of January. With ice-breaking steamers at either end of Lake Superior and an elevator near Sault Ste. Marie it could be extended at least a month longer than that in the fall, and open a month earlier in the spring, which would give a season of navigation of ten months at least. It may be possible to do even better than that, and keep open all the year around.

FROM GAY PARIS.

Secretary Dupuis From the Exposition Makes a Statement.

His Experience When in Paris Proves Dodd's Kidney Pills to be a Splendid Tonic Medicine—Unsurpassed Also as a Remedy for Lame Back.

Village des Aulnaies, Que., Feb. 6.—(Special.)—Mons. Aug. Dupuis, of this village, who was secretary to the Canadian Commission to the World's Fair, at Paris last year, has since his return given out a statement that reflects great credit on Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Mons. Dupuis says says that he has used these pills for "a deep seated pain in the small of the back," and found that they relieved him almost instantly and cured him altogether so thoroughly that he has not since had any symptoms of a return of the pain.

While in Paris, Mons. Dupuis found his duties as secretary very toilsome and trying, with the consequent result that his health began to become run down. Again he sought relief in Dodd's Kidney Pills, and again he found them equal to the emergency, for they quickly braced him up.

His statement, recently published, is very full of praise for this medicine, and he also takes occasion to thank Mr. James G. Jardine, of Toronto who was a member of the Paris Commission, for having first introduced Dodd's Kidney Pills to his notice in Ottawa some years ago.

Mons. Dupuis is very popular here, having been postmaster at this village for years, and resigning to accept the position of Secretary to the Paris Commission last year.

He is now president of the Council of Agriculture of the Province.

The unqualified commendation of Dodd's Kidney Pills by all classes of the people is the very best possible proof that they are a genuine curative.

As a general family tonic for young and old, they are unexcelled, and in many homes in Canada to-day the familiar blue and red box containing Dodd's Kidney Pills is always on the shelf ready for use.

A LARGE BOTTLE, 25c.

SPONGE FISHING.

Beyond a Depth of Fifty Feet They Must Be Got by Divers.

The sponge is an animal and not a vegetable, as some state. It breathes, eats and, when in the water, is filled with mucus. The sponge in its familiar state is only a carcass. Sponges are known to grow at a depth of 200 feet and live even deeper, doubtless. At the depth of fifty feet they can be forked by an expert fisher, but at a greater depth they must be got by diving.

Sponge fishers use a glass by which sponges can be seen growing on the bottom. The instrument is in the nature of a pail with a glass bottom, attached to the bow of the boat. It is submerged, so as to steady the vision, which otherwise would be contorted by the waves. The water where sponges grow is very clear, and bottom can be seen at a great depth.

The home of the sponge fishing industry is in Greece and centuries old. A large percentage of the Mediterranean sponges come from the island of Hydra. Some, however, come from off the coast of Tripoli. A few sponges come from the faroff land of Madagascar. There are two months in each year when sponge fishing is practically abandoned. This is in August and September, the hurricane months. During the other ten months the industry flourishes.

The Chaperon In the West.

All unmarried females of means and position are chaperoned here. Age doesn't matter. They are spinsters—that's enough. No tender maid of thirty goes unattended in California. No single woman of any age goes to the theater alone with a man, and, as for "buggy riding," the custom is unknown. No girl goes to a restaurant for lunch with a youth she has known from the cradle. It would not be correct, and it would not be entirely correct, either, for her to get another girl. No; she must have the chaperon—the tried and seasoned veteran of matrimony—or else the proprieties will be split up the back.

The ardor with which the cult of the chaperon has been taken up in the west should make the thoughtful pause. At the rate we're going at we'll soon be where they are in France, and it will be hopelessly compromising for any of us to walk two blocks on the public street with a man of our acquaintance.—Geraldine Bonner in San Francisco Argonaut.

Egypt's Veiled Women.

The tasmak, or veil, may be black or white, long or short, plain or embellished with rows of drawnwork or tucks and of any sort of fine, soft material. The women of the middle and lower classes wear for the most part black veils from one to three feet long. Those higher in the social grade wear white ones, and occasionally they reach to the hem of the dress. These are held in place by a metal tube that is fastened over the nose and lower part of the forehead by cords securely tied behind. When worn with this habara in the orthodox fashion, there is nothing visible but the woman's bright black eyes, which see everything going on. The tasmak and habara are capital disguises, and a woman may flirt to her heart's content without fear of being discovered, provided she is not followed to her home.

Grease on Wool.

It is said the powdered borax will take grease spots out of woolen goods better than anything else that can be used on short notice. Spread the skirt out with the spot over a smooth place on the table and rub the borax into it with the fingers, allowing it to remain a few minutes, then brush off with a whiskbroom. Do this two or three times or till the spot disappears, and your skirt is ready to wear.

Steam.

If the cover of the kettle is lifted, the boiling water seems to be covered by a cloud of white steam, but this cloud did not exist before the cover was raised. It has been formed by the sudden cooling of the vapor. In a glass boiler which is either completely sealed or provided with only a narrow outlet for the vapor the space above the water is perfectly transparent and apparently empty.

Under Cover of Darkness.

The minister of a Scotch parish was going from home and procured the clergyman of a neighboring parish to officiate on Sunday. His servant, who was also the beadle, was sent over to the station to drive the reverend gentleman to the manse.

When the train arrived, the beadle asked him to wait awhile, as he had some messages to do before he went. It was two hours before he returned. The good man was furious and threatened to report him to his master.

"Weel, sir, ye can dae that if ye like," said the beadle, "but he tel't me himsel' to wait till it was dark afore I drove ye ower, for if the folk o' the village saw wha was to preach the morn nobody wad turn oot ava."

How to Imitate a Singing Bird.

According to La Nature, with any glass tube whatever it is possible to easily reproduce the song of a bird. It suffices to rub the tube lengthwise with a piece of wet cork. In order to imitate the song of a bird the cork must be moved with a varying rapidity, now slowly, now rapidly, and abrupt stoppages must intervene. The experiment can be made more simple by rubbing an ordinary bottle with a piece of cork

An Appeal To Mothers

To Protect the Little Ones From Coughs and Colds That so Frequently Lead to Consumption in Later Years.

It is possible that you have been accustomed to consider that every advertisement is for the benefit of the advertiser only. In this you have been mistaken, as you will probably admit if you read about Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, and have an opportunity of testing its value in your family.

Every mother is anxious to learn of effective means of combating the ills which cause her children to suffer. Many have learned ho wto conquer croup, bronchitis, whooping cough, sore throat, severe coughs and colds, by reading the advertisements of Dr Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. Some mothers have even taken the trouble to write letters thanking us for making known to the public the merits of this great cough and cold medicine. They realized that to them the advertising was news of great value.

It almost seems like wasting space to tell of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. So many know about it, have tested its virtues, and seek its healing power whenever in need of treatment for throat and lungs. But there are many rivals and many imitations. Hosts of druggists stand ready to offer a substitute if the buyer is not firm in his demands for the genuine and reliable Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine.

You cannot afford to let your cold run on and on, developing into chronic bronchitis, serious lung trouble or consumption. You cannot plead ignorance of effective treatment. Prudence suggests the wisdom of keeping Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine in the house all the time to protect the children, and grown people as well, from the ills of cold weather. 25c a bottle. Family size 60 cents. At all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. 8

Chimneys That Lean.

"It's just this," said the man with the restless eye, who was gazing skyward—"some ten years ago some man who had a grudge against me, I guess, called my attention to the fact, if fact it be, that if a chimney leans at all it always leans to the east.

"I didn't believe it, and I can hardly believe it yet, but I've spent hours and days and weeks and months squinting at chimneys from car windows and from sidewalks, but I'll be darned if I ever yet have been able to discover a leaning chimney that didn't slant to the east. I've looked at factory chimneys, hotel chimneys, farmhouse chimneys and city house chimneys, and they all, like the adobe gods on the temples of Yucatan, bend their heads toward the rising sun."

And the man with the restless eye once more began an inspection of the sky line.

A LOVING TRIBUTE.

"Ralph Connor's" Eloquent Words Concerning the Late Superintendent of the Presbyterian Church in Canada.

At the beginning of the late Rev. Dr. Robertson's incumbency as Superintendent of Missions in the North West of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, twenty years ago, in 1881, there was no Synod, and but one Presbytery west of the lakes; to-day there were fifteen Presbyteries. In 1881 there were but four congregations and eighteen missions; to-day there were 141 congregations and 226 mission fields, and 1,120 places where Presbyterian services were conducted more or less regularly. In 1881 there were only 23 mission laborers in this vast field; to-day there were 400, of whom 250 were ordained ministers.

Is it any wonder then that at a recent memorial service held in his honor in Toronto, Rev. C. W. Gordon (Ralph Connor) paid an eloquent tribute to the memory of the late superintendent? He said that the first feeling of the members of the church would be one of grief in the sense of personal loss, but he believed that the feeling which was more in keeping with the great and good work which Dr. Robertson accomplished, and for which he lived, was the feeling of humble gratefulness to God for His gift to the church. God had been good to them, they should thank Him for the man who had been sent to lead them, and for the man who would lead them no more. They had heard something of the work of Dr. Robertson from the Moderator, who had loved him and who had been dear to him. They must, however, cease their praises with a feeling that words were poor things. Words could not tell all that they wished to say, and they left unsaid so much that they would say. Something had been said by the Moderator of the work of Dr. Robertson. How many knew the extent of that work? How many would ever know it? Not one. To-day the church knew almost nothing of the vast work that God had given him to do for it. If one could travel across the great Northwest, up and down all of the branch lines of the railway, and drive out into the country from all the outlying stations; if one could drop into the mining towns and talk with the miners, the lumbermen, the railway men and the farmers, in every place men would be found who knew the Superintendent and who had felt his influence upon them. He had left his mark upon every section, every town and village in the Northwest. At the birth of everyone of the 1,127 mission fields, Dr. Robertson had been present. He had known every missionary. He had known better than the convener himself the men working under that convener. He had a perfect genius for remembering men. The speaker declared that when he had sought for the secret of the late Superintendent's power to keep in mind all of the missionaries he had found it in the fact that Dr. Robertson's whole life was wrapped up in the work. He referred to "the matchless genius for organization" possessed by Dr. Robertson, and said that while this ability was recognized by the church he did not believe that all of its members knew of the great depth of the well of tenderness and sympathy that dwelt in the heart of Dr. Robertson or of the passionate desire to aid his fellow-men that lay behind that rugged face. The speaker said that there were many before him who could tell how the love and sympathy of the Superintendent had come to them in the hour of darkness, and had been to them as a light of Heaven. When his followers forgot their duties and their obligations, he could be hard and stern, but always in the heart of Dr. Robertson was his intense love for those who were associated with him.

During his later years the Superintendent had been daily deluged with letters from missionaries in the Northwest asking for sympathy and help, and he wondered if the lesson to be learned was that the church had trusted and depended on him too much. He wondered if they needed to learn the great truth that they should rely for guidance and courage upon God alone. If this was the lesson they would try and learn it. No word that he could use could represent the great wealth of love that the people of the western country felt for the late Superintendent. They, in the west, had never called him father, because he was so young in heart. They had called him brother, for he was to them like a big brother. "His work speaks, his spirit remains, and so with the word of thanksgiving and humble hope we bid him farewell," were the closing words of the man who had come from the far west to honor the memory of his late leader.

Mr. Parker and Queen's.

Mr. Gilbert Parker, M.P., in an interview at Kingston, was pleased to recall by-gone days when he was a lecturer in Queen's College. Regarding the splendid collection of pictures of the Governors of Canada which he presented to Queen's, he said: "I intend that the collection shall form a nucleus of illustrated Canadian history, a museum of pictures and, I hope, documents also. I am greatly interested in the historical collection since I got it started. At present I am negotiating for several other portraits, which may be of interest and value as an addition to the collection. I came across most of the collection before leaving Canada, and purchased it, taking it away with me. Then I thought it a pity that Canada should be deprived of such an illustrated history, and came to the conclusion that I could not do better than make a present of it to Queen's University, which still retains my friendship and reverence, and principally because Principal Grant is its head."

Only fools imagine the world cannot do without them.

Blood Disorders

are simply kidney disorders. The kidneys filter the blood of all that shouldn't be there. The blood passes through the kidneys every three minutes. If the kidneys do their work no impurity or cause of disorder can remain in the circulation longer than that time. Therefore if your blood is out of order your kidneys have failed in their work. They are in need of stimulation, strengthening or doctoring. One medicine will do all three, the finest and most imitated blood medicine there is

HELPLESS.

The man trussed up so that he can neither move hand nor foot is in his helplessness a fair type of many a man affected by rheumatism. Often the disease only partially disables, and with crutch and cane the sufferer hobbles painfully about.

Rheumatism can be cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. This great blood purifying medicine eliminates the poisons which cause the disease. It increases the activity of the blood-making glands, and so increases the purity and abundance of the blood supply, thus giving vigor and vitality to all organs of the body which depend for their health on plenty of pure blood. It builds up the body with firm flesh instead of flabby fat. The "Discovery" contains neither alcohol nor narcotics.

"I had been troubled with rheumatism for twelve years, so bad at times I could not leave my bed," writes Mr. R. J. McKnight, of Cades, Williamsburg Co., S. C. "I was badly crippled. Tried many doctors, and two of them gave me up to die. None of them did me much good. The pains in my back, hips and legs (and at times in my head), would nearly kill me. My appetite was very bad. Everybody who saw me said I must die. I took five bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and four vials of the 'Pellets,' and to-day my health is good after suffering twelve years with rheumatism."

Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets assist the action of the "Discovery."

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

Depends upon the name. Scott's Emulsion is a name that has value. Maybe it doesn't mean much to you—but to the consumptive who has been strengthened and fattened, to the sickly children who have received good health, to the weak mothers and babies who have grown strong—to these Scott's Emulsion means something.

To all of them it has meant an easy and natural return to health.

We'll send you a little to try, if you like.

COLD WEATHER COSTUMES.

Dresses of Checkerboard and Striped Velvet Are Novelties.

The latest Paris models in gowns show much larger sleeves. This increase, however, is chiefly noticeable below the elbow, where in some dresses it attains very "floppy" proportions. Velvets and velveteens make charming gowns. The most popular of these materials are either pressed into fine checks or else striped. Checkerboard velvets, as they are called, are simply plain colored velvets with the nap stamped in different directions to give the goods the effect of being checked. These velvet gowns are, many of them, made up with the skirts stitched down into narrow box plaits, which are allowed to flare at the bottom. The bloused waists are treated in a similar manner. Yokes of fine lace are introduced, and there are frillings and puffings of this at the elbow and wrists.

Nearly all the cloth gowns have a touch of velvet. Perpendicular bands of this appliqued down the skirt are a novelty, as are also velvet and lace appliqued figures, with the under material cut out to show a bright colored lining.

Gored flounces figure on nearly every skirt. The newer models have as many as half a dozen of these increasing in width as they reach the bottom. The trains of all dressy costumes are longer than ever.

A simple but charming gown is shown in today's picture. It is made of royal blue velvet, and it is trimmed with deep saffron lace. The skirt is perfectly plain, with the exception of a graduated flounce. The waist is laid in box plaits, with a square yoke of all over lace outlined by the heavy lace applique. Down the front there also runs a broader strip of this applique. The full undersleeves are of the all over lace, the belt of pale yellow silk to match the lace. JUDIC CHOLLET.

A Clever Jap.

A marvelous feat is recorded of a young Japanese student. He entered the University of Berlin some years ago as a medical student, being then entirely ignorant of German as well as of science, yet in three months he passed an examination conducted in German, including several branches of the medical curriculum.

He is a good physician who administers medicine to the heart in the shape of wit and humor.—Chicago News.

Country Women Are Organizing.

According to the report of Mr. George C. Creelman, superintendent of Farmers' Institute in Ontario, the section on Women's Institutes shows that thirty-three of these have been organized, with a membership of 1,602, and a total attendance at meetings this year of 5,300 women, a pronounced growth for the year.

The object of the Women's Department is set forth as follows: In towns and cities for a number of years the woman have had an easier time than their sisters in the country. Anything that would tend to lighten the labor of household duties has been introduced. Their kitchens have been supplied with running water, and separate rooms for bathing have become the general rule. Every kitchen has a good range and an abundance of light graniteware utensils. Furnaces and hot water boilers have been found more economical than the old stoves, and no one will deny that they carry with them added comfort. On the contrary, very few of the country houses are furnished in this way, and we believe it is not so much the lack of means as a lack of knowledge of the way to go about securing them. Through the Women's Institutes these matters may be thoroughly discussed, as well as many other subjects connected with women's life and work.

It Strikes the Heart.

Not only is the victim of Rheumatism a constant sufferer, fut he lives in continual dread that the disease will reach the heart, which means sudden and unexpected death. Rheumatism can only be cured when the uric acid is removed from the blood by the healthy action of the kidneys. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills make the kidneys healthy and vigorous, and so gradually and thoroughly cure Rheumatism by removing the cause. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box.

Men in Toronto Factories.

The 1901 census of manufacturing industries in Toronto shows a very satisfactory increase over the figures of ten years ago. In the census of 1891 every establishment employing from one person upwards was counted, while in the recent enumeration only factories which employed five persons and upwards were included in the reckoning.

The total number of industries ten years ago was 2,109; last year they are about 1,200 less.

Ten years ago the number of employes in all establishments was 24,480, and the aggregate of wages paid for labor was $9,042,125. In 1901 there were about 44,000 workmen in factories employing five persons and upwards, and the amount of wages paid for labor was about $15,500,000.

Ten years ago the value of products in all factories was $42,489,852. For the last year it is, in round numbers, $59,000,000.

Broke His Circuit.

The shades of the goose and the turkey were discussing the circumstances which had attended their respective takings off.

"Did you offer any objection when first the cruel farmer laid hands on you?" sympathetically inquired the gobbler.

"Yes," replied his gooseship; "I cried out, 'Hello, what's this?'"

"What did you say next?" inquired the now thoroughly interested fowl.

"Oh," the goose replied, "I did not say anything more. Just then I was wrung off."

EIGHT CONVINCING REASONS . . .

WHY YOU SHOULD INSURE IN

THE IMPERIAL LIFE ASSURANCE CO'Y OF CANADA.

1. It is a purely Canadian Company, having all its funds invested in Canadian securities, and transacting business only in Canada.

2. It maintains the largest Government Deposit of any Canadian Life Insurance Company.

3. It maintains relatively the strongest policy reserves of any Canadian Life Insurance Company.

4. Its past record — the greatest guarantee of the future — has been unparalleled in Canadian life insurance.

5. Its policy contract is one of the most liberal issued, consistent with safety and equity.

6. It has a Capital of $1,000,000, which makes policy-holders' security unquestionable. At the same time, the assured is practically in the same position regarding profits as if he held a policy in a mutual company, the Imperial's charter providing that at least 90 per cent. of all profits shall be divided amongst policy-holders.

7. For every $100 of liability to policy-holders it holds $100 of securely invested assets. These assets are all of the highest order, and will bear the closest scrutiny.

8. An Imperial policy never depreciates in value, but, on the contrary, is constantly becoming more valuable. It is the most valuable estate you can leave behind you.

Next Match in Peterborough on Wednesday.

Lindsay Wins the Ontario Tankard—Notes on Curling, Hockey, etc.

HOCKEY.

The Peterborough public have been anxiously waiting for some announcement regarding the date on which the next hockey match will take place. Word was received this morning from the O.H.A. executive ... the Peterborough Intermediates ... play the winners of R.M.C. and ...ns II. here on Wednesday night next week and the return game ... take place in Kingston the following Friday night. The match here Wednesday night should prove to be a big drawing card and every effort should be put forth to run up as large a score as possible against the visitors so that there will be something to come and go on in the return game in Kingston. The Peterborough team is keeping in excellent condition and will give a good account of themselves.

The Port Hope Guide suggests, as the Kingston rink is poorly boarded and badly illuminated, that Kingston and Peterborough play a sudden death game in Cobourg. The Guide thinks the gate receipts would be very large at Cobourg, as the Port Hopers would all go down to see the match.

Millbrook defeated the II. Ontarios of Port Hope, on Tuesday night, by 6 goals to 2. Parnell, of town, played a star game for Millbrook.

The Boys' Brigade of All Saint's church will send a hockey team to Lakefield on Friday night to play the Grove team.

Now that Port Hope is out of the running for the championship, the boys of that town want to see the Peterboroughs land the cup. An effort is being made to get the Ontarios up for an exhibition match on Friday evening. The game would start at 7.30 and be over in time to let the Port Hopers get away on the 9 o'clock train. Such a game would be worth half a dozen practices to the Peterboroughs and it is more than likely that it will take place. As the play would be just as snappy as in the scheduled games just finished, a big crowd would doubtless turn out to see the match.

The Norwood team will go over to Keene on Monday night to play their first game in the semi-finals of the Trent Valley League series. The return game will be played in Norwood on Friday night of next week.

The Globe says:—An experienced follower of hockey, whose judgment is usually pretty sound, and who has seen all the teams named play this season, says "Peterborough and Port Hope are better than either Galt or Paris, but Woodstock is better than any of the other four. The team that will win the intermediate championship will be the one that beats Woodstock."

CURLIANA.

Results at the rink last night were as follows:

23 R. Kerr	A. Blade 4
14 C. Rutherford ...	G. E. Whiten 19

Mr. Tooley played a great lead in that 23-4 game last night.

The Toronto Telegram in speaking of the Tankard games, says:—"That man McLennan, of Lindsay, is a great curler. He works from the moment he sets his broom for the first lead till the last stone is played. He sweeps like one of those electric trolley concerns, and if a stone is coming slow he is half-way up the rink to meet it, takes it away from his sweepers, and by the very fury with which he works his broom seems to put fresh life into it. Many a seeming "hog" he brought safely ly over the line, and many another stone that looked "short" did he carry in for a counter. Man, but he set a grand example for sundry Toronto curlers to follow."

For the third time in six years the Lindsay Club won the Ontario Tankard yesterday, beating the Toronto Caledonians in the final match by 11 shots. It was a fitting ending to the great competition, in which 66 clubs were originally entered, the contest for supreme honours being of the keenest and most exciting character. The Caledonians gave the well-balanced rinks from Lindsay a bitter battle before they yielded to the inevitable, and made things interesting all the way. The largest crowd on record for a curling match watched the game, the big gallery being literally packed, while at the ends of the rinks the enthusiasts were clustered together three deep. It was a see-saw game, first the Caledonians and then Lindsay alternating in taking the lead. On the sixth end the score was a tie all round, 9 all, but on the tenth Lindsay led by 4 shots. On the fifteenth end Lindsay had an advantage of 2 shots. Skip Wood having reduced the 8 point lead held by Skip McLennan over him to 2 shots. McLennan then scored on the next six ends, piling up 12 shots, while Skips Rennie and Flavelle were running almost even. When the last end was played Rennie led by 20 to 19, and the supporters of the Lindsay club demonstrated a vigorous desire to see Flavelle even up the score. He was in a fair way to do it until Skip Rennie played his last stone, as he had the shot fairly well guarded almost on the tee. Rennie made a grandstand finish, drawing through a narrow part right to the counter, which he dislodged, and as a result tallied two, giving him a majority of three shots. His achievement in beating the strong Lindsay rink was a great feather in his cap, as the rink has been selected to play in the Winnipeg tournament. Lindsay won by a total of 45 as compared with 34 for their opponents. Skip McLennan played a masterly game, missing very few shots. His rink supported him nobly, the work of vice-skip Dundas being especially good. President Edwards proposed three cheers for the Lindsay club, which were given with a will, and when he raised a cheer for the Caledonians the response was no less hearty.—The Globe.

It Does not pay to use a Breakfast Cereal That Disturbs and Hampers Digestion.

Digestive disturbances and stomach derangements should be carefully avoided if we desire to pursue our daily work with profit and pleasure. It does not pay to be the victim of a capricious and erratic stomach. In nine times out of every ten stomach difficulties arise from the use of starchy and indigestible foods.

A well known city physician with a large and lucrative practice recently said: "If men and women more generally understood the many advantages of Malt Breakfast Food as a health food, we would not have to deal with so many serious and stubborn cases of indigestion and dyspepsia that we are called upon so often to treat and prescribe for. I have used Malt Breakfast Food in my own family and have recommended it in daily practice with the best results. The great advantage of Malt Breakfast Food over all others that I have tried is the use of malt with the grain, thus producing a delicious food free from starch." FISH AND GAME SHOW.

The Grand Trunk's Exhibit at Chicago—Good Attendance.

G. N. W. Press Despatches.

Chicago, February 4th.—The second annual show of the International Fish and Game Association opened here last night in the Coliseum, under most favourable auspices. The attendance was about five thousand. One of the most attractive and interesting exhibit was the beautiful and artistic display of photographic views depicting scenes on the line of the Grand Trunk Railway, which included the renowned districts in the Highlands of Ontario, and other portions of Canada. In addition to the views, a most comprehensive display of mounted fish, native to Canadian waters, are shown and create a favourable comment, and prove of much interest to the tourist, angler and sportsmen. The summer resort districts and fishing and hunting haunts of Canada have never before been brought before the people of Chicago so attractively and with such prominence as is now being done by the Grand Trunk Railway system.

MOUNT PLEASANT.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Report says that the Township of Cavan Council has invited Mr. Campbell, the Government Road Instructor, to visit this locality and deliver two addresses, one at Millbrook, and the other at Mount Pleasant. He has responded to the call and will be here about the 20th inst; due notice will be given of the date of his coming so that our people may get to hear him, so that they may be thoroughly instructed in road making, which is a necessity in the township of Cavan. Our council has made great improvements in our roads during the last year and as there has been no change in the council we expect a continuance of the work begun, until every road in this old, wealthy township that can be opened for travel will be made fit for the public to pass over them, and that the roads in the northern part of the township will also receive due consideration. The last time Mr. Campbell was here Hon. J. R. Stratton accompanied him, when they passed over the two unopened roads in the swamp on the 13th and 14th concession lines east of the middle road and addressed a large meeting at Cavanville at night.

Mr. Medd of North Dakota will return home soon to the land of his adoption.

An article in the Globe refers to a meeting being held of some of the leading spirits in the different Protestant churches for the purpose of a better understanding about the mission work in new settlements. The time of the drawing together of the different Protestant churches should be very near and a united effort should be made to have the glad tidings of salvation spread so that all peoples shall hear the joyful sound. "Union is strength." The Church of Rome says "We are one." The great apostle Paul spoke strongly against divisions; then why continue them?—if we think it unwise and unscriptural, let it end in charity.

Slowly Dying From Catarrh.

Thousands are in this terrible condition but don't realize their danger. If you have the slightest taint of Catarrh, would it not be wise to commence Catarrhozone treatment now and be perfectly cured in a short time? This pleasant remedy cures without the use of drugs, atomizers or snuffs. You inhale the medicated vapor which spreads to all parts of the breathing organs, kills the germs and heals the inflamed surfaces. Catarrhozone cleans the throat and nose instantly, and never fails to cure the most obstinate catarrhal, lung and throat troubles. A trial will demonstrate the value of Catarrhozone, which sells for $1.00, small size 25 cts., at druggists or Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

An Assassin at Sofia Kills Minister of Public Instruction.

WAS MURDERED IN HIS STUDY

The Macedonian Who Killed M. Kamtchoff Was Admitted to a Private Audience With the Bulgarian Minister, Though the Police Knew of the Man's Threats—Were Also as to His Sanity.

Sofia, Bulgaria, Feb. 7.—M. Kamtchoff, the Minister of Public Instruction, was assassinated yesterday in his study by a Macedonian who pretended he wanted to present a petition. The assassin subsequently committed suicide by shooting himself.

M. Kamtchoff's assassin, who had been a student at the University of Sofia, was appointed to a professorship in a provincial town. Disappointed at not being assigned to a position at the capital, he had threatened to murder M. Kamtchoff. The police knew of the man's threats and were also aware that there were doubts as to his sanity, but they allowed him to secure a private audience of M. Kamtchoff and the minister's murder followed.

SUMMARY OF LOSSES.

British List Includes 5,240 Officers and 100,701 Men Disabled.

London, Feb. 7.—The War Office last evening published a summary of the British losses in South Africa. Up to Jan. 31 the total reduction of the forces, from death to permanent disability, was 52,805 men. The total of the casualties, including surviving wounded, was 5,240 officers and 100,701 men.

The Boers Want to Quit.

London, Feb. 7.—The correspondent of The Times, writing from Pretoria, says the steady progress toward the goal desired by the British is maintained, and is not likely to be affected by anything but the death or capture of the Boer leaders.

In the Eastern Transvaal the Boers are split up into small commandoes, the largest consisting of 300 men, under Britz. Discontent is finding vent in frequent memorials to Botha to end the struggle.

MAILED TO MILNER.

Copies of Correspondence Between Britain and Netherlands Sent.

London, Feb. 7.—In the House of Commons yesterday Mr. Balfour, the Government leader, announced that copies of the correspondence exchanged between the Government of the Netherlands and the Government of Great Britain on the subject of peace in South Africa had been mailed to Lord Milner, who would be instructed to ask Lord Kitchener to communicate the contents to the Boer leaders in the field. Mr. Chamberlain, the Colonial Secretary, added the information that if the leaders of the Boer forces proposed to Lord Kitchener negotiations for a settlement the proposal would be forwarded for the consideration of the Government.

British Reply Satisfies.

London, Feb. 7.—The Brussels correspondent of The Times quotes a correspondent at The Hague, who says there is a feeling of pride there that the Dutch Government has been able to make a definite proposal regarding the war in South Africa in a form which would not offend Great Britain. The courtesy and precision of the British reply are unanimously appreciated, especially when it is compared with the war. Nevertheless it is regretted that the reply was a refusal of Holland's suggestion, as it was not thought the proposal was incompatible with British amour propore.

U.S. and Canada Waters.

Washington, Feb. 7.—Senator Platt (New York) yesterday introduced in the Senate a joint resolution, providing for the appointment of a joint commission by the United States and Canada to examine and report upon the diversion of the waters between the two countries. The resolution requires that each country shall appoint two members of the commission, and that it shall investigate "the condition and uses of the water adjacent to the boundary line between the United States and Canada, including all the waters of the lakes and rivers whose waters flow by the St. Lawrence River to the Atlantic Ocean."

McEwing, a commissioner for Wellington County, received the Reform nomination for the approaching election, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of the former nominee, Dr. Stewart of Palmerston, who resigned on account of ill-health. The other candidates were Dr. Henry of Harriston and W. J. Mudloy of Peel, Warden of the county.

C.P.R. Conductor Killed.

St. Thomas, Feb. 7.—D. R. Allen, C.P.R. conductor, was instantly killed in the Michigan Central yards here Wednesday midnight. Deceased stepped from his train to the M.C.R. main track to signal his engineer, when No. 8 M.C. express, which was an hour late, came dashing in, and, striking him, dashed his brains out. The deceased resided in London and had been railroading 12 years.

Why Miss Stone Is Not Free.

Constantinople, Feb. 7.— The failure of the attempt to secure the release of Miss Stone, and Mme. Tsilka from the brigands was due primarily to the lack of proper co-operation between Mr. Leishman, the American Minister here, and Mr. Dickinson, the Consul-General of the United States.

The ocean-carrying trade is at present in such bad position, both as regards the quantity of freight and the prices, that the Elder-Dempster line has decided to withdraw its Bristol-Portland service. Therefore, no more steamships flying the Elder-Dempster flag will sail from Portland for many months to come.

A sensation was created throughout St. Roch, Quebec, Thursday morning when the news spread that Felix Guillotte, a well-known hotel keeper of Notre Dames des Agnes street, had died under very suspicious circumstances, at his home, and that the symptoms of his sudden and unexpected demise greatly resembled those of poisoning. The police are busily engaged collecting information concerning the death.

Russia the Responsible Party.

Pekin, Feb. 6.—The British, American and Japanese Ministers here have renewed their opposition to the Manchurian arrangements between China and Russia. It is probable that this action will result in the further postponement of the consummation of this treaty. The powers opposing the Manchurian treaty are now beginning to recognize the force of the representations of the Chinese plenipotentiaries, that China is making the best terms possible for herself, and incidentally for the equal rights of the other nations in China, and are shifting their protests to Russia as the responsible party.

Land Purchase Wins in Ireland.

Dublin, Feb. 7.—The election of a member of parliament in the East division of County Down, to succeed Dr. J. A. Rentoul (Conservative, elected without opposition in 1900), who was recently appointed a judge of the city of London, has resulted as follows: James Wood, land purchase candidate, 3,576; Col. R. H. Wallace, Unionist, 3,429. Wood's majority 147. The result is that the opposition gains a seat in parliament. The result is the fruits of T. W. Russell's compulsory land purchase campaign against the Government.

Looking and Seeing.

There is much in knowing how to see sights. The discreet and skilful person, when confronted with a variety of attractions, will carefully select those that are for him the best and then will devise means to see them with the least wear and tear. But there are excitable people who set out to see everything, tire themselves out, see only half of anything and are dissatisfied in the end.

PRINCIPAL GRANT FAVOURS THE REFERENDUM

A series of letters have been begun in the Globe by Principal Grant, of Queen's College, on the general question of prohibition, and on the particular measure which Hon. Mr. Ross is expected to submit to the Legislature, his special object being to arouse the public from its indifference, and to induce all the electors to vote yea or nay. He points out that in 1898, out of every hundred voters on the Manitoba list, 18 voted for and 5 against prohibition, which goes to show that the masses were indifferent, and he thinks that it would be not only pure waste, but inexcusable wickedness, for the friends of temperance to divide the forces which are warring against sin. He says it is understood that the Government "will submit a measure to the Legislature, which if passed in the House, will be submitted to the people before it becomes law. The Government could do nothing else. Having regard to its pledges, it must take the responsibility of preparing a measure; and it being all-important to know, not what the people thought on the subject in 1898, but what they think in 1902, and to know also what their opinion is not merely on a general principle, but on the concrete form in which the principle is to be embodied, it would be an arbitrary stretch of power to give the measure the force of law without submitting it to the electorate for their judgment. We shall then be called on to judge, and I trust, now that the matter has been brought so near to us, that no one who respects himself, and who values the moral life of his province, will be guilty of the contempt which is involved in not voting. It may be that many abstained from voting in 1898 because they could not be aroused into the least enthusiasm for or against a general principle, the exact application of which to their own lives, they had not imagination enough to picture."

AN AMERICAN PRINCESS.

President Roosevelt very naturally demurred to what appeared to be a wild and wayward ambition on the part of his young daughter to appear as a participator at King Edward's coronation ceremonies. His advisers, Senator Hanna and the rest, were out and out opposed to it. What reasons they gave we do not know, but presumably they said that the proposal could only court a snubbing at the hands of the British court, at which Miss Roosevelt could have no status of any kind, as she was entirely outside of the American governmental institutions which recognize no family relationships. Moreover such an innovation on American institutions might prove very distasteful to the American people, as it certainly was opposed to their traditions. The whole aspect of things seems to have changed, however, when the thing came to King Edward's ears. Never was there a better opportunity to show respect to a kindred people, or to do something that would ingratiate the two peoples with each other and indeed assimilate them to each other. What is King Edward anyway but the chosen president of the British Empire, chosen not for personal qualities, albeit he possesses the most kingly of qualities, but on the score of family, and not for a time but for life, and why should he not so far as he was concerned account as of equal rank with himself the strong man, whose personal qualities had raised him to the invisible purple. When it was realized that the idea was a welcome one in England, there was no resisting it. Not only would the uncoronated princess take her place with the greatest, but she would necessarily, next to royalty, be the most interesting figure in the greatest and most historical pageant of modern times. It is understood, according to reports from Washington, that Miss Roosevelt will be accorded the rank and precedence of a royal princess. Correspondents who say they draw their inspiration from those conversant with regal customs assure the world that Miss Roosevelt will appear on that occasion in robes of royal purple, with bands of ermine and miniver to distinguish her from mere peeresses, and that she will rank next to Royal princesses, the only distinction between her and them being that she will not wear a coronet, because her father's dignity is not hereditary. The story sounds a little Aladdin-like, as representatives of the United States have always taken a pride in maintaining absolute simplicity. It is probable however that no simplicity will be imposed upon her by British regulation. Every effort will certainly be made to treat her with every possible distinction. Lodged in a royal palace, and shown the highest honour by royalty, she will enjoy in actuality an experience only known to other girls in the dreams of fairyland. As a function of international courtesy her visit to London is regarded in Washington as far exceeding in importance the visit of Prince Henry to the United States. It is believed that the opportunities for the display of international amity and cordiality will be greater because of the fact that Miss Roosevelt is a young girl, and the felicitations will be of a much more subtle and engaging character. This is an extremely pleasant and gratifying view of her royal debut, and it is hoped that nothing will occur to dispel it. Prince Esterhazy, the Austrian ambassador, was the great feature of the coronation of the late Queen. It was not the prince, however, but his diamonds, which drew attention. These diamonds will sink into insignificance in the pages of history as compared with the ermine, or whatever it may be, of the republican princess royal.

MR. NICHOLLS' GIFT.

What the General Manager of the Canadian General Electric Company has Done.

Frederick Nicholls, of Toronto, has placed the Canadian Electrical Association under a tribute of gratitude by a gift of $500—the first considerable benefction it has had—which he has placed in the hands of the executive, unhampered by conditions. While no official announcement has been made, it is probable that a large part of the gift will be applied in the form of prizes for original work by Canadians in any department of electricity. It is not only in respect of this gift that the Canadian Electrical Association is indebted to Mr. Nicholls. For four or five years the association has been steadily drifting to the shoals by allowing itself to be brought under the control of the "supply man," but at the last annual meeting, Mr. Nicholls, speaking as general manager of the Canadian General Electric Company, declined to stand for election to office, and placed on record in no uncertain way, his conviction that no member representing manufacturers of machinery or of supplies sold to control stations, etc., should hold any of the chief offices in the association. The stand he took had an immediate effect on the election of officers then pending, and is likely to have a permanent influence in raising the tone of this Association.—Canadian Engineer.

Revising the Creed.

Philadelphia, Feb. 7.—The Rev. Dr. William H. Roberts, the stated clerk of the last Presbyterian General Assembly, who is a member of the General Revision Committee, gave out the following statement at the conclusion of the afternoon session yesterday: "The committee has decided tentatively to revise the doctrines of the third chapter of the confession by declaratory statement; also chapter X., section 3, on the salvation of all infants; also chapter XVI., section 7, on good works. The other parts, chapters XXII., section 3, on oaths, and chapter XXV, section 6, by revision of the text. They appointed sub-committees to prepare a final form."

Dawson, Y.T., Feb. 6 (via Ashcroft, B.C.), via Toronto (Globe Special) Feb. 7.—The election to-day was a close run. Mr. Henry MacAuley, wholesale liquor dealer, formerly of Lindsay, was elected Mayor by a majority of 16 out of 725 votes cast. The Mayor and six aldermen are nearly all Liberals.

Governor Ross left on the 4th. He goes direct to Ottawa on official business, and will return over the ice at the end of March.—Faith Fenton-Brown.

HORSE SHOW MAY PASS AWAY.

Canadian Horse Breeders Make a Threat to Withdraws.

Toronto, Feb. 7.—There is a possibility that the annual horse show and military tournament that is one of the society events of the season will not be held this year. The breeders of heavy horses threaten to withdraw unless the show is held at an earlier date than heretofore, and will hold a show of their own at Guelph, London or some other available place. This state of affairs was discussed at the annual meeting of the Canadian Horse Breeders' Association, held yesterday in the Albion Hotel. A committee was appointed to interview the Hunt Club directors and endeavor to secure an earlier date for the annual show.

Dr. Andrew Smith presided at the meeting yesterday. The secretary's report that there had been a steady demand for all classes of horses during the year. Canadian horsemen, too, had a most successful year in the show ring, both in Canada and the United States.

A committee, consisting of Robert Beith, M.P., and Col. McCrae of Guelph, will wait on the Dominion Government with a view of raising the duty on stallions imported into Canada from the Western States. At present the duty is only $2 40 per head, and, as many of these animals sell from $40 to $80 here, this is an injustice to Canadian breeders.

Hon. John Dryden is preparing a Horse Breeders' Lieu Act to be passed at this session of the Legislature.

A vote of $250 was passed to the Industrial Exhibition towards the prize list.

The treasurer's report showed a balance of $3,568.10 on hand, $2,996.12 having been brought over from 1900.

The officers for the year were elected, the president being Dr. Andrew Smith, Toronto.

The third annual dinner of the Canadian Horse Breeders' Association was held last night. In reply to the toast, "Horse Interests," Hon. John Dryden, Minister of Agriculture, referred to the good work the association was doing in educating the people to a realization of the value of horse breeding. He looked upon the Horse Show as one of the best exhibitions of its kind in America, and hoped for its continued welfare. He believed the breeders in Canada were producing the right kind of horses.

Shire Horse Association.

There was a large attendance at the annual meeting of the Shire Horse Association held yesterday morning at the Albion Hotel. On the absence of the president, J. M. Gardhouse presided. Highly satisfactory reports were presented, the association being in a flourishing condition financially, and enjoying a large membership. The officers were then elected, the president being W. E. Wellington, Toronto.

DAMAD MAHMUD PASHA.

Sultan's Brother-in-Law Sentenced to Death—Has Escaped to Paris.

Constantinople, Feb. 7.—The Sultan's brother-in-law, Damad Mahmud Pasha, has been sentenced to death. Mahmud has long been prominent in the Young Turk movement, and was recently expelled from Greece at the behest of the Sultan. Mahmud went to Rome, and the Sultan requested his expulsion from Italy. It was refused, but Mahmud proceeded to Paris, where he remains in safety. All the Sultan's blandishments have failed to induce him to return to Constantinople, so the Criminal Court was instructed to issue a warrant for Mahmud's arrest, and to try the fugitive by default, with the result that he was sentenced to death.

For the Children.

To Keep Their Digestion Perfect Nothing is so Safe and Pleasant as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Thousands of men and women have found Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets the safest and most reliable preparation for any form of indigestion or stomach trouble.

Thousands of people who are not sick, but are well and wish to keep well take Stuart's Tablets after every meal to insure perfect digestion and avoid trouble.

But it is not generally known that the Tablets are just as good and wholesome for little folks as for their elders.

Little children who are pale, thin and have no appetite, or do not grow or thrive, should use the tablets after eating and will derive great benefit from them.

Mrs. G. H. Crotsley, 538 Washington street, Hoboken, New Jersey, writes: "Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets just fill the bill for children as well as for older folks. I've had the best of luck with them. My three-year-old girl takes them as readily as candy. I have only to say 'tablets' and she she drops everything else and runs for them."

A Buffalo mother, a short time ago, who despaired of the life of her babe, was so delighted with the results from giving the child these tablets that she went before the notary public of Erie Co., N. Y., and made the following affidavit:

Gentlemen:—Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets were recommended to me for my two-months-old baby, which was sick and puny and the doctors said was suffering from indigestion. I took the child to the hospital, but there found no relief. A friend mentioned the Stuart Tablets and I procured a box from my druggist and used only the large sweet lozenges in the box and was delighted to find they were just the thing for my baby. I feel justified in saying that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets saved my child's life.

Mrs. W. T. Delblope.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 12th day of April, 1897.

Henry Karis,
Notary Public in and for Erie Co., New York.

Full sized boxes are sold by all druggists for 50 cents, and no parent should neglect the use of this safe remedy for all stomach and bowel troubles if the child is ailing in any way regarding its food or assimilation.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have been known for years as the best preparation for all stomach troubles whether in adults or infants.

A True Brain Food.

must replace the feeling of lassitude and mental tiredness by clearness and strength of mind. Not that it goes directly to the brain, that were foolish. The true brain, food must be carried by rich, red blood. If mental fatigue worries and alarms you, look not to the brain, but the stomach and assimilative organs. No remedy yet discovered, possesses the marvellous brain strengthening power that Ferrozone has demonstrated in thousands of cases. Ferrozone does not stimulate the brain into a fitful glow, but by improving digestion, strengthening the nervous system, stimulating assimilation, giving new strength to the heart, it sends a stream of red vitalizing blood to the brain. Thus it is a true brain food. Ferrozone is sold by Ormond & Walsh.

THE BUDGET DEBATE

Enlivened by a Very Bright Speech by Mr. Conmee.

RESOURCES OF THE NORTH

Member For West Algoma Recounts the Progress of New Ontario—Shows Up Opposition Inconsistencies—Scathingly Reviews the Record of the Conservatives—Many Public Measures Introduced.

Toronto, Feb. 6.—To-day in the Legislative Assembly among the bills introduced were measures to amend the Toll Roads Appropriation Act, 1901, and to amend the Mechanics' Lien Act by Mr. Leys; to amend the Public Parks Act by Mr. Lumsden; and to amend the Municipal Act by Mr. Preston.

Hon. J. R. Stratton presented the report of the Bureau of Forestry, which dealt with the deforestration of the settled portion of Ontario, giving statistics to show that within the last few years the wooded area of Old Ontario has steadily diminished until the amount of timber land in many localities is far below that required to preserve favorable climatic conditions, and setting forth what has been accomplished in the direction of creating forest reserves in districts unsuited for agriculture.

Aiding Agricultural Development.

Mr. Taylor resumed the debate on the budget, replying to the strictures of Opposition speakers on the educational system. The farm proper in connection with the agricultural college returned a profit on its operations, but, of course, it could not be expected that the experimental work of the college would be directly remunerative. The influx of settlers into the Temiskaming district was increasing by leaps and bounds; the money expended on colonization roads was well and profitably laid out. The Minister of Agriculture deserved the warmest support for what had been accomplished in perfecting Canadian farm products so that they were able to find a profitable market in Britain. The improvement in cereals consequent upon the experimental work of the Agricultural College could be reckoned by millions. The action taken by the Premier in regard to remounts for the British army had resulted in thousands of horses being sold by Ontario farmers at high prices. He closed by presenting the Liberal view of the financial question.

Mr. Carnegie claimed that the Conservative party were the originators of the Agricultural College and that the Liberals had at one time opposed it. A portion of the farm attached to the college ought to be managed as an ordinary farm and made to pay. He justified opposition to the Western Dairy School on the ground that it was extravagantly managed and too near the Agricultural College. After talking for some time about Mr. Dryden's Dakota ranch he assailed the Government's colonization policy and censured them for withholding from the settlers the pine on their lots. The land laws of other provinces and states were more liberal in this respect.

Mr. Conmee reviewed the origin of the funds in the custody of the Dominion Government to the credit of Ontario to prove that they were created from the resources of the province and were properly reckoned among its assets.

Mr. Matheson said that the trusts in connection with these funds still remained and could not be set aside.

The Timber Policy.

Mr. Conmee pointed out that the interest was available and formed a sum entirely sufficient to defray our liabilities. The Opposition criticisms of the financial statement were entirely unfair, and not even clever. it was a misstatement to say that the settler did not get the pine. All the pine on his lot passed to the settler as soon as the patent was issued. The settlers' right to minerals was also safeguarded in respect to free grant land. Long before the Opposition had proposed the timber manufacturing clause it had been imposed by the Government in 1890. It was dropped afterwards because the United States Government removed the duty on lumber. In 1893 the Opposition moved a resolution to introduce manufacturing conditions, but it contained objectional features. The Government took action just as soon as was desirable in the public interest in 1897. Mr. Miscampbell's motion to the effect that the waters of the Niagara River and other streams should be utilized by the Government to develop electric power to be furnished to municipalities, had no doubt been introduced to please some people in Toronto, who made use of him to pull their chestnuts out of the fire. The public interests in connection with water powers had been well protected. Anyone could secure power at a fixed rate. The Government had done all it could be expected to do in developing the agricultural, mining and industrial interests. He recalled the attitude of the Conservative party as regards the boundary question. New Ontario had only been saved to the province by the firmness of Sir Oliver Mowat. (Applause.) The history of the Conservatives in connection with the C.P.R. was nothing to be proud of, and he asked them to contrast the terms of the bargain made with that company and the railway agreement entered into by the Provincial Government. He quoted several Opposition resolutions showing that they had steadily objected to the expenditure necessary to develop New Ontario. They had voted against the appropriations for the Rainy River Railway. The Algoma Central, which Mr. Whitney had charactericed as a "phenomenal steal," would be just as beneficial to the country as the Rainy River road had been. He predicted that the railroad to James' Bay would be built within two years, and dwelt at some length on the benefits which would accrue from its construction.

After Recess.

Mr. Conmee resumed his speech in the evening. The Opposition, he said, told them that the timber was about exhausted. He had heard the same thing said ever since he first became a member of the House in 1885. As a matter of fact there were large tracts of timber which had not as yet been put under license. He favored liberal expenditure for the development of the mining interests. The aid already given to iron smelting had resulted in the quantity of ore smelted being increased from 90,000 tons three years ago to 200,000 tons last year. Thriving communities had been built up in connection with the mining industry in the Sudbury district, where vast amounts of money were being expended in mining and smelting. Without the grants to the railways their development could not have taken place. In answer to the charges of corruption and the shielding of wrong-doers in connection with the West Elgin election he reviewed the record of the Conservative party as regards corruption and appeals to race and religious prejudice. The Liberal party had no reason to shrink from a comparison.

Mr. Macdiarmid spoke in favor of the amendment introduced by Mr. Miscampbell. The Liberals claimed credit for the sawlog manufacturing policy and consequently must accept the blame due them for the loss entailed by delay in adopting it. The grants made to the South African veterans did not include the pine. He thought the House should be consulted before the disposal of timber limits. The financial statement made by the Government was a deliberate attempt to mislead the public. It did not set forth fairly the liabilities of the Government. The Government had pursued a remarkable course in dealing with the offences which grew out of the West Elgin election. It was not the business of private individuals to prosecute offenders. That was the function of the Government. One of the offenders, instead of being punished, had been rewarded by being appointed license inspector. Another had been appointed a fishery inspector. The efforts the Government was now directing towards the settlement of New Ontario should have been made many years ago. Mr. Conmee's allusions to the race cry were merely made for political effect.

Dr. McKay said it was the custom just before an election to hurl all manner of charges against the Government and the accusations made by the Opposition must not be taken too seriously. Mr. Macdiarmid had blamed the Government for not introducing their sawlog policy before, but he ought to know that the reason for that legislation was the imposition of a duty of $2 per 1,000 feet on lumber by the United States Government. But for that impost there would be no need of the manufacturing clause. The Government always sold timber limits to the highest bidder, thus getting the full value of the privilege granted. He defended the Government method of bookkeeping as thoroughly fair and accurate. Out of six men unseated in West Elgin only one had been a Liberal, so it would become the member for that riding to be cautious in talking about corruption. He twitted the Conservatives with regard to the dissensions in their ranks. There never was a time when there was so much talk about changing horses when crossing streams. (Applause and laughter.) Mr. Marter had been compelled to turn his back upon his party. He read extracts from The Ontario Tory severely scoring the party leaders. No Liberal could be found who disagreed with the policy ennunciated by the Premier. He alluded to the Premier's trip to England and said that the representations made by him there as to the sentiments of the Canadian people would strengthen the bonds of the empire and conduce largely to our material interests.

Mr. Foy (South Toronto) took up the question of timber licenses, going into figures to show that important omissions had been made in the Crown Lands reports. Mr. Foy, continuing, dealt with the finances of the department, and he still had the floor when the Premier moved the adjournment of the House at 10.45 o'clock.

Here's strong evidence of the quickness and sureness of that wonderful remedy, Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder: "For years I was a victim of Chronic Catarrh—tried many remedies but no cure was effected until I had procured and used Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder. Women's Ailments.

Women are coming to understand that the Backaches, Headaches, Tired, Feelings and weak Spells from which they suffer are due to wrong action of the kidneys.

DOAN'S Kidney Pills

are the most reliable remedy for any form of kidney complaint. They drive away pains and aches, make women healthy and happy—able to enjoy life to the fullest.

Mrs. C. H. Gillespie, 204 Britain Street, St. John, N.B., says:

"I had severe kidney trouble for which I doctored with a number of the best physicians in St. John, but received little relief. Hearing of Doan's Kidney Pills, I began their use. Before taking them I could not stoop to tie my shoes, and at times suffered such torture that I could not turn over in bed without assistance. Doan's Kidney Pills have rescued me from this terrible condition, and removed every pain and ache."

ASSEMBLY NOTES.

At the Railway Committee of the Legislature yesterday morning the bill of the Toronto and Hamilton Railway was again discussed, and the same feeling against it exhibited. Hon. John Dryden suggested that it be withdrawn and a proper one brought in next session. There was hardly a clause in the bill, he said, that he would not take objection to, and he for one would not be responsible for placing on the statute books a measure so undesirable as the one proposed.

Mr. Wardell, M.P.P., who introduced the bill, said he would not withdraw it. He suggested it be referred to a sub-committee, who could amend it for the committee.

Mr. Dryden was sorry to see that Mr. Wardell had to make a public confession on behalf of the promoters, that the bill was not what it should be.

Mr. Wardell—I think it is just what it should be. (Cries of "Oh, oh.")

Finally the bill was referred to the following sub-committee: Messrs. Wardell, Barber, Smith, Hill, Colquhoun, Dickenson, McKay, Pyne, Conmee and Leys.

In a couple of days tenders for the erection of the new science building for the university will be called for. The building will cost between $200,000 and $225,000; will be of stone and brick, four storeys high and will face College street.

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND.

Will Restore to Perfect Health Weakened and Enfeebled Victims of Grippe.

The Only Medicine That Can Eradicate the Poisonous Dregs of the Deadly Disease

Up to the present time Grippe has been prevalent in every province of our Dominion. Thousands of formerly strong men and healthy women have been laid low and many brought near the gates of death. In a multitude of cases the terrible malady has left poisonous dregs that will in time lead to deadly diseases unless great care is exercised.

In former winter seasons when Grippe proved even more severe than at the present time, it was found by physicians that Paine's Celery Compound worked prompt and effective cures for victims of Grippe. After an attack of the dreaded disease, the first great work is to make the blood pure and tone up the weakened nervous system. Paine's Celery Compound does this work as no other medicine can do. It furnishes nervous energy, puts the digestive organs in perfect condition, builds up flesh and tissue, and gives that full measure of strength that guarantees permanent good health. Every weak, enfeebled and physically shattered man, woman and child should use Paine's Celery Compound at this time. The best test of the curing virtues of the great medicine is the use of one bottle.

Patti's Reasons For Success.

This is the way that Adelina Patti is said to have at one time summed up her good points in accounting for her success on the operatic stage: "I am not beautiful, but I am pretty; that's one. I am tolerably graceful, that's two. I am an effective dresser, that's three. I have a way with me that is piquant, that's four. I like my public, for my public like me because I like them and never tire of pleasing them; that's five. I have a good voice, that's six. I know how to sing well—my own way—that's seven. I always know my music—that gives comfort to my audience—that's eight. I act fairly well with the roles I sing, that may count as nine."

The New Treatment.

Hundreds of people who have gone the rounds of physicians and patent medicines have found a cure in Merrill's System Tonic. This new medicine cures disease by toning all the principal organs in the body, thus enabling nature to throw off the disease. It is the greatest blood purifier known. The chair was occupied by Mr. George Powell, and an excellent programme of songs, readings, recitations, etc., was rendered. Lively interest was centered in the sale of baskets, many of which realized very handsome prices. At the conclusion of the regular entertainment an informal hop was indulged in by the young people present, and altogether a pleasant evening was spent.

A DELIGHFUL MUSICALE

Which was Held at the Residence of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. McCallister Last Evening.

Invitations to be present at a musicale given by Mr. and Mrs. C. B. McAllister, of "The Pines," Ashburnham, were responded to by a large gathering of friends, and the varied programme was listened to with more than the ordinary concert interest. The spacious drawing rooms were a veritable bower of rich crimson roses, while soft rose lights and the sweet perfumes of hyacinths converted the music room into an ideal concert chamber, making a very pretty setting for those who took part.

Miss Bell and Miss McCabe opened the programme with a violin solo, piano accompaniment. Miss Bell's playing was marked by ease and delicacy of shading, showing a thorough knowledge of the instrument.

Miss White followed with a song "Whisper and I Shall Hear," with violin obligato, sung with delightful and pleasing expression, that quite won her hearers. Miss Bradd gave a piano solo "Mendelssohn" that elicited many expressions of approval. The vocal duet by Mrs. W. J. Morrow and Mr. Legg was very promptly encored. The piano solo "Valse Caprice," Raff, showed Miss Mahaffy as a pianist of more than ordinary ability. Mr. Legg is the possessor of a very fine tenor voice, capable of much promise. The Rev. Mr. Armitage surprised and delighted his friends with a careful rendering of "My Redeemer and My Lord." The duet by both of these gentlemen met with warm approval.

Mrs. Morrow's exceptional ability as a pianist was charmingly evident in her interpretation of "Chopin's Valse." She received a rousing encore. A vocal number by the same lady, sung in a sweet flexible voice was also a delightful treat. The closing of the programme was a vocal number by Miss White, "Mignon," a pleasing ending to a delightful musicale. Adjournment was then made to the tea room where dainty refreshments were partaken of, bringing an exceptionally enjoyable evening to a close.

Into the Snow.

Mostly every person knows of Hunter's Cut on the boundary between Otonabee and Douro. This portion of the road suffers severely from the effects of snow storms and the recent abundance of snow accompanied by a high wind was no exception to the rule. On Tuesday morning the farmers of the neighbourhood turned out to shovel out a roadway through the cut that had been filled up in an impassable state. One of the men struck something that was more than snow and his fellow-workers pitched in to assist him in his discovery. It was not long before they dug out a cutter, two robes and a whip. There was no sign of horse or driver. Subsequent inquiry elecited the fact that the evening previous a certain person who was travelling home became stuck in the snow and in order to make his life secure as well as the life of his horse he unhitched the animal from the cutter and made to a farm house near at hand.

THE PETERBOROUGH BILL.

A Deputation From the Council saw it Safely Through the Committee Stage.

Some of the Legislation Which Peterborough is Seeking at the Hands of the Ontario Government This Year.

A number of the members of the deputation from the Town Council which went up to Toronto in reference to the matter of attending to the welfare of the Town Bill before the Private Bills Committee, have returned, and report the Bill as seen safely through the Committee stage.

The gist of the Town Bill in a nutshell, is to seek the confirmation of the Cordage Company bylaw, in reference to exemptions granted, etc.; to confirm the bylaw of the town authorizing the purchase of the Waterworks System, and the issue debentures in payment thereof; to confirm the bylaw of the Water Company in making a sale of the works to the town; to authorise the Council by bylaws to issue debentures not exceeding the sum of $5,000 in one year for the extension and improvement of the works—the bylaws for that purpose to be subject to the approval of the Lieut-Governor-in-Council; to provide for the election by the ratepayers of three Water Commissioners, none of whom shall be a member of the Town Council. The Bill calls for the term of the Commissioners to be of three years duration, one to be elected each year. The Mayor will act in conjunction with Mr. Matthews and Mr. Hill this year, and three Commissioners will then be elected, the one polling the highest vote sitting for three years, the second highest for two years, and the third for one year. In the event of the three Commissioners being elected by acclamation, or in case of a tie, their terms of office will be decided by lot.

The Town Bill also provides for the extension of time for the completion of the Cereal Company buildings from April next to October, and arranges for the exemption from taxes to be extended to the Canadian Company, which is being formed to carry on the work of the American concern. Another clause which was in the Bill has been withdrawn. It provided for the town being granted the right to acquire and develop water power on any portion of the Otonabee River. The Council thought it advisable not to ask for this privilege. Of course the municipality still holds the right by power of a former bill to develop power anywhere below Nassau.

JACQUES CARTIER.

Miss Susie Kelly Reads an Excellent Paper Last Evening.

The Ladies' Reading Circle, of St. Peter's T.A.S. held a delightful literary evening last night which was well attended by the members and their friends. Miss Lizzie Donnaird occupied the chair and presented the following excellent programme:

Piano Duet, Misses Houlihan and Lewis
Vocal Solo ... ...Master Stanley Lewis
Vocal Solo .... Miss Annie Simons
Piano Solo ....Miss Maggie Fobert
Vocal Solo .... Mr. James Wyer
Piano Duet .... Misses Doris

Miss Susie Kelly's paper on "Jacques Cartier" was an excellent one in every particular. She held the undivided attention of her hearers as she traced the career of the celebrated French mariner from the time he set sail "on a smiling moon, in May" from St. Malo, together with the varied and romantic incidents connected with his experience in Canada. Miss Kelly's essay showed that she had given her subject great study, as many new and beautiful narratives in connection with this great discoverer were recounted, which are not mentioned in the modern history. The young lady has every reason to feel proud of the literary production of last evening.

During the evening short addresses were made by Misses O'Connell and Lynch, Mrs. L. M. Hayes, and Messrs. J. O'Brien, P. Kane and T. J. Begley.

DRIVER INDIGNANT.

The Hiawatha Stage Man had Difficulty in Getting to Peterborough.

Robert Davis, the driver of the stage between Hiawatha and Peterboorough, called at this office yesterday for the purpose of drawing the attention of the public to what he characterizes as the very shameful manner in which certain residents along his route refuse to assist in breaking the roads after a snow storm. He found it extremely difficult to get through this week, but with the kind assistance of Messrs. Arthur Morgan Wm. Rutherford, Thos. Hazlett, James Duffin, Thos. Greystock and perhaps one or two others, he succeeded in landing in Peterborough with His Majesty's mails. There are one or two farmers along the road that Mr. Davis says would stay in the house till spring sooner than turn out with their horses to make a road.

Preparations for Wednesday's Great Game.

The Port Hope People Intend Building a New Rink—Notes on Curling. Hockey etc.

HOCKEY.

Quite a number of citizens were down at the rink last night watching the Intermediates "work out" and all were greatly pleased at the showing made. Peterborough never had a team the forwards of which could shoot as wickedly as the present ones; and the improvement in general style since the Port Hope game is almost incredible. Every man seems to have settled into his place and the Kingston team that comes here on Wednesday next will have to travel fast to have a look-in.

It is said that an effort will be made to reserve the west side of the gallery at the rink on the night of the hockey match between Peterborough and the winners of Queens II. and R.M.C. This will certainly be a much appreciated move as there are very few who would not rather pay an additional ten cents for the privilege of coming a little later and being sure of a seat. As it is ladies have to come to the rink and sit in the cold for an hour or so before the puck is faced in order to make sure of a seat. Youngsters who might well afford to stand or take less comfortable seats make a raid on the rink at 7 o'clock and hold down seats that should be for older people and for the ladies. Any effort on the part of the management to overcome this evil by introducing the reserved seat system will be highly appreciated.

There are reasons to believe that the game on Wednesday night will be one of the best witnessed here in some time. The locals are in excellent condition and are anxious for more worlds to conquer. The Kingston representatives are noted for the style of hockey they put up. There should be a monster crowd at the rink on Wednesday night.

A Port Hope paper says that money is being subscribed already for a new rink in that town. Peterborough is wondering at this as there was enough taken out of the southern town as a result of the last match to build a rink.

Galt Reformer: There has appeared on the Brantford hockey firmament a star of considerable brightness. His certificate calls him Hogan, Huggan or some such name. Whether he's Huggan, Mugligan, or what not, he's certainly a beautiful goal tender. That fact was self-evident in the Galt-Brantford game here last week. He's scarcely the equal of the great "Dutchy" Morrison, but whoever christens Hogan, Huggan, etc., a dub is making the mistake of his life. Misther Hogan, in his cage, is a bird and a high-flier, one of the soarers whom the hockey bards sing about. Where did Brantford snare him? Well, that's the mystery. He loomed up on the horizon in the second game with Paris, and then again in Galt; but does not seem to have materialized when the season opened. At least neither Galt nor Paris remembers him in the first contests. A wireless despatch says that the pearl of great price ambled along one day from British Columbia, a kind of gold nugget tourist. Brantford gathered him in, regretting that he had not arrived earlier, although it is questionable whether he could have turned the scale. Of course there may be nothing in the romantic legend of how Hogan happened. Like Topsy, he may have "jes' growed" in Brantford without anybody's knowledge. Some strange things do happen in great cities. Anyway, he glistens like a genuine gem.

A NEW RINK.

The citizens of Port Hope have already set themselves towards raising the necessary money with which to erect an elegant new covered rink. The Port Hope people have been talking "new rink" for many years past, but it is only lately that matters have assumed a business like appearance. At a meeting held on Wednesday night, the Port Hope citizens subscribed $3000 towards the undertaking. As their new rink will not cost more than $5000 its erection is now assured.

Port Hope is taking the right plan. They are not waiting until next fall before they start the agitation for a new rink; they are striking when the iron is hot, and the weather is cold. That is just what this town should do. Peterborough needs a new rink just about as bad as does Port Hope, and for several years past there has been talk of a new and improved structure. However, season after season goes by, with nothing being done. Now is the time the effort to obtain subscribers for stock should be made when the local team is climbing to the top of the series, and when the citizens are in a high state of enthusiasm over Canada's national winter game.

CURLIANA.

Only two of the scheduled games were played off at the rink last night and the finishes in both of them were somewhat on the sensational order. Skip Stanger was playing Skip Neill and in the second to last end the game was 14 to 11 in the former's favour. Things looked easy for John, but "it's a slippery game" as shown by the fact that Skip Neill scored four in the last end and won the match. A four end played an important part also in the game on the next ice between Skips W. G. Morrow and George Giroux. The latter led by 12 to 10 when the second to last end started. Skip Morrow, however, secured a four end which gave him a lead of two. On the last end Skip Giroux succeeded in tieing the score, necessitating an extra end being played. Skip Morrow won it. 'Nuff said. The rinks were composed as follows:

THE KENNEL.

Ottawa dog fanciers this year will make an effort to popularize the Ottawa Kennel Club, recently formed, by giving a three days' show for good purses, on April 7, 8 and 9. There are a good many fair class and some very valuable dogs in Ottawa, and the Kennel Club hope to from 400 to 500 dogs from outside points in the United States and Canada. The Canadian Kennel Club gives five bronze medals for the show and over $400 has already been put up as a guarantee fund for the prize list in addition to fifteen medals and a number of cups. Peterborough should patronize the show well as Ottawa used to send a big string of dogs here.

A "GYM." CLASS DIVISION.

The members of the Intermediate Department, of the Y.M.C.A. are asked to bear in mind that their gymnasium will be divided in junior and senior Intermediates, commencing next Monday evening. The junior class will commence at 7.15 sharp and will run for an hour when the senior Intermediates will start at 8.15 sharp and run till 9.30. This division should prove very popular as there are sufficient numbers of boys for each division. Kindly bear this announcement in mind, especially Intermediates.

PETERBOROUGH OWNS WATERFRONT

Mayor Denne Received the Patent This Morning.

DESCRIPTION OF PROPERTY.

Seventeen Acres Added to Towns Real Estate—Splendid Site for An Esplanade—Possible way of Filling in.

His Worship, Mayor Denne, received this morning, through Hon. Mr. Stratton, the Crown patent from the Government of Ontario, conveying to the Town of Peterborough the water lots on the foreshore of the Otonabee River between Sherbrooke and Hunter streets. The matter has been for some time under negotiation, but the various difficulties that have stood in the way of the transfer have been overcome, and now this property consisting of about seventeen acres is the property of the town. The following is a copy of the description of the property as engrossed upon the parchment which now rests in the town archives. The document states 'that in consideration of the sum of eighty-five dollars, the Crown conveys in fee simple, to the Town of Peterborough,—

"All those parcels or tracts of land and land covered by water, situate, lying and being in the Town of Peterborough, and containing by admeasurement seventeen acres, be the same more or less, being composed of water lots in the Otonabee River in the said Town of Peterborough or adjacent thereto—being composed of, First—That portion of the foreshore and lands adjacent to the said Town of Peterborough at present partly covered by the water of the River Otonabee and more particularly described as follows: Commencing at the point of intersection of the northern boundary of Dalhousie street, produced to the river with water's edge of the river Otonabee at a point where a stone monument marked with the letter "P" has been placed, thence north 19 degrees, 30 minutes east magnetically 2414 more or less to the intersection of the water's edge of the said river with the southerly boundary of Hunter street in the said Town at a point where another stone monument marked with the letter "P" has been placed, thence southerly following along the western limits of the water's edge of said river to the place of beginning and containing by admeasurement 12 acres more or less saving and excepting thereout the small island included in the above description. Also reserving out of the said parcel first described the right of way of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company as granted by letters Patent dated January 31st, 1902, and described as follows—being a strip of land or land covered with water 66 feet in width and lying 33 feet on each side of centre line of the branch line of the Ontario and Quebec Railway to Dickson's Mills and part of which centre line may be described as follows—Commencing where the said centre line intersects the water's edge of the River Otonabee said point of commencement being distant 47 feet southerly from the produced southerly limit of Sherbrooke street in the said Town measured on a line at right angles to the said street, thence northerly on a curve to the right of 506 feet radius 223 feet, thence north twenty-three degrees 52 minutes, east astronomically 1527 feet more or less to the westerly limit of the Government Reservation for a road 66 feet in width on the west side of the said River Otonabee, as shown on plan of the original town plot of the said Town of Peterborough, said right of way reservation shown coloured red on plan of Survey by Ontario Land Surveyor, A. P. Walker, dated December 1st, 1901, of record in the Department of Crown Lands, and containing 2 39-100 acres, with certain exceptions and reservations as in said letters patent set forth, also further reserving out of the said parcel first described water lot in the Otonabee River in front of part of lot No. 1, and all of lot No. 2, Block "E," according to Registered Plan No. 11, of the said Town of Peterborough, as granted by letters patent dated 12th December, 1901, to one Margaret Achsa Rogers, and described as follows: Commencing at a point where an iron post has been planted in the northern limit of King street in the said town of Peterborough, distance 438 ft., and bearing south 84 degrees East magnetic along the northern limit of said King street from the south easterly angle of Town Lot No. 1, north of King street and west of George street, hence south 84 degrees east along the northern limit of said King street produced in the river 40 feet, thence north 6 degrees east at right angles to King street 156 32-100 feet, thence north 84 degrees west parallel to King street, fifty-eight feet to where another iron post has been planted, thence south 34 minutes East magnetic 157 34-100 feet more or less, to the place of beginning, as shown on plan of survey by Ontario Land Surveyor A. J. Cameron, dated October 16th, 1901, of record in the Department of Crown Lands, and containing 176-1000 of an acre. Secondly,—All that parcel or tract of land situate, lying and being in the Otonabee river adjacent to the village of Ashburnham, in the said Town of Peterborough, and being composed of the piece or parcel of land partly covered by the waters of the said river, and described as follows: Commencing in the eastern bank of the said River Otonabee at a point where a stone monument marked with the letter "P" has been placed, distant 434 feet more or less southerly from the southern limit of Elizabeth street, in the village of Ashburnham, thence south 16 degrees 30 minutes, west magnetically 2026 feet more or less to the northerly limit of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company's bridge or embankment across the said river, thence easterly following along the said northern boundary of the said bridge or embankment 200 feet more or less to the eastern limit of said embankment, thence north 23 degrees 15 minutes, east 1275 feet, thence north 38 degrees 50 minutes, east 262 feet more or less to the southern bounday of Block "F" in the said village of Ashburnham, thence along the southerly and westerly limits of said Block "F" to the place of beginning and containing by admeasurement five acres more or less, saving and excepting thereout the portion of the island included with the above description both said parcels first and secondly above described, shown on Plan of survey by Ontario Land Surveyor A. J. Cameron, dated May 23rd, 1890, of record in Department of Crown Lands."

The importance of the acquisition of this property by the town will not be easily over-rated, especially in view of the possibility of adding immensely to its value by means which will mean little or no expenditure by the town. The Canadian Cereal Company wish to have the river bed deepened by dredging, to increase the power at their dam by facilitating the flow of the water. The soil, etc., removed from the river bottom will have to be taken somewhere, and the most convenient place will be the flooded part of the town's new property. The dredgings can be deposited behind a line of cribwork on the river front, and the whole area now covered by water can be raised to form an esplanade whose water front will be a line of wharfage and whose surface can be covered by railway sidings.

This is looking forward to the completion of the Trent Valley Canal whose importance and, indeed, indispensability, as a factor in transportation is becoming every day more pronounced. The Cement Works at Lakefield, and the Cereal Company, of town, not to speak of a score of other industries, will be benefitted and in fact boomed, by the tremendous advantage which canal carriage would give in the matter of freights, railway freights absorbing from fifteen to twenty-five per cent. of the profits of manufacturers of bulky products.

Things are coming Peterborough's way with a rush these days, and it is to be hoped that the rush will continue. We are becoming known as a great manufacturing centre, and that knowledge will attract other industries. Let us all "Stand by the Town," and work and pull together.

A CHOPPER INJURED.

He was Working in McCormick & McLeod's Limits Near Kinmount.

A young man named Thain, who hails originally from Campbellford, has been brought in to the Nicholls Hospital suffering from a number of injuries received while engaged in chopping.

The accident happened at the lumber camp of McCormick & McLeod, and came very near being fatal. Thain was one of a cutting gang, for the logs are cut by gangs of three men, one chops a small nick in the front of the tree, measures it off into the most suitable lengths when it is down and trims it, and the other two do the sawing.

Thain was sawing down a tree, and when it was about half cut the tree split and toppled over striking him before he could get out of the way. The heavy end of the tree struck him on the shoulder and left arm, dislocating the former and bruising his arm. The day was fine and he was hurried out for medical assistance, that it was thought he would get at Kinmount, but he was brought on to the Nicholls Hospital.

FAR AHEAD OF ALL OTHERS.

Diamond Dyes Are Found in Every Land Where Civilization Has Been Brought.

REFUSE ALL IMITATIONS.

No other dyes of whatever name, can for a moment compare with the Diamond Dyes in purity, strength, brilliancy and fastness of colour. They are the world's favourites, easily leading wherever civilization is found. Diamond Dyes are the only dyes that can meet the expectations of the most critical and careful women. They are always fast to soap and sunlight, indeed frequent washing improves and brightens the colours. Many imitators copy the style and package of Diamond Dyes. Beware of all package dyes that do not bear the name "Diamond Dyes."

Should Keep Something.

New Woman—Simply because a woman marries a man is no reason why she should take his name.

Old Bachelor—Just so. The poor fellow ought to be allowed to keep something he can call his own.

A Food for Brain and Muscle.

Whether it is brain fag, loss of memory, inability to concentrate the mind or bodily weakness and general debility Dr. Chase's Nerve Food will restore your old time energy, strength and health. Through the blood and nervous system, it reaches every part of the body and overcomes weakness, irregularities and disease.

A NEW CHAPLAIN

For the 3rd Prince of Wales Dragoons—Rev. Mr. Langfeldt.

Rev. Dr. Herbert Symonds, who for the past five years has been Chaplain of the 3rd Prince of Wales Canadian Dragoons, has resigned his appointment in the regiment, consequent upon his removal to Port Hope. Rev. Dr. Symonds was not privileged, through pressure of his duties as rector of St. Luke's to attend all the camps of the regiment during his connection with the Dragoons, but he was sufficiently in touch with the officers and men to become warmly admired by those of all ranks. He always made himself at home amongst the men and his interesting discourses to the regiment during Sunday in camp were at all times much appreciated.

It will be pleasing, however, to know that Rev. Dr. Symonds' successor as chaplain of the regiment will be Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, rector of St. Luke's. Rev. Mr. Langfeldt is an enthusiastic military man, and before becoming a British subject he held a commission in the German Army. He will make a worthy successor to Rev. Dr. Symonds.

TO EXTEND CANADIAN TRADE.

Hon. Geo. W. Ross Makes an Announcement of Importance.

Toronto, Feb. 6.—At the banquet at the Toronto Club last night, Premier Ross spoke for over an hour, and urged business men to bestir themselves in encouraging manufacturing industries in Canada. He considered Canada was not doing enough in manufacturing. The products of the country should be exported in manufactured form. Thus would more men be employed, and, naturally, if a demand for labor was created, an increase in immigration would follow.

In this connection the Premier declared the Government was prepared to give an annual grant of $5,000 to aid in establishing in London, England, a sample room to promote the sale in Great Britain of Ontario manufactures.

He concluded by declaring that the best thought for Canada was the commercial thought of Great Britain.

DECEASED WIFE'S SISTER BILL.

Passed Second Reading After Obstruction From Cecils.

London, Feb. 6.—The perennial deceased wife's sister bill reappeared in the House of Commons yesterday in a form identical with that of last year. After some discussion, the House voted in favor of the second reading of the bill, 249 ayes to 124 noes.

Lord Hugh Cecil and Evelyn Cecil (Conservatives), who opposed the bill, used every parliamentary trick to delay reacing a vote within the time limits of Wednesday, and, when they returned to the House from the lobbies, both of Lord Salisbury's relatives were greeted with angry cried of "Shame!" "Churlish!" and similar epithets.

FOR A HOLY WAR.

Hadda Mullah Is Preaching Unrest in Afghanistan.

Pedhawur, Punjab, Feb. 6.—There is considerable unrest at Kabul and elsewhere in Afghanistan. The fanatical element is predominant and trouble is feared. Hadda Mullah, who was prominent in the rising which ended in the Tirah campaign, is preaching a holy war. He is said to have the Ameer of Afghanistan under his influence. Hadda will officiate at the Ameer's formal installation oh the Afghan New Year's Day, March 20. Other fakirs and mullahs are stirring up agitation in the Malakand and other districts.

THE COMING SESSION.

Dominion Parliament May Prorogue About 1st of May.

Ottawa, Feb. 6.—In view of the fact that no important legislation is to be introduced by the Government at the coming session of Parliament, it is thought that the members will not be kept here longer than two and a half months. The end of April, therefore, or the beginning of May ought to witness the prorogation of Parliament. It is not improbable that the Premier will take a short holiday before leaving for England to attend the coronation ceremonies and the intercolonial conference in London. The likelihood is that Sir Wilfrid, accompanied by Lady Laurier, will start on his official journey to the other side about June 10.

FROM GAY PARIS.

Secretary Dupuis From the Exposition Makes a Statement.

His Experience When in Paris Proves Dodd's Kidney Pills to be a Splendid Tonic Medicine—Unsurpassed Also as a Remedy for Lame Back.

Village des Aulnaies, Que., Feb. 6.—(Special.)—Mons. Aug. Dupuis, of this village, who was secretary to the Canadian Commission to the World's Fair, at Paris last year, has since his return given out a statement that reflects great credit on Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Mons. Dupuis says says that he has used these pills for "a deep seated pain in the small of the back," and found that they relieved him almost instantly and cured him altogether so thoroughly that he has not since had any symptoms of a return of the pain.

While in Paris, Mons. Dupuis found his duties as secretary very toilsome and trying, with the consequent result that his health began to become run down. Again he sought relief in Dodd's Kidney Pills, and again he found them equal to the emergency, for they quickly braced him up.

His statement, recently published, is very full of praise for this medicine, and he also takes occasion to thank Mr. James G. Jardine, of Toronto who was a member of the Paris Commission, for having first introduced Dodd's Kidney Pills to his notice in Ottawa some years ago.

Mons. Dupuis is very popular here, having been postmaster at this village for years, and resigning to accept the position of Secretary to the Paris Commission last year.

He is now president of the Council of Agriculture of the Province.

The unqualified commendation of Dodd's Kidney Pills by all classes of the people is the very best possible proof that they are a genuine curative.

As a general family tonic for young and old, they are unexcelled, and in many homes in Canada to-day the familiar blue and red box containing Dodd's Kidney Pills is always on the shelf ready for use.

She—Yes; but she made up her mind that she doesn't want any career that matrimony interferes with.—Puck.

Cures Coughs, Colds, Lung and Bronchial affections that other remedies won't touch.

MR. THOS. J. SMITH, Caledonia, Ont., writes: "A year ago I had a very severe cold which settled in my lungs and in my throat, so that I could scarcely speak louder than a whisper. I tried several medicines, but got no relief until I used one and a half bottles of Norway Pine Syrup, which completely cured me."

TUG BOILERS BLEW UP.

Some of the Crew Are Dead and Others Will Die.

Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 6.—By the explosion of the boilers on the towboat John W. Ailes, owned by the Monongahela River Consolidated Coal and Coke Company, near Lock No. 2 at 1.30 o'clock yesterday morning, one man was killed outright, four probably fatally injured and several are still missing. Six others were rescued from the icy waters, and two of these, Maria Walker, the cook, and James Williams, fireman, are dangerously injured.

The boat immediately took fire and burned so rapidly that all who were able were forced to take to the river. The Ailes was completely destroyed. The loss is placed at $25,000.

Rallied at 110 Years.

Hamilton, Feb. 6.—Mrs. "Mammy" Goodman, who has spent about a year in the House of Refuge, has just recovered from an indisposition which, it was feared, would carry her off. For a woman 110 years Mrs. Goodman is a wonder. She was quite ill last week, but rallied nicely, and, it is thought, will be able to get around again.

Took Her Life at 99.

Hartford City, Ind., Feb. 6.—Mrs. Rebecca Evilcizer, who would have been 100 years old March 12, committed suicide at the home of her son, near South Whitely. She choked herself to death by stuffing a large handkerchief down her throat.

Save Your 1892 Quarters.

Take them to Ormond & Walsh's drug store and he will give you a bottle of Four T's, the best, safest and quickest cure known for coughs and colds. More than a quarter million bottles sold in 5 years proves Four T's the best lung compound known. It is a positive cure for whooping cough.

Equal to the Occasion.

A man was once given a large dog to take care of by a friend who was going abroad, but the dog annoyed him by always sitting in his best armchair.

One day a splendid idea struck him. He came into the room and found the dog in his usual seat, so he walked up to the window and called:

"Cats! Cats!"

Up jumped the dog and rushed to the window, while the man went and sat in his chair.

A few days later the dog walked into the room while his master was sitting in his armchair. Going up to the window, he barked loudly.

The man got up to see what was the matter, and the dog rushed and secured the chair.

A Monster Vessel of Olden Times.

Ptolemæus Philopater, one of the ancient kings of Egypt, is said to have built a vessel 420 feet long, 56 feet broad, 72 feet high from the keel to the top of the prow and 80 feet to the top of the poop. She had four helms of 60 feet, her largest oars were 56 feet long, with leaden handles so as to be more easily worked. She had two prows, two sterns and seven rostra or beaks. On both poop and prow she had figures of men and animals that were fully 18 feet high. She had 4,000 rowers, 400 cabin boys or servants, 2,820 marines to do duty on deck, besides being provided with immense stores of arms and provisions.

Slowly Dying From Catarrh.

Thousands are in this terrible condition but don't realise their danger. If you have the slightest taint of Catarrh, would it not be wise to commence Catarrhozone treatment now and be perfectly cured in a short time? This pleasant remedy cures without the use of drugs, atomizers or snuffs. You inhale the medicated vapor which spreads to all parts of the breathing organs, kills the germs and heals the inflamed surfaces. Catarrhozone cleans the throat and nose instantly, and never fails to cure the most obstinate catarrhal, lung and throat troubles. A trial will demonstrate the value of Catarrhozone, which sells for $1.00, small size 25 cts., at druggists or Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

The Indian Child.

In tepee life the Indian child is unique. It is given nothing to play with except the toads that hop about the tepee doors. It has no playmates except those of its own relation, and it receives but few caresses from its parents. The squaw mother is in the habit of putting her baby to bed at dark—they sleep in little sacks—then she goes away to a dance or something of that nature, leaving the child to its own resources. If it cries, no one comes to sooth it. So crying has come to be almost unknown among these children.

THE POINT OF THE JOKE.

It Was Difficult For the Englishman, but He Finally Saw It.

A party of Englishmen were in Chicago sightseeing some time ago. They were entertained at dinner by some Chicago Englishmen who have lived in America long enough to have a keen appreciation of the American idea of a joke. During the evening all the members of the party told stories or sung songs and entertained according to their several abilities.

One of the English visitors could see nothing funny in the stories told by the Chicago Englishmen. Every time one of them would tell a good American story at which most of the party would laugh uproariously this particular Englishman would adjust his monocle to his eye and, looking wonderingly around the table, would remark, "But, I say, I don't see anything in that to laugh at, y' knaw."

One of the Chicago men finally recited an original poem. The poem told of an Englishman who had come to America and after being in this country only a short time had died and gone to another and much warmer country. Ten years passed, and one day an imp passing that way heard the Englishman laughing uproariously.

"Why, what are you laughing at?" inquired the imp.

"Oh, oh, oh, such a funny story as I heard in America! Oh, it was so funny!" laughed the victim, and he held his hands to his side and almost doubled up with merriment.

"A story you heard! Why, you've heard no story," said the imp. "You've been dead ten years."

"Yes, yes, I know, I know," cried the man. "But I've just seen the joke."

This poem set the table in a roar. Amid all the laughing and shouting the obtuse visitor adjusted his monocle and drawled out, "But, I say, I don't see anything funny in that, y' knaw."

"No," replied the man who had read the poem as quick as a flash. "Of course you don't. You haven't been dead ten years." And even the obtuse Englishman saw the point.

Extreme Case of Nervousness.

Female Weakness and Exhaustion—Had a Very Painful Operation—Was Pale and Weak and Fainted Often—Doctors Failed to Help her.

There is scarcely a limit to the sufferings which women endure when their nervous system become run down and give way beneath the burdens which they are forced to bear. There are ills peculiar to women, which in nine cases out of ten are the result of a low state of vitality and a depletion of nerve force. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food cures women of their ills, irregularities and weaknesses by thoroughly restoring the vigour of the nerves.

Every woman will read with interest the following letter from a lady who has been cured of a serious illness by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. She says the testimonials she reads are not half strong enough.

Mrs. Benjamin Hatfield, Hillyard street, St. Johns, N.B., writes: "For three years I was a sufferer from extreme nervousness and female weakness and found it necessary to undergo a very painful operation. I was pale and weak, had no appetite and would sometimes faint two or three times a day. For seven weeks I was under the doctor's care but he seemed unable to help me. Despairing of recovery, I took the advice of a friend, who told me that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food would build me up and make me strong and well again. After four months' use of this preparation I found myself greatly improved, but continued the treatment for one year, using in all sixteen boxes. I have been blessed with a young daughter now, and believe that I am as strong and well as ever in my life. As a result I cannot say too much in favour of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. It has performed a complete and thorough cure in my case, and I am healthier and fleshier than I have been for years. The testimonials I see are not half strong enough. I tell my friends and neighbours about it, and many of them join me in pronouncing Dr. Chase's Nerve Food the most effective restorative obtainable. Desiring that other sufferers may benefit by my happy experience with Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, I willingly give you permission to use this testimonial."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is an up-to-date, scientific preparation of most extraordinary merit. It has proven itself the most effective nerve restorative of the age. It is certain to benefit everyone who uses it, because it forms new red corpuscles in the blood and creates new nerve force. It is especially efficacious in the cures of female ills and weaknesses; 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50. At all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. 9

Her Gentle Hint.

"Yes, I proposed to her by letter."

"And what was her reply?"

"She simply referred me to a certain chapter and page in 'The Life of Lord Nelson.'"

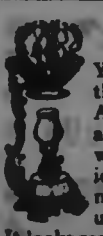
"And what did you find?"

"It says, 'After fruitlessly applying for command of the ship by letter, he went in person to see about it, and then he secured it.'"—London Telegraph.

CURED TOTAL PARALYSIS!

It puzzles the Doctors and astonishes his patients how South American Nervine cures so many who are "given up to die"—it never fails.

"My wife was stricken with nervous prostration, which developed into total paralysis. We had hardly any hope of her recovery, but had heard of the great cures made by South American Nervine in cases of nervous troubles. We decided to try the treatment, and it was astonishing the results that followed the taking of three bottles—it worked wonders indeed. I feel I cannot speak too highly of this great remedy."—Edward Parr, Surrey Centre, B.C. 42



Asthma.

You've tried almost everything for it, haven't you? And we presume you are about discouraged. Now what do you think of our idea of breathing in the medicine, bringing it right up to the diseased part? It looks reasonable, doesn't it? And it's successful, too.

When you inhale Vapo-Cresolene your breathing becomes easy, the wheezing ceases, and you drop to sleep. For croup and whooping-cough it's a quick cure. 16

Vapo-Cresolene is sold by druggists everywhere. The Vaporizer and Lamp, which should last a lifetime, and a bottle of Cresolene complete, $1.50; extra supplies of Cresolene 25 cents and 50 cents. THE TONGUE.

"The boneless tongue, so small and weak, Can crush and kill," declares the Greek.

"The tongue destroys a greater horde," The Turk asserts, "than does the sword."

The Persian proverb wisely saith: "A lengthy tongue—an early death."

Or sometimes takes this form instead: "Don't let your tongue out off your head."

"The tongue can speak a word whose speed," Chinese Wisdom, "outstrips the steed."

While Arab sages this impart: "The tongue's a great storehouse is the heart."

From Hebrew wit the maxim sprung: "Though feet should slip, ne'er let the tongue."

The sacred writer crowns the whole: "Who keeps his tongue doth keep his soul."

—Rev. Philip Burroughs Strong.

JOHN BULL AND HIS PEOPLE.

Record of Interesting Recent Occurrences in Merry Old England.

A centenarian died at Cheltenham in the person of Mrs. Haines, who was aged 104.

A Treasury estimate of the cost of the recent royal trip puts the amount at from £600,000 to £700,000.

The British crown weighs only 39 oz. 5 dwt., though it comprises precious stones to the value of £360,000.

In St. George's Chapel, Windsor, still hangs the royal banner of Queen Victoria, as it has hung for 62 years.

Among the most recent fads of society women is that of being photographed as a moving picture, and some of the greatest ladies in London have set the fashion.

Scarlet coats faced with purple, and blue breeches with a yellow stripe, is the modest uniform favored by the new Yeomanry recruits who call themselves the "Gentlemen's Corps."

An American writer, who deals with the commercial situation, and wastes no words in flattery, refers to Liverpool as "that great dumping ground for the superfluous products of the world."

The challenge shield presented for competition by the National Life Saving Society, was won by the Glasgow South-Side Club, who defeated Eastbourne. The competition took place in London.

Sir John Gerst says: "The richest nation of the world is the one which refused to work more than six days a week; and those that have worked seven are not only not richer, but poorer."

Mr. Ralph Hall Caine, the son of the famous novelist, who is barely 17 and a half years old, is editing "Household Words," the weekly paper founded and for some time edited by Charles Dickens.

Musical men are indignant that Alexander the Great should be linked with the "See the Conquering Hero Comes" air. It is now said to be No. 58 of Judas Maccabeus, and was composed by Handel.

Arrangements are being made to celebrate the centenary of the Bible Society in 1904. An attempt is to be made to raise a fund of 250,000 guineas to extend the society's work throughout the world.

Cruden, whose concordance of the Bible is a household book, passed a checkered and troublous life in London and its neighborhood, but he now has the honor of a stained-glass window in St. Saviour's Church, Southwark.

Mr. Joseph Brooks, a cattle dealer, of Coxley, near Wells, Somerset, was ordered by the Clerkenwell magistrate to pay a fine of £100 and £10 10s. costs for sending beef for sale at Smithfield that was unfit for human consumption.

The memorial to Prince Christian Victor is to take the form of regimental cottage homes for disabled soldiers. Already over £7,000 has been raised for the scheme, which displays that kindly thought for others which is so characteristic of Princess Christian.

A lady who has a home in Surrey which is much too large for her, lets rooms separately to ladies—journalists, actresses, teachers, etc.—for the week-end, or for longer. The furniture is scanty, and each guest does her own work. The scheme is said to work well.

At one time, not very long ago, there was on the Lancashire coast, near Lytham, a cottage and boathouse that were made almost entirely from the remains of a score or so of whales that had been driven ashore some years before. The framework of the edifice consisted wholly of whalebone, and dried skins of the huge creatures, were neatly and strongly fastened as a covering for walls and roof. There is another building of exactly the same kind at Peterhead, in Scotland, and in this case the skulls of the whales and some of the heavier bones are used with great effect as outside ornaments.

In the "Parish Magazine" for Witton Church, Norwich, the list of baptisms strikingly demonstrates the rage for giving patriotic names to children. Major-General Baden-Powell seems to be the most popular, one girl being christened Elizabeth Powell Mafeking, whilst four boys have received as part of their patronymic Baden. In one instance General Buller has been remembered, Redvers having been added to a Christian name Bertram. Sir Evelyn Wood, General Macdonald, Ian Hamilton, and the late General Gordon are also represented.

Near Wakefield, in Yorkshire, a most comfortable cottage has been made, so far as the walls are concerned, of a number of great drain-pipes left by a contractor for years, whilst the roof consists of the refuse of an oilcloth factory. There are in England alone half a dozen cottages, not to speak of many summer houses, made wholly out of old preserved provision cans. The house of a foreman "winder" of a huge colliery near Barnsley contains five rooms, yet the whole of the outer walls and roof are made of meat and other tins.

Imitations

of Dodd's Kidney Pills are legion. The box is imitated, the outside coating and shape of the pills are imitated and the name—Dodd's Kidney Pills is imitated. Imitations are dangerous. The original is safe. Dodd's Kidney Pills have a reputation. Imitators have none or they wouldn't imitate. So they trade on the reputation of Dodd's Kidney Pills. Do not be deceived. There is only one DODD'S. Dodd's is the original. Dodd's is the name to be careful about—

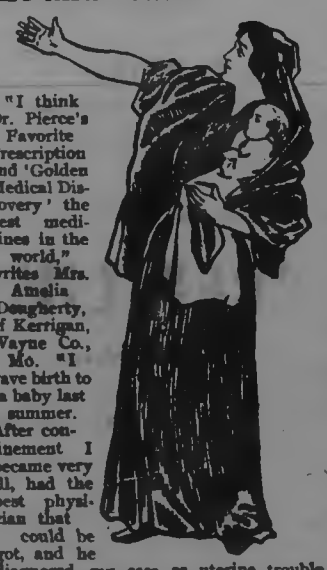
"I lingered between life and death."



"I think Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery' the best medicines in the world," writes Mrs. Amelia Dougherty, of Kerrigan, Wayne Co., Mo. "I gave birth to a baby last summer. After confinement I became very ill, had the best physician that could be got, and he diagnosed my case as uterine trouble tending to dropsy. Medicine seemed to do me no good. I lingered between life and death for quite a while, every day growing weaker until I could not walk across the room. My friends were looking for my death every minute. A friend wrote and told me about Dr. R.V. Pierce, and I at once wrote to him for medical advice. He replied immediately, giving me full instructions as to what to do. I at once followed his advice, and when I had taken his medicine about a week I felt a good deal stronger. When I had taken it about one month I felt as strong as I do to-day. I took four bottles of each kind and two vials of 'Pleasant Pellets.' Many thanks for the medicine, it has permanently cured me."

FASHIONABLE MATERIALS.

Veronese Red the Latest Tint For Street Gowns.

The fashionable materials for street wear are many. First we must count for morning wear the homespuns, albelines and all the long hair goods on the Scotch and English order. These homespuns and friezes are very stylish in the pale colors and especially in the fawns, cadet blues and grays. However, for more practical purposes green is much used, and there is a new shade of red called "veronese" which is not a thick, bricklike red, but has in its composition rosy tints and is very becoming both to blonds and brunettes.

Corded and ribbed goods are considered very smart, especially for young girls.

The brown tailor made in the illustration shows one of the most fashionable effects by way of a wide collar. This extends well over the shoulders and is trimmed with a wide band of handsome sable. This band is continued down the front, passing through the belt so as to give the waist and skirt the effect of being in one piece. There are wide sleeves banded with the sable and having a chic trimming in the shape of two sable tails. The suit is further enriched by bands of velvet applique on the waist and skirt. The belt is of the cloth, stitched. The hat is of sable and coffee colored lace, with a huge chrysanthemum as trimming.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

Great Industrial Discoveries.

It is not the boy who is surrounded by the best implements and tools that ingenuity can manufacture, but an Eli Whitney making a cotton gin in a cellar in the south with the simplest tools or a Cunard whittling the model of a ship with a jackknife that makes great industrial discoveries.—Success.

A Dangerous Case.

One of the managers of a hospital asked an Irish nurse which he considered the most dangerous of the many cases then in the hospital.

"That, sur," said Patrick as he pointed to a case of surgical instruments lying on the table.

A Hopeless Case.

Winks—Jinks never sees the point of a joke.

Blinks—No; he is usually the butt of it.—New York Herald.

Sharp Retorts.

Lord Chief Justice Kenyon, whose parsimony was well known, lived in a large, gloomy house in Lincoln's Inn Fields. Of this house Jekyll observed that all the year round it is "Lent in the kitchen and Passion week in the parlor." At this some one said that though the fire was dull in the kitchen grate the spits were bright. "It is quite irrelevant," said Jekyll, "to talk about spits, for nothing turns on them." On the same lord buying a secondhand suit of clothes and finding a pocket handkerchief left in a pocket Jekyll declared it was the very first he ever had.

To a Welsh judge notorious for his great greed of office and his want of personal cleanliness, complaining to Jekyll as to his being neglected, the latter said in his most amiable tones: "My dear sir, you have asked the minister for almost everything. Why don't you ask him for a piece of soap and a nailbrush?"

It Strikes the Heart.

Not only is the victim of Rheumatism a constant sufferer, but he lives in continual dread that the disease will reach the heart, which means sudden and unexpected death. Rheumatism can only be cured when the uric acid is removed from the blood by the healthy action of the kidneys. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills make the kidneys healthy and vigorous, and so gradually and thoroughly cure Rheumatism by removing the cause. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box.

Just Like a Woman.

The coffee was weak, the toast burnt to a cinder and the ham as hard as leather, or at least he said so. His wife's long patience gave way.

"John Henry," said she, "I've tried faithfully to cook for you for twelve long years. No one in the town has better cooked food, yet you are always finding fault. Why can't you praise me once in awhile? I'd like to know that."

He looked up in astonishment.

"Well, if you ain't the most unreasonable woman I ever saw," he ejaculated. "Why, many and many is the time I've sat down to a meal and never said a word about it. Anybody would know there wasn't any fault to be found or I'd 'a' found it, and yet you want a better compliment than that! That's just like a woman—she can't tell a compliment when she gets one!"

Velocity of Meteorites.

The singular fact has been demonstrated that while the most rapid velocity of cannon balls scarcely ever attains a speed of 600 meters a second—about 1,500 miles per hour—meteorites are known to permeate the air with a velocity of 40,000 or even 60,000 meters per second. This unthinkable speed instantly raises the temperature of the air to 4,000 or 6,000 degrees centigrade.

That Apple.

A correspondent sends us a little story of his infant son. His mother was telling Tommy about the apple and the garden of Eden, when the child, who resided in the country and had a lively recollection of windfalls, remarked, "But, mummy, it would not have mattered so much, would it, if she had picked one off the ground?"—London Life.

EIGHT CONVINCING REASONS . . .

WHY YOU SHOULD INSURE IN

THE IMPERIAL LIFE ASSURANCE CO'Y OF CANADA.

1. It is a purely Canadian Company, having all its funds invested in Canadian securities, and transacting business only in Canada.

2. It maintains the largest Government Deposit of any Canadian Life Insurance Company.

3. It maintains relatively the strongest policy reserves of any Canadian Life Insurance Company.

4. Its past record — the greatest guarantee of the future — has been unparalleled in Canadian life insurance.

5. Its policy contract is one of the most liberal issued, consistent with safety and equity.

6. It has a Capital of $1,000,000, which makes policy-holders' security unquestionable. At the same time, the assured is practically in the same position regarding profits as if he held a policy in a mutual company, the Imperial's charter providing that at least 90 per cent. of all profits shall be divided amongst policy-holders.

7. For every $100 of liability to policy-holders it holds $120 of securely invested assets. These assets are all of the highest order, and will bear the closest scrutiny.

8. An Imperial policy never depreciates in value, but, on the contrary, is constantly becoming more valuable. It is the most valuable estate you can leave behind you.

CHRISTMAS ON THE VELDT.

Snapshot at the Day as it Was Spent by the Men at the Front.

A SOLDIER'S LIFE DESCRIBED.

"Merry Christmas and Keep Your Eye Open," Was the Watchword.

A merry Christmas to you, my good friend, whoever you be. On behalf of the army—let me arrogate to myself the position of spokesman for the army—on behalf of the army I wish you the best and happiest of Yuletides. I cannot send you a Christmas card, so I send you this.

It is turkey and round of beef and plum-pudding and mince-pie for you to-day. It is festoons of paper-chains and laurel and holly and mistletoe and music and laughter. Waits at your doors—"God rest ye, merry gentlemen." Perhaps skating, possibly snow; certainly fog.

There are Christmas days and Christmas days. There is Christmas in the country, with the hard field a-glitter with hoar frost and the little church smothered in frosty ivy, and the village "nippers" in thick boots clattering up the aisle. There is Christmas in town, with the unhappy west being bored to death and the joyous east with little Christmas trees in parlour windows, the smell of cooking travelling up the passage and into the street, and the impatient knot of children with jugs and men with thirsts waiting at the corner pub. for one o'clock. And there is Christmas on the veldt.

Turn up the gas, snuggle closer to the fire, and imagine us, the army. Imagine first a great plain; imagine dozens of great stone heaps sparsely covered with bush. On the horizon a long blue, jagged strip of cloud. It is not cloud at all, as a matter of fact; but it looks like clouds; in reality it is a range of mountains. The plain would be green if it could, only the red old earth wears through and shows itself in patches, and mottles the green untidily. Pick up a stone, there are plenty lying about. You drop it again quickly and stare at the angry red scorch on your hand. Yes, it is very hot, and you have been transported so quick from smoky, dingy old London that you blink and wink and shade your eyes from the strong white sunlight. It is a light that fills all space and searches every fissure. A light that turns the sky brazen and chases the blue from the very horizon. It is a light which blisters the paint of the blockhouses on the top of the hill, and makes the men who lie on the shady side of the little iron building pant again.

To-day has been an uneventful day for them, judging by our idea of what goes to make an interesting day; to them it has been a red-letter day. It is Christmas, and my friend Smithy, who looks the hottest of the sprawling six, will tell you he has quite enjoyed himself. What sort of a day have they had, these men! This morning—this very morning that you read, before you dream of getting up, if indeed it was not before you went to bed—a form creeps through the little door of the blockhouse, and gently shakes one of the sleepers within.

"Nearly dawn, corporal," he says. The sleeper awakes and rubs his eyes and yawns and stretches his arms, and throwing off the one thin blanket that covers him, he rises to his feet and wakes the others; one by one they rise, slip on their coats, buckle their belts, sling their bandoliers and creep through the hole in the wall to join their comrade outside.

The stars still twinkle overhead and the plain below is very quiet. Eastward the dawn is coming, and the tiny garrison stand rifle in hand waiting for the Boers that come with the dawn. Not in this blockhouse alone are tired eyes watching the dawn. A thousand yards away is another blockhouse, and another half a dozen watchers. Further along another east and west, north and south, the men of 2,000 blockhouses await the day, looking eastward suspiciously. Then the east changes from dead white to primrose, and from primrose to blush rose, and then golden, and then up spring the first dazzling rays of light, like the sticks of a fan. Then comes the sun, the pitiless, grilling, triumphant sun, brushing away the shadows and filling the empty veldt with life. The garrison piles its arms and proceeds with its ablutions.

Suddenly from the edge of the horizon northward comes diversion. An irregular, star-light splash of light quivers for a moment, and is gone. Then it comes again, and goes as quickly. Then it quivers, and dances and twinkles jerkily. The corporal produces his note book, and jots down the messages as one of the men reads them off.

"Wish all regiment Merry Christmas."

It is from the headquarters of the regiment holding the blockhouse line hereabouts. The helio dances merrily and another of its kind, living on the top of a flat-topped mountain ten miles south, makes haste to return the compliment. Greetings flash from hill to hill. They are short and condensed for there are messages other than complimentary to follow.

"One of my men sniped last night while patrolling line; died during night; buried this morning" — thus flickers the southern helio.

"I wonder who that is," says one of the men of our blockhouse. "I knew two chaps in No. 61" — blockhouses are numbered.

A helio in the west has sprung to life. "A merry Christmas, and keep your eyes open; small party Boers slipped past here last night; making your way."

This news does not interfere with the breakfasts of the garrison. Coffee, biscuits and jam and a tin of tongue. The coffee isn't bad, the biscuits are more than tough, the jam is distinctly good, but who in the name of the unnameable opened this 'ere potted tongue last night? Ten reproachful eyes look on Smithy, and Smith prepares to take an oath of exceptional force that he never set eyes on no blooming potted tongue, that he was ignorant of its presence in the place. Five people remember that Smithy was complaining last night of great hunger; five people distinctly recollect that Smithy had suggested that the tongue should be opened for supper; five scornful voices give Smithy the lie direct, with five varieties of adjectives. Smithy is indignant, injured, frank and penitent by turns. Confesses to feeling hungry in the night, pleads Christmas time as an excuse and a justification, says he'll make up the loss at the earliest opportunity, and throws himself on the mercy of the court. It is Christmas time, so there are no wranglings. In the little box that serves as a pantry is a Christmas pudding, which the good people of England have sent out; there is a prime roast of beef which the cold storage manager has arranged for; there are vegetables and a pint of beer a man — it came last night on a granger's trolley; and there are letters and papers to be read — they came last night, too. Phew! but it's hot. The block house smells of warm paint and warm food and old clothes. There is a fire in the tiny kitchen dug-out; white smoke rises straightly, no breath of air moves on the veldt, and the light of the fire is made nothing by the light of the sun that beats down from the white-hot sky.

"There's some one riding over the ridge, corporal."

This from the sentry, who has sighted the stranger. The corporal applies his glasses.

"Three of 'em," he says, "in khaki; might be our chaps, and might be Boers; keep under cover you fellers; shove a round in your rifle, sentry—can't be too careful." The horseman draw nearer. They have feathers in their broadbrimmed hats, that the corporal can see.

"Scallywags," he murmurs, 'or Boers."

Do you observe how suspicious Atkins has grown—do you note Atkins' definition of an irregular corps? Nearer they draw, their rifles in the buckets at their side. They are talking and laughing; you can hear that plainly. Then one of them waves his hand and a long "Coo-e-e-e!" wails across the plain.

"Bushmen," says the corporal, closing his binoculars. "All right, sentry, give 'em a shout." Atkins does not "Coo-e-e-e!" but he has a good pair of lungs, and "What, ho!" roared lustily carries a considerable distance. They ride to the hill on which the blockhouse is perched, and stumbling up the boulder-strewn slope, their horses picking a way, now slipping, now jumping, now walking, till the little party reach the barbed wire entanglements and dismount.

"A merry Christmas, to you, corporal." "Same to you, cocky. You've just come in time for dinner." An hour or so later they sat down to dinner. A blanket is spread out on the concrete floor, the meat is carved, the potatoes are served, the pudding is cut, the beer is divided, and Smithy, the irrepressible, proposes a toast—"The King, and bless him!" I wonder how many blockhouses to-day will ring with that anthem? There is only another toast, and the Australian proposes it—"The folks at home," in other words, my friends, at this very moment, or say, at 1 o'clock to-day, thousands of tin cups will be raised—to you.—London Daily Mail.

MILITARY DINNER

Held in Hastings on Thursday Last, at the Clarendon House.

The officers of the 40th Regiment assembled at Hastings on Thursday last, to transact their annual business, and in the evening they feasted together at what may be really termed a magnificent spread at the Clarendon House.

There were fourteen officers present, and about as many of their friends who are invited on an occasion of this kind. The officers present were:—Col. Greer, Colborne; Major W. H. Floyd, Cobourg; Major R. H. Bonnycastle, Campbellford; Capt. Birdsall, Asphodel; Capt. G. E. R. Wilson, Colborne; Capt. Fred Wolfraim, Castleton; Capt. Russell, Brighton; Capt. John Mackay, Campbellford; Capt. Jas. Fraser, Hastings; Capt. F. E. Bogg, Cobourg; Lieut. Neilson, Hastings; Lieut. Butler, Brighton; Lieut. Reesor, Stouffville; and Lieut. Clough, Campbellford.

After the supper speeches were made by every officer and guest present, in reply to the usual programme of toasts, and the company separated at 11 o'clock. Music was supplied by the 40 Regimental Band, of Hastings, which also played on the streets during the afternoon. Eight courses comprised the menu provided for the occasion, which was the most elaborate ever seen at a regimental dinner. The credit is due to Mr. A. B. Spellman, the proprietor of the Clarendon.

CHANGES IN CABINET

Mr. H. G. Carroll Will Succeed Mr. Fitzpatrick.

THE NEW ONTARIO SENATORS

Mr. James McMullen and Mr. William Gibson—Sketches of the Hon. David Mills, Hon. Charles Fitzpatrick, Mr. McMullen and Mr. Gibson —Government Practically Has Majority in Senate.

Ottawa, Feb. 8.—When the Governor-General returns from Quebec, and he is expected here on Saturday evening, an official announcement may be looked for concerning changes in the personnel of the Cabinet, and certain appointments, which for some days past have given rise to considerable speculation in the public press. His Excellency will be advised to appoint Hon. David Mills to the Supreme Court bench, and to choose Hon. Charles Fitzpatrick as Minister of Justice. Lord Minto will doubtless be asked to approve of the appointment of Mr. Henry George Carroll, member for Kamouraska, as Solicitor-General, in succession to Hon. Charles Fitzpatrick. Hon. Mr. Mills yesterday resigned his seat in the Senate, which created a second vacancy in the Ontario representation in the Upper Chamber, the other having been created by the death of the late Senator G. W. Allan, Mr. James McMullen, ex-member for North Wellington, has been given the seat vacated by Mr. Mills, and Mr. William Gibson, ex-member for Lincoln and Niagara, succeeds the late Mr. Allan. It is expected that Hon. Charles Fitzpatrick will be sworn in on Monday. The admission of Senator Templeman from Victoria, B.C., to the Cabinet is looked for ere many days are over. Senator Templeman's promotion would fulfill Sir Wilfrid Laurier's pledge to give Cabinet representation to British Columbia. It is probable that Mr. Templeman will at first be a Minister without portfolio, with the likelihood that an important department may be found for him at no distant date.

Hon. Mr. Mills' Career.

Hon. David Mills is a descendant of an old Puritan family, which went from Plymouth to Holland in Charles I.'s time, thence to New England with the Puritans, and to Nova Scotia at the time of the American revolution. He is a son of Nathaniel Mills, who came from Nova Scotia to Ontario in 1817. He was born in the Township of Oxford, Kent, in March, 1831, and graduated at Michigan University. He was called to the Ontario bar in 1853, and made Queen's Counsel by the Ontario Government in 1890. He was employed by the Ontario Government to defend the northwestern boundary of the province in 1872, and was one of the counsel employed in the argument before the Privy Council in England in 1884. Mr. Mills also represented Ontario in the cases relating to Indian titles and Queen's counsel. He represented Bothwell in the House of Commons from Confederation until 1896, with the exception of one session after the election of 1882, when he was deprived of the seat, to which he was restored by the Supreme Court. Mr. Mills was Minister of the Interior in the Mackenzie administration from October, 1876, until October, 1878. He was appointed Senator in November, 1896, and entered the Laurier administration as Minister of Justice, succeeding Sir Oliver Mowat, in November, 1897. During last year Mr. Mills represented Canada at the Colonial Conference respecting the suggested reorganization of the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council, and was chosen chairman of the conference. On the establishment of the faculty of law by the University of Toronto in 1888 Mr. Mills was chosen to fill the chair of constitutional and international law. He is the author of "The English in Africa," and several brochures on international law and politics. More recently he has contributed articles to The Empire Magazine dealing with the position of Great Britain in Central America, and he has published a collection of his own poems.

The New Minister of Justice.

The new Minister of Justice was born in Quebec, Dec. 19, 1853. He was educated at St. Anne's College, at the Quebec Seminary and at Laval. He chose law as his profession, beginning his career by winning the Dufferin medal in the law faculty at Laval. In 1879 he was appointed Crown Prosecutor for the city and district of Quebec. He was one of the counsel for Riel. His first legislative work was done in the Quebec Assembly of 1890. He resigned from the Legislature in 1896, and was elected for the Dominion House. On the formation of the Laurier administration he was offered the position of Solicitor-General, and accepted it. He is a capable lawyer and convincing political speaker.

Mr. H. G. Carroll's Career.

Henry George Carroll is just thirty-six years of age, having been born at Kamouraska on Jan. 31, 1866. He was educated at St. Anne's College and at Laval University, where he graduated LL.B. in 1889, and was immediately called to the bar of the province. He has practiced his profession at Fraserville and in Quebec City. Mr. Carroll has represented Kamouraska in the House of Commons since 1891, his majority at the last general election being 181.

The New Senators.

Mr. James McMullen is the second son of Archibald McMullen, who emigrated from the County of Monaghan, Ireland, in 1846, and settled near Fergus. He was born in Monaghan in 1836, and, coming to Canada with his father, was educated at the Fergus Common School. Mr. McMullen is a merchant, and has been a councillor and reeve of Mount Forest. He was first returned to Parliament in 1882, and was re-elected in 1887, 1891 and 1896; but was defeated in 1900. He is a Liberal, and one of the most persistent opponents of the late Conservative Government. He believes in the autonomy of each province, reducing the number of Senators and representatives in the House of Commons, and making the former elective, and is opposed to a discriminating tariff. Mount Forest is his home.

Mr. William Gibson is a Scotchman from Peterhead, where he was born in August, 1849. As a contractor, Mr. Gibson has built most of the principal structures of the G. T. R. west of Toronto, including the masonary of the St. Clair tunnel. He first entered Parliament as member for Lincoln in 1891, was re-elected in 1893 and again in 1896, but was defeated in 1900. Mr. Gibson is Grand Principal of Royal Arch Masonry. His home is in Beamsville.

The filling of the two Ontario vacancies in the Senate brings the number of straight Liberals up to 38. Of the remaining 43 several will give the Government an independent support, and others may not be able from advanced age to attend. The Government, therefore, to all intents and purposes, has now a majority in the Senate.

SIDNEY COOPER DEAD.

Famous Painter Succumbs After a Lingering Illness.

London, Feb. 8.—Thomas Sidney Cooper, the painter, who had exhibited at the Royal Academy for 67 consecutive years, died yesterday at his residence, Vernonholme, Harbledown, the spot near Canterbury immortalized by Chaucer. Mr. Cooper, who was the oldest academician, had been ill for some time. He was born in 1803, and his first great picture was hung in 1833.

Had $1,200 Worth of Opium.

San Francisco, Feb. 8.—The Custom House officials here have arrested Frank D. Burton on a charge of smuggling. With him was captured a trunk containing opium valued at $1,200, which had been shipped from Tacoma to Oakland. The authorities believe that Burton is connected with the gang that for some time has been successfully smuggling opium across the Canadian border.

Lived in Three Centuries.

Toledo, Feb. 8.—The two oldest residents of Northwestern Ohio died yesterday. They were Mrs. Hannah Torrens, aged 104 years, 7 months and 14 days, and Mrs. Dora Exteine, aged 104 years and 1 day.

Died of Smallpox.

Whitby, Feb. 8.—The Chronicle says: We regret to hear of the death of Mrs. Dartnell, wife of the late Judge Dartnell, from smallpox, in Mexico, where she went a couple of months ago to live with her son Guy.

How Russian Peasants Live.

Most of the Russian peasants pass a great deal of their lives in workshops, where they work, eat and sleep, the same room sheltering a number and probably a pig in the bargain. There are few beds. Instead, all around the four walls of the room is fixed what may be literally described as a bench. It is made of wood, and at this works the peasant by day, and on it he sleeps by night, each man at his own spot. The conditions of the Russian workshop or factory and the Russian prison and military barracks, so far as interior arrangements are concerned, are akin. Chairs there will also be and a table, rudely fashioned as a rule, by the men themselves.

Twentieth Century Medicine.

The twentieth century has almost a free field in medicine. Although much has been accomplished in the treatment of diseases, the science is still largely experimental, and there is room for a host of discoveries. Perhaps by the time this century is ended there will be a lymph or an antitoxin or some sort of treatment for every ill the flesh is heir to, so that a few vaccinations and other treatments will guarantee immunity for a long period. Then centenarians will be as common as blackberries and a man will be young at eighty.

Travel.

Travel frequently improves the human being, and it does the same for crude whisky, which, after a sea voyage, returns home ripened, and then there is the case of cottonseed kernels which go abroad from the United States and come home again as the "best quality" of olive oil.

Imagination.

It is imagination, rather than reason, that distinguishes man from brute, and no person who is devoid of imagination can know extremes of happiness or misery. Happiness greatly depends on the faculty for forgetting.

HE DOUBLED HIS PAY

How Hamilton's Librarian Profited by a Loose System.

MR. R. T. LANCEFIELD MISSING

It Is Said His Shortage Will Be Between $3,000 and $4,000—An Admirable Librarian Who Virtually Was the Whole Management of the Library—Well Known Throughout the Province.

Hamilton, Feb. 8.—R. T. Lancefield, librarian at the Public library, and who also acts as secretary and treasurer of the Board of Management, is missing. A partial investigation reveals the startling information that his accounts are badly mixed. Just where Mr. Lancefield is at present no one knows. It is said by some that he left the city yesterday morning but other people fear that he has committed suicide. His wife and family do not know where he is, and they are very much upset at the disclosures made. It is said the shortage will be from $3,000 to $4,000 at least. Lancefield was under $2,000 bonds from a guarantee company. The Public Library Board is coming in for some severe criticism for the loose manner in which accounts were passed and cheques signed. John Kenrick, a member of the board, who has plenty of leisure time, has consented to act as manager of the library for the balance of the present year at no expense to the board, and in this way it is hoped to make up whatever deficit there may be in the missing man's accounts. When a new librarian is appointed there will be sure to be a change of rules that will make it impossible for the librarian even to be tempted to do anything not exactly right.

Lancefield's absence became known Thursday when he did not appear at the annual meeting of the Library Board to present his report of the past year's work. Suspicion was aroused when Chairman O'Reilly announced that another meeting would be held next week, when the librarian's report would be considered. Then followed a great deal of hurried whispering, the ordinary business of the meeting was rushed through, and the members of the board were called together in the star chamber session. Rumors of something unusual having happened was rife, and investigations here cut the suspicions of those not on the inside. Lancefield was virtually the whole management of the library, his peculiar qualifications fitting him most admirably for the position and making him an invaluable servant. There was a Finance Committee, but at least so far as the one of last year is concerned, it seems to have been one in name only. The chairman of the board is also supposed to have a keen eye for everything in the way of management, but Mr. O'Reilly, who was last year's chairman, doesn't seem to have been able to discover things.

What has been found out so far is that the librarian doubled his pay by an ingenious method. Just how many months he did this is not known. The chairman of the board was empowered to sign pay checks and also one other member of the board in the chairman's absence. Taking advantage of this chance, it is said the librarian would get his pay cheque signed by the other authorized member on the next day, the excuse being that the chairman could not be got at. This is as much as is known at present. In the meantime the investigation is proceeding, and at the meeting next week it will likely be known positively just how badly mixed things are. It has been decided that an immediate audit shall be made of the librarian's books for the past year. It is stated that Lancefield's financial troubles were brought about in spite of the protests and warnings of his friends by trying to beat the bookmakers at the pool room.

Lancefield is well-known throughout Ontario. He formerly kept a book store in Toronto. His reputation has hitherto been as pure as the maiden snow. In all uplifting circles he was a stalwart. His friends hope he will be able to put things straight. He was one of the most strenuous advocates of a full Canadian copyright law.

At Judgment and an Appeal.

Toronto, Feb. 8.—Judge Barron of Stratford unseated Mayor Campbell and Councillors S. R. Stewart and A. G. Blowes of Mitchell on the ground that by the Municipal Act they were disqualified from holding office, because they belong to an organization which has a proceeding on foot against the town. They belong to a Citizens' League, which was successful in having set aside a bylaw closing a street and enlarging a park for a race course. An appeal was taken on their behalf at Osgoode Hall yesterday to Chief Justice Meredith from Judge Barron's decision. Judgment was reserved.

Is Your Piano in Tune?

The change of season affects pianos as well as everything else. Mr. Geo. Gumpricht, practical piano maker and tuner, with twenty-eight years' experience, attends to all orders left at Mr. R. S. Macdonald's drugstore.

Mrs. Sophie Binns, President Young People's Christian Temperance Union, Fruitvale, Bal., Cured of Congestion and Inflammation of the Ovaries by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Eighteen months ago I was a pretty sick woman. I had felt for some months that I gradually grew weaker, but finally I had such severe pains I could hardly stand it. I had taken cold during menstruation and this developed into congestion of the ovaries and inflammation, and I could not bear to walk or stand on my feet. The doctor recommended an operation which I would not hear of. One of my friends advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, so I gave it a trial. Can you imagine my feeling when within two months I felt considerably better, my general health was improved, and my pains had entirely disappeared. I kept taking it six weeks more and am now enjoying the best of health, thanks to you. Yours truly, MRS. SOPHIE BINNS."

THE PROVINCIAL FINANCES.

It can only be assumed that the Tory papers in their comments on the finances of the province are prompted by the belief that there is something sound in the very false pretence that having told a lie it is better to stick to it through thick and thin. This is the only possible explanation of the persistent manner the Tory organs continue to parade the alleged Sandfield Macdonald surplus and assert that now the province has no surplus at all. And this in the face of incontrovertible figures. So far as the present year is concerned Mr. Ross, within the last few days, has very clearly demonstrated the Provincial position. But partizanship is blind and the opposition will continue to follow their vain efforts to make it appear that the reverse of what the Premier has stated is the fact. Like the "scurvy politician" referred to by His late Majesty King Lear they will get them glass eyes and seem to see the things they don't. But the public will doubtless prefer to take the opinion of impartial experts and it is a somewhat unfortunate thing for the Tories that the government not long ago cut itself clear of its functions and entrusted Messrs. John Hoskin, Byron Edmond Walker, of the Bank of Commerce, and Mr. Angus Kirkland, of the Bank of Montreal, with the task of enquiring into and reporting on all matters pertaining to the finances of the Province in the manner usually followed in courts of law. The commission was going out, according to the Conservatives, to curse. They did not, but on the contrary their report was a blessing. They examined the books of the treasury and tested the accuracy of the receipts and expenditures of the Province down to the minutest detail with the result that they were able to report that financially the Province was in a position leaving nothing to desire. From confederation down they found that the receipts had grown from $1,156,857 to $3,303,698 in the last year their enquiry covered, and at the end of the same there was in the hands of the government unexpended the handsome sum of $507,526. three months later the Government had in the banks a sum of $836,195, which made a total asset in round figures of $7,368,917. All in all, the liabilities at the time were $5,117,985, leaving a surplus of assets after taking off all liabilities of $2,250,932. But, as the Commissioners report did not incorporate these figures it is not necessary to do more then state them as the records presented them. But it will be remembered that the Opposition at the time were indulging in their customary elocutionary fireworks with the intention of making it appear that there was no surplus. Their calculations were elaborate and their juggling with figures as ingenious as with a Chinese puzzle. But the impartial commission discovered that there was a surplus, that the province was more than solvent, and that the much maligned account keeping of the province would do credit to the most careful banking institution. "The methods of book-keeping are excellent, and exhibit in as full detail as in an ordinary financial institution, all the financial transactions of the province," reported the expert Commissioners. The inexpert critics were for the moment silenced. The blow was sudden and unexpected, and the Opposition stood for a time in the position of the small boy detected in telling a whopping falsehood. But their effrontery soon strengthened, and to-day we find the same old falsehoods and the same old slanders being as freely indulged in as ever. We are cooly told by the Opposition "financiers" that the province is financially in a bad position, that white is black, and black is white. The papers fugleing for the Whitneyites will continue to spread the fables prepared for them by their leaders. But the public is not likely to be deceived. They have heard the cry of wolf too often, and in this year of grace, 1902, when they hear and read, that the figures so clearly set out by Mr. Ross are incorrect, they can with advantage remember that the same things have been said before, and utterly controverted by a Royal Commission entirely independent of party politics. If a fresh commission were appointed to-day the result would be found to be the same and history repeat itself.—Ottawa Free Press.

PROHIBITION IN MAINE.

The State of Maine, U.S., has been a Liquor Prohibitory State for many years. The violations of the law were so flagrant that clergymen entered into election contests with the avowed object of suppressing, as far as possible the illicit traffic. Upon this ticket the Rev. Samuel Pearson was elected Sheriff of Cumberland county, who has since his election been devoting his time and energy to the discovery of the means adopted to get liquor for sale and personal use.

As result of his investigations he relates some extraordinary devices for evading the prohibitory law, and has placed upon exhibition for an admiring crowd to gaze upon a "big walking cane, taken from a peddler, which was found to be a vessel containing ten drinks of whiskey. A semicircular tin tank, containing whiskey, was worn by a woman as a bustle. A man whose general appearance was that of thinness had an extraordinarily large 'corporation'; it was produced by a hidden tank full of whiskey. Chocolate cans on the shelves of grocery shops and medicine bottles in drug shops were seized and found to contain intoxicants."

The other devices for concealing liquor are so less amusing and interesting than the above. The account proceeds to say:

"By far the most interesting as well as comical feature of Sheriff Pearson's exhibition, was his graphic illustration of how his deputies had seized whiskey from the bed of a supposed smallpox patient, and from the cradle of a supposed dying infant. He had on exhibition a bed fully made up, and a cradle of old fashioned kind. He got into the bed and covered himself up to the chin to represent a man whose house was searched for liquor, and who, as his wife informed the officers, was 'terrible sick.' The sheriff got up and went to the foot of the bed, from which he pulled dozens of bottles of whiskey, remarking as he did that the more whiskey the officers pulled out, the sicker the man in the bed became. The officers had been told that this man had smallpox, but they went in and got the whiskey, while the man got four months.

"Coming to the cradle incident, the Sheriff put on an apron and cap and sat down beside the couch of an imaginary sick infant, singing a lullaby and rocking the cradle with one foot. Then, as he rocked, he related to the audience how the deputies had gone to a woman's house to search for liquor and had found the woman rocking the cradle. She said the baby was very sick; but they were after whiskey, and concealed under the infant's bedclothes they found thirteen bottles of it."

Such is the prohibitory law in Main.

Notwithstanding the Introduction of Imitations and Counterfeits the Sale of PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND Have Vastly Increased.

The Great Medical Prescription of Professor Phelps, M. D., is the Only Medicine That Truly Banishes Disease and Sickness.

Shortly after the greatest of modern physicians, Professor Phelps, M. D., gave to the science of medicine the most wonderful medicine of the present day — Paines' Celery Compound —a host of imitators sprung up. As the great public demand for Paine's Celery Compound increases in every section of Canada, imitators become bolder, and as a consequence, the public in many quarters are suffering from these vile deceptions. To-day no other medicine is so widely imitated as Paine's Celery Compound; this is due to its immense popularity.

Notwithstanding the introduction of imitations of Paine's Celery Compound in Canada. The sales of the great disease banisher increase from week to week, and far exceed the combined output of all other medicines. People insist upon having the one remedy that makes them strong, repairs their shattered strength, and that frees them from disease. Only a truly great and effective remedy could continue as Paine's Celery Compound has done, to hold its unrivalled place in the estimation of able physicians, discerning professional men and the best people of the land.

If you value life and health, do not hesitate to refuse the "Something Just as Good," and vile imitations when dealers present them to you. See that you get the kind with the name PAINE'S on wrapper and bottle.

MURDERER EXECUTED.

Schultz Pays the Extreme Penalty For His Crime Stoically.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Feb. 8.—Frederick Schultz was hanged in the jail yard here yesterday morning, by hangman Radcliffe for the murder of Mrs. Craig, on Aug. 7th last. He went to the scaffold with the same composure that he has shown all through.

On the scaffold he said "Here goes an innocent soul into eternity, that is all I have to say." The drop fell at 8 a.m. Ten minutes after Schultz was pronounced dead by Jail Surgeon Adams.

He had been known as Lindsay as well as Schultz, but confessed before death that neither was his name, and declined to tell it on account of friends.

Schultz and Mrs. Craig had lived together as man and wife, and kept a boarding-house here. On the afternoon of August 7th last, a quarrel took place between the two, which resulted in Schultz drawing a revolver and firing four or five shots, killing the woman and wounding her thirteen-year-old daughter. He then attempted unsuccessfully to kill himself. The affair was witnessed by other boarders in the house.

Schultz fled, but subsequently gave himself up.

RHEUMATIC PAINS.

Caused by an Impure Condition of the Blood.

Liniments and Other Old Fashioned Remedies Will not Cure—The Rheumatic Taint Must be Removed From the Blood.

The lingering tortures of rheumatism are too well known to need description, but it is not so well known that medical science now recognizes that the primary cause of rheumatism is impure or impoverished blood. The result is that hundreds of sufferers apply external remedies which cannot possibly cure the trouble. The only thing that will really cure rheumatism is an internal medicine that will enrich the blood and free it from rheumatic taint. The surest, quickest and most effective way to do this is to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which are proved to have cured thousands of cases of rheumatism many of them after all other medicines had failed. The case of Mr. Philip Ferris, one of the pioneers of South Essex, Ont., is proof of this. Although Mr. Ferris is 76 years of age he is as smart as many men of 50. But he has not always enjoyed such good health. Mr. Ferris has the following to say about his illness and cure:—"For fifteen years I suffered greatly from rheumatism. At times I would have severe pains in the knees, while at others the pain would spread to my hips and shoulders. I tried several remedies which were of no avail until I began using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I took eight or ten boxes and they completely cured the trouble and I am now as smart as many men much younger. I have a great deal of faith in the pills for I know of other cases where they have been equally as successful as in mine."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills make new, rich, red blood and strengthen the nerves with every dose. It is in this way that they cure such troubles as rheumatism, sciatica, neuralgia, kidney and liver trouble, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance and erysipelas. Through their action on the blood they restore the colour to pale and sallow cheeks and cure the ailments that make the lives of so many women miserable. The genuine always have the full name "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People" on every box. Sold by all dealers or sent post paid at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

HORSES BOUGHT BY BRITAIN.

Canada Sold 11,364—89,705 Captured in Africa.

London, Feb. 8.—The answering of questions in the House of Commons yesterday by Government officials disclosed the fact that the Government had no reason to believe that the note of the Government of the Netherlands on the subject of peace in South Africa was formulated in consultation with another European power.

The War Secretary, Mr. Brodrick, said that the number of horses purchased during the war totalled 446,088, of which 77,101 came from the United States and 11,364 from Canada. In addition, about 89,705 horses had been captured in South Africa.

On Tuesday Lord Strathcona addressed an informal meeting of those interested in raising the corps of King's Colonials. The other colonies were represented at the meeting, which was quite private.

Malt Breakfast Food

The Best Breakfast Cereal Produced in the World.

Food preparations purporting to be health foods have come before the public for recognition, and after a brief existence they have been consigned to the realm of oblivion and forgetfulness. Such will be the fate of all food products that come to us without genuine merit.

Malt Breakfast Food came before a critical public with many claims of a high order. It was thoroughly tested and tried by our wealthiest people as well as by those in humbler circumstances who desired something more nutritious and easily digested than oatmeal, wheat granules, cracked wheat, and hominy. The tens of thousands who closely investigated the virtues of Malt Breakfast Food were not disappointed. They found in it a concentrated nourishment that other foods lacked. It proved more palatable, more satisfying, more appetizing and more energizing than other foods. Old and young delighted with its many good qualities say Malt Breakfast Food is the best in the world. She was the author of a number of poems, novels and plays.

DEAFNESS AND CHRONIC DISEASES OF THE EARS.

For a long time deafness and chronic affections of the ears have been considered almost incurable.

But recently a very simple means has been found of bringing to bear on even the most inaccessible parts of the ears remedies capable of a rapid curative action. For this purpose Dr. Drouet utilizes the well-known absorbent properties of the skin. A plaster in the shape of a crescent, covered with a medicated compound, is slightly heated and applied behind the ear. The chemical elements forming the compound on the plaster are progressively absorbed by the skin, and the work of re-regenerating the organs and restoring the hearing begins. This is the basis of the Drouet Treatment. Those who are interested in this subject would do well to read the complete description of this method of treatment, in "The Journal for the Deaf," a review published at the Drouet Institute, 72 Regent's Park Road, London, and sent free to anyone asking for it. They will find in it also detailed accounts of a large number of cures effected in chronic and long-continued cases which had resisted all other methods of treatment, and and had even been pronounced incurable. A special feature of the Drouet treatment is that patients who cannot come to London to be examined, are enabled to receive free advice by filling up a pathological report form which enables them to state explicitly their case. The forms may be had free of charge by writing to the Secretary of the Drouet Institute.

The Bug Bible.

The bug Bible was printed in 1540 by the authority of Edward VI., and its curiosity lies in the rendering of the fifth verse of the Ninety-first Psalm, which, as we know, runs, "Thou shalt not be afraid for the terror by night nor for the arrow which flieth by day," but in the above version ran, "So thou shalt not nede to be afraid of any bugges by night."

Ludicrous as this sounds, it is not etymologically without justification. "Bug" is derived from the Welsh word "bwg," which meant a hobgoblin or terrifying specter, a signification traceable in the word commonly in use today—"bugbear"—and Shakespeare once or twice uses the word in this primary sense, notably when he makes Hamlet say, "Such bugs and goblins in my life."

Life History In Hair.

A single hair is a sort of history of the physical condition of an individual during the time it has been growing, if one could read closely enough. Take a hair from the beard or from the head and scrutinise it, and you will see that it shows some attenuated places, indicating that at some period of its growth the blood supply was deficient from overwork, anxiety or underfeeding.

YOU CAN GET WELL

Without Risking a Penny.

WON'T YOU MERELY ASK FOR MY BOOK!

I have written these books after a lifetime's experience to tell you my way of curing chronic diseases.

I have tested my methods by thousands of bedsides in hospitals and homes. It accomplishes what no other treatment can do. It is so sure that in any case, no matter how difficult, I take the entire risk.

No money is wanted. Merely write me a postal for the book.

I will send with it an order on your druggist for six bottles Dr. Shoop's Restorative. He will let you take it for a month, and if it does what I claim, the cost is $5.50. If it fails, I will pay him myself.

No other physician ever made such an offer, and none ever will. There is no other treatment that could stand such a test. But I have learned by experience that 39 out of each 40 who ask for six bottles day for them, because they are cured.

One case in forty I fail. Sometimes the disease is too difficult to be reached in a month. Sometimes an organic trouble like cancer, makes a cure impossible. But 39 in each 40 who take the remedy get well. Take other one pays nothing; the treatment is free.

Won't you write a postal to learn about a remedy like that?

My success comes from strengthening the inside nerves. I bring back the nerve power which alone operates each vital organ. I make each organ do its duty by giving it nerve power. Positively there is no other way.

It is a pity for a sick person to neglect an offer like this.

Simply state which book you want and address Dr. Shoop, Box 47, Racine, Wis.	Book No. 1 on Dyspepsia. Book No. 2 on the Heart. Book No. 3 on the Kidneys. Book No. 4 for Women. Book No. 5 for Men (sealed) Book No. 6 on Rheumatism

RESTLESS LITTLE ONES.

Peevishness and Sleeplessness a Sure Sign That Baby is Unwell.

When babies are restless, cross or peevish, it is the surest possible sign of illness. Well babies sleep soundly and are cheerful and playful when awake. When baby is cross, too many mothers give so-called "soothing" medicines, which contain opiates that deaden but do not remove the trouble. What is wanted is a medicine that will go right to the root of the trouble and make baby sleep well, eat well and be cheerful in a natural way. Such a medicine is Baby's Own Tablets, which are sold under an absolute guarantee that they contain neither opiates nor other harmful drugs. All mothers who have used them for the little ones speak of them in terms of warmest praise. Mrs. Albert Young, Stratford, Ont., says: "My baby, who is now 5 months old, has always been very cross and peevish. She was very constipated and sleepless. She was a thin, delicate looking child, and cried nearly all the time. I did not know what to do with her. I tried several medicines but they did her no good. A friend who had used Baby's Own Tablets, advised me to try them. I did so, and since using them baby has been quite well, her bowels are regular, and she has grown plump and good natured. I am delighted with the Tablets and keep them on hand all the time and whenever baby gets cross and feverish I give her a Tablet and she is all right."

These Tablets are the best medicine in the world for simple fevers, colic, diarrhoea, all stomach troubles, constipation and other minor ailments of little ones. They are for children of all ages, and dissolved in water or crushed to a powder, may be given with absolute safety to the infant. Mothers who once try them will never afterwards use any other medicine for their little ones. Sold by all dealers in medicines or sent postpaid at 25 cents a box by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

"That's my son-in-law. He's a very brilliant young man; made a large fortune by the law."

"Indeed!" said the old gentleman. How's that?'

"The law made him my daughter's husband."—London Answers.

Her Pet Pig.

A young woman in London took a pig in infancy and brought it up, as she says, "like a Christian." Complaint was made to the authorities the other day, and the sanitary officers who went to investigate found the pig in bed between two white sheets, with its head on a pillow and its body covered with a white lace counterpane.

IN LABOR'S INTEREST

Mr. Preston's Bill to Facilitate Settlement of Strikes.

VIEWS OF THE OPPOSITION

The Premier Expresses His Surprise That the Opposition Were Unwilling to Lend a Hand in the Settlement of Labor Disputes—Criticism by Mr. Whitney and His Followers in the House.

Toronto, Feb. 7.—In the Legislative Assembly to-day the only bill introduced was one by Mr. Thompson to amend the Election Act.

Hon. G. W. Ross in answer to Mr. Boyd, stated that the Manitoulin & North Shore Railway Company had made no application to have the time extended for the building of the road.

Mr. Carscallen enquired what action was taken by the Government on a petition relating to an amendment to the game laws and the close season for hunting hares presented in October, 1900.

Hon. Mr. Latchford said no action had been taken and none was advisable because the hares in the close season were in poor condition and unfit for food.

Hon. Mr. Harcourt, in reply to a question asked by Mr. Whitney, stated that the cost of the Normal School at London was $96,448. The number of teachers employed was six, and the aggregate of their salaries was $4,802. The salaries of other employes aggregated $2,100. During five sessions the average attendance of students was 96— this session the number was 107.

Mr. Wardell enquired as to the number of settlers whom the Algoma Railway had settled along their road and how many houses had been erected on or adjacent to their lands?

Hon. E. J. Davis stated that no lands had as yet been appointed to the company as the survey had not yet been completed. There were some 2,000 employes of the company and other enterprises, and about an equal number of men employed by the construction company and about 250 houses had been erected.

Mr. Preston moved the second reading of his bill to amend the act respecting Councils of Conciliation and Arbitration. He said that whatever might be the possibilities of compulsory arbitration there was no indication of its being favorably received by organized labor here. The opinions of the leading labor organizations in Britain and the United States was strongly against it and in favor of conciliatory methods. The trouble with the present act was that it was somewhat complicated. He wished to provide a speedy means of effecting conciliation by empowering the Registrar who was the secretary of the Bureau of Labor to proceed to the scene of a labor dispute and offer his services to effect an amicable arrangement between the parties.

Hon. Mr. Latchford favored the bill. It would be a great benefit if the provisions of the existing act were generally invoked. The Conciliation Act would be made more workable by the proposed amendment which he welcomed as a step in the right direction.

Mr. Whitney said the bill was a simple waste of paper and ink and the amendment would do neither good nor harm. There was considerable question as to the usefulness of the Ottawa Labor Bureau which had both done and neglected some things which he could not approve of.

Mr. Crawford spoke in a similar strain.

Mr. Preston said that there was nothing in the act as it stood to enable the Registrar to intervene. The bill he introduced enabled the Registrar to promote the adoption of agreements between employers and workmen as to the means of settling all disputes which might arise in future, which had been found an effective method of lessening labor disputes in Britain.

Mr. Wardell said that the laboring people did not want the bill and it would do them no good.

Hon. G. W. Ross said the intention of the bill was good and its machinery simple. He was surprised that the Opposition were unwilling to lend a helping hand towards the settlement of labor disputes. Anything proposed from the Government side for the amelioration of the workingmen met with opposition from the Conservative benches.

The bill received a second reading.

Mr. Smith's bill to amend the Municipal Act and Mr. Marter's bill to amend the Voters' List Act were read a second time.

Mr. Crawford moved the second reading of his bill to amend the Municipal Act, explaining that it was purely a City of Toronto measure. It proposed to reduce the voters' qualification to fix New Year's Day as the date of the Municipal elections, and to make some other changes.

Hon. J. M. Gibson thought it might be well to grant Toronto a charter. Personally, he did not believe in reducing the property qualification. He was in accord, however, with the provision as to regulating the display of posters in order that innocents coming from Hamilton and the rural districts might not be shocked by such indecent displays as were sometimes to be noticed on the fences.

The bill received a second reading.

Mr. Barr's bill to amend the Trustee Act was read a second time.

The following bills were reported from committee: To incorporate the Brantford Y.W.C.A.; to incorporate the Morrisburg Electric Railway Co.; to incorporate the Toronto Canoe Club; respecting the Port Dalhousie, St. Catharines and Thorold Electric Street Railway Co., and respecting the Pembroke Southern Railway Co.

St. Lawrence River Transportation Co. Negotiating For New Ships.

Cleveland, O., Feb. 8.—According to A. B. Wolvin, the head of the Great Lakes & St. Lawrence River Transportation Company, that company is negotiating with the American Shipbuilding Company preparatory to placing an order for all the ships which can be built during the present year. It is said the negotiations will be closed in a day or so. The boats will carry grain between Duluth and Quebec. The company has obtained possession of the elevator owned by the Great Northern Railroad of Canada, stationed at Quebec, and it already has such facilities at Duluth. The elevator capacity, therefore, has been arranged for, and there will be no difficulty whatever in that respect. Presently, when the time shall permit, it is the purpose to erect new elevators.

No Argument Needed

Every Sufferer From Catarrh Knows That Salves, Lotions, Washes, Sprays and Douches do not Cure.

Powders, lotions, salves, sprays and inhalers cannot really cure Catarrh, because this disease is a blood disease, and local applications, if they accomplish anything, at all, simply give transient relief.

The catarrhal poison is in the blood and the mucous membrane of the nose, throat and trachea tries to relieve the system by secreting large quantities of mucous, the discharge sometimes closing up the nostrils, dropping into the throat, causing deafness by closing the Eustachian tubes, and after a time causing catarrh of stomach or serious throat and lung troubles.

A remedy to really cure catarrh must be an internal remedy which will cleanse the blood from catarrhal poison and remove the fever and congestion from the mucous membrane.

The best and most modern remedies for this purpose are Antiseptics scientifically known as Eucalyptol, Guaiacol, Sanguinaria and Hydrastin, and while each of those have been successfully used separately, yet it has been difficult to get them all combined in one palatable, convenient and efficient form.

The manufacturers of the new catarrh cure, Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, have succeeded admirably in accomplishing this result. They are large, pleasant tasting lozenges, to be dissolved in the mouth, thus reaching every part of the mucous membrane of the throat and finally the stomach.

Unlike many catarrh remedies, Stuart's Catarrh Tablets contain no cocaine, opiate or any injurious drug whatever and are equally beneficial for little children and adults.

Mr. C. R. Rembrandt, of Rochester, N. Y., says: "I know of few people who have suffered as much as I from Catarrh of the head, throat and stomach. I used sprays, inhalers and powders for months at a time with only slight relief, and had no hope of cure. I had not the means to make a change of climate, which seemed my only chance of cure.

"Last spring I read an account of some remarkable cures made by Stuart's Catarrh Tablets and promptly bought a fifty cent box from my druggist and obtained such positive benefit from that one package that I continued to use them daily until I now consider myself entirely free from the disgusting annoyance of catarrh; my head is clear, my digestion all I could ask and my hearing, which had begun to fail as a result of the catarrh, has greatly improved until I feel I can hear as well as ever. They are a household necessity in my family."

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets are sold by druggists at 50 cents for complete treatment and for convenience, safety and prompt results they are undoubtedly the long looked for catarrh cure

CAUSE TO REJOICE.

The earth was not made in a day, neither is rheumatism cured in a day. Mrs. Jacob Dafroshil, Black River Bridge, Prince Edward County, Ont., suffered intense pain in both limbs for a year and a half, and two physicians were unable to give her relief. Half a bottle of Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure gave her ease and five bottles, with the Chinese Iron Tonic Pills, affected a permanent cure. Her many friends are rejoiced at her recovery. This great blood purifier is put up in bottles containing ten days treatment. Price 50 cents at all drug stores or The Dr. Hall Medicine Co., Kingston, Ont.

DR. PITCHER SAVES AN OLD LADY'S LIFE.

Mrs. Barclay, of Ridgetown, Ont., Cured by Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets After Suffering Many Years.

Mr. P. Bawden, the Well-known Ridgetown Druggist, Endorses Mrs. Barclay's Statements.

The case of Mrs. George Barclay, sr., whose home is in Ridgetown, Ont., and whose portrait appears above, recently attracted our attention, and seemed to be of such importance that we thought it our duty, in the interests of suffering humanity, to thoroughly investigate it.

Our representative was despatched to Ridgetown, and on arriving there was, through the courtesy of Mr. Bawden, the local druggist, directed to the home of Mrs. Barclay.

He found that lady, though nearly 80 years of age, hale and hearty, and to all appearances likely to outlive many younger persons.

When he spoke of the object of his visit, Mrs. Barclay seemed only too delighted to give information respecting her case, and told her story as follows:

"For a number of years I have suffered a good deal from my kidneys, but more especially the two years prior to taking Dr. Pitcher's Tablets the trouble had grown rapidly worse. I seemed to have lost all control of my bladder, and the distress was beyond description. I was going down hill rapidly, and nothing I took did me any good.

"I had three doctors attending me at different times, but all their medicines and treatment proved of no avail to help me, and one of them told me I was so far gone I might drop dead any time. Besides this I tried all the varios remedies that were advertised for troubles of this kind, but to no purpose. About a year ago I heard of Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets, and determined to give them a trial. The first box I took gave me such decided relief that I was delighted, and kept on taking the Tablets till, after using sixteen boxes, I was completely cured of my kidney trouble, and besides that, greatly improved in health generally.

"Some people wonder that I had the persistence to take 16 boxes of the Tablets, but I knew at my age remedies did not act so quickly on the system, and, besides that, my trouble was of a very chronic nature."

"Yes," said Mrs. Barclay, as our representative was leaving, "Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets have positively cured me, and I willingly allow my case to be published in the hope of being of benefit to some poor soul who needs these Tablets."

THE DRUGGIST'S STATEMENT.

On returning to Mr. Bawden's store our young man had a chat with that gentleman about the case.

"Well," said he, "that case of Mrs. Barclay's has created quite a sensation in this town and neighborhood.

"She is about 80, and to my knowledge has been taking medicine for years, as well as doctors' treatment. Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets, which she bought from me, seemed to suit her case exactly.

"The doctors failed to relieve her, but the first box of Tablets helped her a great deal, and she continued taking them for some time.

"She has had no return of her old trouble, and her general health is much improved."

"She is recommending them to everyone she runs against who has kidney trouble. For fifty years or more she has been a resident of our town, and is well known to everyone. Her friends are delighted at her recovery, which is almost regarded as a miracle, considering the lady's age."

After leaving Mr. Bawden we found upon making enquiries around the town that many people were using Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets, with good results, having been recommended to take them by Mrs. Barclay. The Tablets seem to have a large sale in this section of the country, and deservedly so, for they evidently make cures where the ordinary kidney remedies and doctors' treatment fail to be of benefit. We might just note here that anyone who wants to write to Mrs. Barclay, enclosing stamp for reply will find that lady glad to give them any information about her case and her experience with Dr. Pitcher's Tablets.

In purchasing Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets, see that Dr. Pitcher's portrait and signature are on the package, otherwise you are being imposed upon.

Price 50c a box, or 6 boxes for $2.50, at all druggists, or sent by mail, by addressing The Dr. Zina Pitcher Co., Toronto, Ont.

Annual Dance.

The annual dance of the Keene Hockey Club took place last night, and proved to be as successful in every respect as the former affairs of the kind that have been held under the auspices of the club. The Hockey Club's assembly at Keene has become one of the chief social events of that community, and over sixty couples responded to the invitations of the committee last night. About twenty young people from Peterborough went down and Mr. Archie Moore of town, acted as floor manager in his usual efficient manner. The music was supplied by the Cawthorne orchestra.

Some others may be good, but without doubt Miller's Compound Iron Pills are the best. Sold by all druggists.

NEWS NUGGETS.

—Central Charity Board meets on Monday night.

Mr. A. P. Choate of Toronto, is in town visiting his parents.

—Belleville's roller mills are to be again placed in operation.

—The annual meeting of the Peterborough Cheese Board is being held this afternoon.

—A bus load of young people drove out to Chemong last night and enjoyed an informal hop.

—It is said that quite a number of young men from town will take in the Old Maids' Convention in Ashburnham on Monday night.

—The country roads still continue to be in bad shape for travelling. A couple of miles an hour seems to be considered good travelling for a team.

—Dr. Bingham, Medical Health Officer, states that the patient in the Jackson Park quarantine hospital will be given his freedom early this week.

—Lent begins on the 12th of February. Easter will come towards the end of March, which is much earlier than for many years. A short winter is therefore to be expected.

—The Calcutt Brewing and Malting Company has just placed on their brewery a new 40 foot smoke-stack which was manufactured by Adam Hall and erected by Mr. R. Tivey.

—Oliver Crevier, a Frenchman, fell forty feet from the new Grand Trunk bridge at Pickering, on Monday, alighting upon his head, but was saved from death by a snowdrift on the ice.

—The Quebec Board of Health has sued and obtained judgment against the municipality of Terrebonne, on the ground that four weeks ago they allowed a small-pox patient to go on board a train.

—The idea of Ottawa in running a kind of cultivator over the pavements to remove the hogs back ridges seems to be about the proper caper and could be tried with good effect in Peterborough.

—The Quebec Board of Health has issued a special vaccination order, under which all persons must show successful vaccination, be vaccinated, or pay a fine of $5, with a dollar additional for each day's delay.

—On the Canada Atlantic Railway locomotives are being introduced that will run seventy-five miles an hour. The Grand Trunk is now trying the same plan with a view to reducing the time between Montreal and Toronto.

—The dedicatory sermons in connection with the Methodist church at Cordova Mines will take place on Sunday, Feb. 9th at 1.30 o'clock p.m. The services will be conducted by the President of the Bay of Quinte Conference, Rev. J. C. Wilson, of Brighton.

—The residents of Belmont in the vicinity of Victoria, are making an effort to have a post office established there. In all probability the Rockdale office, being so near to Cordova, will be shut down, if the promoters succeed in getting one established at Victoria.

—An exchange says: "It would be a great convenience to the public if Township Councils would erect sign posts at the road corners giving the names of the concessions and side roads. The expense would be but trifling. Farmers, too could help in this matter by placing a small neat board on the front gate way giving the name of the owner and the number of the lot. If some enterprising township would undertake to be the pioneer in this scheme it would quickly spring into fame and popularity.

THE BAND CONCERT.

There was a fair attendance at the band concert in the market hall last night given by the band of the 57th Regiment. The programme was an excellent one, and thoroughly enjoyed by all present. The feature of the evening was the euphonium solo, "The Vacant Chair," by Mr. Cronk. The programme was about the same as that rendered at Lindsay a few nights ago.

The New Treatment.

Hundreds of people who have gone the rounds of physicians and patent medicines have found a cure in Mer-rill's System Tonic. THE LATE REV. FRANCIS ANDREW'S D. D.

Funeral Service Held in Keene Yesterday Were Largely Attended.

The last sad rites were performed on Friday afternoon over the remains of the late Rev. Francis Andrews, D. D.

Long before the hour for service, (three o'clock) the large congregation together with friends in sympathy, crowded to the church, to pay a last tribute and take a sad farewell, of all that was earthly of a pastor, active, energetic and zealous, a friend tried and true, a citizen in this community loyal and devoted to public weal for over fifty-one years.

On account of the great depth of snow and the impassable state of the roads, many were prevented from attending, but as it was, the seating capacity of the large edifice was taxed to its utmost. At 2.30 the large bell in the tower began to toll out the sad dirge and at three o'clock as the dead march in Saul was being played, the solemn cortage entered the church.

The Rev. Mr. Reeves, of Campbellford, conducted the service and opened with prayer. The choir sang the xxiii. Psalm, after which Rev. Seccombe, pastor of the Methodist church, Keene, read from the Old Testament, the xc. Psalm. Rev. E. F. Torrance, D. D., led in prayer and then Rev. J. G. Potter read several passages from the New Testament.

Here an incident was brought to light to show up the life of the man, when Rev. Reeves read in a book of daily devotions the page read by the deceased on the last evening of his life, full of trust in God, resignation to His will, and the imperfections in human reason.

The Rev. Mr. Thompson, of Hastings, gave the address to the congregation and very fittingly referred to the departed in all his sphere of usefullness, offering consolation to the bereaved family and mourning congregation and many eyes were not dry, and not a few felt the dull aching thud of pain as the train of memories crowded past. Many were those that he had baptized, now in the eve of life; they were those whom he had married, whose children and children's children he had christened. The speaker pointed out that such a relationship could not be cancelled in a day, but would live on.

The Rev. T. F. Torrance, D.D., spoke for the Presbytery and the Rev. S. McCauley, formerly of the Methodist church, Keene, for the Methodist.

Rev. Kannawin, of Omemee, pronounced the benediction, after which the assemblage viewed the remains. This occupied fully half an hour.

The procession passed to the cemetery, where the obsequies were performed by the Rev. Mr. Bennett.

The casket was extremely beautiful and was literally covered with floral tributes some of which were an anchor of roses, lilies and carnations, by the congregation; a column of lilies and deleotra from the Philosophy Class, Varsity; a wreath C. E. of carnations pink and white, by the Y.P.S.C.E.

CEREAL CO. NOTES.

The Progress That is Being Made on the Buildings.

The cold weather has not interefered with the progress that is being made at the Cereal Company's buildings, and the brick work has gone forward at a most satisfactory rate. The sixth story of the first building is now underway and the foundations of the new elevator are about completed.

Workmen are engaged in laying a spur line from the main spur line to a northerly point on the new street. The switch will be a little north of Hunter street, and the iron rails curve to the west of the new elevator foundation and north to a considerable distance. This is just a temporary track and is to enable the Company to bring in building materials.

The great amount of steel work that is being used in the new building is surprising. There will be scarcely anything to burn about the structure—even the window casings and frames are of iron.

PETERBOROUGH LABOUR UNION

Twenty-two New Members Were Initiated Last Night.

The regular weekly meeting of the Labour Union was held on Friday evening, with the usual large attendance of members present. The general interest taken in the aims and objects of the Union is increasing weekly. The officers get down to business sharp on time, and conduct the routine work of their meetings with earnestness. The members deliberate and discuss the subjects brought up with short and sensible speeches and the President handles the gavel with prudence and discretion.

Another large number of applications for membership were received, and twenty-two new members were initiated.

Mr. Geo. Ball was present and addressed the meeting on the result of the recent election for water commissioners. He thanked the members for their splendid support, and congratulated the Union on the good showing which it had made in the contest. He claimed that under all the circumstances and with such a combination up against them, they had won a victory. He was prouder than ever of the labour vote. After a stirring speech of half an hour Mr. Ball took his seat amid applause.

Messrs. Gibson, Lowry, McNamara and others addressed the meeting, congratulating Mr. Ball on the plucky race he had run.

Rev. J. C. Davidson delivered an address of welcome and encouragement to the new members. He pointed out what the duty of wage-earners were who joined the Union, dilated on the nobility of labour and the blessings of work. They were to stand shoulder to shoulder for their rights, and use every legitimite means to shorten their hours of labour and increase their pay. He advised them to be good servants, to be sober, industrious and faithful to their employers, and do all they could to make themselves good citizens and workingmen.

The meeting then adjourned.

WAS WELL ATTENDED.

The Entertainment Which was Given at the Y. M. C. A. Last Night.

The entertainment given last night in the Y.M.C.A. Lecture Room for the benefit of the Boys' Department, was very largely attended. The well-selected programme was excellently rendered in every particular, and the success of their first entertainment should give the boys great encouragement. The chairman, Mr. W. S. Robinson, opened the entertainment with a short address. An instrumental duet by the Misses Huffman was well received, and the selections on the guitar and banjo by Miss Dobbin and Mr. Henderson, were especially applauded. Solos were sung by Mr. C. Parks and Mr. Jas. Browne in a manner which added fresh credit to their reputations as vocalists.

Recitations were given by Ford Turner and Stewart Anderson. The "Brownies," in their gymnasium uniforms, gave a dumb bell drill, and formed several pretty pyramids and fans. After three tableaux, "The Ragged Boy," "A Fan," and 'Our Boys," the evening's entertainment was closed with the playing of "God Save the King."

HIS BIRTHDAY REMEMBERED.

The Goose Club Makes a Presentation to a Member.

Last evening the members of the Goose Club assembled at the residence of Mr. W. J. Devlin, it being the occasion of his 66th birthday. This gentleman is one of the most popular members of this organization and the association desired to show in some manner their appreciation of his many acts of kindness during the different sessions of the club.

Mr. James O'Brien, G.R.B., during the evening stepped forward and read the following address, the presentation of the pipe being made by Mr. P. Kane, organist of the Goose Club.

William John Devlin,—

Dear Friend, — It is with great pleasure that we the members of the Goose Club assemble here to-night to do honour on the anniversary of your sixty-sixth birthday, to one of the honourary members of this club.

It is a source of joy to us all when we recall the pleasant evenings we had playing beslque for the feathers, and more especially the evening when we fed on Collins' choke dog, and also the way the gang demolished the cream puffs, especially when the cream got mixed up in their whiskers.

Dear Friend, before concluding, we will ask you to accept this pipe as a small token of the esteem in which we hold you and hope you will live for another century.

Signed on behalf of the Goose Club, J. A. Sharpe, J. O'Brien, P. O'Donnell, C. Theobald, M. J. O'Brien, P. Kane, J. Hayes.

Mr. Devlin was taken by surprise by this manifestation of good fellowship, and it was some minutes before he could realize what was trump. However he thanked the members from the bottom of his heart for their kindness, after which a very enjoyable evening was spent in social intercourse.

NOT AS IT SHOULD BE.

The Weather Vane on St. Paul's Church Points in One Direction Only.

A correspondent writes to the Examiner: "I notice in your excellent report of St. Paul's congregational meeting, that the Managers intend to considerably improve the exterior of their sacred edifice this spring. The handsome spire points, and has pointed for many years, the way to Heaven, but the weather vane on the summit has likewise pointed in the same direction — not upwards, but south-west — for at least a score of years. This is not as it should be. A weather vane worthy of the name, points in the direction from which the wind blows, and the vane on St. Paul's, if it did its duty, would be a general public convenience, as it is one of the most conspicuous objects in town. I would suggest that the Managers make an effort to oil, or otherwise rectify its internal mechanism.

A TOURNAMENT TEAM

Should be Sent From Peterborough to Toronto in the Spring.

With so many athletic young fellows to choose and pick from, it seems a pity that the 57th Regiment does not send up a team to the annual military tournament in Toronto next spring. Brittain, Sturgeon and Bell are all sufficiently well up in the fine points of bayonet, broadsword and foil bouts to be able to coach those who would like to go, and with the three above mentioned men as a nucleus, there is not the slightest doubt but that a team could be selected which would be a credit to the 57th.

The non-coms. have been brought closely in touch with one another this winter through being associated in getting up the recent military ball, and before a final settling up of affairs, and consequent dissolution of the committee, it would be well if this matter of preparing a team for the tournament was given consideration.

Over a Million Victims.

A careful estimate shows that one-fifth of Canada's population suffer every winter with hacking lung weakening coughs. Four T's, Druggist Merrill's great discovery cures a cough in 24 hours and the worst cold in two days making it unnecessary to wear the system out in this way. FATHER MURPHY ON TEMPERANCE.

To-morrow Evening at St. Peter's Cathedral, Rev. Father Murphy C. S. P., New York, Will Preach on Temperance.

As will be remembered, Father Murphy preached the sermon at the organization of St. Peter's T. A. S. two years ago, and judging from the success of the men's branch a bright future can be anticipated for the League of the Cross, as the ladies' branch will be known.

Father Murphy is a member of the Paulist Order, who are leaders in the temperance work among the Catholics of the United States. For many years past one of their members has held the important position of secretary of the Total Abstinence Union of America. In their printing establishment in New York are the offices of publication of much of the Catholic temperance literature distributed throughout the country. There is an office staff of 30 men and women engaged in this work.

HARDSHIPS OF TOMMY ATKINS.

Wandsworth, S. W., England.

Gentlemen,—I am not much of a letter writer, but having seen how very useful Kelpion was to us on our long march, I think you are deserving of all the praise you can get. I am thankful to say that I never had much use for it myself but when I did have occasion I must say it was the best thing I had ever tried for sore feet and insect bites. Its praises were sung all over the camp. No matter what was wrong with a fellow, he was advised by chums to apply "Kelpion" and he would soon be all right. Our water bottles and our Kelpion were the two things treasured above all others in our marching kit. (Signed,) Pte. D. R. Price. No. 901, C. I. V.

FATHER OFFERS $500.

Mysterious Disappearance of Walter F. Bolger, Yonkers, N. Y.

Col. Patridge, Chief of Police, New York, has issued a circular asking for the whereabouts of Walter F. Bolger, who disappeared from his home, Yonkers, N. Y., on November 19th last, and has not since been seen or heard of. He is 18 years of age, about 5 feet 11 inches high, and weighs about 178 pounds. His father, Paul S. Bolger, 378 Park avenue, New York, has offered $500 to any one who will furnish him with information that will put him in communication with his boy. Mr. Bolger is at a loss to account for the disappearance of his son, who was a dutiful boy. He had been growing rapidly, and though sturdy in appearance had been complaining of not feeling well, being especially troubled with headaches.

POLICE COURT.

At the police court this morning Edward Waterson was charged with begging. Edward pleaded guilty. He is a one-legged individual who has been spending the last few days in town putting up a very distressing story in order to create sympathy and obtain money and then spend his beggings in liquor. He played the game very effectively for a day or two until he ran foul of the chief of police. He was given two months on the hill.

An unfortunate citizen of the town was charged with vagrancy and with being drunk. He was remanded until the 17th.

Women Unjustly Accused of Extravagance.

Many women are unjustly accused of extravagance in dress by their neighbours and friends. In ninety-nine cases out of every hundred, these accused women spend less money on clothes than their accusers. These well dressed women are always economical while they appear natty and stylish. They deserve all the frequent changes in dress they enjoy. The new looking dresses, suits and skirts are simply old ones re-coloured with some fashionable colour of the Diamond Dyes and retrimmed, such dresses are made up at small cost. Any woman of ordinary intelligence can enjoy several changes in dress each week. Bring out the old, faded and dingy looking garments consigned to the garret or closet, select fashionable colours of the Diamond Dyes, and with little labour you can increase the stock in your wardrobe. The same good work can be done with your children's dresses and your husband's suits. Well dressed people are users of Diamond Dyes.

Kingston Plays Here on Wednesday Evening.

OTHER NOTES OF INTEREST.

What Cobourg Thinks of Port Hope Players—News of Interest to the Curlers.

HOCKEY.

The Peterborough intermediates will play the R.M.C. Seniors here on Wednesday night of next week. The game promises to bring out a very large attendance, and the locals will do their prettiest to win.

Belleville has won the Junior Championship of the district. Last night the score was 5 to 4, in favour of Cobourg, but Belleville wins the round by 12 to 7. Now, Belleville, wade in and try and bring the Junior Championship of the O.H.A. to this district. Peterborough will try and do the same with the Intermediate.

The R. M. C. boys and Queen's II. have to play another game, to decide the championship of the east, but it looks like R.M.C. all the way.

Tickets for the hockey match can be purchased at Ormond & Walsh's drug store.

It takes the Port Hope Times to throw it into a referee or an opposing team when things do not go to its liking. The Port Hope II. team got trounced by 6—2 in Millbrook, and this is the way the Times touches up the referee: "Sharp on time Referee Pritchard of Toronto appeared on the ice in a long black overcoat, white kid gloves, a cigar in his mouth, a bell in his hand, and with a loud shout called the players together, turned his back to them, and said to the assembled crowd in the grandstand, "It is my duty to referee this game; I will not allow rough play. For the first offence of rough play you will get five minutes, and the second time you will go off for the balance of the game." In referring to the match the Times says; "The second half lasted only 20 minutes. It had many stoppages. Combination play was—out of sight—it was rough and tumble. Millbrook would get sent up against the boards by the Port Hope defence, when they would try to score and after several attempts, they gave up in disgust, so the referee told them that if they hit the back fence he would count it as a goal. They hit the fence four times on high lifts. Score at end of game, 6—2 in favour of Millbrook."

A Kingston despatch says:

Kingston, Feb. 7. — Cadets I. and Queens II. met in the first of the round of the local O.H.A. Intermediate championship to-night. In the first half the Cadets had the play nearly all their own way, and scored 4 goals to 1. In the second half Queen's gingered up and gave the Cadets a run for their money. Final score Cadets 9; Queens, 7. Teams—

Queen's II.—Goal, Pense; point, McDonell; cover, Scott; forwards, Richardson, Corkhill, Tatt, Thornton.

Cadets I.—Goal, Deyell; point, Carr-Harris; cover, Ramsey; forwards, Dunlop, Beggs, Waldron and Trotter.

Hugh A. Rose, of Osgoode Hall, who has been doing excellent work as a referee in O.H.A. games throughout Ontario, went to his home in Welland yesterday, suffering from an attack of quinsey.

WHAT COBOURG THINKS.

The Cobourg World says: "There is one man in Port Hope too miserable to live. He bet $300 on the Port Hope-Peterborough game, and gave a check for the amount. When the winner tried to cash the check he found it through some technicality to be worthless. A man who is mean enough to do such a trick would pasture a goat on his grandmother's grave, and use a wart on the back of his neck for a collar button. The Port Hope Guide tries to 'rub it in' to Cobourg for cheering for Peterborough and hissing Port Hope. Why should Cobourg cheer for Port Hope? When the hissing occurred the occasion warranted it. Colman was the man that got hissed; it was for the dirtiest piece of work ever seen on the rink. He cross-checked Harold Armstrong against the fence with the evident intention of putting him out of business, and partially succeeded. One thing certain, Cobourg never rotten-egged a team, a thing Port Hope can't say."

ALL SAINT'S BOYS WON.

The team of All Saint's Boys' Brigade went up to Lakefield last night and played the Grove team. The result was a victory for the visitors the score being 8 to 2.

The Peterborough team was made up as follows:—Goal, Jack Sanderson; point, E. Dormer; cover point, W. Bell; forwards, S. Plummer, Capt.; P. Adamson, W. Rose, W. Thornton.

The game at half time stood 3-0 in favour of the All Saint's boys. At the conclusion of the game Mr. MacKenzie entertained the boys at the Grove, and a very enjoyable hour or so was spent. Rev. W. L. Armitage accompanied the boys to Lakefield. The return game will be played here before long.

QUESTION OF REFEREES.

What the Western Ontario Hockey Association needs more than anything else, says the London News, is a few really good referees. In every game that has been played this season there have been many uncomplimentary remarks made as to the work of the man in charge. Mr. Wettlaufer, of Berlin, seems to be about the most competent of the bunch, and his eye for offsides is wonderfully keen. A little more severity in dealing with tripping and slashing, would vastly improve his work. In the opinion of many, Hubert Jack, now of Brantford, is one of the best men who ever handled the official bell. It seems strange that the best referees in hockey are those who have learned the trick of body checking and tripping upon the lacrosse field. They seem to know instinctively when a man intends to do an unlawful trick, whether he succeeds or not. In this connection it is pleasant to note that Dr. Lionel 'Camel' King, once a shining light among C.L.A. referees, has been appointed the official arbiter in the Pittsburg League.

RUGBY.

It is understood that a movement is on foot on the part of several admirers of the local Rugby Team to give the champions a supper some time within the next week or two, at which the badges from the Ontario Union and the Souvenirs from the Canadian Union will be presented to the members of the team.

GOLF.

A Frenchman has been giving Tit-Bits his ideas on English sport. As to golf, he remarks: Your game of golf! Oh, yes, I know him. You put on the tunic red, so red as the Inglesh robif underneath-dons. You strap your sack of bend d-head sticks on the back of a boy twice so small as the bag. He scrape a mud pudding to make balance a lettle white ball. He make three bad tries to balance him, then very angry you call loud "Four." Then you what you call address the ball, and, my faith, you address sometimes is of language to make afraid. You strike, and the ball find himself in the boukaire. You call loud for the nitelungea stick and beat the dust till your partner say, "Ho! chuckit." You say—but my friend, I excuse myself to repeat what you say. Ah, my friend, you are a great nation, but your games—they give me what you call ze hump."

A COBOURG SCANDAL.

A Rich Young Summer Visitor Weds a Lady's Maid, Who Gets Into Trouble.

Cobourg furnishes another sensational piece of news, which will be somewhat of a surprise to the residents of the town, as well as to summer visitors. A correspondent of the Chicago Blade writes from the lakeside resort as follows:

When Mrs. N. S. Grant, who purchased a summer residence here last season, left for the south a few months ago, there remained behind one member of her household. This was Miss Loas Vaughn, formerly Mrs. Nellie Grant Sartoris' maid.

Miss Vaughn came to Cobourg with Mrs. Grant and her daughter last summer and remained with them throughout the season. She was a petite young miss of the extreme brunette style of beauty and possesses a figure of unusual grace and symmetry. But little is known of her antecedents, but it is believed that Mrs. Sartoris engaged her while in Paris some time ago, and that she had been with her since. She is a clever young woman of artistic tastes tastes, and it is said that the shawls presented by Mrs. Grant to the widow of President McKinley, was designed by her. But she also possessed accomplishments along widely divergent lines, and her sojourn in Cobourg will not soon be forgotten. On one family, at least, she has left an impression that will take years to efface, and a mother's broken heart and a son's blighted prospects are charged up to her.

Among the select coterie of summer visitors that make up Cobourg's exclusive set, there were last season Mrs. Archibald Mounteer and her son Clifford. Mrs. Mounteer is the widow of a former Philadelphia contractor, and Clifford is her only son. Recently they have made their home in Montreal, where Clifford attended Laval University. The boy is not yet twenty, and has considerable fortune in his own right.

While sojourning in Cobourg Clifford saw Miss Vaughn, and was at once smitten with her charms. Her sylph-like figure and perfectly moulded features attracted the young man, and he managed to make her acquaintance. His attentions were not distasteful to the young woman, and although their different stations in life precluded the possibility of their being seen together, many clandestine meetings were held.

This state of affairs continued along throughout the summer, and although many of young Mounteer's masculine friends knew of his conduct, they did not dream that the demure looking young miss had completely infatuated the young man, and that what at first seemed to be a harmless flirtation had grown to be a case of violent love; at least on the part of the young man.

When Mrs. Grant and her daughter left Cobourg, Miss Vaughn remained behind. She told her mistress that she intended to spend the winter in Montreal. And to Montreal she went. Not as a ladies' maid, however, but as the wife of young Mounteer. The latter did not apprise his mother of the matrimonial alliance until several days after they returned home. Then he introduced his wife into the household. A stormy scene followed, but soon there was a reconciliation. Things went smoothly for a time, but a cloud was soon to obscure the domestic horizon. This was in the form of a Pinkerton detective, who appeared on the scene in search of a diamond studded brooch, which was the property of Nellie Grant Sartoris. The erstwhile ladies' maid is said to have told her husband that the brooch was an heirloom, and the feelings of the latter can be imagined when he learned the truth. The brooch was easily secured, and the detective departed. The next day young Mrs. Mounteer disappeared. With her, according to report, went some valuable jewellery belonging to the elder Mrs. Mounteer, a gold watch owned by Clifford and $250 in cash. No effort was made to trace her. The Mounteers have closed their Montreal house and have moved to Ottawa. At the next session of Parliament a divorce suit will be considered. The whereabouts of the demure looking young woman are unknown.

GORE'S LANDING.

The marriage of Miss Marie Antoinette Neill and Mr. Albert Chenet, both of Gore's Landing, took place on Wednesday at 11 o'clock, at the home of the bride's mother. Rev. Mr. Jewell performed the ceremony. The bride wore a gown of white organdie and carried white flowers. After the ceremony the invited guests sat down to a very dainty wedding breakfast. Mr. and Mrs. Cheney took the afternoon train at Cobourg, en route to Toronto and other points in western Ontario, where they will spend their honeymoon.

WARDEN FISHER.

A South Monaghan Man Warden of Northumberland and Durham.

On Wednesday afternoon, Mr. Robt. Fisher, of South Monaghan, was elected to the Warden's chair, after a hard, and perhaps the longest contest in the history of the counties.

The contest was a three-cornered one between Messrs. Cyderman, Mitchell and Fisher for thirty ballots, when Mr. Cryderman dropped out and Mr. Fisher was elected on the thirty-first ballot.

Mr. Fisher was born on lot 15, con. 1, South Monaghan, March, 1856, and has resided there continuously ever since. He is a successful farmer, and is the first Warden ever elected from South Monaghan.

Mr. Fisher commenced his municipal career in 1887, and remained a township councillor until 1895. In 1895 he was elected reeve of his township. When the new County Council Act was passed he was elected to the County Council from a constituency composed of the Centre and West Wards of Cobourg, the west part of Hamilton Township and South Monaghan, and has continued since one of its Commissioners. Mr. Fisher is a man of quiet disposition, eminently fair, of good judgment, and very popular with his fellow councillors, as well as with his constituency. — Cobourg Sentinel-Star.

MONEY IN PORK.

The Way a Grey County Man Raised Hogs at Less Than 3 Cents per lb.

Mr. William Wrenshall, of Grey County, writes the following letter to the Farmers' Advocate:

I have just marketed my second batch of hogs. I had a very good idea what my first lot cost me, and the results seemed so satisfactory that I determined to keep a strict account of the feed consumed by my next. Thinking the results may be of interest to Advocate readers, I send them herewith:

My sow is a Berkshire and Chester White cross, of rather a thick type. She was bred to a pure-bred Yorkshire, and produced ten fine, healthy pigs. I had no roots last winter, so I fed her 1 pt. oat chop mixed in half pail steamed clover chaff three times per day. This kept her in excellent condition, at a cost of $1.50 for the four months she was carrying her young, which were farrowed on April 12th. During the six weeks she was suckling the pigs she got 1 1-2 gallons scalded oat chop 3 times per day. After the pigs were three weeks old they has access to a small trough containing sweet milk, to which, after a few days, I gradually added a little scalded shorts, so that by the time they were weaned they were feeding well. After weaning they got mixed barley and oat chop, scalded, with a very little buttermilk and all the green clover they would eat. After haying they got green peas in place of clover. When they weighed about 100 lbs. each I tried feeding the meal dry and giving them drink separately, and found it very satisfactory. They were then getting a mixture of about three parts barley and two parts sprouted wheat, and during the last six weeks they got all the mangolds they would eat as well. When sold, on Nov. 4th, they averaged 194 pounds, and brought me a net profit of $6.09 per pig. The following is a detailed statement of the food consumed, etc.:

Service fee ... ...$	1 00

RICE WATER NUTRITIOUS.

Curious Way Some British Officers Discovered This Fact.

It is probable that few occidental cooks who prepare rice in various forms for diet are aware that in discarding the water in which it is boiled they are wasting what is regarded by the oriental as the most nutritious part of the food. This fact was curiously proved some years since when a detachment of Europeans and native troops in India found themselves beleaguered in a fort with insufficient rations, even of rice, to enable them to hold out until a force could march to their relief.

It was when the officers were seriously debating this problem that the natives approached them with what was regarded as a curious solution of the difficulty. If, proposed the latter, the Europeans took all the rice, they, the natives, would, be quite content with the water in which it was boiled. The suggestion, in place of any better, was adopted, when it was remarked that while the Europeans found it difficult to maintain their strength on full rations of rice the natives lost none of their stamina by several weeks' diet on the water. When the proposal was made, the action of the natives was praised as one of great devotion to their superiors, but the sentiment was somewhat mollified when the discovery was made that the natives were quite aware that the principal nourishment lay in the water.

Since that time Europeans in the orient, following the custom of the natives, have given rice water to patients, particularly in cases of cholera, as a last resort when no other food can be retained in the stomach and usually with good results. But the natives always value this water so highly that it is never thrown away.

In fact, it would surprise many cooks to discover how much may be done with this apparently worthless stock. If the rice is cooked in the oriental fashion—that is, boiled only so long that each grain comes out of the pan separate and not as a sodden mass—the water when strained off and permitted to cool will become a jelly approaching the consistency of blancmange. To suit the occidental palate the water should be flavored with an extract or otherwise the jelly may have rather an insipid taste.

FROM GAY PARIS.

Secretary Dupuis From the Exposition Makes a Statement.

His Experience When in Paris Proves Dodd's Kidney Pills to be a Splendid Tonic Medicine — Unsurpassed Also as a Remedy for Lame Back.

Village des Aulnaies, Que., Feb. 6.—(Special.) — Mons. Aug. Dupuis, of this village, who was secretary to the Canadian Commission to the World's Fair, at Paris last year, has since his return given out a statement that reflects great credit on Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Mons. Dupuis says says that he has used these pills for "a deep seated pain in the small of the back," and found that they relieved him almost instantly and cured him altogether so thoroughly that he has not since had any symptoms of a return of the pain.

While in Paris, Mons. Dupuis found his duties as secretary very toilsome and trying, with the consequent result that his health began to become run down. Again he sought relief in Dodd's Kidney Pills, and again he found them equal to the emergency, for they quickly braced him up.

His statement, recently published, is very full of praise for this medicine, and he also takes occasion to thank Mr. James G. Jardine, of Toronto who was a member of the Paris Commission, for having first introduced Dodd's Kidney Pills to his notice in Ottawa some years ago.

Mons. Dupuis is very popular here, having been postmaster at this village for years, and resigning to accept the position of Secretary to the Paris Commission last year.

He is now president of the Council of Agriculture of the Province.

The unqualified commendation of Dodd's Kidney Pills by all classes of the people is the very best possible proof that they are a genuine curative.

As a general family tonic for young and old, they are unexcelled, and in many homes in Canada to-day the familiar blue and red box containing Dodd's Kidney Pills is always on the shelf ready for use.

Sheep in Varied Clothing.

One of the results of the investigation of a special committee of the Society of Arts into the question of bookbinding goes to show that sheepskin is often used by bookbinders under very different names. They found books bound nominally in Levant morocco, hard grain morocco, straight grain morocco, pigskin, calfskin, crocodile and alligator leathers, all of which on close microscopic examination were found to be the ordinary common sheepskin on which had been stamped the special grains and markings of the skins they were got up to imitate. The committee, however, were satisfied that in many cases both the bookbinders and the librarians had bought these leathers under the impression that they were buying the genuine article.

Save Your 1863 Quarters.

Take them to Ormond & Walsh's drug store and he will give you a bottle of Four T's, the best, safest and quickest cure known for coughs and colds. More than a quarter million bottles sold in 5 years proves Four T's the best lung compound known. It is a positive cure for whooping cough.

Fine China.

Fine china needs care in washing and drying and should never be placed in nervous or indifferent hands. Treated lovingly, china will last for years and even generations. Only a piece should be put in the tub at one time, the soap should be made into suds before putting anything in, and the water must be very warm, not hot. Finally rinse in water that's just the same—warm. A good supply of fine, soft towels is a necessity, and, thus equipped, the washing of china is not a hard task. China will shine beautifully if wiped out of clear warm water.

THE BULGARIAN.

A Peculiar Fellow. He is Either a Soldier or a Peasant.

It is a strange country of contrasts, this Bulgaria that people have so long watched as a danger spot. The peasant is a heavily built fellow, with a Kalmuk nose if he happens to be pure bred from the original Samoyede stock, which is not likely. His language has become Slavic, which means a language in which "beefsteak" is "mpiphteki" and "omelet souffle" is "omlet cuphle."

The Bulgarian is a peasant or a soldier. He knows no other trade. As a farmer the sheep is all in all to him, food and clothing and companionship, says a writer in The Era. He lives in a hovel, does not understand why he should be taxed and makes his women slave in the field. He is called close-fisted, churlish and suspicious and has some of the virtues that often go with those qualities.

When Bulgaria became practically free of the sultan, there were many Turks left in the country. These are gradually being crowded out, but there is still a mosque in Christian Sofia, and in the palace of the sobranje, or parliament, where the members have better accommodations than the lords of Britain on the Thames embankment, some twenty Turkish deputies always sit together and exert an influence that they never could do in their own land by voting always with the party in power.

Every Saturday the members of the sobranje are paid at the rate of 15 francs a day, all in silver five franc pieces. These peasant lawmakers knot it up in handkerchiefs, grin slowly and shake the jingling pieces playfully in one another's face. They are playing at statesmanship yet, but fairly well upon the whole.

Her Best Front.

It was at Nantucket one summer that a city visitor learned a new way of displaying one's personal adornments during a call upon one of the native Nantucketers. It was a nice old lady who was entertaining the strangers, and she was very anxious that they should see everything to advantage and that even she herself should make as good an appearance as possible. Unfortunately she had not been forewarned of the visit and was not entirely prepared for it.

"If I had only known you were coming," she said apologetically, "I should have had on my best front. This is only my second best, but you can see the other when you go out, for I always keep it in the front room."

Surely enough, on taking their leave, the visitors were piloted through the front room, and there in the inside of the meledeon, when a heavy green berege veil was carefully lifted, a nicely waved hair piece was to be seen, the hostess' best "front."

Spoke Too Late.

The good minister of a Scottish parish had once upon a time a great wish for an old couple to become teetotalers, which they were in nowise eager to carry out. After much pressing, however, they consented, laying down as a condition that they should be allowed to keep a bottle of "Auld Kirk" for medicinal purposes. About a fortnight afterward John began to feel his resolution weakening, but he was determined not to be the first to give way.

In another week, however, he collapsed entirely. "Jenny, woman," he said, "I've an awfu' pain in my heid. Ye micht gie me a wee drappie an' see gin it'll dee me ony guid."

"Well, gudeman," she replied, "ye're owre late o' askin', for ever sin' that bottle cam' into the hoose I've been bothered nae wi' pains i' my heid 't is a' dune, an' there's nae drapple left."

All Plump and Rosy.

If all the plump and rosy children in the world could be collected together into one place it would be surprising to find how many of them owe their strength and health to Scott's Emulsion.

A COMEDIAN'S TRICK.

Ruse by Which He Escaped Arrest and Had His Debts Paid.

Many amusing stories are told of Joe Haines, a comedian of the time of Charles II., sometimes called "Count" Haines. It is said that he was arrested one morning by two bailiffs for a debt of £20, when he saw a bishop to whom he was related passing along in his coach. With ready resource he immediately saw a loophole for escape, and, turning to the men, he said, "Let me speak to his lordship, to whom I am well known, and he will pay the debt and your charges into the bargain."

The bailiffs thought they might venture this, as they were within two or three yards of the coach, and acceded to the request. Joe boldly advanced and took off his hat to the bishop. His lordship ordered the coach to stop, when Joe whispered to the divine that the two men were suffering from such scruples of conscience that he feared they would hang themselves, suggesting that his lordship should invite them to his house and promise to satisfy them. The bishop agreed, and, calling to the bailiffs, he said, "You two men come to me tomorrow morning, and I will satisfy you."

The men bowed and went away pleased, and early the next day waited on his lordship, who, when they were ushered in, said, "Well, my men, what are these scruples of conscience?"

"Scruples?" replied one of them. "We have no scruples! We are bailiffs, my lord, who yesterday arrested your cousin, Joe Haines, for a debt of £20, and your lordship kindly promised to satisfy us."

The trick was strange, but the result was stranger, for his lordship, either appreciating its cleverness or considering himself bound by the promise he had unintentionally given, there and then settled with the men in full.

Cold Affects the Liver.

Severe Headaches, Constipation and Kidney Disorders the Result—Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills Correct the Action of Filtering and Excretory Organs.

The liver is very easily affected by change of temperature, nervous strain and over-eating, and is the cause of more pains and aches than any other organ of the body. It is the duty of the liver to filter from the blood the poisonous bile, which it passes into the intestines to act as nature's cathartic. One of the first results of a sluggish, congested liver is constipation, alternating with looseness of the bowels and what is commonly called biliousness.

Bitter taste in the mouth, sallow complexion, a coated tongue, severe headaches, pain under shoulder blades, fulness in right side, dizziness, ill-temper, peevishness and depression of spirits are indications of an ailing liver. The remarkable effectiveness of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills in regulating the action of the liver, kidneys and bowels easily places it first as a treatment for derangements of these organs. There are few people who are not more or less subject to biliousness in the winter season, when more or less confined to the house, and so rendered sensitive to change of temperature. Meat diet and the artificial foods of winter, also tend to make the liver sluggish, the kidneys inactive and the bowels constipated.

The promptness with which Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills correct the action of the filtering and excretory organs and rid the blood of poisonous bile impurities commend them to reasoning people as a suitable family medicine to be kept in the home all the time. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are prompt, pleasant and natural in action, far-reaching in effect and perfectly scientific. They have proven their right to your confidence in scores of thousands of cases, many, no doubt, in your immediate locality.

Do not imagine that you are experimenting when you begin to use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. If your liver, kidneys or bowels are deranged this proposition will set them right. It does not seem wise to suffer from biliousness, kidney disease, constipation or similar ailments when you may as well keep your health in perfect order with this tried and tested remedy. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Company, Toronto.

THE NEW YEAR MILLINERY.

Flat Shapes Are Giving Way to More Fancy Effects.

The plateau toque tilted to one side is beginning to pall upon the fashionable taste. An attempt at a change has been made by building the center, which stands for the crown, of heavy lace and the outer circle of fur. One of the new shapes is a flat, round toque, with upturned brim, a sort of improved turban. This is very smart and promises to supersede the pancake hat. This turban shape is nearly always trimmed on its under brim with a wreath of crushed roses, camellias or shaded dahlias.

For young girls there is a wealth of pretty felt shapes. Large, floppy felt hats are crushed here and there or threaded with ribbon and so drawn into quaint flutes. Pale blue felts are charming trimmed in this manner, with soft white ribbon and bunches of violets, while pale pink adapts itself to autumn foliage and knots of brown velvet.

Hats of rough white felt are trimmed with wreaths of holly, with its red berries, and a square bow of black velvet drooping over the hair in the back.

A very odd and yet at the same time simple hat is shown in the picture. It is of black velvet, and the trimming is of spotted black and white panne. It is drawn around the crown softly into a big knot in front. On the left side the brim is tilted, and there is also an irregular bow of the panne on the band. This simple hat can easily be made at home. JUDIC CHOLLET.

Jenny Lind and the Trill.

Jenny Lind, after years of steady practice, believed that the much coveted trill was for her an impossibility. She practiced hours a day, but was unable to accomplish the feat. One day, thoroughly discouraged, she was sitting in her garden when all at once she looked up into a tree. Above her a bird was trilling. She at once went to her piano and through some magic or power of imitation began the trill and from that day never had any further difficulty.

Doctors prescribed the strongest liniments with no more effect than water, but this great remedy had me up and about my work, and as well as ever, after taking only a couple of bottles." 44

MAJOR BORUM AND THE THIEF

By Martha McCulloch Williams

Copyright, 1901, By Martha McCulloch Williams.

Old man Buckley, one of Marshalltown's three inveterate topers, was trying to sober up against his daughter's wedding. When he had his complement of drinks, he was to outward seeming as sober as a judge. Lack of them set him reeling upon his horse and guiding the sagacious beast in letter S's all over the road.

"Lack!" Major Borum said to Molly, his niece and adopted heiress. "That's what I'm trying to save you from—the thing which biteth like a serpent and stingeth like an adder."

"You needn't try to make out poor Jink is a snake," Molly said spiritedly. "I'm sure he wouldn't crawl, not even to get me."

"Oh, ho! You think it was his independence that kept him from signing the pledge when I demanded it of him," the major said, with a fine, lofty scorn. Again Molly tossed her head.

"I would have said no to him if he had signed it," she said. "Why, Jink was never drunk but once in his life, and that was in the way of business. If he had not drunk to match that Long Hollow crowd, his pa would have lost all their trade, and it's worth a thousand dollars clear profit every year."

The major groaned. He was a round, pursy man, rosy faced, with little eyes twinkling through smothering fat. He had come back to his native town the year before breathing out a vague aroma of riches and ready to give advice offhand to anything from divine Providence to the town council. Marshalltown folk said he was cram full of crank notions, which he had had no chance to spend properly in governing a wife or bringing up children of his own.

He struck Marshalltown a teetotaler of the first water, the second water and also the third. Water was indeed his creed and rallying cry for the time being. His mind and heart were set upon organizing a temperance knighthood after ideas peculiarly his own.

Marshalltown would have none of the knighthood. It was so temperate, letting the single saloon languish except at Christmas time and the Fourth of July, that it resented organized temperance much as it might have resented the organization of an antistealing brotherhood. To its mind a man ought to drink when he felt like it and had good liquor handy, but should never be tempted into swallowing stuff he did not really care for by giving it the tang of forbidden fruit. So it heartily applauded Jink Travis' refusal to become the first fruits of the major's enthusiasm. It was a fine thing, everybody admitted, seeing how matters stood—Jink as good as engaged to Molly and Molly's heiress-ship contingent on her marrying to suit the major.

Jink and Molly had been lovers time out of mind. If was all settled that they should marry when Jink was taken into the firm. But the major came down upon them three months before the sign, "Travis & Son, Groceries, Hardware, Provisions, Liquors, Wholesale and Retail," went up upon the big block at the head of the main street. Molly had eight younger brothers and sisters. Her father could not hope to do more than feed and clothe them. So the major and his fortune had to be taken into account, especially when he asked to have Molly the same as his own child.

That was where the pinch came. For herself and Jink, Molly could have bidden the fortune go hang. But the children! She could not shut out her mother's anxious eyes, her father's patient, troubled face. As long as she did not rebel openly she was free to help with both hands. So she contented herself with vowing she would die an old maid unless she might marry Jink and smiling her sweetest at Jink himself whenever she got the chance.

Jink could not well be so patient. He wanted a wife, a home of his own and Molly for that wife. He was ready to do anything reasonable to get her. He might have gone in for that knighthood foolishness if he had not known she would be the first to despise him for it. He might even have done it and tried to square himself later with his sweetheart if he had been sure the major was honest in his crankery. Somehow the major's enthusiasm rang false to him. Under and behind the flow of words he saw something in the unctuous lips, the beady, twinkling eyes, which made him suspect that the major, like other self deluded mortals, was more anxious to pose as a great moral force than to rule strictly his own appetites.

Indeed, as Dan Brown put it, "the cut of the major's jib gave him away for a blamed old hypocrite." Dan Brown was Jink's chum, the head man at the new electric light plant, which Travis & Son had done so much to get installed. Of course, their own store was the very first to be wired and lighted. All the first week afterward Jink himself did nothing much but march around with swarming rural customers and flash lights into every dark hole and corner from the third story to the cellar. In the flashing he incidentally made them sure there was no danger of getting a stroke of lightning. Otherwise trade might have suffered.

"I say this yere projick, it jest knocks the socks off'n anything ever I saw," Squire Crane said as Jink made the cellar dark or light by the mere turning of a button. Afterward he explained that the cellar would be always light. Then everybody smiled. That meant something to Travis' customers. Ever since the store opened there had been a barrel of the best whisky conveniently remote from general view, but free to whoever chose to go and take a drink. It was, of course, a point of honor not to drink unless you were a pretty good customer. Major Borum was a pretty good customer, in spite of social complications, but nobody ever suspected him of even knowing where the barrel stood.

It lay bung up, with the thief hanging upon a handy nail in the wall a foot away. The thief, understand, was only an innocent tin tube, open at both ends and slender enough to slip easily through the bunghole. In use it was thrust down into the liquor, open ended. Then a finger held close over the upper end made it fetch out enough liquor for a drink, stiff or mild according to the depth of the plunge. By way of keeping the thief in place a little ring had been soldered on to the upper end, a long wire twisted in the ring and likewise made fast to the nail in the wall. Careless drinkers might otherwise have dropped the invaluable tube or absentminded ones, after the third drink, have gone off with it in the pocket.

Throughout the summer Major Borum came into the store only when he had business, but as the days grew short and nipping he fell into a way of sitting into the group around the stove, listening when he had to—that was rather seldom—and talking when he could—that was most of the time.

Toward Christmas the major haunted the store more than ever, especially late in the day when there was always plenty of trade. He had got so familiar he went everywhere, up stairs or down, without exciting comment. Some few said he was simmering down. They reckoned it would be all right betwixt Jink and Molly by—well, say, next spring; but Jink and Molly knew better. Indeed they had almost lost hope when Dan Brown came to their help.

The lights had been working badly, so Dan chased down into the cellar about dusk one night to look after the switchboard. In a minute he came up, his eyes staring like saucers, beckoned Jink to him and plunged again below. Nobody saw any more of them that night. They worked in the cellar until near 12 o'clock and went home chuckling aloud.

All next day Jink moved like a man in a dream, waiting upon customers with his head half turned over his shoulder. It was a busy day, Saturday, and the world and his wife were in town. About noon, when the crush was greatest, everybody was startled by a succession of yells, unearthly, agonizing coming up. It seemed, from right under their feet. Three parts of the hearers dashed into the street, two women fainted, and old lady Buckley snatched up her basket of eggs, crying out that she "allfus knew som'p'n' was bound ter happen ter that store ever sence they took an' made candles outen the Lord A'mighty's own thunder." But half a dozen rushed below, where the screams still kept up, intermingled now with roars of strenuous laughter.

There was more laughing when they saw the whole thing—Major Borum, their in hand, bowling, hopping from one foot to the other, unable to let go and between hops swearing like a pirate at Dan Brown, who stood with his hand upon an innocent looking key newly set in the switchboard.

Dan was saying between gasps:

"You've got to agree, major. Let Jink have Molly or here you stay all day. You can't let go that thief. It's got a full lamp voltage. We fixed it, Jink and I, as soon as ever I caught you taking a drink on the sly."

"No, no, Dan. I can't let you persecute Molly's uncle," Jink said, reaching for the key. "I'm awfully obliged to you, though, for watching here," he went on. "You know," to those behind him, "we could not afford to turn on the current—until we were sure of our man."

"I sorter reckon you've made sure of your gal," old man Buckley said as the crestfallen major vanished up the stair.

Sure enough, it turned out that Jink had.

Imitations

of Dodd's Kidney Pills are legion. The box is imitated, the outside coating and shape of the pills are imitated and the name—Dodd's Kidney Pills is imitated. Imitations are dangerous. The original is safe. Dodd's Kidney Pills have a reputation. Imitators have none or they wouldn't imitate. So they trade on the reputation of Dodd's Kidney Pills. Do not be deceived. There is only one DODD'S. Dodd's is the original. Dodd's is the name to be careful about—

HURRY UP!

Everywhere one hears that expression "hurry up!" It is a genuine Americanism expressive of the "rush" in which we live. Nothing is swift enough for us. We race against steam and lightning and find them slow. We grudge the time given to eating, and rush through meals as though life depended upon our haste.

Life does depend on our haste, but not in that sense. Look at the obituary columns of the papers and see how many prominent men are carried away by "stomach trouble," "acute indigestion" and other related diseases. Their lives have in general been sacrificed to the haste and rush of business which overlooked the fact that food can only nourish the body when digested and assimilated and that the digestive and assimilative processes can't be hurried.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, cures diseases of the stomach and the associated organs of digestion and nutrition. The source of all physical strength is food, properly digested and perfectly assimilated. By enabling the perfect digestion and assimilation of food "Golden Medical Discovery" increases and enriches the blood supply and sends new strength to every organ of the body.

"I was at one time as I thought almost at death's door," writes Mr. J. S. Bell, of Leando, Van Buren Co., Iowa. "I was confined to my house and part of the time to my bed. I had taken quantities of medicines but they only seemed to feed the disease; but I must say that 'Golden Medical Discovery' has cured me, and to-day I am stouter . . . than I have been for twenty years. I am now forty-three years old."

FREE. Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser sent free to you on receipt of stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Send fifty one-cent stamps for cloth bound book, or thirty-one stamps for paper covered, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

BORN A THIEF

Dr. Agnew's Cure for the heart is heroic because in cases of heart disease seemingly beyond all human aid it goes to the very brink of the "Black River" and snatches from it the heart-sick victim.

In a trice it allays pain—in a twinkling it gives strength and vigor and it works a quick and permanent cure as by magic. It is the one great heart remedy which rightly bears the crown of supremacy and on which is inscribed the life words, "It never fails." Thirty minutes after taking the first dose, the sick heart forgets its pain. Try it. 43

"The Light That Failed."

A wealthy Riverina squatter, now departed, as he used to phrase it, "to the great Muster," was noted almost as much for his Attic wit as for his parsimony. He also stuttered very badly and helped along his halting utterance with a frequent ejaculation of "D'ye see? D'ye see?" His niggardly traits gained him widespread local unpopularity and the bitter enmity of sundowners, who were always rigorously refused rations at his stations.

Smarting under this unusual inhospitality, some disappointed swaggies on occasion set fire to one of the squatter's wool sheds and then wrote upon a gate: "We've well burnt down your wool shed. D'ye see? D'ye see?"

Of course, it caught the big man's eye when next he passed through. For a moment he contemplated the announcement and then with a sardonic grin took the stump of a blue pencil from his pocket and scribbled underneath: "It was well insured. D'ye see? D'ye see?"—Household Words.

A True Brain Food.

must replace the feeling of lassitude and mental tiredness by clearness and strength of mind. Not that it goes directly to the brain, that were foolish. The true brain food must be carried by rich, red blood. If mental fatigue worries and alarms you, look not to the brain, but the stomach and assimilative organs. No remedy yet discovered, possesses the marvellous brain strengthening power that Ferrozone has demonstrated in thousands of cases. Ferrozone does not stimulate the brain into a fitful glow, but by improving digestion, strengthening the nervous system, stimulating assimilation, giving new strength to the heart, it sends a stream of red vitalizing blood to the brain. Thus it is a true brain food. Ferrozone is sold by Ormond & Walsh.

Magpies and the Stork.

Once, when joining a shooting party in England, the German emperor happened to see a magpie fly right over his head. Turning round to the Duke of Cambridge, who was with the party, his majesty said: "I have just seen a magpie. Now, I'm not a particularly superstitious kind of a man, but I don't like to tumble across these wretched birds, I don't, indeed."

The duke laughed and said cheerfully: "Does your majesty know our old saying concerning the superstition about magpies? 'One for sorrow, two for mirth, three for a wedding, four for a birth.' Your majesty must look round for a second or a third or a fourth magpie."

"Oh, indeed!" thoughtfully replied the kaiser. "A fourth magpie means a birth, does it? But supposing there is a fifth magpie, what then?"

"If you see a fifth magpie," answered the duke, very solemnly, "it means twins!"

Mascots Used by Gamblers.

Habitual gamblers are perhaps the most superstitious persons in the world. They invariably carry little portable mascots in their pockets, and it would be impossible to persuade them to enter into a game of chance if, by some inadvertence, their mascots were not with them. Lumps of lead, coins, snake rattles, locks of hair, cauls, bits of bone, hairpins—a pile of these things would be shown if the players in any stiff poker game were required to reveal their mascots.

And each amulet has a story connected with it. A bullet, for instance, which one man carries was extracted from the brain of a woman who killed herself on his account. A gold hairpin that is the mascot of a broker fell from a lady's hair in a theater aisle. He picked it up and returned it, and the acquaintance begun thus informally culminated in a marriage. A lawyer of Wissahickon has for a mascot a coin that was given him by a murderer on the day the man was hanged. The mascot catalogue could be continued thus indefinitely.

It Strikes the Heart.

Not only is the victim of Rheumatism a constant sufferer, fut he lives in continual dread that the disease will reach the heart, which means sudden and unexpected death. Rheumatism can only be cured when the uric acid is removed from the blood by the healthy action of the kidneys. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills make the kidneys healthy and vigorous, and so gradually and thoroughly cure Rheumatism by removing the cause. One pill a dose. 25 cents a box.

Green Cheese.

The green color of certain kinds of Italian cheese is due to the milk having been kept standing in copper vessels. The milk takes up quantities of copper, and it is customary to estimate the degree of activity attained by the milk by noting the gradual disappearance of the brightness of the highly polished metallic surface.

Young Old Men.

A writer in The Cornhill declares that "in the early part of last century a man was a man at twenty or so, a middle aged man at thirty and old at fifty. At the present time he is a boy up to about thirty-five, a young man up to fifty and is hardly regarded as old until he has exceeded David's maximum of life by six or seven years."

CHAPTER XXI.

In an hour or more the picket-lines and pins were brought up from some quarter of the globe, and with more I was ordered to assist in ing it ready for our troop. Mallets a scarce article, and the work went oppressively slow. The ground was dy on the surface, but beneath about inches of this was a stratum of rock. After many unsuccessful attempts involving considerable trouble, we finally secured good ground in the crevices for the large pins at the ends of the line, and then began driving in the smaller ones. The majority of us were novices at the business, and, being a little irritated and hurried, we pounded them in with all our might, not unfrequently smashing the handle of the mallet by a misguided stroke.

By ten o'clock we had put all the picket lines down, and nine-tenths of the mallets out of business, but our tents were not pitched yet. It was quite dark, and although glad to be on land, I should judge we were all annoyed at the long delay in bringing up the picket lines, for had they been on hand when we arrived, as they should have been, everything could have been completed by seven o'clock. The same difficulty that we experienced in laying the picket line presented itself in our present duty, and if we were fortunate enough to thoroughly fasten the guy ropes, we little cared about the others. Nobody could excuse themselves from driving tent pegs after this by saying they were amateurs, for I declare the mallets were never at rest night or day as long as we were in Cape Town.

When the tents were pitched and the horses tethered, we went after our equipment, and bringing it under the shelter of the canvas, we spread our blankets, and prepared for a night's rest. I don't think there was any supper served that night. While we were perspiring freely getting settled, the Boer prisoners, a few hundred yards away, had been singing that sweet refrain "There is Rest for the Weary," but such was not true in our camp that night, for nobody could rest in comfort for the incessant commotion in the lines. Our horses in general were not accustomed to this means of tethering, and not having been groomed on the voyage, they wanted to roll, and roll they would. The picket boys were rushing from one end of the line to the other endeavouring to maintain or rather restore order, but their honest efforts proved futile. It was simply beyond the power of man. The horses would pull heel rope pegs up by the root ten times as fast as two pickets could drive them down. Some were standing on one side of the line, while others were on the other side, pulling a tug-of-war or getting entangled in their neighbours tie-rope. It was like a circus—several performances going on simultaneously. Some of the mounts got loose and deserted camp till noon next day. Frequently during that eventful night a horse would make a dash among the tents, stumbling over the ropes and alarming the "natives" who hastily, in a half dazed condition, assumed a semi-upright posture and fired several successive volleys of most profane epithets at the noble animal they momentarily expected to come down on the canvas with a crash. The picket boys, of course, driven to exasperation, could assist wonderfully in this respect, and never ceased "firing" till the equine was out of sight. In the morning I'm quite certain there wasn't half-a-dozen pegs in our line from end to end that wasn't uprooted. The horses looked jaded and so did the boys who were on duty during the night. It was a perfect treat to hear the buglers and trumpets sounding "reveille" in the early morning. Green Point and Sea Point camps were only divided by a roadway, and no two regiments in the two divisions blew the call at exactly the same time. The full complement of buglers in the infantry regiments were massed to sound the call, and when those of one had sounded perhaps only a note or two those of another in some other quarter would just begin; then a trumpet would chime in, and so on till the last note was heard, which would be probably three or five minutes after the first. Ours was about the last, and when its last note had floated away on the ethereal zephyrs, the boys were very reluctantly making a move. It took some time for us to yawn, stretch, and rub our eyes open, and some would have responded by merely rolling over and muttering some unintelligible remark had it not been for the officious non-coms. who didn't consider it rude to give a fellow a gentle poke in the ribs or a kick or a more violent one if necessary; nor beneath their dignity to unceremoniously grab him by the heels and drag him out on the private parade ground. Roll-call and stables followed immediately after, and then came breakfast.

The troughs for watering our horses were only a few hundred yards away, and near by these were a number of tin covered benches, where the boys came to do their laundry work. These forms served the purpose of tubs and the water was supplied by taps, and when used escaped into the sewer. We had no wash-board, sapollo nor pearline, but managed to make our garments wet anyway and tolerably clean by rubbing them with a brush. This was an oriental laundry. You would imagine water would be abundant so near the sea, but the converse is apparently the case, and camp police on duty day and night prevented the boys from wasting any. Pure drinking water was very scarce, and this, I suppose, in a measure, would account for the many refreshment booths scattered about the camp ground. At these we could purchase all kinds of fruits, canned goods, temperate bevetages, lager beer and breadstuffs. When dealing with these people it is imperative that you banter in making a bargain, for they neither weigh nor measure anything, and your comrade might obtain twice as much for a six-pence as you would for a shilling. Grapes were very plentiful and in great demand. They were similar in size and colour to those of Canada, but were more saccharine, and although pomegramates, quinces and apricots were always kept in stock, grapes were the staple article of trade. Everything a person could wish for was kept on the grounds, but after all duties had been discharged, we almost entirely deserted the camp in the evening and went down town. Every man was under obligation to provide himself with a pass and to report at the guard tent when leaving and returning to camp. Four of us went down together, and, to save time, took a near cut through the suburbs till we caught a tram car. These trams are nothing more than an English omnibus on a large scale, driven by electricity instead of being drawn by horses. If the weather be propitious it is much more pleasanter to travel on the upper deck, but if hot or showery, by all means stay below, as there is no shelter whatever above. We rushed up the semi-spiral stair-way at the rear, and were fortunate enough to secure a seat. The conductor soon appeared, and we paid our fare, three-pence, which must be silver, for at the Cape pennies are non-negotiable except for postage stamps and newspapers. The bell rang, and away we went on our double deck tram, gliding merrily up hill and down and wheeling around curves so sharp that you would be nearly thrown off your seat. The streets were narrow, gloomy and untidy. Nine people out of every ten were coloured individuals as true as you're alive, and one-half the populace walked in de middle of de road. Every few blocks you would see a native runner prancing along with his two-wheeled conveyance called a girricshaw. This is a most economical means of travelling, for Mr. Kaffir furnishes the motive power, lifts the fare, and, if necessary, converts himself into a veritible intelligence officer, but it is unpopular among the young people for reasons easily inferred. Not only is it economical but safe as well, for there is no danger of your nimble steed becoming fractious or unmanagable. Nothing will scare him but I'm certain he would scare others, for in truth his costume makes his prances demonisca. He wears knickerbockers, light shoes sometimes, a loose jacket of any colour he may choose, with a prominent feather collar, resembling a lady's ruff, about his neck, and a turban ornamented with long, furry tails. To this he adds, for embellishing purposes, a gaudy sash about his waist and a pair of most formidable polished ox-horns, generally black, are fastened on his forehead by a leather or metal band encircling the head. His arms are bare, but for a few odd copper bracelets. The shafts of his rig are connected by a bar near the apex, and when all is in readiness Mr. Blackamoor seizes the bar and, elevating the shafts as high as his breast he starts off a gentle trot, which he will keep up all day. He has a sheep-bell attached to his ankle to apprise others of his approach. Wouldn't this be preferable for Canadian lads and lassies to a bicycle built for two? Then we have the English hansom cab, another two wheeled vehicle, drawn by a single horse. The driver sits up behind, and the reins go over the cover. The horses not unfrequently wear conical shaped hats to protect them from the burning rays of the tropical sun, but to-night they are hung beneath the driver's seat. The numerous arc-lamps, with the assistance of the light emanating from the shop windows, were unable to dispel the encircling gloom. There were many fine buildings, public and private gardens, that would interest the foreigner, but the cactus hedges enclosing the lawns appeal to them most. These were about four feet high, and quite as broad, affording a perfectly formidable and invulnerable protection to everything within. Woe to the small boy who was fool-hardy enough to attempt to scale these novel walls to appropriate the luscious and enticing fruits, in a garden thus protected.

The largest cactus I ever saw was in a gentleman's lawn at the Cape, and I should say it was one foot in diameter and fully ten feet high. These and the various species of evergreens, shrubs and grasses might be of much concern to a naturalist or horticulturist, but I couldn't distinguish one genus from another.

Having reached the heart of the city, we took leave of the tram and walked along the pavement for a short distance, when we entered a confectioner's shop and ordered up lunch. We priced nothing, but ordered everything that was pleasing to the taste or eye. We had sixteen dishes of ice cream—four courses—and in verity, one of us could have demolished it all without effort or injury, several varieties of fruit, pastry and soft drinks galore. It was a perfect banquet and we kept it up in royal style as though we were in a Canadian restaurant. At last we decided to leave the place, and asked for the bill. It took the breath from us. It was so exhorbitant if we hadn't been well supplied with the yellow metal we would have been unable to have squared our account. Fruits were very cheap, but breadstuffs came at a high figure. The ice cream was soft, and had it not been in deep vessels it is quite probable that we would have lost it altogether. As it was, we had a hot chase to capture it.

THE OBJECT OF FALL FAIRS.

The first and primary object of the fall or any other fair, should be to induce the agriculturist, the manufacturer, or the artist to bring together and put on exhibition the very best of their products, with a view to stimulating each other to still greater efforts as time goes on. There is no same man but will admit that great good has been accomplished since the fall fair was first instituted, and there is no better illustration of the correctness of the statement than by comparing the old Provincial Fair in Toronto of thirty-five years ago with the Industrial of the present day, or the progress of any well-conducted fair in the same space of time.

In the days gone by, the people came together for a healthy purpose, mainly that of seeing the best that the several industries could produce, and also that of seeing each other. the older people coming with a cool business object in view, the younger largely for present; but all combining to form a grand whole. In the older days people came to the fair intuitively. All that the public looked for was the date, and when the day came around the boys and girls were probably before the parents for once in the year, and all was bustle. The old-fashioned wagon was rigged up with the wooden side springs and the whole family came out, the whole country seemed to be alive, because it was fair day. The hotel yards were gorged to overflowing, and soon the old fair grounds were thronged with a happy crowd. The grounds were small, probably three or four acres, with the fences lined with the best stock the locality could produce. A small ring was made with a rope for showing the animals and drivers in, and the lines swarmed with thousands of spectators. Under the old management the fair presented the appearance of a bee-hive, and all could be taken in at a glance. The day over, the throng made their way home, tired enough but feeling that they would not live missed the fair for a good deal. Such was the fair of the old days, when it was filling the mission for which it was intended.

But times have changed and one noticeable feature is the depraved desire for something of the nature of an entertainment, a thirst for excitement, and if that element is wanting the public feel that the fair is a failure. This change has been brought about largely by the introduction of the race ring, which necessitates the purchase or rental of larger grounds, in most cases at some little distance from the town, which renders it inconvenient to get the accommodation for teams and rigs. The crowd is thus taken from the town, many tieing their horses in the vicinity of the fair grounds, consequently the town people never see half of the people who attend the fairs. This has the effect of producing a spirit of apathy and indifference on the part of the townspeople, which has a telling effect on the success of the enterprise.

Hoped to Strike the Right One.

"Here are half a dozen prescriptions I would like to have you fill as soon as you can," wheezed Rivers.

"I can see they are all for the cure of a cold," remarked the druggist, looking them over.

"It's this way," explained Rivers. "When I had the other cold, I tried all these. One of 'em cured me, but I can't remember now which one it was."

To Be Considered.

"I see that your town has been considering the idea of imposing a tax on bachelors."

"Yes," answered the young woman, "but we thought it over, and we concluded that the men might be mean enough to take the money to pay it out for what they spend for caramels and theater tickets."

MARCONI'S HISTORY

HE ARRIVED IN ENGLAND IN 1896 AND MADE IT HIS ADOPTED HOME.

How Sir William Preece, Head of the British Telegraph System, Encouraged the Young Inventor—How He Justified the Confidence Reposed in Him—Marconi Tells Young Men How to Succeed.

There was something rather exceptional in the encouragement given by Sir William Preece to Signor Marconi when the latter arrived in England, his adopted home, in 1896. The young Italian had only maintained his majority at that time, and was practically without friends. The experiments which he had previously tried on his father's estate near Bologna had satisfied him that the principle involved was sound, but they were of a rudimentary character. In order to develop the system sufficiently to interest capital, more elaborate and costly tests were requisite. Sir William, then at the head of the British telegraph service, soon heard of the newcomer. But he had himself been working for ten years on another scheme which dispensed with wires, and with a moderate degree of success. Under the circumstances it would have been only human to ignore Marconi, if not to put obstacles in his way. Instead, he offered a helping hand, although he quickly discovered that the new system was superior to his own. Before the close of 1897 Marconi had shown that Hertz waves would penetrate the solid masonry of city buildings, and on an open plain like that of Salisbury travel for miles. A year later communication was opened up between the mainland and the East Goodwin Lightship, and also between the Isle of Wight and Bournemouth and early in 1899 the English Channel was crossed. But it is doubtful whether any of these achievements would have been recorded so soon, if at all, had it not been for Sir William Preece's generosity.

RAISING MARCONI'S KITE, SIGNAL HILL, ST. JOHN'S, (X) MARCONI.

Marconi in Newfoundland.

The illustrations presented herewith regarding Mr. Marconi's experiments in Newfoundland are of historic interest. Marconi's kite on Signal Hall will probably mark the beginning of progress in electrical development as great as that in the development of the steam engine when Stephenson's first locomotive set out to conquer the world. The illustrations show the Cabot tower which was Marconi's headquarters, the hoisting of the kite with the telegraph wire attached, by which the messages were received, and the signal station at Poldhu, Cornwall, England, with the huge masts whence the current was sent out on its journey across the Atlantic. If Marconi, as is now probable, erects a cisatlantic station on the Cape Breton coast it will be modelled after that at Poldhu in the matter of masts. The current used, however, will be stronger than that now in use, as Marconi believes all that is necessary to commercial success is immense battery power.

Be Earnest If You Wish to Succeed.

Signor Marconi writes:

One cannot speak about success or failure without referring constantly to oneself. Therefore pardon me for referring to myself in this article.

Great earnestness, great intensity of purpose, a great desire to achieve your end—that, I think, is the first requisite of success.

Expressed in two words, "hard work" is the first requisite, for earnestness and intensity of purpose mean hard work. But this kind of hard work is play. It is play because of your intense interest in it.

I do not mean that you should permit your zeal and ambition to succeed to make you work too hard—to the detriment of your health. That is folly. For good health is a tremendous capital. But hard work well directed in a profession that you like will bring success.

If I have been in any way successful in my chosen field it is because I am bound up in problems relating to electrical development. My mind is on them always. I get complete relaxation simply by turning to another field of investigation. And while all these investments mean hard work, I do not think of them in that connection at all.

I am confident, of course, that if I did not like my profession I would not to-day have an invention to my credit. So I make a strong plea for the taking up of a business that will completely absorb you.

Every man has a limitless field before him. If it be the making of money, the doing of good to his fellow man, the controlling of great interests, achievements in art, science, philanthropy, he has all the concrete experiences of the past and present to aid him in his achievement. It is glorious and uplifting—that idea of forging to the front—of being the leader.

It is a fierce ambition. It will use up your energy. It will consume you. It will mean hard work—hard as body and brain can bear—but you will not know it, you will forget about it, and if you fail of your great aim you will at least win a portion of success.

Fishing For Ducks.

In India an ingenious scheme is practiced for taking ducks on a line, which is attached at one end to a flexible stick stuck up in the mud, the other extremity having a double pointed needle of bone attached to it. The latter is baited by stringing upon it some grains of corn. Presently along comes Mr. Duck, swallows the needle and finds himself a captive the moment he tries to fly away. In olden times the Cape Cod fishermen depended largely for bait upon the seafowl they took on their voyages. To catch them they threw out fishing lines with hooks on the end, to which were attached chunks of cod liver. The latter floated because of the oil they contained, and murres, gulls and other birds swallowing them were quickly pulled in, skinned and chopped up.

Kingly Superstitions.

Kingship has been rife in superstition always. James I. of England was superstitious about dates, and there were remarkable coincidences in his life with certain dates of the calendar. The day of the month on which he was born was strangely interwoven with the days of birth and marriage of his wife and some of his children and their wives. But James was an old fool who made love to young Buckingham, who laughed in his face and robbed him of his jewels.

Napoleon was superstitious about the way he put on his stockings. Frederick the Great and the great Peter of Russia were superstitious about dreams of things. Marlborough, both as Jack Churchill and the duke, was superstitious as well as a thief and a traitor. Nearly all the Stuarts were superstitious and double dealers in religion. Henry of Navarre was superstitious, but that never kept him from a thousand infidelities. All the children of Catherine of Medici were scared to death by their superstitions, but they could lie, cheat and murder just as well. If Cromwell was a victim of superstition, he kept it to himself.

THE GRECIAN A WREGK

An Allan Liner on the Rocks Near Halifax.

SHE WAS IN CHARGE OF A PILOT

A Snowflurry Obscurred the Lights—Under Tow Ground Large Hole in Her Bottom—Life Saving Crews Took Off the Passengers. But Captain and Crew Stand by Their Ship—Valued at $250,000.

Halifax, N.S., Feb. 10.—Four and a half miles from the city on the western side of the entrance to Halifax harbor the big Allan-Furness liner Grecian lies a hopeless wreck. The steamer sailed from Liverpool on Jan. 25, bound to this port via St. John's, Nfld., and left the latter port on Thursday evening. She was off the harbor at 2.30 yesterday morning, and took a pilot on board, and was proceeding in when a thick snow squall came on, suddenly without the least warning, and the steamer crashed on the rocks, passed over and struck a second time and remained. There was not much sea on at the time, but a heavy under-tow, and this soon ground large holes in her bottom, through which the water poured, filling the hold.

When daylight broke it was found the ship was on the rocks southwest of Sandwick Point, three miles inside of Chebucto Head and fully a mile out of her course.

She has about 300 tons of general cargo, including a quantity of salt, drygoods, organs, iron, steel and whiskey.

When the news of the disaster reached the city, the agents immediately despatched tugs and lighters with steam pumps and divers to the scene. At 6 o'clock last evening there was 17 feet of water in her fore hold and 18 feet in the after hold, and divers were at work removing the cargo. Her engine room remained dry.

The ship lies broadside on and within fifty yards of the shore between Holystone and Martin's Rock. When the steamer struck the weather was so thick that it was impossible to see land, although the sea could be heard breaking a short distance away.

Life saving crews from Herring Cove and Devil's Island responded to the signals of distress, and they took off only the passengers, and then remained by the ship in case of emergency. The captain in the meantime ordered the crew to lower the boats and have everything ready to leave the ship.

Capt. James Harrison, who commands the Grecian, brought Lord Dunraven's Valkyrie to America to race for the cup.

The steamer had the following cargo for Upper Canadian cities: Berlin, Ont., 1,054 bundles salted hides; Montreal, 2 cases cotton, 2 packages drygoods, 25 bundles steel, 350 bars steel, 2 bales door mats; Quebec, 10 bales skins; St. Catharines, Ont., 190 bundles steel; Stratford, Ont., 13 barrels oil.

The steamship Grecian is owned by the Allan Line, and is a freight vessel. She was built 15 years ago for the Allan Company at the Clyde, Scotland, and is valued at about $250,000. Since going into commission she has always plied between Liverpool, Halifax and St. John's. She is of 3,481 tonnage, fitted with all modern improvements.

NO MAN IS BORN CONDEMNED.

Doctrine of Predestination in Harmony With God's Love For Mankind.

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 10.—The Presbyterian Committee on Creed Revision Saturday decided upon a form of declaratory settlement on the third chapter of the Confession of Faith, declaring that the doctrine of predestination is held in harmony with God's love for all mankind, and that no man is condemned except on the ground of his sin.

A declaratory statement with reference to "elect infants" was also adopted, asserting that the Presbyterian Church does not teach that those dying in infancy are lost, but that all dying infants are included in the election of grace.

The members of the committee denied that the American Presbyterian Church ever taught the doctrine of infant damnation.

This conclusion was reached after four days of almost continuous discussion, and the members of the committee stated Saturday night that it is a unanimous declaration, and states what has always been the doctrine of the Presbyterian Church. The declaratory statement is merely an elucidation of certain passages in the confession.

REGULATING FREIGHT RATES.

Question Whether Canada Can Control Charges in Alaska.

Victoria, B.C., Feb. 10.—In the Supreme Court, Justice Martin has decided adversely the motion made by the White Pass and Yukon railway, to dismiss test cases in the suits brought by claimants who seek to recover large sums from the company. Extortionate freight rates in the absence of legal authority for such charges, are the grounds upon which these are based. In deciding against the motion to dismiss, Justice Martin pointed out that an important question is involved, whether the Canadian parliament can regulate rates in American territory.

Money Paid in Few Days.

Ottawa, Feb. 10.—Dr. W. Seward Webb and party returned last night from a tour of inspection over the western section of the Canada Atlantic Line to Depot Harbor. They stated that they were highly satisfied with the road. Dr. Webb states the money for the road will be paid over in a few days.

British Casualties Only 10—His Force Dispersed—Lord Kitchener Gives a Detailed History of the Combined Movement of Numerous British Columns Against the Boer General.

London, Feb. 10.—From Wolmaarock, Lord Kitchener has yesterday telegraphed a long description of a combined movement of numerous British columns, with the object of securing Dewet.

Lord Kitchener says the advance began the night of Feb. 5, the whole force moving from various directions, and forming a continuous line of mounted men on the west bank of the Liebenbergs Vlei, from Frankfort as far south as Fanny's Home, and thence to Kaffirkop. The line then advanced to the west, and the following night the British entrenched with their outposts 50 yards apart. They held the line from Holland on the Heilbron-Frankfort blockhouse line to Doornkloof, on the Kroonstadt-Lindley blockhouse line, while the columns were also working in advance of the blockhouse lines to prevent Dewet's crossing.

The advance was continued Feb. 6, and Dewet was within the enclosure, but, realizing his position, he ordered his men to disperse and seek safety during the night. Dewet himself, with some men and a number of cattle made for the Kroodstadt-Lindley blockhouse line, and at 1 o'clock in the morning when it was very dark, by rushing his cattle at the fence, broke his way through the fence, broke his way through the line, mixed up with the cattle, and losing three men killed.

Many attempts were made to break through the line on February 7, reports Lord Kitchener, the line of outposts being attacked at various places through the night. But very few escaped, and ten dead Boers were picked up in the morning near Heilbron.

"I did not get exact details of the Boer casualties," continues Lord Kitchener, "but, as far as I have ascertained, they consist of 268 in killed, wounded and prisoners, as well as about 700 tired horses and many cattle.

"Our casualties were only ten."

Boer Delegates For Africa.

London, Feb. 10.—A despatch to a news agency from Brussels says:

"It is understood here that the Boer delegates have decided to submit to the conditions laid down in Lord Lansdowne's communication to the Dutch Government, and are preparing a communication to the British Government, asking permission to visit South Africa, and setting forth the object of the proposed visit. It is expected that the request will reach England next week."

Headquarters Will Trek.

London, Feb. 10.—A despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company from Utrecht indicates the probability of the removal of the Boer headquarters to Geneva on account of friction between Mr. Kruger and his associates and the Dutch Government.

Dr. Leyds, representative in Europe of the Transvaal, is reported as declaring that the recent proposals looking to the establishment of peace in South Africa, made by the Dutch Premier, Dr. Kuyper, were an unwarrantable interference in the affairs of the Transvaal. Some of the Boer delegates, it is said, are at variance with Dr. Leyds.

British Casualties For January.

London, Feb. 10.—The War Office return of casualties in South Africa for January, published Saturday, is unusually heavy. Four officers and eighty-two men were killed in action, five officers and sixty-two men died of wounds, ten officers and 526 men died of disease, twenty-one men are reported missing and sixty-seven officers and 1,937 men have been invalided home.

Major Leader Is a Canadian.

Port Hope, Feb. 10.—Major H. P. Leader of the Fifth Dragoon Guards, whose name appeared in Saturday morning's despatches as the successful commander of the attack on Delarey's forces, is a Canadian, who was educated at Trinity College School, Port Hope, and was graduated from the Royal Military College. Many of the graduates of the Port Hope School, now residing in Port Hope, remember Major Leader well.

Ontario Horses as Remounts.

Montreal, Feb. 10.—Col. Dent, the Imperial army remount officer, who arrived here Saturday, stated that the horses which had been purchased in Canada for the use of the British forces in South Africa answered best of any the purposes of the mounted infantry. The flower of them, Col. Dent said, had come from Ontario.

A $250,000 Fire.

Fredericton, N.B., Feb. 10.—One of the worst fires here in years broke out at 1 o'clock yesterday morning in M. Fickler & Co.'s departmental store, Queen street. The store is a double one, and the fire originated in the rear of the down-town section, where ready-made clothing and gents' furnishings are kept. It made great headway before it was discovered. DEVELOPING BRITISH TRADE.

At the Ames dinner in Toronto on Wednesday evening Premier Ross discussed various means of improving the position of Canada in the British market. He said that his Government would make a grant of $5000 a year for five years for the opening of a sample room in London for the play of Canadian products, including certain kinds of manufactures. He suggested also that much could be done for the enlargement of our British trade by improving our facilities for transporation and compelling the railway companies to do justice to Canadian shippers. For this purpose he favoured the appointment of a railway commission. For many years Great Britain will offer a practically unlimited market for our food and certain other products. We now hold the cheese market, and our exports of butter, bacon, wheat and other products have increased remarkably in the last few years. Here are a few items referred to by Mr. Sifton in recent speeches: In 1890 we exported of eggs, $807,066 worth, in 1901, $1,,691,640 worth, or just about double; of butter, in 1890, $1,052,000, in 1901, $3,295,000 worth; of cheese, in 1896, $13,956,571, in 1901 $20,696,951; bacon, hams and pork, in 1896, $4,446,884, in 1901, $11,829,820. Yet what we have done is very little in comparison with what we may do. On the one side are forty millions of people, producing far less food than they require, and importing enormous quantities. On the other side are territories capable, if developed, of supplying all the needs of Great Britain. The growth in wheat production has been wonderful. Ten years ago the wheat production in the Territories outside of Manitoba, was almost a negligible quantity. To-day it is more than the production of Manitoba was at that time; while Manitoba's production has increased more than four-fold.

It is probable that in the United States the maximum export of wheat has been reached, or is near at hand. The population is growing faster than the production of wheat, and already two-thirds of the wheat is consumed at home. Of other foods, especially meat, the United States will for many years export enormous quantities. But there is no doubt that the British market will take all we can supply. It is said that we ought to have an advantage in the British market, in the shape of a preferential tariff. Of course Canada would accept such a preference if she could get it. But the matter is beyond our control. The tariff for the United Kingdom must be settled by the British Parliament, just as our tariff is settled by the Canadian Parliament.

It would seem to be wise for us not to sit waiting for the British Parliament to do something for us, but to use the to compel our own railways to give fair play to our own farmers and shippers. Even if we had a preference in the British market its effect could be nullified by the railway companies if we continue to allow them to discriminate against Canadians. Mr. A. F. MacLaren, M.P., at the Western Dairymen's convention said that during the season of 1899 the transportation of Canadian cheese butter, bacon, apples and cattle cost $1,000,000 more than would have been charged to American shippers. The excess on cheese was $3.50 per ton, on butter $4 per ton, on bacon and and hams $4 per ton. The rate on cattle from Chicago to Montreal is only 25 cents per hundred pounds, while from the Counties of Bruce, Huron and Grey it is 33 cents. The steamboat companies are equally unfair in their treatment of Canadian shippers. If we had a preference in the British market, have we any guarantee that the railway and steamboat companies would not pocket the difference in price, if any? At all events, it is well for us to promote the trade with Great Britain by all the means which are within our reach.—Globe.

ARE MOVING INTO TOWN

But Remembered by Their Friends in Smith are Their Departure.

On Thursday evening the young people of the neighbourhood to the number of about thirty five or forty, gathered at the home of Mr. J. A. Storey, 2nd concession Smith, whose family is about to remove from here and take up their aboda in Peterborough. The family were completely taken by surprise but nevertheless a very enjoyable time was spent till the small houra of the morning. During the evening Miss Elma Storey was called to a conspicuous place in the dining room, and while Miss Medda Swinton presented her with a gold brooch, the following address was read by Miss Winnie Reid;

Dear Elma, — We, your companions and friends, having heard of your intended departure from amongst us, cannot think of allowing you to go without in some suitable way trying to show you our esteem for your friendship.

About eight years ago, as a little girl, you came to reside in our neighbourhood, and ever since you have worked yourself into our hearts, until now you have become dear to every one of us. Your merry ways, and happy, laughing eyes, have often helped very much to lighten our sorrows; and whenever we wished a favour we knew that you were always willing and happy to bestow it, if at all in your power.

Please accept this brooch as a slight token of our regard for you. We hope and trust that you may long be spared to wear it, and whenever you look upon it that it may bring to your mind the many friends that you have left behind you, and the showers of good wishes that followed you. We all hope and pray that in your new home you may be happy and contented and that God's richest blessings may follow you wherever you may go. Signed on behalf of your friends,

MEDDA SWINTON,
WINNIE REID.

Miss Storey was completely taken by surprise, but nevertheless she made a very suitable reply and all went home well pleased with their evening's sport but sorry to think of losing such good neighbours and true friends as Mr. and Mrs Storey and family have proved to be.

DOURO.

(From Our Own Corrospondent.)

Owing to the recent storms the roads are in a bad condition. The Warsaw stage was unable to make its usual trips during the week.

Mr. P. G. Towns was obliged to walk to Peterborough and back on Tuesday.

On account of the recent storm a wedding in Douro had to be postponed from nine until four o'clock on February 4th, and then took place with much difficulty to the contracting parties. The groomsman being unable to get there in due time, his place was taken by Mr. Willie O'Toole, who got there on his snowshoes. A number of the young folks were badly disappointed at being unable to receive the bride's cake from a Peterborough confectioner.

Five Firemen Overcome in Toronto.

Toronto, Feb. 10.—Three firemen were overcome by smoke while working to subdue a fire that wrought considerable damage to the contents of D. Gunn Bros. & Co.'s extensive premises at 76-80 East Front street yesterday morning. The fire entailed a lot of hard work on the part of the firemen, five members of the brigade being overcome by the smoke. Four of the men have recovered, but Fireman Gater is still in the hospital.

PARTY LINES ADOPTED.

British Columbia Liberals Organize With Joseph Martin as Leader and G. R. Maxwell as Cabinet Nominee.

Victoria, B.C., Feb. 10.—The Liberal Convention, which was in session at Vancouver for two days, completed its labors Friday night, and the result given out is the adoption of a platform, the selection of Mr. G. R. Maxwell, M.P., as Chairman of the Provincial Executive, the selection of Mr. Joseph Martin as Liberal leader for the province, and a declaration in favor of party lines. The platform's chief planks are:

1. The immediate redistribution of the Province on basis of population.
2. Adopting the principle of government ownership of public utilities.
3. Payment of bonuses to railways, etc., if bonuses are necessary at all, in cash, not land, the government to have control of rates.
4. Immediate construction of the Coast-Kootenay Railway from Nanaimo to the east coast of Vancouver Island, and several other mooted lines.
5. Enactment of accurate log-scaling regulations and enforcement by government inspectors.
7. 8. 9. Suggested action for general improvement of agricultural and mining industries.
10. Suggests taxation should be borne by privileged rather than industrial communities, and opposes any increase of the provincial debt, except for public works, properly chargeable to capital.
11. Opposes alienation of the public domain, except to actual settlers or bona fide industries, no speculators.
12. Opposes any radical change in present mining laws without full notice being given beforehand to all parties interested.

The party lines challenge thrown down by the Liberal convention has been met by the Junior Conservative Club, which passed a resolution reaffirming its allegiance to party lines, and urging all Conservative organizations throughout the province to redouble their efforts.

HEART FAILURE.

The Great Number of Cases of Sudden Death from this Cause, makes the following Story of the Greatest Importance.

How often are these awful words, "Heart Failure" spoken or written in explanation of a sudden and unexpected death!

There are many, who although still alive, are hanging over the brink of the grave every moment. The slightest reason may in the twinkling of an eye bring their lives to a sudden stop.

Much of the palpitation and other forms of Heart Trouble is caused directly by the Stomach, and the following letter explains one man's painful predicament in this way and how he was cured.

Mr. A. D. Miller of Wilberforce, Ont., writes.

"For four years previously to the summer of 1900, I had been troubled with Dyspepsia and Indigestion. During the summer of 1900, my doctor treated me for Liver Complaint, but instead of getting better I was gradually growing worse.

"My appetite was very irregular and I would bloat very much after eating. I also had palpitation of the heart, and sometimes my heart was so bad that I could not sleep at night at all on account of its beating so hard.

"I was very much run down and so very weak, in fact I was hardly able to get around.

"I heard of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets and began to use them, and before I had used half a box I was greatly improved.

"I continued and in a very short time was completely cured. I was well and felt like a new man. My heart trouble disappeared altogether and I have not had the slightest trace of it since."

Mr. Miller was cured to stay cured. He didn't get sick again when he stopped using Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets for they had cured him completely and permanently. Much of the Heart Failure is caused by bad stomach action.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets cure all forms of stomach troubles.

Plea For Silk Canadian Chickens.

Ottawa, Feb. 10.—It would appear that Canadian poultry raisers have transcended the limit of size in preparing fowl for the English market. In a letter received at the Agriculture Department, English houses handling Canadian products request that the weight of chickens for the Old Country should not exceed three pounds for each bird. Five pounds is the ordinary weight of the Canadian fat chickens exported, but it is claimed by experts that there is just as much money in exporting birds weighing three pounds, as the additional weight means another month's care and feeding.

ANOTHER WARSHIP LOST.

Egeria, Searching For the Condor, May Have Gone Down.

Vancouver, B.C., Feb. 10.—Fears are entertained by naval officers here for the Egeria, the warship which went in search of the missing sloop-of- war Condor. A studdingsail boom has been picked up on the west coast and it belongs to the warship. The section of the coast visited by the Egeria is known as "The Graveyard of the Pacific." The Egeria is in the surveying service.

$10,000,000 IN SMOKE.

Patterson, N.J., Swept by Fire—A Thousand People Without Shelter.

Paterson, N.J., Feb. 10.— A great fire swept through Paterson yesterday and in its desolate wake are the embers and ashes of property valued in preliminary estimate at $10,000,000. It burned its way through the business section of the city and claimed as its own a majority of the finer structures devoted to commercial, civic, educational and religious use, as well as sources of other houses. There was but small tribute of life an injury to the conflagration, but hundreds were left homeless and thousands without employment. A relief movement for the care of those unsheltered and unprovided for has been organized, and Mayor John Hinchcliffe said last night that Paterson would be able to care for her own without appealing to the charity of other communities and states. The great manufacturing plants of the place are safe, and the community temporarily dazed by the calamity has already commenced the work of re-organization and restoration.

An estimate made from a general inspection of the smouldering ruins placed the number of dwellings and apartment houses destroyed at 500, and the families left without shelter at 1,000 A re-estimate when order succeeds confusion may alter those figures.

Scores of persons were hurt and burned, but the loss of life is not thought to be great. Reuben Isleb, while serving coffee to the exhausted firemen, was hit on the head by a falling beam, and it is doubtful if he will live.

George Fitzmaurice, fireman, was driving an engine from Passaic when the horses bolted, and before Fitzmaurice could get them under control they brought the apparatus against an electric pole, and Fitzmaurice, who had not waited to strap himself in, was hurled out upon his head. There is no chance of his living.

Sardines are a delicacy fit for any epicure, but the other fish was thus summed up by an epigrammatic Carnishman: "Pilchards," he said "are like wives. When they're bad, they're awful, and when they're good they're only middling."

ACCIDENT ON I. C. R.

Pullman Car Then Made a Right Turn Into the Lake—Four Lady Passengers Injured.

Montreal, Feb. 10.—A despatch from Halifax says: A serious accident was reported on the I.C.R. near Grand Lake Saturday morning. One of the trains carrying passengers which arrived at Halifax on the mail steamer Ionian, was wrecked, and several passengers reported injured.

The Pullman left the rails and a number of passengers were injured. In the Pullman were four lady passengers, all of whom were more or less injured, and it is thought some seriously. The injured have been removed to Scott's Hotel, Elmsdale.

At the scene of the accident the sleepers show that the Pullman left the rails, running about 100 yards, turned at right angled, and plunged down the embankment into the lake, through the ice.

It was necessary to cut a hole through the top of the car in order to release the occupants.

SOO TRAIN DELAYED.

Snowplow and Engine Go Off the Track on C.P.R.

Ottawa, Feb. 10.—The C.P.R. Soo train due here at 4 o'clock yesterday morning, arrived last evening 13 hours late. Delay was due to the derailing of a snow plow and two engines running ahead of the express. The accident happened a couple of miles west of Smith's Falls. The snow plow crew were hurt, one of them so seriously that he was brought to the hospital here. The wrecking train, which left Ottawa yesterday morning to clear the track, got stuck a mile this side of its destination and had to be shovelled out.

A late despatch says: John Ardiff of Carleton Place, the only one seriously hurt, had both arms broken and his head injured. He is now in St. Luke's Hospital here and his recovery is doubtful. The plough train was running at the rate of thirty miles an hour, when it struck a five-foot drift a mile long. The plough mounted the drift and fell across the track. Both engines, fortunately for the men in the plough, were thrown clear of it. This is the fourth accident on the C.P.R. line near Ottawa within a fortnight.

Cars Hung Above Embankment.

Montreal, Que., Feb. 10.—The C. P. R. had a narrow escape from a very serious wreck Saturday night near the Place Viger Station. The train from St. Jerome, with a large party of Montrealers, who had been spending the day in the country, came into collision with a light engine, during the blizzard, which was raging at the time. Several cars were derailed and hung on the edge of the embankment, 50 feet above the wharves. If they had rolled over the loss of life would have been very heavy. As it was no one was seriously hurt, but a couple of score were badly shaken up and bruised.

MISSING LIBRARIAN LANCEFIELD.

Cashed 31 Cheques of $125 Each For 13 Months' Salary.

Hamilton, Feb. 10.—The misdoings of R. T. Lancefield, for years the Public Librarian, are gradually coming to light, and they are causing almost consternation among those who put implicit faith in him. An examination of the cheques, etc., shows that he had cashed 31 monthly cheques of $125 each, for 13 months' salary, from Jan. 31, 1900, to Feb. 1, last.

It is also claimed that he had drawn duplicate cheques for the wages of the employes, which amounts to $51 a week. The duplicate cheques, since Feb. 1, 1901, were signed by W. F. Burton, chairman of the Finance Committee, who, according to the board's rule, was authorized to sign cheques, in the absence of the chairman of the board: Mr. J. O'Reilly. Mr. O'Reilly says he had been out of the city only three days during the year, and that Mr. Burton never notified him that he was signing pay cheques.

The books have not been audited since Dec. 31, 1900. Lancefield was treasurer of St. Mark's Church, but, at the time of his departure, he had not more than $100 of the church funds at his command.

The detectives are looking for the missing librarian. It has been learned that he went to the library about 6 o'clock on Thursday morning, and was there till 9 o'clock, during which time, it is supposed, he mutilated the books. Mr. Lancefield was seen on York street a little after 9 o'clock Friday morning, and a man answering his description was at Anderson's Hotel, near the cemetery, about 9.30 o'clock. Lancefield took the 10.20 train on the G.T.R. for Toronto.

The North American Guarantee Company of Montreal, which holds a $2,000 bond, has threatened to dispute the payment of the amount on the ground that reasonable precautions were not taken to prevent dishonesty.

The local press, as well as the taxpayers generally, are denouncing members of the Library Board for their loose methods. The resignation of Warren Burton, the member who signed the duplicate cheques, is demanded. Prominent lawyers express the opinion that Mr. Burton can be held liable for about $2,000 for cheques he signed without proper authority.

All kinds of reports were afloat yesterday about the missing treasurer, but the general belief is that Lancefield has committed suicide or is in hiding in the city Efforts are being made to raise the amount of the shortage. Over $3,000 has been guaranteed by Masons and other friends.

A SUDDEN DEATH BLOW

Judge Lister Carried Off by Heart Failure on Sunday.

AT OSGOODE HALL ON SATURDAY

Sketch of His Career—Born in Belleville in 1843, Called to the Bar 1875, Representative of West Lambton in 1882, and to the Bench in 1890—Retired in Lambton—His Important Cases.

Toronto, Feb. 10.—Early yesterday morning Hon. James Frederick Lister, Justice of the Court of Appeal for Ontario, died at the family residence in this city. The news of Mr. Justice Lister's death came as a great shock to his many friends, for on Saturday he was at Osgoode Hall for several hours, and returned home at 5.30 o'clock. Two hours later he partook of dinner with his family. Shortly afterwards he complained of being unwell, and at 9 o'clock retired. Despite the best of medical attendance his condition grew worse, and at 3.15 yesterday morning he passed away. Fifteen minutes before death he lost consciousness. The direct cause of death was heart failure, brought on by acute indigestion.

James Frederick Lister was the fifth son of Capt. George Lister of the British revenue service, and was born at Belleville, June 21, 1843. He was admitted an attorney in 1865, and was called to the bar in 1875. He practised law at Sarnia, the firm being known as Lister & Cowan, and was frequently employed by the Crown to conduct the Crown's business at the County Assizes. He entered politics as the Liberal representative in West Lambton, being elected in that interest in the general election of 1882, and sat continuously in the House until his appointment to a judgeship. He was created a Q.C. by the Ontario Government in 1890. In June, 1899, he was made a Justice of the Court of Appeal for Ontario. Some of the important cases argued before him were the scrap iron assessment and Lord's Day cases. He leaves a widow, two sons and three daughters.

Lambton Will Mourn.

Mr. H. J. Pettypiece, M.P.P., speaking last night of Judge Lister's death, said that it would be a shock to the people of the County of Lambton. Judge Lister stood very high in the estimation of the district, where he had come to be regarded with something of the affection bestowed in earlier days upon the Hon. Alexander Mackenzie and Mr. Pardee.

Tribute From Ottawa.

Ottawa, Feb. 10.—The news of Mr. Justice Lister's death was a great shock to those members of the Cabinet who heard it last night. One and all deplored the loss of a good citizen and an upright Judge, who seemed to have the prospect of many years of usefulness before him.

ELEVEN BURNED TO DEATH.

Early Sunday Fire Destroyed the Empire Hotel, St. Louis, Mo.

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 10.—An early morning fire, which destroyed the Empire Hotel, a large three-storey lodging house, occupied by men exclusively, caused the death of eleven persons, 10 men and one woman, and dangerously injured eight others. Ten or more, who had narrow escapes from death in the fire, were more or less injured by being frost bitten. It is estimated that there were between 35 and 40 persons in the building Saturday night, and it is believed all have been accounted for. It is thought $20,000 will cover the damage to building and contents.

The dead: Morris Yall, senior member of the firm of Yall, Clark & Cowan, manufacturers of fine cut glass, formerly of Chicago, burned to a crisp; Tobe Davis, man about town, suffocated; John C. Lueders, father of Deputy City Marshall Lueders; George Thompson, switchman, Terminal Yards; Sarah Harris, colored, chambermaid; B. F. Woodley, employe Hamilton Brown Shoe Company; J. A. McMullen, carpenter; S. T. Corey, telegraph operator; Vance Marlin, civil engineer, Indianapolis; A. J. Allen Sedalia, Mo., stonemason; unknown man, who died at City Hospital from burns.

Roast Peacock.

In the old days a peacock was perhaps the most gorgeous and decorative dish on the Christmas board. This was prepared by first carefully removing the skin without losing the feathers. The fowl was then dressed, stuffed with all kinds of good things, roasted and finally sewed into its skin, still retaining the brilliant plumage. The beak was gilded, and this dish, fit for a king, was placed upon the table amid the blare of trumpets and the rapturous applause of the revelers.

What He Missed.

Mrs. De Style—It's a pity you could not have heard that sermon today.

Mr. De Style—After paying for your Sunday wardrobe I haven't money enough left to buy myself a decent thing to wear.

Mrs. De Style—That's just it, and that sermon would have made you blush for very shame. It was on the "Idolatrous Worship of Fine Clothes."

"DAY and NIGHT" ACHES

The Incessant grind of the Kidney Back-ache soothed and cured by South American Kidney Cure—It never fails.

"Kidney Disease affected my back so that I couldn't work at all, and could not sleep for the pain. I used three bottles of South American Kidney Cure, and I can positively add another to the long list of cures that this great remedy claims, for I can work fourteen hours a day now and not feel tired. I had tried other treatments but got no help from them."

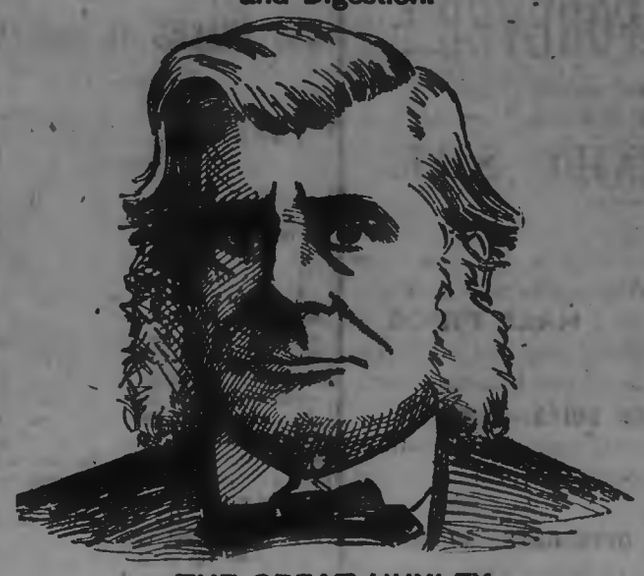
A Law Unto Himself.

Every Man Must be That, to Retain His Health and Digestion.



THE GREAT HUXLEY.

There are thousands of people in this world who eat no meat from one year's end to another, and certain savage tribes in Africa and Polynasia are almost exclusively meat eaters; but while there are thousands of these there are millions who live upon a mixed diet of meat, vegetables and grains, and if numbers is a criterion it would seem that a mixed diet is the best for the human family.

The fact that you will find many vegetarians who appear healthy and vigorous and meat eaters equally so, and any number of robust specimens who eat both meat and vegetables and anything else that comes their way, all goes to show that the old saw is the true one, that every man must be a law to himself as to what he shall eat and drink.

To repair the waste of tissues in brain workers as well as to replace the muscle and sinew of the labourer, can only be done through the process of digestion.

Every nerve, muscle, sinew, every drop of blood is extracted from the food we eat and digest.

In these days of hustle and worry, and artificial habits of life, scarcely one person in a thousand can lay any claim to a perfect digestion; dyspepsia is a national affliction, and Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets a national blessing.

Most cases of poor digestion are caused by failure of the stomach to secrete gastric juice, or too little Hydrochloric acid and lack of peptones and all of these important essentials to perfect digestion are found in Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets in convenient palatable form.

The great English scientist, Huxley, said the best start in life is a sound stomach. Weak stomachs fail to digest food properly because they lack the proper quantity of digestive acids (lactic and hydrochloric) and peptogenic products; the most sensible remedy in all cases of indigestion, is to take after each meal one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets because they supply in a pleasant, harmless form all the elements that weak stomachs lack.

One or two of these tablets taken after meals insure perfect digestion and assimilation of the food.

Cathartic pills and laxative medicines have no effect whatever in digesting food, and to call such remedies a cure for dyspepsia is far fetched and absurd.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets contain free from animal matter, diastase and other digestives, and not only digest all wholesome food but tend to increase the flow of gastric juices and by giving the weak stomach a much needed rest bring about a healthy condition of the digestive organs and a normal appetite.

Nervous, thin-blooded, run-down people should bear in mind that drugs and stimulants cannot furnish good blood, strong muscles and steady nerves; these come only from the wholesome food, thoroughly digested; a fifty cent box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets taken after meals for a few weeks will do you more real good than drugs, stimulants and dieting combined.

Henry Kirkpatrick, of Lawrence, Mass., says,—"Men and women whose occupation precludes an active out door life should make it a daily practice to use Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after meals, I have done so myself and I know positively that I owe my present health and vigor to their daily use.

"From the time I was 22 when graduated from school with broken health from overwork until I was 34, I scarcely knew what it was to be free from stomach weakness, I had no appetite whatever for breakfast, and very little for any other meal.

"I had acidity and heartburn nearly every other day, and sometimes was alarmed by irregularity and palpitation of the heart, but all this gradually disappeared after I began using Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and I can eat my meals with relish and satisfaction which I had not known since I was a growing boy."

Mrs. Jas. Barton, of Toronto, Canada, writes: "For eighteen months I suffered from what I supposed was bladder and kidney trouble, and I took medicine from three different doctors, without any sign of cure. I felt so ill at last I was hardly able to do my work.

"I thought I would try a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and see if they would make me feel better, never really thinking I had dyspepsia, but after only three or four tablets had been taken, all the acid trouble disappeared, and then I discovered I had acid dyspepsia, while the doctors had been teating me for kidney and bladder trouble, and one of them treated me for rheumatism.

"My digestion is fine, my complexion clear, and I am able to do my work, and low spirits are unknown to me.

"I am so thankful for finding a cure so good and so pleasant to take as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. I am surprised at the change they have made in me."

Mr. Thomas Seale, Mayfield, Calif., says,—"Have used and recommended Stuart's Tablets because there is nothing like them to keep the stomach right."

Mr. E. H. Davis, of Hampton, Va., says,—"I doctored five years for dyspepsia, but in two months I got more benefit from Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets than in five years of the doctors' treatment."

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is probably the safest, most popular and successful digestive on the market, and sold by druggists everywhere in the United States, Canada and Great Britain.

Sarcasm That Failed

A certain Englishman by birth who is an American by force of circumstances has been in this country long enough to absorb the American idea of humor. Last summer he was in London on a visit and happening to have business with a man on an upper floor of a tall building took the "lift" to reach his office. The elevator was one of those excessively deliberate British affairs, and its snail-like progress annoyed the Americanized Briton. The only other occupant of the car was a middle aged Englishman, with a manner of peculiarly English seriousness. The man from America ventured to address him.

"I think I could make a great improvement in this lift," he said.

The Englishman looked seriously interested.

"How?" he asked.

"Why," the other man went on, "I'd make it go faster by a simple little arrangement. I'd stop the lift altogether and move the building up and down."

The Englishman looked slightly more interested.

"How?" he asked.

Sponges.

Sponges grow in odd, fantastic shapes. Some of them have an overgrowth resembling huge warts. There are some suggesting hands, hats and figures of idols. These are curiosities and not marketable for practical use. In trimming them into shape many small sponges are made which are used for children's slates, for blacking shoes and in making paper. The uses vary according to size.

One of the largest sponges known is in New York city. It is fan shape and some three feet in diameter. For practical use it is worthless, but as an exhibit it is valued at $100.

The best sponges are imported from the Mediterranean, although Florida produces very fine varieties. These vary in price from a cent to $20 apiece, although occasionally fine specimens bring $80 a pound. The best of these are used in surgical operations.

Other sponges are the mandruka batt, the elephant ear, velvet, grass and sheep's wool, which is best for washing. The cheap sponges are used in washing carriages and by painters.

FROZEN TO DEATH.

An old Man Found Dead in the Snow Drifts.

WAS WALKING TO HARVEY.

Night Overtook Him and he Wandered From the Roadway to Perish From Exhaustion.

David Valentine was found frozen to death this morning, in the snow drifts, a short distance from the road, and about three-quarters of a mile this side of Burleigh Falls.

Valentine, who was 62 years of age, hails from St. Thomas, and has been working for some time as a farm labourer for Mr. W. J. Hicks, of Harvey. He came in to Peterborough during the latter part of last week and left for the country on Saturday, passing through Young's Point late in the afternoon. The old man was evidently overtaken by night before he expected, and getting off the road amongst the drifts lost courage, and did not have the strength to keep up the struggle long enough to find the road again.

He had evidently expected to be able to reach the Burleigh Falls Hotel, and spend the night there. The body was found this morning by his employer.

Mr. Darcy telephoned in to Coroner Gray this afternoon, explaining the circumstances, and asking if he would hold the body for an inquest. As there were no marks of violence on the body, Dr. Gray did not consider, in view of the circumstances, that it was necessary to hold an inquest.

RECEPTION IN TORONTO.

(From the Sunday World.)

The Speaker's Chambers, Parliament Buildings, were the Mecca of the fashionable world on Tuesday afternoon, when the Hon. J. R. Stratton and his wife were beseiged by callers, all anxious to pay their devoirs to the pleasand, genial Provincial Secretary and the gracious little lady, who, in many other positions, as well as in the social one, so admirably fills her place by the side of her clever husband. Mrs. Stratton wore a handsome gown of quiet grey poult de soie, broaded with tiny clover leaves of black, the panels of the skirt brought into relief by black pipings, and richly trimmed with black applique, white accordion-plaited chiffon, with touches of turquoise blue, and some beautiful ornaments of pearls and diamonds, ornamenting the corsage. Everyone that is known in society, with the addition of a large number of representative men, who figure in the politics of the country and in the making of the laws, seemed, at one hour or another, to be lingering in the pleasant, bright rooms, where the glow of a bright fire and quantities of beautiful flowers and palms made the environment one of great cheeriness. Glionna's Orchestra played in the bow window of the dining-room, where a buffet was done with pale green silk, veiled in white chiffon, a tall vase, holding a shower of carnations, in the centre, surrounded by smaller ones, filled with the same sweet-smelling blossoms, the silver candelabrum shaded in green. A group of young maids, with the nicest manners imaginable—Miss Kate Ross, Miss Evanturel Miss Eileen Carveth, Miss Muriel Hills and Miss Bessie Lister—served the dainties. A few of the large number present were: Lady Thompson, Lady Taylor, Lady Howland, Mrs. Lister, Mrs. Hoskins, Mrs. Duncan Coulson, Mrs. Janes, Mrs. George Lindsay, Miss Widdifield, Mrs. Shepley, Mrs. John J. Davidson, Mrs. Cross, Miss Wardrope, Mrs. Clarence Denison, Mrs. A. M. Ross, Mrs. and Miss Nicholls, Mrs. J. Austin Smith, Mrs. James George, Mrs. E. F. B. Johnston, Mrs. W. For Strong Men.

Messrs. Ayers, Hall and Pearson had charge of the topic at the Y.M.C.A. mens' meeting yesterday. Their presentation of the subject was very interesting and helpful. It was exercise with profit, the speakers drawing many valuable spiritual lessons from the exercise of a physical kind. At the opening of the meeting the secretary made an appropriate reference to the late J. B. Walker, who was secretary of the Lindsay Association. Mr. Watson sang "Come Away to Jesus Now" in a most effective manner. Next Sunday's topic will be "Striving for First Place."

THE SNOW STORM.

Trains Were Many Hours Late on Saturday Night.

The snowstorm on Saturday afternoon and night, accompanied by a stiff gale, caused another blockade of traffic on the local railway lines, and there were many disappointed travellers as a result. The G.T.R. Toronto train which is due to reach here at about nine p.m., did not arrive in Peterborough until about half-past three o'clock on Sunday morning. There were about thirty-five people from Millbrook, Fraserville and other points, who had come in to do their Saturday purchasing, and who were obliged to wait, much against their will.

The C. P. R. 4.45 p.m., train for the west was many hours behind time, whilst the midnight pulled slowly in at about 4 a.m., Sunday morning. The locomotive was in rather bad condition as it had run almost out of water, and could not have held out much longer.

The lines now are about in condition again.

HOTEL CHANGES HANDS.

Mr. Conroy has Purchased the National Hotel.

The National Hotel changed hands on Saturday, passing into the possession of Mr. John Conroy, who a short time ago entered into partnership with Mr. Moon.

Mr. Moon has been a good citizen of the town since taking up residence here a few years ago, and his many friends will regret seeing him leave town.

Mr. Conroy has already engaged Mr. Tierney Spellman to take charge of the office and Mr. W. Warmington has again been secured as wine clerk. The hotel, it is understood, will be conducted as a first class house in every respect, catering for the best trade.

PETERBOROUGH CHEESE BOARD

Annual Meeting Held on Saturday.

MR. DRUMMOND IS PRESIDENT.

Was Again Elected to That Office Mr. Ward to be Re-engaged Many New Rules Were Decided Upon— Other Business.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Cheese Board was held in town Council Chamber on Saturday afternoon. Notwithstanding the almost impassable condition of the roads the attendance was fairly large and business of prime importance to salesmen and buyers was disposed of.

The chair was occupied by President Drummond and the first order of business was the reading of the minutes of the last annual meeting which were, on motion, adopted.

The report of the Treasurer, Mr. Galvin, of Lakefield, showed the finances of the Board to be in a healthy condition. The receipts for the year amounted to $234.50, and the disbursements to $226.10, leaving a balance on hand of $8.40.

Mr. E. M. Elliott introduced a motion that the reporters who reported the proceedings of the Board during the past year be given a grant of $5.00 each. He understood that this was a customary procedure on the part of various organizations. The motion was seconded by Mr. Paul Costello and was duly put by the President, who declared the motion lost.

Mr. Galvin read a letter from Inspector Ward, which was in the form of a report regarding his work during the past year in the Peterborough district. The report was very encouraging and showed that the factories on the Peterborough Board were endeavouring to keep apace with the times.

Mr. Wm. Collins, secretary of the West Peterborough Farmers' Institute, addressed the Board regarding a communication which he had received from Mr. Creelman, secretary of the Provincial Farmers' Institute. Mr. Creelman wanted to know what dates would be convenient to the dairymen of this neighbourhood to have a prominent dairyman deliver a lecture in Peterborough on the dairying interest.

An effort will be made to arrange the date asked for.

The meeting then took up the matter of amendments to the rules of the Board. This was a long and and difficult task, but with the assistance of Mr. W. H. Wrighton, who was present, it is believed that the Board has now a set of rules, that will prevent a repetition of the evils that undoubtedly existed in connection with the Board last year. The rules will be printed, and sent out to the various persons interested.

THE OFFICERS.

The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows:

President — James J. Drummond, Keene.

Vice-President — George Stewart, Peterborough.

Secretary — John Riddell, Bensfort.

Treasurer — G. J. Galvin, Lakefield.

Mr. Samuel Ferguson introduced the matter of cold storage. He noticed that there was an appropriation in the Ontario Government's estimates for the purpose of testing the cold storage system. He knew of no community that was in greater need of cold storage than Peterborough. There should be some move towards getting a portion of the proposed appropriation for this district, and he was sure that Hon. Mr. Stratton would do all in his power to assist the people of this community in the matter.

Mr. John Riddell moved that Mr. Blezzard, M.P.P., be the representative of the Board to the Ontario Government with a view of having a cold storage plant established in Peterborough.

MR. WARD AGAIN.

Upon motion, the secretary was instructed to write to the Eastern Dairymen's Association asking that Mr. Ward be re-appointed instructor of the factories on the Peterborough Board for the ensuing year.

It was decided that the local Board should meet and the first sale of cheese should take place on Wednesday, the 21st day of May.

OBITUARY.

Death of Miss Agnes Jane Hamilton in Douro on Sunday.

The death took place at one o'clock on Sunday morning of Miss Agnes Jane Hamilton, eldest daughter of the late David Hamilton, of Douro. Death is attributed to an attack of bronchitis, and the entire neighbourhood feels keenly the loss of one, whose many admirable traits of character had won the love and esteem of all who knew her. The funeral will take place on Tuesday at 11 o'clock, from the family residence, lot 4, concession 6, Douro, and proceed to the Little Lake Cemetery.

A TRIUMPH FOR TOTAL ABSTINENCE

Inspiring Demonstration at St. Peter's Cathedral Sunday Night.

REV. P. J. MURPHY, PAULIST,

Defines Attitude of Church Regarding Saloons—A Strong Address—500 Women Enrolled as Total Abstainers.

The League of the Cross came into existence at St. Peter's Cathedral last evening. Never perhaps in the history of the town did any organization make such an enthusiastic beginning. Just imagine a stranger standing in the pulpit of one of our churches, and introducing a new society with the remark: "We are going to start with a membership of five hundred, and then work up!" And imagine that statement already more than verified in the result. Four hundred and sixty-one women registered their names last evening as members of the organization. The five hundred mark has been already reached at the time of going to press. And the members of the society are not going to rest satisfied until they have reached the one thousand mark. Peterborough is not supposed to be second in anything. Its normal position is in the first place. And in temperance work Peterborough is going to claim first place in this fair Dominion. The united Temperance Societies of the Cathedral, consisting of the St. Peter's T.A.S. and the League of the Cross, now claims a membership of almost eleven hundred. Nothing succeeds like success. And in this instance the success already attained in only a guarantee of the greater success to come.

The League of the Cross lays down the following conditions for membership:

1. Every Catholic woman, and every Catholic girl who has made her first Communion is eligible for membership.
2. Every member promises total abstinence from intoxicating drinks.
3. Every member uses her influence to prevent the use of intoxicants.
4. Every member receives Holy Communion at least four times a year, and that on the following feast days:—Christmas, Annunciation, Assumption, All Souls.
5. There are no membership fees whatever.

The Society offers the following spiritual advantages:

1. Once every week the Holy sacrifice of the Mass is offered for the living and dead members of the Society League.
2. All members, living and dead, have a share in the prayers, communion and good works of the League.
3. All members have the honour of standing with our Divine Redeemer, the recognized opponents of every evil that can menace the family and the home.
4. All members have the blessed privilege of standing with Mary, the Mother of Jesus, and with the other Holy women who stood beneath the cross on Calvary and met the dying gaze of Christ with an honest, sympathetic look which proved that someone loved Him still.
5. A special Mass offered for the soul of a member immediately after death.

It might be added that the members of St. Peter's T.A.S. share in all these advantages.

Rev. Father Murphy next took up his sermon, which was an eloquent one, replete with hard cold facts. He based his remarks on the following text:—

Matt. 26th. 34—"Then Jesus said to His disciples, if any man will come after Me, let him deny himself, take up his cross and follow Me."

There is a very pretty tradition that tells us about the following incident. At first sight it seems a little thing. But it is one of those little things that speak so eloquently to the minds of those who are intelligent enough to appreciate the great and simple things of life. It concerns our Divine Redeemer, and is supposed to have happened when He was only a child. From the very beginning it was noticed by our Blessed Mother that His mind was always occupied by something of the greatest moment. He was living in the future. He was taking in, not simply the events that were happening in His own immediate vicinity, but He was looking out through all the world, and even the affections of His childhood covered all the races and the nations of the sons of men. Our Blessed Mother found Him one day, standing in the attitude of deepest thought. She came upon Him when He least expected it. And before the Divine Child realized her presence, there was enacted before her the first great tragedy of the Saviour's life. The little hands were folded on His breast. The little body trembled. The little eyes were filled with tears. He was standing in the shadow of a cloud, and all the sorrows of the world were pressing heavily upon Him. It was only for a moment. But it was like that awful moment later, when He cried out in all the strength of manhood, and the great, red drops of blood were flowing from the heart that loved the world so well. It was only for a moment. But it seemed like an eternity for the mother who must look on in vain, for she was powerless to help Him. The cloud was passing in the Heavens. The sun was shining on His little form again. The plan was made. The tangled threads of human life were straightened out again. (Destiny.) The pale face brightened and the tears were stopped. The little folded hands were once again unclasped. The little form regained its strength and its determination. He took a few steps forward; and He planted Himself firmly in the attitude of hope and expectation. Our Blessed Mother forgot for the moment the struggle that had passed. She saw the little one she loved so well standing once again, the Saviour of the world in the warm sunshine of God's love, making fall upon the world that He loved the shadow of His cross. Standing, as the poet tells us, with all the colours of the rainbow in His vesture, and all the sunlight of the ages in His face.

This evening, my dear friends, I want to stand for a few moments in the shadow of the cross within this sacred place and speak to you about a subject of the greatest consequence.

They tell us that our Divine Redeemer came on earth to pay the greater part of the penalty for sin. They tell us that the most awful moment in His life was when He knelt at night beneath the olive trees within the garden of the oil-press, and meditated on the carelessness of man concerning their eternal destiny. It was there within the brief space of a few short hours that He shared in all the sorrows and the sufferings of the world through all the centuries. The trials and the difficulties of these poor human lives of ours were passing in review before him. He saw the world from creation to the end of time. He saw the long procession of the human race upon the earth. He saw the blood-stained foot-prints of the creatures that He loved. He heard the moans of women and the cries of little children. He saw the tears upon the faces of strong armed men. He saw the sufferings of the aged and the disappointments of the weak. He saw the infants in the arms of the mothers and he saw the dead upon the ground. He saw the history of the human race from eternity to eternity, the beginning to the end. He saw the little span of every human life, the cradle and the grave, the smiles of childhood, and the hopes of youth; the strength of manhood and the hopelessness of age. He saw the life that you and I are living—the life that comes before death. He saw the life that follows after death. The Gospel tells us that they found Him drenched with blood upon the ground. They found Him in the agony of despair, crying out with words that rent the Heavens, "Father, if it be possible, let this chalice pass from Me!"

This evening my dear friends, I want you to stand for a few minutes beside that Child of Nazareth, and see Him broken-hearted in the shadow of a cloud. I want you to stand for a few minutes beside that Man of Sorrows suffering in the garden of the oil press. I want you to do a little thinking on the subject He was trying to think out then. And the reason why I ask you to do that this evening is this,—There is no subject in the world in regard to which men are half so careless as this subject that should most concern them, their everlasting destiny. The holy writer cried out once in accents of despair, "With desolation is the world made desolate, and the whole wide world is filled with sorrow, for there is no man that thinks." You will find the minds of men are busy in the other fields of thought. They hate to make mistakes, even where mistakes are not so serious, and where the errors of one may be corrected by the carefulness of another. In all the other ways of men there seems to be a balance. The affairs of this life that do not concern our destiny seem always able to adjust themselves. But in all those things that religion deals with, in all those things that have to do with right and wrong, there is always a mysterious relationship that makes the consequences of our mistakes destructive to the best interests of others. There is always something that makes our misdeeds detrimental to our best interests in the time to come. They say that the relationship between the various parts of the material world is so intimate and so nicely balanced, that the dropping of a postage stamp upon the pavement of the street is serious enough to send a tremor through the universe. It may be justly truly said that in the social and moral world there are even greater things depending all the time upon the decisions that you and I make between right and wrong. There are always ten thousands interests that may be cursed or blessed. There are always ten thousand lives that may be made more happy. There are always ten thousand lives that may be made more miserable, and unhappy. But, above all things, there is our own life that is in our hands, a life that does not end at death, a life that lasts forever, and a life that is not going to be affected by our deeds or misdeeds simply in the present or in the few years to come, but a life that is going to feel the consequences of the present through all the ages of eternity. "With desolation is the whole world made desolate, for there is no man that thinks." What wonder that the little Child at Nazareth hesitated for a moment, and was almost overcome by despair! What wonder that the strong Man was overcome that night in the garden of the oil press! What wonder that so many men upon their deathbeds cry out for one short moment more to think!

The subject of this evening's sermon is intemperance. The text suggests responsibility. The purpose of what I am going to say to you is to convince some of those here present that it is not the drunkard alone who is responsible for the sins of drunkenness

ROYALTY'S BIG CIGARS.

Actual Size of the Smokers Used by King Edward and the Kaiser—Made Expressly for Them.

Two crowned heads of Europe have their cigars made expressly for them by the largest factory in Havana, according to the Cigar and Tobacco Journal. King Edward and Emperor William are the sovereigns to whom money is no object in comparison with a good smoke.

The English King favors a long and fat cigar. The one shown in the illustration is eight and seven-eighths inches long and one and a quarter inches in diameter at the thickest part. The Kaiser prefers a much smaller cigar, one measuring six and three-quarter inches in length by thirteen-sixteenths of an inch in diameter.

These cigars are not on sale to the general public. They are made up in lots of 1,000, which is the regulation order received from the royal customers of the Cuban factory. Nevertheless a few of these prize Havanas are kept on hand for sale to travelers as souvenirs, and in that way many a connoisseur is able on special occasions to enjoy a royal smoke.

KING EDWARD'S CIGAR. (Actual size.)

EMPEROR WILLIAM'S CIGAR. (Actual size.)

As might be supposed, the cigars are made from the choicest leaves, and by the best workmen in the factory. The men who roll the cigar for King Edward receive 25 cents for each cigar they finish. These cigars are worth $1 each in Havana, and if offered for sale in New York with the duty paid each would cost $2.30. It is only a few weeks ago that the secretary of the King of England sent the factory a draft for about £200, with an order for a thousand cigars. The cigars made for Emperor William cost 28 cents each in Havana, and in New York they would be worth 78 cents each at wholesale.

These cigars are not put up in boxes like ordinary "weeds," but are shelved in bunches of ten or fifteen in beautiful cabinets built to accommodate the entire number ordered.

Odd and Curious.

The chance of two finger-prints being alike is not one in 54,000,000,000.

Great Britain has 1,951,000 domestic servants earning £68,500,000 per annum.

Bank of England notes are numbered backwards, that is from one to 10,000, hence the figures 00,001.

A farmer who hung himself from a tree near Danbury, Conn., was the fifteenth member of his family to commit suicide.

Berlin pays a salary to a professional bird-catcher, who keeps scientific and educational institutions supplied with birds, birds' nests and eggs, and he is the only man in the empire permitted to do so.

Character In Medicine.

There is character in Dr. Chase's Ointment—just such character as has made Dr. Chase esteemed and admired the world over. Dr. Chase's Ointment has stood the test of time and remains to-day the only actual cure for Piles and itching Skin Disease. It is the standard Ointment of the world. You can rely on it just as you can rely on Dr. Chase's Receipt Book, because you know that it is backed by the sterling character of Dr. Chase—America's Greatest Physician.

Carpenters' Kidneys.

Carpentering is not an easy trade. The constant reaching up and down, the lifting and stooping over are all severe strains on the kidneys. No wonder a carpenter exclaimed, recently, that every time he drove a nail it seemed as though he was piercing his own back. He uses now on the first sign of Backache and is able to follow his trade with comfort and profit.

"I have had kidney and urinary troubles for more than three years with severe pain in the small of my back and in both sides. I could not stoop without difficulty, and I had severe neuralgic pain in both temples. Seeing the advertisement of Doan's Kidney Pills, I got a box. They have given me quick relief, removing the pain from the back and sides, and banishing the neuralgic pains from my head. The urinary difficulty is now entirely gone. I feel fresh and vigorous in the mornings, and am much stronger in every way since taking these pills." CLARENCE E. SEEDS. Carpenter and Builder, Trenton, Ont.

LIFE'S UPS AND DOWNS.

The Magnificent Revenge of a Governor of Missouri.

While Robert Stewart was governor of Missouri a steamboat man was brought in from the penitentiary as an applicant for a pardon. He was a large, powerful fellow, and when the governor looked at him he seemed strangely affected. He scrutinized him long and closely. Finally he signed the document that restored the prisoner to liberty. Before he handed it to him he said, "You will commit some other crime and be in the penitentiary again, I fear."

The man solemnly promised that he would not. The governor looked doubtful, mused a few minutes and said:

"You will go back on the river and be a mate again, I suppose?"

The man replied that he would.

"Well, I want you to promise me one thing," resumed the governor. "I want you to pledge your word that when you are mate again you will never take a billet of wood in your hand and drive a sick boy out of a bunk to help you load your boat on a stormy night."

The steamboat man said he would not and inquired what the governor meant by asking him such a question.

The governor replied: "Because some day that boy may become a governor, and you may want him to pardon you for a crime. One dark, stormy night, many years ago, you stopped your boat on the Mississippi river to take on a load of wood. There was a boy on board who was working his passage from New Orleans to St. Louis, but he was very sick of fever and was lying in a bunk. You had plenty of men to do the work, but you went to that boy with a stick of wood in your hand and drove him with blows and curses out into the wretched night and kept him toiling like a slave until the load was completed. I was that boy. Here is your pardon. Never again be guilty of such brutality."

The man, cowering and hiding his face, went out without a word.

What a noble revenge that was and what a lesson to a bully!

Cold Affects the Liver.

Severe Headaches, Constipation and Kidney Disorders the Result—Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills Correct the Action of Filtering and Excretory Organs.

The liver is very easily affected by change of temperature, nervous strain and over-eating, and is the cause of more pains and aches than any other organ of the body. It is the duty of the liver to filter from the blood the poisonous bile, which it passes into the intestines to act as nature's cathartic. One of the first results of a sluggish, congested liver is constipation, alternating with looseness of the bowels and what is commonly called biliousness.

Bitter taste in the mouth, sallow complexion, a coated tongue, severe headaches, pain under shoulder blades, fulness in right side, dizziness, ill-temper, peevishness and depression of spirits are indications of an ailing liver. The remarkable effectiveness of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills in regulating the action of the liver, kidneys and bowels easily places it first as a treatment for derangements of these organs. There are few people who are not more or less subject to biliousness in the winter season, when more or less confined to the house, and so rendered sensitive to change of temperature. Meat diet and the artificial foods of winter also tend to make the liver sluggish, the kidneys inactive and the bowels constipated.

The promptness with which Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills correct the action of the filtering and excretory organs and rid the blood of poisonous bile impurities commend them to reasoning people as a suitable family medicine to be kept in the home all the time. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are prompt, pleasant and natural in action, far-reaching in effect and perfectly scientific. They have proven their right to your confidence in scores of thousands of cases, many, no doubt, in your immediate locality.

Do not imagine that you are experimenting when you begin to use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. If your liver, kidneys or bowels are deranged this proportion will set them right. It does not seem wise to suffer from biliousness, kidney disease, constipation or similar ailments when you may as well keep your health in perfect order with this tried and tested remedy. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Company, Toronto.

CYNICISMS.

A fool idea is all right if you can make it go.

Every man thinks he will have an awful big funeral.

When an old person is sick, don't say he "hangs on." Say he lingers.

You probably would receive the shock of your life if you knew how much the neighbors know.

The Polka.

The polka is the natural dance for the feet of the people. Take in evidence its origin. A Bohemian peasant girl was seen dancing "out of her own head," extemporizing from the sheer joy of her heart song, tune and steps. This she did on a Sunday afternoon in Elbeleinitz, and an artist, one Josef Neruda, who spied her, made a note of all he saw. The people of the town adopted the dance and called it the polka, half step. In 1835 it reached Prague and Vienna in 1840; thence it spread rapidly through Europe. When M. Cellarius introduced it to the Parisians, we hear that all else gave way before "the all absorbing pursuit, the polka, which embraces in its qualities the intimacy of the waltz with the vivacity of the Irish jig."

Poor Sinner's Bell.

The poor sinner's bell is a bell in the city of Breslau, in the province of Silesia, Prussia, and hangs in the tower of one of the city churches. It was cast July 17, 1386, according to historic records. It is said that a great bell founder of the place had undertaken to make the finest church bell he had ever made.

When the metal was melted, the founder withdrew for a few moments, leaving a boy to watch the furnace and enjoining him not to meddle with the catch that held the molten metal, but the boy disobeyed the caution, and when he saw the metal flowing into the mold he called the founder.

The latter rushed in and, seeing as he thought his work of weeks undone and his masterpiece ruined, struck the boy a blow that caused his immediate death. When the metal cooled and the mold was opened, the bell was found to be not only perfect, but of marvelous sweetness of tone.

The founder gave himself up to the authorities, was tried and condemned to death. On the day of his execution the bell was rung to call people to attend church and offer a prayer for the unhappy man's soul, and from that it obtained the name of "the poor sinner's bell."

Slowly Dying From Catarrh.

Thousands are in this terrible condition but don't realize their danger. If you have the slightest taint of Catarrh, would it not be wise to commence Catarrhozone treatment now and be perfectly cured in a short time? This pleasant remedy cures without the use of drugs, atomizers or snuffs. You inhale the medicated vapor which spreads to all parts of the breathing organs, kills the germs and heals the inflamed surfaces. Catarrhozone cleans the throat and nose instantly, and never fails to cure the most obstinate catarrhal, lung and throat troubles. A trial will demonstrate the value of Catarrhozone, which sells for $1.00, small size 25 cts., at druggists or Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

The Horse and the Stage.

Once upon a time in a melodramatic theatrical performance the leading man took a fiery, untamed steed on the stage. After the horse heard some of the lines delivered by several of the actors he began kicking the flats and wings to pieces, sending them up among the flies.

"Help, help!" cried the leading man.

"Nay, nay!" answered the manager. "The horse shows great discernment. He is trying to elevate the stage."

His Thoughtlessness.

He—Ah, those days of our young love! You remember that afternoon you promised to meet me and didn't come? How I raved!

She—Just like a man! And there was I, suffering agonies, trying on that dress you liked so much.—Life.

Not New.

Don't think our Vapo-Cresolene is something new, for it isn't. For more than twenty years it has been extensively used for all forms of bronchial and throat trouble. A HARD PROPOSITION

SCIENTIFIC EXPLANATION OF THE FOURTH DIMENSION.

To the Lay Mind it Would Appear as Though This Measure of Space Were the Ability to Disappear Through Stone Walls.

Suppose a world consisting of a boundless flat plane to be inhabited by reasoning beings who can move about at pleasure on the plane, but are not able to turn their heads up or down or even to see or think of such terms as above them and below them, and things around them can be pushed or pulled about in any direction, but cannot be lifted from the plane. People and things can pass around each other, but cannot step over anything. These dwellers in "flatland" could construct a plane geometry which would be exactly like ours in being based on the axioms of Euclid. Two parallel straight lines would never meet, though continued indefinitely.

But suppose that the surface on which these beings live, instead of being an infinitely extended plane, is really the surface of an immense globe like the earth on which we live. It needs no knowledge of geometry, but only an examination of any globular object—an apple, for example—to show that if we draw a line as straight as possible on a sphere and parallel to it draw a small piece of a second line, and continue this in as straight a line as we can, the two lines will meet when we proceed in either direction one-quarter of the way around the sphere. For our "flatland" people these lines would both be perfectly straight because the only curvature would be in the direction downward, which they could never either perceive or discover.

To explain hypergeometry proper we must first set forth what a fourth dimension of space means and show how natural the way by which it may be approached. We continue our analogy from "flatland." In this supposed land let us make a cross—two straight lines intersecting at right angles. The inhabitants of this land understand the cross perfectly and conceive of it just as we do. But let us ask them to draw a third line intersecting the same point and perpendicular to both the other lines. They would at once pronounce this absurd and impossible. It is equally absurd and impossible to us if we require the third line to be drawn on the paper. But we would reply, "If you allow us to leave the paper or flat surface, then we can solve the problem by simply drawing the third line through the paper perpendicular to its surface."

Now, to pursue the analogy, suppose that after we have drawn three mutually perpendicular lines some being from another sphere proposes to us the drawing of a fourth line through the same point perpendicular to all three of the lines already there. We should answer him in the same way that the inhabitants of "flatland" answered us: "The problem is impossible. You cannot draw any such line in space as we understand it." If our visitor conceived of the fourth dimension, he would reply to us as we replied to the "flatland" people: "The problem is absurd and impossible if you confine your line to space as you understand it. But for me there is a fourth dimension in space. Draw your line through that dimension, and the problem will be solved. This is perfectly simple to me; it is impossible to you solely because your conceptions do not admit of more than three dimensions."

Supposing the inhabitants of "flatland" to be intellectual beings as we are, it would be interesting to them to be told what dwellers of space in three dimensions could do. Let us pursue the analogy by showing what dwellers in four dimensions might do. Place a dweller of "flatland" inside a circle drawn on his plane and ask him to step outside of it without breaking through it. He would go all around and, finding every inch of it closed, he would say it was impossible from the very nature of the conditions. "But," we would reply, "that is because of your limited conceptions. We can step over it."

"Step over it!" he would exclaim. "I do not know what that means. I can pass around anything if there is a way open, but I cannot imagine what you mean by stepping over it."

But we should simply step over the line and reappear on the other side. So if we confine a being able to move in a fourth dimension in the walls of a dungeon of which the sides, the floor and the ceiling were all impenetrable he would step outside of it without touching any part of the building just as easily as we could step over a circle drawn on the plane without touching it. He would simply disappear from our view like a spirit and perhaps reappear the next moment outside the prison. To do this he would have to make a little excursion in the fourth dimension.—Professor Simon Newcomb in Harper's Magazine.

His Maiden Name.

It is said that at certain seasons in Scotland when the fishing is not very brisk the fishermen act as caddies and are easily recognized by their costume, a woolen jersey and trousers braced up to the armpits. One of these was asked his name by the gentleman for whom he was carrying, and the reply was, "Weel, sir, hereabouts they maistly ca' me Breeks, but ma maiden name is Broon."

His Early Love Affair.

May—I wonder why Reggie never married.

Jack—He had a love affair when quite young and has never got over it.

May—Who was the object of his affections?

Jack—Himself.

tions to a decollete gown. The ribbons are held together by jeweled slides to match the ribbon.

Huge jeweled flowers are taking the place of the omnipresent rosette. Wreaths of baby roses are worn by those who are still young, and they give a quaint look to a pretty face. Bunches of marabou feathers are smart for matrons. Draperies of jeweled tulle are held together by jeweled buttons and form smart evening sleeves on dinner and dancing frocks.

Smart sashes of Persian chiffon or panne have the ends embroidered with black lace butterflies, and the girdle proper is run through slides of jet.

Many fancy fronts are being worn with dressy tailor mades. One of the prettiest of these is shown in the illustration. It is made of pale blue chiffon over liberty satin. The square yoke is collarless, and from this three bands of guipure run the length of the waist. There is a yoke of tucks, and the fullness is held into a folded belt of pale blue velvet. JUDIC CHOLLET.

Jo Rivett's Dog Story.

This is an Irish dog story, told by an Englishman. I don't know whether it is original, or not, says Jo Rivett in Toronto Star. The Englishman says it is, but I "has me douts." It's a good story, anyhow, so I will pass it on.

The scene of the tale is laid in a church. A quiet, well-behaved dog followed his master into the edifice one morning and curled up and went to sleep beneath the seat. The aisleman, a son of Erin, spied the animal, but as he looked like a well-behaved whelp, he obeyed the adage to "let sleeping dogs lie." During a prayer, however, a vagrant cur strolled in. He sniffed around, and finally snarled at the sleeping animal. The drowsy one opened his eyes, and instantly accepted the challenge. The scrap, of course, put the congregation in an uproar.

The aisleman seized one canine by the scruff of the neck, and carried him out, shouting: "Let every one of yez catch a dog, and put him out."

The minister had a heavy task ahead of him to bring the congregation back to the lines of serious religious thought, for every time the Irishman's "bull" recurred in the memory of any member of the congregation, the smile spread from seat to seat like oil on water.

IT'S CHILD'S PLAY

To treat a woman for a disease year after year and give her no permanent relief. Yet that has been the case with scores of women who have "doctored" for year after year unhelped and unhealed, to find at last that a few bottles of Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription would have saved years of suffering and a great deal of money.

For the regulation of the periods, the stopping of disagreeable drains, the healing of inflammation and ulceration, and the cure of female weakness, there is no medicine can equal Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

"About five years ago I had very poor health," writes Mrs. S. E. Wheles, of Holden, Johnson Co., Missouri. "After doctoring four years with our town doctors they gave my case up; said they had done all they could. I had been confined to my bed half my time; the other half could hardly drag around. I had such pains in my back and abdomen I could not stand for more than a few minutes. My feet were cold or burning, and my periods came too often. The doctors said it was change of life, so, as I had heard of Dr. Pierce's medicines, my husband got me a bottle of 'Favorite Prescription.' I took it and it helped me in some ways, so I wrote to you and followed your advice. I commenced 'Favorite Prescription,' 'Golden Medical Discovery' and the 'Pellets,' as I was so constipated all the time and pills would weaken me so that I would have to go to bed. To the great surprise of everybody I got well, and when I met my friends they would say, 'We never thought you would be here now.' And I can say it was your medicine, which no doubt is the best in the world. Have had no use for doctors since I tried your medicine."

Nelly Foster, a very fast green pacing mare by Russell B., 2:14¼, owned by John Foster of Fairport, O., is dead.

Thomas W. Lawson is reported as wanting to buy Dare Devil and as willing to pay almost any price for him.

Does the fact that Silver Bow, 2:16, the son of Robert McGregor, has been leased to bring east for stud service at the Ketchum farm mean that the decision to permanently retire Cresceus from the turf has been reconsidered?

A True Brain Food.

must replace the feeling of lassitude and mental tiredness by clearness and strength of mind. Not that it goes directly to the brain, that were foolish. The true brain food must be carried by rich, red blood. If mental fatigue worries and alarms you, look not to the brain, but the stomach and assimilative organs. No remedy yet discovered, possesses the marvellous brain strengthening power that Ferrozone has demonstrated in thousands of cases. Ferrozone does not stimulate the brain into a fitful glow, but by improving digestion, strengthening the nervous system, stimulating assimilation, giving new strength to the heart, it sends a stream of red vitalizing blood to the brain. Thus it is a true brain food. Ferrozone is sold by Ormond & Walsh.

Functions of Fruit.

The Medicine Brief thus summarizes the various uses of fruit in relieving diseased conditions of the body. The list is worth keeping: Under the category of laxatives, oranges, figs, tamarinds, prunes, mulberries, dates, nectarines and plums may be included. Pomegranates, cranberries, blackberries, sumac berries, dewberries, raspberries, barberries, quinces, pears, wild cherries and medlars are astringents. Grapes, peaches, strawberries, whortleberries, prickly pears, black currants and melon seeds are diuretics. Gooseberries, red and white currants, pumpkins and melons are refrigerants. Lemons, limes and apples are stomachic sedatives.

It Strikes the Heart.

Not only is the victim of Rheumatism a constant sufferer, but he lives in continual dread that the disease will reach the heart, which means sudden and unexpected death. Rheumatism can only be cured when the uric acid is removed from the blood by the healthy action of the kidneys. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills make the kidneys healthy and vigorous, and so gradually and thoroughly cure Rheumatism by removing the cause. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box.

The Best Cure.

Quiet and warmth are the medicines of the four footed philosopher. If a dog is ailing, he rolls himself into a ball in a warm corner and eats little or nothing till he is well. Many times rest is the only medicine needed by the sick, but we seldom follow this example. The biped loses the instinct of the animal. He fumes, frets, takes stimulants and medicaments and gives no chance to the recuperative forces of nature.

EIGHT CONVINCING REASONS . . .

WHY YOU SHOULD INSURE IN

THE IMPERIAL LIFE ASSURANCE CO'Y OF CANADA.

1. It is a purely Canadian Company, having all its funds invested in Canadian securities, and transacting business only in Canada.

2. It maintains the largest Government Deposit of any Canadian Life Insurance Company.

3. It maintains relatively the strongest policy reserves of any Canadian Life Insurance Company.

4. Its past record — the greatest guarantee of the future — has been unparalleled in Canadian Life Insurance.

5. Its policy contract is one of the most liberal issued, consistent with safety and equity.

6. It has a capital of $1,000,000, which makes policy-holders' security unquestionable. At the same time, the assured is practically in the same position regarding profits as if he held a policy in a mutual company, the Imperial's charter providing that at least 90 per cent. of all profits shall be divided amongst the policy-holders.

7. For every $100 of liability to the policy-holders, it holds $120 of securely invested assets. These assets are all of the highest order, and will bear the closest scrutiny.

8. An Imperial policy never depreciates in value, but, on the contrary, is constantly becoming more valuable. It is the most valuable estate you can leave behind you.

that are committed. We all have certain obligations devolving upon us by reason of the prevalence of this vice. Drunkenness is a sin, because it destroys health, and dulls the conscience. The physician deals with it as a disease, which it sometimes is. The philanthropist looks upon it as one of the most efficient causes of poverty and suffering, and for that reason tries to put an end to it. The court considers it a crime only when it manifests itself by violence. The legislature tolerates it as an incidental evil for the individual, but at the same time an abundant source of revenue for the state. The Church considers drunkenness a very serious offence against the goodness and mercy of God, and a great wrong done to a man's own soul. The commandments forbid it, because it makes man less than his Creator intended. The priest is opposed to it, because he knows by careful observation that it is the most productive cause of sin, besides being a very grievous sin itself.

Most of the people of this country are intelligent enough to know their own interests. And it does not take much hard thinking to convince an honest-minded and intelligent man or woman that drunkenness is a curse and that moderate drinking often leads up to it. Drunkenness does not make a man respectable to-day. It does not recommend him for a responsible position. It does not entitle him to the confidence even of his friends. The railroad company does not want a drunkard in the signal-house or on the locomotive. The steamship company does not want him on the bridge. The commercial house or banking institution does not want him handling its funds. The merchant does not want him behind the counter. The manufacturer does not want him beside the machine. We do not call in a drunken physician if we can get sober one. We do not expect a drunken lawyer to gain a suit. We do not want drunken teachers in our schools. We do not want drunken judges on the bench. There is the strongest argument with most people in favour of temperance and even in favour of total abstinence. There is nothing gained by drunkenness, and there is not much gained by moderate drinking. Now let us turn to some of the arguments in favour of drinking and in favour of drunkenness.

The strongest argument is a business argument. The greatest promoters of drunkenness to-day are those who have money invested in the business, and who want to make it pay. It may be the owner of the distillery, or the brewer. It may be the owner of the liquor store or the man that runs the saloon. They may not want to make a drunkard of a man for fun, for there is no fun in it. But they have got their money up against the happiness of your home, against the good name and the honour of your child, against your own immortal soul; and they would rather see you lose than lose themselves. Perhaps they did not start into the business to do harm by it. But it is a bad business, and it makes them bad. They want ten, twenty, fifty per cent. on their investment. And when you offer them your money, they do not care whether your blood is on it or not. They want it. They are going to take it. That is just how it comes that the worst element in this country are engaged in the manufacture and sale of intoxicating drinks. The business may be legitimate in some ways But it is inimical to the best interest of the community. We all suspect the liquor dealer or saloon keeper. He may be a good man in his way. But we can't help suspecting him just the same. Let me make that statement a little more definite.

I remember hearing a priest in a town on the Ohio River on one occasion make this remark. He said, "If I had a deep, personal enmity against someone in this town to-morrow, and if I wanted a mean, low crime committed against that person, if I wanted to have a wrong done to that man's family; if I wanted a theft or a robbery committed against him, or a murder, if I wanted to see his child seduced or outraged, I would write to a saloon-keeper to do the crime. And he would do it. And if I wanted it well done, I would write to a Catholic saloon-keeper to do it. That statement is made in regard to a certain town. I know what I am talking about when I say it. And if some of the victims of crimes that were committed in that town could come back from the dead to-night, and if some of the former saloonkeepers of that town could come back from hell to-night, they would tell you that I am right, and they would tell you to keep both eyes open all the time on those who are are engaged in the liquor business in your own midst. It is a bad business, and it takes a bad man to run it as it should be run. Where do you find the criminals of a city? Where do you find the outcasts? Where do you find the gambling places? Where do you find the disreputable resorts? Do you find them in the grocery? Do you find them in the drygoods store? Do you find them where any lawful and respectable business is carried on? You find them with their own. You find them in the saloon. When the little ones are crying at home for bread and the unfortunate father is disappointed, where do you find the man who is mean enough to take that poor unfortunate's money, and to look for it, and to be angry if he does not get it? You find him in the saloon. Where do you find those who will permit a Catholic mother to forget the fact that she is a mother? You will find them in the saloon. Where will you find those who might pretend to be your friends, but who would laugh to-morrow if they saw your sister or your child going headlong down to ruin? You will find them in the saloon. Where will you find the men who will grind their teeth at me because I am telling you the truth to-night? You will find them in the saloon. Do you realize that the curse of Jesus Christ is on the saloon? Now, there is the strongest argument in favour of the liquor business. They want your money. It may be necessary for you to lay down every dollar that you have.

The remainder of the sermon will be published to-morrow.

UNION CARPENTERS MEET TO-NIGHT.

The first regular meeting of the Carpenters and Joiners for February will be held to-night, and a good turn-out of the members will be profitable to them.

President Duggan is going to grapple with a subject entitled "How to Save Money. Any fool can earn money, but it takes a good smart man to hang on to it." This is a very broad and profitable question, and one that every union and non-union man should get familiar with in these days of squandering money. The chairman is just the man who can handle this to perfection, and every member should make a special effort to be present.

Preparations for Wednesday Night's Game.

Matters of Interest to Curlers and Hockeyists—The Local Team, in Condition.

HOCKEY.

Quite a number of Port Hope boys are coming to Peterborough to see Wednesday's game.

An important practice of the intermediate players is ask for to-night, after which the team will be picked for Wednesday's game. All the players are requested to be on hand early.

The young ladies are beginning to practice for their annual match of Biffs vs. Niffs. On Friday evening a team of Kingston young ladies will play in Belleville.

Port Hope Guide; "The covered rink question is all the talk around town now. People who never invested a cent of money before are scrambling for stock in this enterprise, and there is no doubt but that they are in the right of it. The gentlemen who have the matter in hand say that Port hope will have one of the best rinks in the country, or nothing, as they believe that a first-class article always pays. It is intended to have the seating capacity surrounding the skating ice arranged similar to that of the Petrie rink at Guelph, which is the only possible means of letting every spectator view the game from their seats in solid comfort. It might be added right here that Cobourg people will be taxed $1 to peep in at the door."

The Norwood hockey team will go to Keene to-night to play their first game in the semi-finals of the Trent Valley Hockey League Series.

The public generally will regret that the management of the local hockey club cannot see its way clear to reserve the west side of the gallery for to-morrow night's game. It had been thought that this could have been accomplished, and thereby be a source of comfort to many who would be willing to pay a little more. However, the scheme would be more difficult to carry out than to suggest, and for the present there will be no reserve seat system.

CURLIANA.

On Saturday evening Skip Giroux won from Skip Kerr by 14 to 11, and Skip Stanger won from Skip Blade by 11 to 7.

The curlers would like to know what skips are withholding the club trophies, which should be on exhibition at the rink.

The match that will take place on Wednesday night in the Charlotte street rink between Kingston and Peterborough, promises to be the hockey event of the season, and continues to be the talk of the town. The Peterborough team will have their final practice this evening, and they are at present in the pink of condition.

The services have been well attended and have been fruitful of results. At yesterday's services, both afternoon and evening, seating accommodation was obtained with difficulty.

We wish to announce that a grand concert will be given in the Convent Hall to-night and to-morrow night, 10th and 11th February. IN MEMORIAM.

In loving remembrance of Robert J. Fife, who died December 4th, 1901:

What were his thoughts in that last solemn hour,
With Eternity's mystery nigh;
And angels of Mercy hovering near,
To list to that last plaintive sigh.,

Oh anguished heartsl to think that he died,
Far away from your love, and your care,
But a pitying Father was looking on,
And the angels of God were there.

To take him away from the sorrows of earth,
And save him from all its sin,
To open the pearly gates of bliss,
And joyfully welcome him in.

Oh grief-stricken ones! look up to the skies,
As you sit in your sorrow alone,
For the Master is tenderly watching you,
From His seat on the great white throne.

And He knows that your hearts are lonely—
And all through the weary years,
His helping hand will sustain you,
And wipe away all your tears.

And the cross that to-day seems too heavy
For that weary, sad heart of thine,
He will give you strength to bear it,
For He loves with a love divine.

He will bring you peace and comfort,
And the love that of old you knew,
Will o'er-reach the distance between you,
And help you to be true.

Till the tasks of life are all ended,
And earth's burdens all laid down,
You shall hear the "Well Done" of the Master,
And exchange the cross for the crown.

DEWET HAD 2,000 MEN

More Particulars of the Recent Expedition Against Him.

THE WHEREABOUTS OF STEYN

Unknown as a Certainty, But One Report Has It That He Escaped With Dewet —The Week's Report—69 Boers Killed and 574 Taken Prisoners —Gun Captured—Three Canadians Dead.

London, Feb. 11.—Lord Kitchener's great plan, which he had been elaborating for some months past, failed by the escape of Dewet, but was successful in the greatest single capture of Boers since Lord Kitchener arrived in South Africa.

Altogether 23 columns were employed in an immense irregular parallelogram formed by the lines of blockhouses and the railroads between Wolvehoek, Frankfort, Lindley and Kroonstad. It is estimated that Dewet's forces amounted, roughly speaking, to 2,000 men.

Lord Kitchener personally superintended the final preparations for the expedition, and the great move was made over a front of 40 miles, the advance extending 60 miles, with the object of driving the Boers against the railroad line, where armored trains were patrolling, and were repeatedly in action shelling the Boers to prevent their crossing the railroad. Dewet succeeded in slipping through the lines to the southward. The whereabouts of Mr. Steyn is unknown, though one report says he is with Dewet.

Dr. Mueller, former consul of the Orange Free State to Holland, says the correspondent of The Daily Telegraph at The Hague, has suddenly started for New York. He is understood to be on a mission for the Boer delegates.

THE WEEK'S REPORT.

69 Boers Killed and 574 Taken Prisoners —One Gun Captured—

London, Feb. 11.—A report received yesterday from Kitchener, at Pretoria, shows last week to have been the liveliest week with the heaviest losses on both sides for several months past.

Lord Kitchener gives the Boer casualties a total of 69 killed, 17 wounded, 57 surrendered and 574 taken prisoners, the British captured 480 rifles, one pom-pom and the usual grist of munitions and live stock.

GERMANS TO DEFEND BRITISH.

Those in Cape Town Will Protest Against Accusations.

London, Feb. 11.—The correspondent of The Times at Cape Town says the German residents, who are numerous in that city, are to hold a meeting at which speeches will be made in German, to protest against the slanders on the British army. The leading Germans in Cape Town state that they were not aware of the nature and extent of these slanders until the arrival of the latest number of The Times.

Lord Salisbury's Wonderment.

The Vienna correspondent of The Times says Lord Salisbury's wonderment as to what could be the object of the Dutch Government in its recent proposals regarding the War in South Africa is largely shared abroad. Many people believe that considerations to domestic politics had some weight with the Netherlands Government. It has been known for some time that public opinion in Holland has been misled to the same extent as public opinion in Germany regarding the conduct of the South African war. The Cologne Gazette has exposed the wholesale manufacture of lies which has so greatly contributed to the existing Continental Anglophobia.

Three Canadians Dead.

Ottawa, Feb. 11.—Three deaths of Canadians in the South African Constabulary have been reported to Lord Minto by cable from Cape Town. On February 3, Thomas Trickey of Buelah, Man., died of enteric fever at Bloemfontein; Wilbert E. Hodgkinson, Kincardine, Ont., died on the same date at Heidelberg, and Robert J. Stobos of Scarboro, Ont., died of fever, Feb. 3, also at Heidelberg.

Her Brother Dead.

St. Thomas, Feb. 11.—Miss Jessie Watt received a message yesterday stating that her only brother, a member of the Imperial Yeomanry, had died in South Africa from the effects of enteric fever.

A Wild Rumor.

Vancouver, B.C., Feb. 11.—A private letter to The Daily Province from South Africa speaks of a threatened mutiny among Canadian troops in South Africa.

To Mark Canadian Graves.

Ottawa, Feb. 11.—An association has been formed here, under the patronage of His Excellency, the Governor-General, to locate the graves of Canadians who lost their lives in South Africa, and erect suitable memorials over them.

Broke His Neck.

Cornwall, Feb. 11.—Roach Way, an old man, aged 83 years, fell downstairs on Saturday night and broke his neck. The old man was following his nephew upstairs to retire, when he suddenly fell backwards, killing himself almost instantly.

Tolstoi Again Ill.

London, Feb. 11.—Vladimir Tchertkoff, Count Tolstoi's agent in England, has received alarming advices regarding the condition of the Russian Reformer, who is in the Crimea. After improving in health Count Tolstoi suffered a relapse, which has caused serious anxiety. He is suffering from heart failure and inflammation of the lungs.

How Paterson, N.J., Suffered by the Fire on Sunday Last—The City's Tax Lists Destroyed.

Paterson, N.J., Feb. 11.—The following figures show succinctly how this city suffered by fire Sunday:

Burned area, 26 city blocks; estimated loss, $8,000,000; origin of fire, probably defective insulation; homes destroyed, about 400; persons temporarily homeless, about 1,500; public buildings destroyed, 8; bank buildings burned, 7; club houses ruined, 5; office buildings demolished 7; churches burned, 5; linear extent of burning area, nearly a mile; tent accommodation, from Trenton, enough for 5,000 persons.

It is stated here to-day that the insurance amounted to between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000, but what gave basis to the calculation was not clear.

The casualty list was very small, a remarkable thing in so great a fire.

The city is managing to care for those who need money and securities said to amount to $3,000,000 were safely recovered from the two huge vaults under the ruins of the First National Bank, late yesterday afternoon. Books, papers, bullion and paper money were found to be uninjured. Buried beneath the ruins of the City Hall were found the safes which belonged to the Controller's office, and in these also the papers, legal documents and public records were found unharmed. The great tangle in the city affairs will result in the tax office. So far as can yet be ascertained, the records of the department are all destroyed.

WESTERN SMASH-UP.

C.P.R. Sleeping Car, Coach and Tourist Car Turned Over.

Winnipeg, Man., Feb. 11.—A serious smash up, which fortunately was not attended by any fatal results, occurred on the C.P.R. Sunday near Swift Current. Ten people were injured by broken glass, but not seriously. Among the number was H. J. Lipscomb of Howard St., Toronto; Mrs. W. N. Reid of Rockfield, Mass., and a young Keewanee, Mich., man. The passengers were all able to proceed on their journey. The express train was derailed by a broken rail and was running at a rate of 30 miles an hour. The sleeping car, one first-class coach and tourist car turned over on their side.

WILL KEEP WEI HAI WEI.

But Government Will Not Continue Building Fortifications There.

London, Feb. 11.—In the House of Commons yesterday the War Secretary, Mr. Brodrick, confirmed the report that the Government had decided to withdraw the British troops at Wei Hai Wei and to proceed no further with building fortifications at that place.

In the House of Lords the Under Secretary for the Colonial Office, Lord Onslow, referring to the Government's intention to withdraw the British troops from Wei Hai Wei, added the information that the Government had no intention of giving up so valuable a colony as Wei Hai Wei. It was extremely useful as a small arms store, for gunnery practice and as a sanatorium. The naval and military officials there had every reason to believe Wei Hai Wei would become increasingly useful and valuable.

KILLING AT THE SOO.

Italian Tried to Force a Door and Was Shot Dead.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Feb. 11.—Pietro Gastarilo was shot dead by Malgorie Vallancourt in the doorway of the latter's house at the Soo, Ontario, Sunday evening. The house was formerly occupied by a woman of loose character. The Italian and two friends called, but were informed the place was occupied by Vallancourt and family, and ordered to leave. A few moments later Gastarilo returned and attempted to force the door. Vallancourt grabbed a shotgun and shot the intruder dead. The charge nearly severed the head from the body. Vallancourt gave himself up to the police, and is in jail awaiting the verdict of the coroner's jury.

Whitaker Wright Again Controls.

Salt Lake, Utah, Feb. 11.—A Tribune special from Spokane, Wash., says that men closely in touch with the Le Roi Mining Company say that Whitaker Wright of London had gained control of the corporation after the bitterest fight known recently in London financial circles. It is declared that Wright has ousted the interests represented by Henry Britnober, which lately got control of the Le Roi.

WIDER INVESTMENTS

Bill to Extend the Powers of Loan Companies.

DOINGS AT THE LEGISLATURE

Mr. Barr's Bill Respecting Security For Costs in Suits Against Municipalities Withdrawn After a Discussion by Members—The Prohibition Bill is to Be Brought Down Wednesday.

Toronto, Feb. 10.—This afternoon in the Legislative Assembly bills were introduced by Mr. Smith to amend the County Council Act; by Mr. Mutrie to amend the Municipal Act and by Hon. R. Harcourt to amend the Separate Schools Act.

Several bills were reported from committee, and the bills respecting the town of Peterboro and respecting the Sao Paolo Tramway Light and Power Co. received a second reading.

Hon. J. M. Gibson in reply to Mr. Elber stated that no registrar had so far been appointed for Huron County. The duties of the office were being efficiently discharged by an ex-officio registrar.

Mr. Blezard enquired whether any report had been received by the Government from the judges to whom were referred the claim of the alleged illegal returns of pine and other timber cut by the late N. A. Scott during 1865-71.

Hon. J. M. Gibson said that the report had been received and would be brought down in due course.

Mr. Barr moved the second reading of his bill to amend the Municipal Act by providing that in cases of actions brought against municipalities application might be made to the judge to compel the plaintiff to give security for costs.

Hon. J. M. Gibson was not prepared to assent to the proposition. He said the municipalities were in the same position as individuals in regard to the liability to be sued on frivolous grounds, but that if the amendment were adopted many a poor man would practically be denied redress. If the principle were adopted it ought logically to be extended to a much wider class of cases.

Mr. Pattullo did not think that it was the duty of the Government to insure people traveling over the railways. He believed the true way of dealing with the matter was to adopt the principle set forth in the Good Roads bill of last year, exempting municipalities from all actions in respect of injuries sustained by persons using the roads.

Hon. Mr. Stratton thought the measure would entail some hardship. It would involve two trials instead of one. One to ascertain whether the action was frivolous and the other to finally determine it.

Mr. Barr said that the judges could be trusted to see that the plaintiff got fair play and that no man who had a reasonable cause of action was refused a hearing.

Mr. Whitney did not see why a municipal corporation should be protected more than the individual. It would be a hardship to the poor man to insist upon his giving security for costs before he could obtain redress.

The bill was withdrawn.

Mr. Preston moved the second reading of his bill to amend the Loan Corporations Act so as to extend their powers and increase the list of securities in which they are authorized to invest by including some classes of industrial companies. At the request of the Attorney-General, who desired further time to look into the question the bill was allowed to stand.

Mr. Preston's bill to amend the Municipal Act by authorizing municipal councils to acquire road making machines received a second reading.

In answer to a question from Col. Matheson the Premier replied that the Prohibition bill would be introduced on Wednesday.

ASSEMBLY NOTES.

A deputation of 25 bakers, headed by a Toronto lawyer, waited on the Government yesterday morning and asked that the clause prohibiting Sunday labor be repealed, or at least amended, so as to allow the setting of sponge or dough within reasonable hours, say after 10 p.m. It was claimed that this was absolutely necessary for Monday's bread, and it was further claimed that this is the practice, but that the factory inspector is trying to stop it, as it is against the law.

The colony of people from Ailsa Craig, who have taken up land in Armstrong Township, Temiskaming, intend going in about March 1, and may be reinforced by friends from Dakota, Kansas, Wisconsin and Michigan.

The annual report of the Minister of Public Works states that in 1901 $138,801.38 was spent on colonization roads, which is $1,273.62 less than the grant made by the department.

A statement prepared by Mr. J. W. Langmuir, chairman of the commissioners of the Queen Victoria Niagara Falls Park, shows that $1,716,489 has been spent for work done and contracted to be done, and for machinery purchased by or on behalf of the Canadian Niagara Power Company.

EARNINGS OF SUGAR BEET GROWERS.

Striking Evidence Secured by Mr. Shuttleworth in Michigan and Vouched for by Him—Average Earnings per. Acre, $70.78.

When in Cairo, Michigan, Mr. Shuttleworth, of Lindsay, asked the Sugar Factory's solicitor for acreage to take any page of the Company's cash book he chose, to give him the amounts of money obtained by the farmers last year along with the amount of land under crop. Opening the Company's books at random he read off the following: weaken the lung tissues, your doctor will tell you, every time you have an attack. There is not so much danger if you could rely on there being no complications, such as the grip, pneumonia, lung trouble, consumption.

Chest Colds

"For the last four years I have suffered greatly from a very distressing cough, which it seemed impossible to get rid of. My heart was also weak, and at times it seemed almost as if it would stop altogether.

"Last winter I had a bad hemorrhage, and having heard of the remedy, 'Powley's Liquified Ozone,' I determined to try it. The first small bottle stopped the hemorrhage, the second stopped the cough, and after finishing the third my heart seemed toned up to its normal strength, and I have felt wonderfully well ever since. This is for publication.

When the lungs are congested and sore you can almost be sure of complications unless you take to clear out all inflammations and restore the tissues to their normal conditions. Ozone aerates the blood, soothes the membranes, stops coughing. It forms healthy flesh, gives nature a chance to get well. It will relieve a chest cold in an hour—cure in a single night. For all colds, bronchial or lung troubles take Ozone in hot water two or three times before retiring. You will be surprised to find your cold completely gone the next morning. Ozone contains no alcohol; is not a combination of drugs; not a medicine.

POWLEY'S

LEARN HOW TO GET WELL.

No Money is Wanted I Take all the Risk.

You are wronging yourself in neglecting to send for my books—you who need help.

Perhaps prejudice deters you; but note that I ask no money. I take all the risk myself. A physician who makes such an offer must have learned how to cure—don't you know it?

I alone am the loser if I fail. You are the gainer if I cure.

Merely say which book you want. With it I will send an order on your druggist for six bottles Dr. Shoop's Restorative. I will authorize him to let you test it for a month. If you are satisfied then, the cost is $5.50. If not, I will pay him myself.

I mean that exactly. I simply ask the chance to prove what my remedy can do.

My records for five years show that 39 out of each 40 who took the six bottles paid for them. Yet no dissatisfied patient is ever asked to pay.

Don't you want to know more about a remedy like that.

I have spent a lifetime in learning how to strengthen the inside nerves. My success comes from bringing back the nerve power that operates the vital organs. I make weak organs strong by giving them the power to act. My method always succeeds, save where some condition like cancer makes a cure impossible. Without this nerve strength one never can be well.

Read my book anyway. You owe that to yourself. Then get the remedy or not, as you choose.

Simply state which book you want and address Dr. Shoop, Box 67, Racine, Wis.

Book No. 1 on Dyspepsia,
Book No. 2 on the Heart.
Book No. 3 on the Kidneys.
Book No. 4 for Women.

Book No. 6 on Rheumatism

Mild Cases, not chronic, are often cured by one or two bottles. At all druggists.

FINANCING THE C.P.R.

What Will Be Done With the $19,500,000 From New Bonds.

Montreal, Feb. 11.—President Shaughnessy of the C.P.R. issued a circular yesterday to the shareholders of the company. He says the extraordinary expansion of the company's business renders it essential that the company should provide additional rolling stock and other facilities. The gradients and alignment on the busy sections should be improved, so that the increasing tonnage may be moved with economy. The directors recommend that the ordinary share capital be increased by $19,500,000, and the shareholders are given the privilege of subscribing for the new stock at par, in the proportion of 30 per cent. of their holdings of the outstanding common shares.

The money thus raised shall be expended as follows: For locomotives, cars and other equipment, $10,000,000; enlargement of construction and repair shops at Montreal and other points, $2,000,000; reduction of grades and double tracking, $6,500,000; grain elevators, terminals, etc., $4,000,000.

These estimates overrun the issue of stock, and it is proposed that an amount equivalent to 15 per cent. of the issue, or $3,000,000, be appropriated from the surplus earnings' fund, in addition to the proceeds of the sale of capital stock.

Kensit Loses the Appeal.

London, Feb. 11.—In the King's Bench Division of the High Court of Justice yesterday the Lord Justice, Baron Alverstone, dismissed the matter of the objection against the confirmation of the Right Rev. Charles A. Gore as Bishop of Worcester. The Lord Chief Justice held that the objectors (John Kensit and other anti-ritualists), had no right to interpose, pointing out that no such interference in the Crown's prerogative to nominate Bishops had been tolerated since the reign of Henry VIII.

Woman is as Old as She Looks.

It is not age but disease, weakness and ill-health that makes women look old, care-worn and wrinkled. You cannot look your best unless you feel well, strong and vigorous with pure, rich blood and steady nerves. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food makes good looks because it makes good health, restores the healthful glow to the complexion, rounds out the form and gives elasticity to every muscle of the body.

Grecian Still on the Rocks

Halifax, N.S., Feb. 11.—The steamer Grecian is still on the rocks at Sandwich Point, the attempts made to pull her off yesterday have proved unsuccessful. The steamer is in about the same position, and the weather continues favorable for the wreckers to work. About 125 tons of the cargo have been removed. Four divers are working in the holds of the steamer.

GROWTH OF CANADA'S TRADE

Remarkable Figures—If Present Rate of Progress Is Maintained Until the End of the Fiscal Year an Increase Over Last Year of $30,000,000 May Be Expected—The Canada Atlantic Deal

Ottawa, Feb. 11.—Hon. G. H. Carroll, member for Kamouraska, arrived from Fraserville at 1.30 yesterday afternoon, and at 3 o'clock proceeded to Rideau Hall, where he was sworn in as Solicitor-General in the presence of the Governor-General. At 4 o'clock Hon. Mr. Carroll left for Quebec. An election will be held in Kamouraska, but it is not likely that Mr. Carroll's return will be opposed. Hon. Charles Fitzpatrick will reach here to-day, when he will be sworn in as Minister of Justice. Hon. David Mills will also take the oath to-day on his appointment as Judge of the Supreme Court.

CANADA'S TRADE.

Remarkable Growth of the Trade of the Dominion.

Ottawa, Feb. 11.—Canada's trade is still on the up grade and steadily advancing. For the seven months' ended January 31st the increase in the aggregate over the same period a year ago amounted to the remarkable sum of $18,555,573. The figures were $253,737,739, as against $235,182,164. If the present rate of progress is maintained the end of the fiscal year will show the unprecedented total of $416,000,000, or $30,000,000 more than for 1901.

The exports for the last seven months exhibit the following increases in round figures:

Agricultural products	$4,500,000
Fisheries	2,250,000
Animals and their products	2,000,000
Manufactures	1,250,000

Exports of the mine diminished by about $2,000,000.

The imports for the seven months amounted to $110,211,708, or $8,412,811 in excess of the corresponding period of the previous year.

The exports for the seven months of purely domestic produce aggregated $126,837,494, or more than $9,000,000 of same period in the preceding fiscal year.

CANADA ATLANTIC DEAL.

Both J. R. Booth and Dr. Webb Are Guarding Their Words.

Ottawa, Feb. 11.—Dr. Seward Webb and party inspected the carshops of the Canada Atlantic Railway yesterday morning, under the direction of Mr. J. R. Booth. On returning Dr. Webb paid a brief visit to Rideau Hall, and at noon left for New York. Before his departure he was asked when the line would pass into New York Central hands.

"I cannot tell you because I do not know when it will take place. Ask Mr. Booth. He knows all about it. I have nothing to add to what has already been published."

Mr. J. R. Booth said: "Negotiations have been under way for the sale of the line. I have fixed my price, and if they accept it the purchase goes through."

Mr. R. H. Coats, the new associate editor of The Labor Gazette, arrived yesterday morning and entered upon his duties at the Labor Department.

Paine's Celery Compound.

This medicine is giving marvellous results to sick people all over Canada. The wonderful cures affected by Paine's Celery Compound during the past year speaks volumes in favour of the popular medicine. Thousands who have suffered from rheumatism, neuralgia, nervous troubles and dyspepsia now sing the praises of the medicine that has given them such happy results. John Nugent, druggist, Peterborough, Ont.

EULOGIZED JUDGE LISTER.

Late Justice's Sudden Demise Commented Upon by Judicial Contemporaries.

Toronto, Feb. 11.—In the Civil Assizes yesterday afternoon Chief Justice Meredith made feeling reference to the death of Mr. Justice Lister.

There was many tributes paid to the late Mr. Justice Lister at Osgoode Hall yesterday. His sudden demise was the topic of the day in the Halls of Justice. Mr. Justice Lount, sitting in Chambers, made a feeling reference to the dead jurist, as did likewise Chief Justice Falconbridge and Mr. Justice Britton, sitting as a Divisional Court, and Mr. Justice Street in Trial Court.

In each case the tributes were supplemented by feeling references made by members of the bar present.

The sittings of the Court of Appeal, of which the late Mr. Justice Lister was a member, had come to an end last Friday, and there are now 54 cases standing for judgment. By a clause in the Rules, when a judge of the Court of Appeal died without giving judgment in any matter before the court, then the remaining four members of the court must be unanimous in their decision, else the matter must be re-argued. There is, therefore, a prospect that some of the appeals argued will have to be re-argued. The Lord's Day Act case, which was argued for the second time last autumn, may possibly have to be re-argued a third time.

The other members of the Court of Appeal are Chief Justice Hon. J. D. Armour, Justices Hon. F. Osler, Hon. James Maclennan, and Hon. Charles Moss.

THE LANCEFIELD CASE.

How Suspicion Was Created in the Mind of Mr. O'Reilly.

Hamilton, Feb. 11.—In connection with the disappearance of Richard T. Lancefield, treasurer of the Public Library Board, Harry Frost, an inspector of the Guarantee Company of Montreal, arrived in the city yesterday. He had a conference with Seneca Jones, local agent of the company, and Mr. Lyman Lee, chairman of the board. Just what took place those present declined to say.

Mr. J. O'Reilly, the retiring chairman of the board, was the first member to suspect crookedness on the part of the librarian. He received a note at noon on Thursday last, the note having been posted in the city postoffice at 11 o'clock of that day. It was written on public library letter paper, and was as follows: "Feb. 6, 1902. Dear Mr. O'Reilly—If I am not at the meeting to-day, please have it adjourned on some pretext. I am trying to arrange matters. Tell Mr. Burton not to talk about the bank matter, but to wait a day or two. R. T. Lancefield."

This note naturally excited the curiosity of Mr. O'Reilly, not to mention suspicion. He started at once for a still hunt for the author, but could not find him any place.

Already the members of the board have received applications for the position of librarian.

"UNDER THE WEATHER."

You Can Never be in This Condition if You Are a User of

Malt Breakfast Food

In the great majority of cases "under the weather" means that you are a victim of stomach troubles, indigestion or dyspepsia. You feel irritable, miserable, despondent and have little relish for your meals. Your difficulties have arisen from improper dieting, more especially at the morning meal. Starchy, heavy and indigestible foods put both young and old "under the weather."

Thousands who have used Malt Breakfast Food regularly at the morning meal have been happily delivered from an "under the weather" condition and blessed with perfect digestion, strong nerves and clear brain. Malt Breakfast Food, owing to its predigested character is easily digested and quickly assimilated. One serving of this health giving food contains as much nutriment as a dozen servings of oatmeal, wheat granules or cracked wheat. You are missing a daily treat if you are a stranger to Malt Breakfast Food. The humblest home can afford to use it. Your Grocer sells it.

Blame is Placed.

New York, Feb. 11.—The coroners jury, which has been investigating the recent explosion of dynamite in the excavation for the rapid transit tunnel, returned a verdict yesterday holding Ira A. Shafer, the sub-contractor; Ernest J. Matheson, who was chief engineer of the works on the day of the explosion, and Moses Epps, the colored man, who had charge of the powder house, as being jointly responsible for the deaths caused by the explosion.

Not a Quack Doctor.

Merrill's System Tonic does not emanate from quackery, but is a scientifically prepared and valuable prescription, curing all diseases having their origin in constipation, and weak and vitiated blood. It purifies the blood, builds up the system, and strengthens the nerves and regulates the bowels. Sold in 50 cent bottles containing 50 doses, at Ormond & Walsh's drug store.

Burned by a Mob.

Hong Kong, Feb. 11. — A despatch from Canton announces that the Berlin Missionary Society's buildings at Fayen, near Canton, have been burned by an anti-Christian mob. The missionaries escaped.

For the Little Ones

Be Careful in the use of Cough Medicines for Children's Coughs and Colds.

Many analyses of cheap cough mixtures and cough and throat lozenges have clearly proven that a large proportion of them contain opiates.

The temporary relief which these cheap medicines often give in coughs and colds, especially with the little children, is because the opiate, by destroying the nerve sensation, the irritation in the throat, which causes the cough, is temporarily removed, but the real cause of the cold is not in any way removed by the opiate and will promptly return.

The best thing to use to remove the catarrhal secretion which causes the cold, the hoarseness and irritating cough, is a new preparation composed of antiseptics like Eucalyptol, Red Gum of Eucalyptus tree, Blood Root, etc., under name of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, which contain no opiate, cocaine or poisonous drug of any sort.

A mother living in Charleston, Mass., the happy possessor of four children, writes: "Every fall and winter I have laid in a stock of cough medicines, croup mixtures, and throat remedies for my little children, for somehow or other they never seemed to be free from colds, croup or sore throat.

"This fall I made a change in the usual program. I had myself been cured of an obstinate catarrh, from which I had suffered for years, by Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, and as they were pleasant to take I determined to try them with my children. Our family physician told me he knew them to be perfectly safe and nothing better could be taken. So I gave them to the children and have continued to do so ever since, whenever there is the least sign of croup or sore throat, and I no longer dread the approach of cold weather as I once did.

"Stuart's Catarrh Tablets not only cured me of chronic nasal and throat catarrh, but they have saved me many an anxious night with my little ones."

Mr. A. R. Fernbank of Columbus, Ohio, says: "I suffered so many winters from Catarrh that I took it as a matter of course, and that nothing would cure it except a change of climate, which my business affairs would not permit me to take.

"My nostrils were almost always clogged up, and I had to breathe through the mouth, causing an inflamed, irritated throat. The thought of eating breakfast often nauseated me and the catarrh gradually getting into my stomach, took away my appetite and digestion.

"My druggist advised me to try a 50 cent box of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, because he said he had so many customers who had been cured of catarrh by the use of these tablets, and he felt he could honestly recommend them. I took his advice and used several boxes with results that surprised and delighted me.

"I always keep a box of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets in the house and the whole family use them freely on the first appearance of a cough or cold in the head.

"With our children we think there is nothing so safe and reliable as Stuart's Catarrh Tablets to ward off croup and colds, and with older people I have known of cases where the hearing had been seriously impaired by chronic catarrh cured entirely by this new remedy."

People who have used sprays, inhalers, salves, and washes for catarrh and have found how useless they are, will be agreeably surprised at the results following the use of a pleasant internal remedy in tablet form. Druggists everywhere admit that Stuart's Tablets, which they sell at 50 cents per package, is the safest, most effective and popular of all catarrh remedies.

A COUNCILLOR EJECTED.

Walkerton Constables Took Mr. Heffernan Forcibly From the Chamber.

Walkerton, Feb. 11.—At a meeting of the Town Council here last night, one of the members named Heffernan refused to obey the ruling of Mayor Cryderman to keep order. The Mayor ordered Constable Russell to remove Heffernan. Russell called Constable McKay to his assistance, and both forcibly removed Heffernan from the Council room. There was a lively fight for a time but the constables came out ahead. The business of the Council then proceeded as usual.

THE OLD MAIDS' CONVENTION

It proved a Great Success in St. Luke's Church Last Evening.

The school room of St. Luke's church, Ashburnham, was filled to overflowing last night to witness the "Old Maids' Convention." The entertainment opened promptly on time with Mr. E. A. Peck as chairman, who, after a short but appropriate speech, called upon Misses Calcutt and Burnham for an instrumental duet. This was well rendered and was followed by a vocal solo by Miss N. Davies. Her selection was well suited to her voice and was enthusiastically encored. Then came the drawing card, "The Old Maids' Convention." This represented a club of spinsters drawn together by their mutual desire for man. The young ladies, who represented the spinsters, were dressed as such and each one was designated by some name usually borne long by the unfortunates of the fair sex. Miss A. Tivey made a capital president, and was ably assisted by Miss F. Burnham and Miss K. Phillips as secretary and treasurer respectively. The Members of the club were represented by Misses F. Butcher, J. Moore, M. Long, B. Bennett, A. Armstrong, E. Rogers, M. Adams, L. Fitzgerald, M. Gaskins, E. Pratley, S. Stethem, K. Calcutt, J. Crane, A. Scott, L. Scott and M. Scott. After roll call came the reports of the secretary and treasurer, followed by a fellowship meeting, in which all members of the club gave vent to their feelings at their inability to "land a man." Then came the report on the marriage market by the Lookout Committee, and, while discussing the ways and means of success, the inventor of "The Famous Electrical Transformer," in the person of Mr. Harry Neill, was announced. When the professor read the testimonials to himself and his transform(h)er the spinsters became enraptured and all were in a fair way of being "made over" into either fair or dark young maidens until one more ambitious than the rest determined to "make a man of herself." This proved too much for the electrical transform(h)er as, in the midst of the process, it exploded and in the confusion that followed the convention came to an end.

A pretty little musical drill "The Milk-maids' Chorus" by 14 small girls, brought this very pleasant entertainment to its close and after the singing of the National Anthem all came away feeling that, once more St. Luke's had upheld its reputation.

DROPPED DEAD ON THE STREET.

Miss Cecilia Sanderson's Very Sudden Death.

SHE NEVER MADE AN OUTCRY

But Slipped to the Pavement and Passed Away Immediately—Appeared in the Best of Health.

An awfully sudden death occurred a few minutes after six o'clock last night, to Miss Celia Sanderson, second daughter of Mr. Robert Sanderson, North Monaghan. Miss Sanderson who was 23 years of age was an employee of the armiture department of the Canadian General Electric Company. She left work at 6 o'clock last night, as usual, and was on her way to her home in town, which she made with her sister, Mrs. John LeBar, No. 172 Stewart street. She was in company with Miss Lucy Woods, also an employee of the Canadian General. The two young ladies had just crossed the Canadian General spur line on Rubidge street when Miss Sanderson without any warning, suddenly fell to the sidewalk. Assistance was immediately summoned by Miss Wood, and the unfortunate young lady was removed to a grocery store at the corner of Rubidge and Townsend streets. Dr. Bradd was hurriedly summoned and when he arrived he pronounced life extinct, the cause of so untimely an end being heart failure. The body was afterwards removed to the home of the deceased's sister, Mrs. LeBar, No. 170 Stewart street.

Miss Sanderson has been an employee of the Canadian General Electric Company for the past two years. She was a young lady who appeared to enjoy excellent health, and was never known to complain of heart trouble. On Sunday she felt somewhat weak but she proceeded to her duties on Monday morning as usual. Miss Sanderson was an attendant at St. Andrew's church; she was a young lady of exemplary character and was highly esteemed amongst a wide circle of friends.

The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon at 2.30 o'clock from No. 172 Stewart street to Little Lake Cemetery.

MOST PLEASING PROGRAMME

Was Given in the Convent Hall Last Evening.

The Entertainment to be Repeated Tonight—Those Who Took Part.

The grand concert held last evening the large hall of the Convent de Notre Dame proved a source of great pleasure to the large numbers of people in attendance. The programme was, for the most part, performed by pupils of the school, and in such excellent taste that most careful training on the part of those having the preparation of the delightful entertainment in charge and remarkable aptness and grace on the part of those taking part was clearly manifested. It was a concert that rendered comment unnecessary and many are the enconiums expressed in regard to the exquisite manner in which the various numbers were executed and of the very acceptable style in which the affair was planned and carried out. Last evening's programme was a complete success, and though the attendance was large, it is safe to predict that to-night the Convent Hall will be crowded. His Lordship, Bishop O'Connor, Rev. Dr. O'Brien and Rev. Father Murphy honoured the gathering with their presence.

The programme which consisted of seventeen numbers, everyone of which was pleasing and interesting, was as follows:

"Reception Polka," (two pianos). Four young ladies, Bernadette Macdonald, Nora Shevlin, Lexa Denne and Marion Denne.

Chorus, "Welcome," music pupils, Miss Addie Doris, accompanist.

Recitation, "The Blind Sailor," Aleita O. Salisbury.

Duet, by junior pupils, (two pianos.) The Misses Salisbury, Helen Stone and Pearl Morgan.

Vocal Duet, "The Lily and the Rose." Miss Nettie Lewis, holding in her hand roses, and Miss Fannie Hoolihan, holding lilies.

"The Mushrooms," Nine cute little maidens representing mushrooms. Song and cake-walk.

Duet, "Weber's Fifth March." (two pianos.) Misses Agnes Holland, Beatrice Flynn, Bessie Weir and Pansy Kempt.

Vocal Solo, "Sleep my baby Sleep." Miss Nettie Lewis.

Farce, "The Pull-Back." Characters — Miss Annie Simons, aunt; Miss Fannie Hoolihan, housekeeper; Miss Josephine Conroy, girl at lunch-counter; Gertie Primeau, daughter of aunt's sister; Addie Mahoney and Mamie Geary, daughters of aunt's brother The Pull-back is the name of the costume that was going to be the prevailing style and was worn by two of the nieces (daughters of brother) and they were so interested in their costume that they made up to the housekeeper instead of to their rich auat whom they were to meet—the housekeeper and the aunt happened to arrive at the depot at the same time. Result, the niece who was plainly dressed was the fortunate one to win the old lady's affections. The farce was very amusing and the various characters faithfully represented.

Chorus, "Silver Bells," Solos by Misses May Callaghan and Gertie Holmes.

Duet, "Faust," (two pianos) Misses Estella Kelly, Hazel Dean, Addie Doris, and Nettie Lewis, each girl playing a different part.

Recitation, "The Little Hunchback," Miss Carrie White.

Drill, "Evening Gems," by 18 little maidens, carrying in their hands crescents and wearing white dresses, trimmed with stars and flowers. Conductor, Miss Bernadette Macdonald. Accompanists, Miss Nettie Lewis.

Vocal, "Yesterday or Grandma's Dream," Miss Annie Simons (grandma), was singing a song of how she spent her time in younger days; three little girls took the part of the spinning wheel; three more sang as she washed her doll's clothes, three more sang as she rocked it to sleep; two more when she churned; four knitting a sock and making the noise of the needles going click-clack, etc., and two little children, a boy and a girl, when she was 21, sitting facing each other, playing pea-porridge-hot.

The number was exceedingly unique and interesting. Its interpretation was exceedingly correct and effective.

Quartette, "Jolly Blacksmith," Estella Kelly, Addie Doris, Nettie Lewis, and Fanny Hoolihan.

Chorus, "Good Night," Music Pupils. Accompanist, Miss Hazel Dean.

During the wait for the Tableau, Miss Fanny Hoolihan favoured the audience with a well rendered solo.

Tableau, "St. Cecilia's Orchestra.' Girls holding different instruments. This was a beautiful and most effective number.

Quartette, "God Save the King." Nettie Lewis, Addie Doris, Estella Kelly and Hazel Dean.

The instrumental and vocal numbers given by the little folks were remarkable for their excellence of execution, manifesting exceptional ability and fine culture. The choruses were faultlessly rendered and the recitations most pleasing.

People who appreciate an entertainment of this nature should not miss the opportunity afforded this evening.

A TRIUMPH FOR TOTAL ABSTINENCE

Inspiring Demonstration at St. Peter's Cathedral Sunday Night.

REV. P. J. MURPHY, PAULIST,

Defines Attitude of Church Regarding Saloons. A Strong Address. 500 Women Enrolled as Total Abstainers.

The following is the conclusion of Rev. Father Murphy's temperance sermon, delivered in St. Peter's Cathedral Sunday evening:—

It may be necessary for you to sell the roof-tree from over the heads of your children to get the money. But they want it. It may be necessary for you scatter your little family to the four winds of Heaven to get the money for them. But they want it. It may be necessary for you to wrong the firm that employes you. But the saloon-keepers want your money. It may be necessary for you to sacrifice your health for their sake. But they will accept the sacrifice. It may be necessary to sell your child to a life of sin for their money. But they want it. The money may be the price of blood; but they want it. It may be worse than the thirty pieces of silver that Judas the Iscariot got for Jesus Christ; but they want it. It does not make any difference whose blood is on the money that you are going to give them for the drink that they supply you with. But they want it. That money that you give them may be the price of your own immortal soul, and you may be sending it down to hell forever. But they want it. Yes they may be generous enough to throw a little of it upon the floor of this temple of God. But the church should hesitate to take it, for it is the price of blood. The day that Judas suicided, they took the money that he sold the Master for, and they used it to purchase a burying-place for strangers. There is a little hint for those who are making money in the liquor traffic Put a clause in your will: "This money is the price of blood. I want you to build a monument over my grave with it. I do not want you to have any Masses offered for me for they cannot do me any good. The God of Heaven has heard the cries of the little ones and the cries of their mothers against me. The money that raised this monument over my dead body brought my own soul down to hell."

That may be sufficient about those who are in the saloon business. I always like to pay my respects to them. It makes us understand one another. It gives me the happiness of knowing that I have a few more personal enemies, and that they are enemies of the right kind. They cannot hate me any more than I hate their business. But let us get out of the saloon business now for a few minutes and think of something else. What are the other chief causes of intemperance and drunkenness? We have just been dealing with the principal one. But say! Give me just one other word about the saloons. What are we going to do about them? Close them? You cannot do it. There are too many dollars invested in the business, and there are too many cheap politicians of both political parties waiting with their big hands out for everything that comes their way. But I will tell you what you can do; and you will not need to pull any wires to do it. Keep out of the saloon. You can do that right here. Give it an honest man's curse every time you pass it.

Now let us go ahead again. There are three great causes of intemperance and drunkenness. The first and greatest of these causes is the saloon. There are two other principal causes and the moderate drinker is both of them. It is no use to blame the drunkard. He was led into it by a moderate drinker. Get after the moderate drinker. He is the man. Do not get after him as a class. Get after some particular one. If you are a moderate drinker yourself, there is the place to start. Do you know what you are doing? You are playing with fire; and you are going to get burned with it. You are nursing the viper that is going to poison you in a day to come. Not now. Not one year from now, perhaps. But it is going to strike you when you least expect it, and it is going to strike you where it can hurt you most. You may be able to take a drink to-night or leave it alone. But you will not be able to do that ten years from now. You may be only sipping at it to-night; but there is poison in the bottom of that glass, and you will drink that poison to the dregs. Yes, you will drink it when you would wish to God that you could break it, and you can't. It may not hurt you now, but ten years from now you will not be in the prime of life. It may not hurt you now because you have your own home to go to, and your friends to care for you. But you are going to wreck that home and you are going to murder those friends, and then you are going to begin to pay the penalty for your sin, and you are going to coin the blood of your own heart to pay it. There may be a mother to-night who is going to plead with you to give it up. Because she is your mother, and she loves you as no one but a mother ever will. You may not do it for her sake, but the day will come when you will stand beside the open grave and see the last sad rites performed over that mother's remains, and then you will say as many another mother's boy has said, "It's no use now; I have sowed the wind and I am going to reap the whirlwind. It does not make any difference what I do now. I killed the only friend that ever cared whether I did right or not. If I could only hear that mother plead to-night and ask me once again as she used to do to give up drink for her sake and my own, I would do it. Oh! My God!—I must have been blind when I refused to take the pledge."

There are some men in the congregation to-night, and they can't give up drink. They may never go to hell on account of it, for they have been having a hell fight here. We don't want any of these men to take the pledge that we are giving. It is not intended for them. It can't do them any good. All that we can say to them is, "God pity you! May the Almighty God look down in pity on you till you find a little rest in the grave!" But we want the young men in the prime of life to take it. We want you to take it because you have your lives before you, and you may be happy enough if you do not become slaves to drink. We want you to take it for the sake of those who love you. We want you to take it for the sake of that sister who is praying to-night for you, and who would rather see your name upon a pledge than for a check for twenty thousand dollars. We want you to take the pledge for the sake of that poor mother who spends her nights and days in thinking of your future. We want you to take it for the sake of that young girl who is going to entrust her entire future into your hands. She knows the risk she is taking. Other people may be warning her not to do it. They know that you are going to make her home unhappy, and that you are going to kill her inside of many months. We want you to stand up to-night in all the manhood of your soul and say,—"Never will I enter the door of a saloon again. When the little children come to receive the good-night kiss from a father's lips they will not have their young lives poisoned by my breath. When they grow up into the dangerous years of youth they will not find themselves overcome by the inclination for intoxicants that they have inherited from a drunken father. Father, I will take the pledge, and I will take it for the rest of my life."

The little incident that I am now going to tell you happened in the great city of New York on a Christmas day a few years ago. It is one of those very simple and beautiful incidents which do not happen in fiction because that is impossible; but which do happen in fact because nothing is too beautiful to become a reality.

It was on a Christmas morning and a great number of people were returning from early services in the churches of the city. Just as the congregation of a certain church had been dismissed there was a fire-alarm sounded in a certain quarter of the city. On account of the height of many of the buildings in which a majority of the city's population live there is always the greatest danger of a loss of life when a fire does break out. To lessen this danger as much as possible the fire department of the city consists of men well trained for the performance of their every duty. There is no tradition of their department more lived up to than that of personal heroism in the face of danger. The lives of others are at all times dependent upon them; and as a natural consequence they begin to take a personal interest in every life that seems to be in danger. When the alarm sounds within the station there is no hesitation whatever in regard to what is to be done. The first thing always is to get to the fire as quickly as possible. The latest and best perfected mechanical devices are used to enable the horses to be attached to the engines as quickly as possible. In fact it is usually only a matter of a few seconds before the apparatus is on the street and speeding at a terrific rate towards the scene of the fire. Once seen it is something never to be forgotten. The sounding of a whistle clears the way before the plunging hoofs. The driver is strapped fast to the seat to prevent him from being dashed to the pavement in the mad rush that must be made. When the engine has once been turned into the avenue then everything along the route is turned out of the way. The run of the horses becomes a gallop, then a cyclone almost in its speed. And until the destination is reached the driver's own life and the lives of many others depend upon his coolness and his personal bravery. There is hardly time to think. In fact most of the real hard thinking has been done in advance. He knows for instance that if life must be sacrificed for life and his own life is in question the sacrifice must be made by him. That part of the programme is always known in advance. So much in the way of explanation. Now let me tell the story that I started out to tell. When the driver of No. 10 turned into Tenth avenue that Christmas morning, everything seemed to be all right ahead, and so the horses were urged onward at topmost speed. The wheels of the steamer were striking fire from the car tracks and the pavement. The horses were making a blind, mad rush ahead. Every muscle of the driver's body was stretched to its utmost tension. His feet were firmly planted on the foot board. His two strong arms were bared to the elbows; while the sinews stood out like whip cords. He did not see the horses, he only felt them. He did not see the engine that he was sitting on. He saw nothing but the avenue ahead. Just one block above a mother and her child were standing; and whether they knew their danger or not they did not seem to have the power to move a hand or foot. The plunging team were on them with all the momentum that their mad rush had enabled them to acquire. The little one was about six years of age. In her arm she held a doll baby almost as large as herself. It was a Christmas gift from the father at home, who was now unaware of the danger in which his loved ones were placed. The mother was completely dazed. The little one was now clinging to the mother. It would be only an instant and the lives of both would be crushed out beneath the heavy iron of the horse's feet, and the merciless weight of the heavy steamer. There was no hand to help them. No eye was resting on them except the eye of God. Yes, there was someone else! The driver saw them; and he saw them just in time. The call to make a sacrifice had come to him. It was now a question of his life or theirs. Sometimes it makes a man proud to be just a man, and not an angel or anything else—but just a man. Every time I hear the story of Jim Calnan's act of heroism. I am proud that I am only a man. There was only one second to decide. The muscles of the left arm relaxed, the muscles of the right were tightened on the reins. The plunging horses swerved against the curbstones, and the machine was smashed beyond recognition on the pavement. The mother and child were not missing at home at the Christmas festivities. Not a hair even of the head of the doll baby had been disarranged. The danger was over. But when the crowd collected and when they had raised the heaviest portion of the machine, they found the dead body of the driver with the right hand tightly clinched upon the reins, and the eyes still looking on the mother and child.

In concluding his address the speaker referred to a printed circular which had reached the Paulist Fathers in New York, in which a Peterborough liquor seller had resorted to the use of the Scriptures to advertise his business. This was denounced in scathing terms, and he warned the Peterborough hotelkeepers that the church was against their business, the curse of Christ was upon it, and the church threw down the gauntlet and defied them—it made no difference whether they were Catholics, so called, or not.

But what was the remedy for intemperance? In Peterborough, the speaker said, there was too much drinking indulged in. He regretted to state that more young Canadians go to destruction in American cities in proportion than Americans. He dreaded coming in contact with them, because three fourths of them he met were drunkards. That in time meant death among strangers, a curse and an unhonoured grave.

The remedy for all this was the Catholic Church, the most perfect and grandest organization. It had in its early history liberated and emancipated 60,000,000 slaves in the Roman Empire, and in no time in her history did she ever face a problem that could not be solved. To better illustrate the position of the Church, he referred to a monument which came under his notice on the Battlefield of Gettysburg, to mark a spot which was taken and held on July 2nd, 1863, by the 111th New York Infantry, when 68 per cent of their entire strength was cut down. The Church stands and holds the position where Christ stood in regard to crime. There the Church intends to remain. The Church stands for the home, and against the saloon; for noble womanhood and child life.

Rev. Father Murphy closed his eloquent address by appealing to the women of the congregation to become members of the League of the Cross. There may, he said, be another society in opposition. A local liquor dealer had informed the Spiritual Adviser of the T.A.S. that he would not get all the women. If any woman preferred belonging to his society they could go. Society is such in this country that no man in a criminal business can stand up and defy public opinion. "The saloon keepers are a criminal element, and I mean it."

In closing his appeal to the women he said, "We claim you as mothers, as wives, and as innocent girlhood, and we also claim you in the name of Jesus Christ, and not for the saloon keepers."

AN OPEN QUESTION.

To the Editor of the Examiner,—

Dear sir,—I have noticed with some interest the activity of Rev. J. C. Davidson in connection with the Peterborough Labour Union. I presume the reverend gentleman will have no objections to answering a simple question through the public press. There were several candidates before the people on Monday of last week seeking the office of Water Commissioners. What I would like to know from the reverend gentleman is;—Did he select and vote for George Ball as one of the Commissioners, to place in his hands the control of a quarter of a million dollars of the people's property?

Yours truly,

Lame Back In the Morning.

There are many people who find it a difficult task getting up in the morning, on account of a terrible pain and soreness across the small of the back that makes rising a painful and discomforting operation. Ever know what it was to have your back so bad that when you'd try to get out of bed you'd almost scream with the pain?

Can't do much of a day's work starting off with a back as bad as that—not fit for pleasure either. Well, all this backache and pain, this stiffness and soreness comes because the kidneys are clogged up, can't do their work properly, and your back has to suffer for it.

Just try a box or two of Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets. What a change you'll find coming over you! You'll be able to spring from your bed in the morning as lively as a cricket, and feel refreshed and fit for your daily duties.

TOUCHED THE SPOT.

Joseph Weeks, Beckwith Street, Smith's Falls, says: "My back was in a bad way. I was desperately lame, and there was a dull grinding pain over my kidneys. At times I had headaches, and often I was dizzy, particularly if I had been stooping. I tried first one thing, then another, but there was no permanent benefit till I began using Pitcher's Kidney Tablets. They go right to the spot and I found prompt relief. Nothing before ever did me as much good. I would suggest to anyone suffering in that way to try them."

Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets are 50c. a Box, at all druggists or by mail, THE DR. ZINA PITCHER CO., Toronto, Ont.

Carpenters' Kidneys.

Carpentering is not an easy trade. The constant reaching up and down, the lifting and stooping over are all severe strains on the kidneys. No wonder a carpenter exclaimed, recently, that every time he drove a nail it seemed as though he was piercing his own back. He uses

now on the first sign of Backache and is able to follow his trade with comfort and profit.

"I have had kidney and urinary troubles for more than three years with severe pain in the small of my back and in both sides. I could not stoop without difficulty, and I had severe neuralgic pain in both temples. Seeing the advertisement of Doan's Kidney Pills, I got a box. They have given me quick relief, removing the pain from the back and sides, and banishing the neuralgic pains from my head. The urinary difficulty is now entirely gone. I feel fresh and vigorous in the mornings, and am much stronger in every way since taking these pills." CLARENCE E. SEEDS, Carpenter and Builder, Trenton, Ont.

BOTHERSOME AS BOERS.

British Cabinet Worried by Affairs in the Emerald Isle.

London, Feb. 10.—The Cabinet met Saturday afternoon. It is stated that the Irish situation, which has recently occupied equal attention with the war in South Africa, was the chief topic.

The expediency of more severe measures, especially against the United Irish League, was discussed at Saturday's meeting.

The United Irish League.

London, Feb. 10.—A despatch to The Pall Mall Gazette from Dublin declares that the firmly rooted belief is that nothing short of a revolution is meant by the United Irish League, and that the advocates of constitutional methods are slowly but surely giving way to the strong physical force sections.

They Have Arrived.

New York, Feb. 10.—Mr. William H. K. Redmond, M.P. for East Clare and Mr. Joseph Devlin of Belfast, the Irish agitators, arrived last night from Queenstown on the White Star liner Cymric. They will make a tour of the United States, to aid in organizing the United League in America.

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND

Brings Gladness and Joy to Homes Where Sickness Prevails.

It Has a Marvellous Record as A Life Saver.

Paine's Celery Compound makes sick people well. It is the one true specific recognized and prescribed today by our best physicians for diseases arising from a debilitated nervous system. Professor Phelps, M. D., the discoverer of Paine's Celery Compound, gave his wonderful prescription to his profession as a positive cure for wasting strength, nervous debility, sleeplessness, liver complaint, kidney disease, rheumatism and neuralgia, and the marvellous medicine has saved tens of thousands from death.

Paine's Celery Compound is the only nerve and tissue builder; it quickly fortifies the weak parts of the body and promotes the healthy activity of the organs that make the blood and keep it pure. Let us urge you to test the power and virtues of one bottle; it cannot disappoint you; it has cured others suffering as you now suffer, and it will most assuredly do the same for you.

Mr. J. Ralston, Nixon, Ont., testifies as follows: "It gives me great pleasure to add my testimony to the ever increasing popularity of your preparation known as Paine's Celery Compound. It is now a year past since I had a severe attack of nervous prostration caused by chronic dyspepsia, and for a year I could not sleep at night. This condition of sleeplessness brought on delirium. I was attended by four of the best doctors of the country, and took a great quantity of medicine, but all failed to do me any good. I then decided to try your Paine's Celery Compound. After I had used four bottles the nervousness and dyspepsia left me, and I have done more work since than for years past. I now enjoy excellent health and consider myself completely cured. I have highly recommended your Paine's Celery Compound to others."

TRIED TO KILL HIS WIFE.

Daniel Sutherland While Insanely Jealous Shoots Her in the Head.

Montreal, Feb. 10.—A coachman named Daniel Sutherland, who came here from England, attempted to murder his wife Saturday night at her boarding house, 1835 Ontario street. The couple had not been living together, on account of Sutherland's insane jealousy, and the wife has been boarding at Mrs. Henderson's near at hand. The would-be murderer entered his wife's room and fired two shots, the ball entering the woman's head. Although she is still alive, the bullet has not yet been extracted. After the attempt, Sutherland fired at the police who arrested him, and shot himself in the wrist. The officers, however, escaped without injury, and the furious man was locked up.

A Great Increasing Army.

Composed of men and women that spend heart and soul in the vain effort to overcome a lack of vigour in the body. To replace inertia by vigour, to make good, red, blood, that will build up the system, to have strong nerves, you must eat more, assimilate more. How can it be done? By using Ferrozone. It invigorates, strengthens, possesses magical health giving powers. Get Ferrozone today and make yourself strong and well.

California Hummming Bird.

The nest is about the size of half the shell of a common duck's egg and is made of plant down and cobwebs, with a slight outside garniture of moss, being a much less compact and interesting structure than that of the eastern ruby throat. It is placed on a twig of a cork elm, a little too high to be looked into from the piazza, and in all probability is kept in its precarious position—for the twig upon which it rests is no thicker than an ordinary lead pencil—by a glutinous substance collected by the bird from the honey bearing flowers which it visits in securing food.

The little occupant—a somewhat smaller bird than the female ruby throat—allows herself to be observed from the distance of four or five feet, though her attitude is one of great alertness, and any sudden movement on the part of her observer will immediately send her off. There is something in the position of the eye, so far up in the head, in the long and very slightly curved bill and in the short up flirted tail as she sits rather high in her tiny nest that is suggestive of a pygmy woodcock.—Independent.

Paine's Celery Compound.

We are fully prepared to fill your orders for this popular disease-banishing medicine. Knowing its powers and virtues, we strongly recommend it as a blood purifier, nerve bracer and flesh builder. Paine's Celery Compound is no new remedy, it has been tested and successfully used in all parts of Canada by tens of thousands, and has never failed. H. H. Edmison, druggist, Peterborough, Ont.

Walnut Grain.

In order to imitate walnut grain rub down the article to be stained without oil, then charge a sponge with potassium permanganate and squeeze it out again until nearly dry. With this dab the wood, using something to protect the hands while doing it to prevent their being dyed brown. Next saturate with alkanna root oil and polish lightly. Follow with another dabbing with a well squeesed out sponge previously saturated with a filtered solution of best bismarck brown in spirit. When this has dried for a short time, continue the polishing, sprinkling on a little pumice stone and dabbing where necessary with the sponges, as explained above. The process will produce a handsome graining.

The Girl and the Pimple.

Newspapers contained last year the account of a girl who committed suicide because she had a pimple on her face. Merrill's System Tonic from its blood purifying and blood-strengthening qualities, cures not only pimples but Blotches of all kinds, also Scrofula, Eczema and Salt Rheum. Three week's treatmeny 50 cents. Sold by Ormond & Walsh.

Why Eyes Are Light and Dark.

An interesting point is the cause of the different shades of color we see in the eyes. On a certain membrane in the interior are numerous cells called "pigment" cells. When these are present in very great numbers, they produce that deep black color of some eyes and in proportion to their numbers decrease also the depth of color till finally a light blue is reached. In certain eyes these pigment cells do not exist at all, being wanting, indeed, all through the system, hair and skin. A person of this description is called an albino, and among animals we find a parallel in the case of the white rabbit.—Chambers' Journal.

Something About Faith Cures.

Wat a great variety of faith cures there must be some have faith in so-called divine healers, others in certain doctors and still others in the medicines they use. Every person who has tested Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills has faith in them, but faith or no faith they cure just the same, for they act directly and specifically on the kidneys, liver and bowels, and make these organs healthy, active and vigorous. Judging from the enormous demand for these Pills there must be hosts of people that have faith in them.

The Jailer Jests.

"What brought you here?" asked the temperance advocate who was visiting the prison.

"I'm a wife beater," replied convict No. 41144 grufly.

"Another case of lick'er," murmured the jailer, who, despite his occupation, was a man of no little humor.

What the Baby Needed.

"Yes."

"Let's you and me give him a birthday present."

"Very well. What shall it be?"

"Let's buy him a wig. He needs that more than anything."

"Mis' Brennan's Kid"

By... Cecelly Allen

Copyright, 1901, by A. S. Richardson.

The entire neighborhood had long since decided that Mrs. Brennan's youngest hopeful would close his earthly career through the unwelcome attentions of the proverbial hangman. Maggie Brennan, aged fifteen, was a popular employee at Johnson's cigar factory. Young Dan was a district messenger boy, and even little Jennie earned odd pennies by caring for the neighbors' children when the latter were called away to christenings, funerals and weddings.

But from the day that the "Kid," at the tender age of nine months, had fallen from the fire escape to the areaway, striking three clotheslines en route, and had sat up, howling vigorously, but unhurt, his young life had been marked by a succession of stirring and nerve distracting events. Even his good natured Irish mother had begun to regard him as hopeless, and his one friend was pretty Miss Harris, whose pink and blue shirt waists and daintily embroidered skirts decorated the Brennan clothes horse each ironing day. Meta Harris always declared that the "Kid" was particularly intelligent and some day would perform a great deed.

On this afternoon the "Kid," having reached the age of three and having acquired sufficient wisdom to snatch a stick of licorice from a weaker and meeker playmate in the gutter, had wandered far from home.

An overdose of licorice on this hot, sultry day had affected the "Kid" as nothing had ever done before. He yearned for the narrow, dim court and the towering tenement, to say nothing of a drink and his mother's restful bosom. But all around him was mud, the thick, yellow mud of a newly opened street, and beyond disgustingly new cottages painted in æsthetic tints and surrounded by gardens laid out in geometrical flower and lawn patterns—that is, all were thus laid out save one. It was overgrown with weeds, which had choked out the flowers planted there early in the spring.

A young man in a natty flannel suit had paused at the gate and was surveying with a clouded brow the scene of desolation. It hardly seemed possible that just four months previous he and she had planted those flowers, coming up each evening to water them, pick out the weeds and put finishing touches within doors.

The parlor furniture had been put in place. Even some of the shining tinware had found its way to the small pantry when the quarrel came.

He had done his best to smooth over the difficulty, but finally one afternoon he had walked over to the little cottage, which represented his savings of two hard years, closed and barred the windows and doors and with a heavy heart had walked out through the small gate. Never again had he been near the burial ground of his high hopes until this evening. Vaguely he had felt lately that something ought to be done with the place.

The frown deepened as he turned away and marched resolutely down the street. He would see a real estate man at once and offer the place at any sacrifice. Then he'd try his luck in South America. The papers all said there were great openings down there for clever fellows from the States.

"Mamma! Ma"—

Jack Griswold stopped communing with the disagreeable past and stared down upon a bedraggled, forlorn bit of humanity.

"Hello, old chap! Are you black or white?"

The "old chap" resented the familiar address, fell to weeping lustily and rolled disconsolately in the soft mud.

"Oh, I say," exclaimed Jack, bending over the little fellow, "you mustn't do that! You'll be a sight. Guess you're lost."

Griswold glanced helplessly at the neat cottages and then at the child of the slums. How ever did the youngster get way out here? And his sobs were actually pitiful. Jack thought of a policeman, but such officials were seldom needed in this quiet neighborhood.

Finally pity overcame discretion, and Jack grasped a small hand and led the runaway toward the cottage over which he had but lately been gloating in misery. He unlocked the door and led the culprit to the kitchen, turned on the water and awkwardly washed the astonished denizen of Diggle's court.

"There! When I get a few layers of dirt off I'll take you to the nearest police station, and they can locate your ma. But I'll be hanged if I'd drag such a connecting link as you were through the streets."

A fresh handkerchief was sacrificed on the altar of cleanliness, and then Griswold started toward the door with his unexpected charge. But here another surprise was in store for him. The skies were overcast, and lightning was playing along the horizon. There was nothing to do but wait till the storm passed by.

Griswold sank into a rocker in the tiny parlor, and "Mis' Brennan's Kid" clambered familiarly upon his knee. The afternoon was sultry, the little head sank lower and lower on Griswold's immaculate flannel suit, and soon a soft, even breathing filled the quiet room.

The storm gathered and burst, but the child slept on, and Griswold, with half closed eyes, lived over again the happy days when he and she had planned and furnished the cottage.

A sudden flash of vivid lightning and a shrill feminine shriek.

"Oh, Mrs. Brennan, if only I had a key we could get in here! And porches and trees are so dangerous!"

Jack rose to his feet, the sleeping child still clasped in his arms. There was no mistaking that voice. For an instant he hesitated, then threw open the door.

Two women crouched in the portal. One was middle aged and haggard, her sleeves rolled up to her elbow and her apron tossed over her head. The other was young and dainty and fair to look upon even in her tearful fright. They rose and faced the sudden vision in the doorway.

The older woman gave a scream, half of anger, half of joy.

"It's me Kid! Where did ye foind him?" Then, without waiting for reply, she jerked the sleeping child from Griswold's arms and fell to weeping and scolding over him in true Irish fashion.

Ten minutes later the storm died down as suddenly as it had risen, and Mrs. Brennan and her "Kid," duly provided with car fare, were wending their way toward the nearest trolley line.

The younger woman still stood at the window, staring out upon the weeds which hung heavy with moisture. She tapped her fingers mechanically on the window pane.

"I had gone over to Mrs. Brennan's for a shirt waist I needed," she remarked suddenly, as if she felt that an explanation was obligatory, "and she was nearly crazy about the 'Kid.' I felt so sorry for her, and we kept walking and walking, and every one had seen the little boy, they said, and we followed the trail till we got here—and"—

She turned suddenly and faced Griswold, who was regarding her anxiously. The contrast between his grave, pleading face and his generally demoralized attire was ludicrous. The departing "Kid" had left as mementos of his short stay liberal stains of licorice and mud on Griswold's soft flannel suit. One grimy hand had evidently found a resting place on Jack's smooth shaven cheek.

Meta Harris stopped laughing and exclaimed:

"Oh, to think you'd be so good to that miserable 'Kid.' You've made me feel so—so mean and insignificant." Her face was very sober now. "Do you think, Jack, you could forgive me, and"—

"Bless that 'Kid!'" exclaimed Jack as they walked home in the twilight. Meta had resolutely refused to board a trolley car in consideration of Jack's soiled raiment. "When we get settled, the little chap can play up here every Saturday."

"Yes," mused Meta, "I always said that boy would do something worth while."

When a woman gives up it is because she has gone to the utmost limit of strength and endurance. It is a marvel how women will stagger on under the daily household burdens when the whole body is racked with pain.

For the nervous, run-down condition which so many women experience, as a result of overstrain in household cares, there is no medicine can equal Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It strengthens the weak stomach by curing diseases of the organs of digestion and nutrition. It purifies the blood of poisons which cause rheumatism and other painful diseases. It nourishes the nerves, and builds up the body with sound, healthy flesh.

There is no alcohol in "Golden Medical Discovery" and it is entirely free from opium, cocaine and all other narcotics.

Accept no substitute for the "Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for weakness, nervousness and debility.

"I want the whole world to know what Dr. Pierce's medicines have done for me," writes Mrs. Helen Hardgrove, of Bangs, Knox Co., O., "I had many of the ills of woman's life. My lungs and throat troubled me besides, and I had rheumatism. About a year ago I had to give up work I was so bad. I had heard so much about your medicine I thought I would try it. I took four bottles of your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pellets,' and by the time I had taken half of the first bottle I began to gain, and kept on getting better. And now I have no more of my old ailments and am entirely cured of rheumatism. I feel like a new woman."

TALKING TO ONESELF.

Soliloquies, Are Rare Because We Fear They Mean Madness.

Talking to oneself has this obvious advantage over any other form of oratory or gossip: One is assured of a sympathetic audience. But it has also this peculiar drawback: It is supposed to be one of the early symptoms of insanity. Wrongly so perhaps. A mad doctor might rule the habit out of his diagnosis. Nevertheless the popular belief is firmly rooted, and it is for fear of this belief doubtless that we talk to ourselves even as we dress our hair with straws so rarely.

It may be said that we never do address ourselves at any length except in the delirium of a fever. In moments of ordinary excitement of course we utter to the wind some sort of appropriate ejaculation. Delight wrings from us a cry of "Hurrah!" or "Thank heaven!" even though there be none by to echo us. Similarly in any disgust we emit one of those sounds whose rather poor equivalents in print are "Ugh!" and "Faugh!" and "Tut!" Much further than this we do not go. "Why, what an ass am I!" cries Hamlet in one of his soliloquies. Omitting the first word and transposing the last two, the ordinary modern man does often soliloquise to that extent. But he could no more soliloquise to Hamlet's extent than he could speak in decasyllabics.

Nor is there any reason to suppose that that class of the community with which, contemptuous of his own fluency, Hamlet compared himself is or ever was more prone to soliloquise than any other. In the matter of soliloquies we cannot accept Hamlet as an unbiased authority. We merely find in him the possible origin of the belief that talking to oneself is a bad sign.

HEART FAILURE.

The Great Number of Cases of Sudden Death from this Cause, makes the following Story of the Greatest Importance.

How often are these awful words, "Heart Failure" spoken or written in explanation of a sudden and unexpected death!

There are many, who although still alive, are hanging over the brink of the grave every moment. The slightest reason may in the twinkling of an eye bring their lives to a sudden stop.

Much of the palpitation and other forms of Heart Trouble is caused directly by the Stomach, and the following letter explains one man's painful predicament in this way and how he was cured.

Mr. A. D. Miller of Wilberforce, Ont., writes.

"For four years previously to the summer of 1900, I had been troubled with Dyspepsia and Indigestion. During the summer of 1900, my doctor treated me for Liver Complaint, but instead of getting better I was gradually growing worse.

"My appetite was very irregular and I would bloat very much after eating. I also had palpitation of the heart, and sometimes my heart was so bad that I could not sleep at night at all on account of its beating so hard.

"I was very much run down and so very weak, in fact I was hardly able to get around.

"I heard of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets and began to use them, and before I had used half a box I was greatly improved.

"I continued and in a very short time was completely cured. I was well and felt like a new man. My heart trouble disappeared altogether and I have not had the slightest trace of it since."

Mr. Miller was cured to stay cured. He didn't get sick again when he stopped using Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets for they had cured him completely and permanently. Much of the Heart Failure is caused by bad stomach action.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets cure all forms of stomach troubles.

YOUNG'S POINT.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

One of the most interesting events of the past week in this neighborhood was the wedding of Miss Bridget Scott, of Chandos, to Mr. Geo. Trainer, of Harvey, which event took place on Wednesday, the 5th inst., in St. Mary's church, Rev. Father Phelan officiated. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Elizabeth Scott, and Mr. Richard Fitzgerald was groomsman. The happy couple will reside in Harvey.

We have again been visited by a severe snow storm, which delayed the mail the greater part of the week, but the roads are in very fair condition once more.

The residents of the Point are anxious to arrange terms with the Lakefield Cement Co., by which we could be supplied with electric lights. As all the power is not utilized at night, the majority of our villagers would be pleased to avail themselves of the opportunity of lighting their houses with electricity if reasonable terms could be arranged.

We are much pleased to receive information that we are to have daily mail service. This is a long needed benefit, which we will highly appreciate.

Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Young, of Selwyn, have moved to the Point. Mr. Young is improving in health, since his recent illness.

Mr. Thomas McCauley, of Trenton, has been visiting friends here the past week.

THE MAN BEHIND THE PICK.

There has been all kinds of gush about the man who is "behind"—
And the man behind the cannon has been toasted, wined and dined;
There's the man behind the musket, and the man behind the fence;
And the man behind his whiskers, and the man behind his rents;
And the man behind the plough beam, and the man behind the hoe;
And the man behind the ballot, and the man behind the dough;
And the man behind the counter, and the man behind the bill;
And the man behind the pestle, and and the man behind the pill;
And the man behind the jimmy, and the man behind the bars.
And the Johnny that goes snooping on the stage behind the "stars,"
And the man behind the kisser, and the man behind the fist;
And the girl behind the man behind the gun is on the list;
And the man behind the bottle, and when they were short of men;
There was some rhymster warbled of the man behind the pen;
But they missed one honest fellow, and I'm raising up to kick,
That they didn't make mention of the man behind the pick;
Up the rugged mountain side, a thousand feet he takes his way,
Or as far into the darkness from the cheering light of day;
He is shut out from the sunlight, in the glimmer of the lamps;
He is cut off from the sweet air in the stickly fumes and damps;
He must toil in cramped position; he must take his life in hand;
For he works in deadly peril that but few can understand;
But he does it all in silence, and he seldom makes a kick,
Which is why I sing the praises of the man behind the pick.—Ex.

TOM MILLER WRITES.

He Thinks the War is Coming to a Close at Last.

A letter written at Bloemfontein on Jan. 11, received to-day by Mrs. F. W. Miller from her son Tom, of the Scot's Guards, South Africa, contains the following of general interest:

Dear Mother,—I am going to Elandsfontein as escort with a lot of Boer prisoners to-day. We have a job of that kind every Saturday afternoon, and it lasts about five days. It is a very dirty job.

Well, dear mother, the war seems to be coming to a close at last. We are getting a lot of prisoners every day, as there are always a lot of surrenders.

With fondest love to all,

Your loving son,
TOM.

HISTORIC HASTINGS.

Happenings in the Village on the Trent —Personal Mention.

The regular meeting of the Council was held on Friday evening, all the members present, the Reeve in the chair. By-laws confirming the appointment of the different officers for the present year received their several readings, and were signed and sealed. The Snow Committee, Reeve Wilson, Councillors Tracy and Learmouth, have indeed had their hands full during the past week, keeping the streets clear of snow. The cost of the work was $45.50.

A Snow Shoe Club has been organized here. A number of the young ladies and gentlemen have joined the club, and have had several enjoyable outings. The members, particularly the ladies, seem to adapt themselves well to the handling of the snow shoe, and so far no serious casualties have occurred.

Owing to the heavy snow storm which passed over here last week, business has almost been entirely suspended. The country roads are completely blocked, and the farmers are securely housed in.

Mr. Henry Johnston was in Peterborough Saturday. Rumor says Henry has purchased a large tract of land in New Ontario. A few of his most intimate friends have been shown a map of his domains in that locality.

Rev. Mr. Thompson occupied the pulpit of the late Rev. Dr. Andrews, of Keene, on Sunday.

Several of the young people from here attended the ball held at Keene on Friday night, and report a very enjoyable time indeed.

The G. T. R. had a large gang of men engaged clearing out the snow from the sidings at the station. Only one car of stock was shipped from this station last week, the farmers being unable to deliver same, owing to the bad condition of the roads.

Norwood Hockey Team passed through here yesterday, en route for Keene.

Capt. T. A. Fraser spent Sunday at Peterborough.

Dr. McGowan, of Warkworth, was in town on Friday.

Mrs. H. M. Fowlds, who has been visiting friends in Belleville during the past week, has returned home.

Mr. D. Anderson, of McLeod, N.W.T., has been appointed manager of the Union Bank, Norwood.

FUTURE PROVISION.

There are two periods in a man's life, when in the natural course of things, he is unable to take care of himself—his childhood and his old age. During the whole of our lives we are consumers; during middle life only we are producers. It is therefore the aim of every man to put by enough during middle age, so that he will have an independent income for his old age. But, under ordinary circumstances this is often a hard thing to do. Men at that time of life generally find themselves with a family to provide for; perhaps their whole income is required to meet the household expenses, and it is impossible to find a remunerative investment for their small annual savings.

An Imperial endowment policy, as issued by the Imperial Life Assurance Company of Canada, Toronto, is an ideal investment for a man in this position. Should he die at any time the insurance will provide for his family and leave them in an independent position. At the same time he is providing an income for his old age, which will enable him to end his days in comfort. With an "Imperial Endowment Policy" a man need have no fear for his own future, or the future of his wife and family.

G.P.A. WINS A VICTORY

Its Case Against Canadian Paper Manufacturers Succeeds.

GOVERNMENT REDUCES DUTY

Judge Taschereau's Report of Investigation Showed That a Combine Existed to Unduly Enhance Prices—Prompt Action Taken—Duty on News Print Reduced From 25 to 15 Per Cent

Ottawa, Feb. 12.—For the first time in Canada the anti-combination section of the existing tariff has been invoked and acted upon. It was in April last the Canadian Press Association represented to the Government that the price of printing paper was very much higher in Canada than in the United States, and offered, if given the opportunity, to prove that this was due to the combination or agreement among the paper manufacturers of Canada to keep up prices.

This appeal of the newspaper publishers was heard upon what is known as the anti-combine clause of the Tariff Act of 1897. This clause provides that whenever the Governor-in-Council has reason to believe that the manufacturers of any article have formed a trust or an agreement may appoint a judge to take evidence as to the facts, and "if the judge reports that such a trust, combination, association or agreement exists, and if it appears to the Governor-in-Council that such disadvantage to the consumers is facilitated by the dues of customs imposed on a like article, when imported, then the Governor-in-Council shall place such articles on the free list, or so reduce the duty on it as to give to the public the benefit of reasonable competition in such article."

Judge Taschereau of Montreal was appointed to make the enquiry, and after full investigation he reported to the Government last November sustaining the complaint of the Press Association. As a result an order-in-council was passed yesterday to this effect:

"The customs duty on news printing paper, in sheets and rolls, including all printing paper valued at not more than 2½ cents per pound shall be reduced from 25 per cent. to 15 per cent. ad valorem."

During the fiscal year 1901 there were imported into Canada 7,544,-558 pounds of paper, more than double the quantity imported in 1900. The value was $356,086 and the duty paid thereon $80,566.

Judge Taschereau in his report to the Government says that an agreement within the meaning of the Tariff Act above quoted does exist. On Feb. 21, 1900, the twenty-six manufacturers of paper in Canada formed an association, but only 12 of them paid the deposit of $500 required by the rules of the association as a guarantee of compliance therewith. The twelve firms are: W. Barber & Bros., Georgetown; The Canada Paper Company, Montreal; The Dominion Paper Company, Montreal; the E. B. Eddy Company, Hull; the Lincoln Paper Mills Company, Merritton; A. McArthur & Company, Montreal; the St. Croix Pulp and Paper Company, Merritton; J. C. Wilson & Company, Montreal; the Consolidated Pulp and Paper Company; J. Fordo & Company, Port Neuf.

The agreement between the manufacturers embraces all sales in Canada and Newfoundland, but does not embrace paper exported out of the Dominion, with the exception of Newfoundland.

The principal provision of the agreement binds the contracted parties not to quote, offer, or agree to sell or sell the goods covered by the agreement at lower prices or on better terms and conditions than those fixed by the schedule prices agreed upon.

In order to keep a check upon one another the secretary-treasurer of the association is permitted at all times to have access to the books, papers and correspondence of any firm belonging to the association. The penalty for violation of the agreement is $300. On or before the 15th of each month the members, their agents and travelers are to send a solemn declaration to the secretary-treasurer that the agreement has not been violated. The secretary-treasurer is empowered to investigate all charges of violation of the agreement, and if proven to impose a fine of not less than $50 and not more than $500.

Judge Taschereau concludes that this agreement constitutes a combination, which amounts to a combine. As to whether the combine resulted in unduly increasing prices, he finds the proof that it did so in the fact that in 1896 the price of rolled news print was $2.75 per 100 lbs.; that the prices fell steadily till November, 1899, when it was $2.03 to $2.10. When the association was formed it rose to $2.50. There was also a rise in the States, but while prices fell there they were kept up in Canada. Besides this 25 per cent. increase, the judge finds the combine by refusing to allow return of waste paper, added 10 cents per hundred and another 12½ cents to certain consumers for freight by its equilization process, a total increase of 47½ to 35 cents per hundred pounds, which was not justified by the trade conditions. In conclusion he declares that the present paper makers' combination is illegal, both by the express enactment of the customs tariff, and by section 520 of the criminal code.

A JAPANESE ALLIANCE

Aimed to Meet Russian Duplicity in the Far East.

TO PRESERVE CHINA AND COREA

No Disturbance of the Territorial Status—An Outcome of the Events of the Past Two Years—Lord Lansdowne's Despatch to Sir Claude Macdonald—How Alliance Delights the Press.

London, Feb. 12.—An important parliamentary paper was issued last night, giving the terms of a practical alliance between Great Britain and Japan for the preservation of China and Corea.

The paper covers a despatch sent by Lord Lansdowne on Jan. 30 to the British Minister at Tokio, Sir Claude M. Macdonald, and comprises a signed copy of the agreement. In explanation, the paper says the agreement may be regarded as an outcome of the events of the past two years. Throughout the Boxer troubles Great Britain and Japan had been in close and uninterrupted communication and actuated by similar views.

"We each desired," says Lord Lansdowne, "that the integrity and independence of the Chinese Empire should be preserved, and that there should be no disturbance of the territorial status quo either in China or the adjoining regions."

The Newspapers Astonished.

The new Anglo-Japanese alliance has created a big sensation. The newspapers published this morning vie with one another in expressing astonishment and satisfaction at the action of the Government. The treaty is undoubtedly a momentous one. It puts an end to Britain's magnificent isolation, and is a fine answer to those who fancied that British interests in China were to be neglected. The Daily Mail says: "It is no use disguising the fact that the document is aimed primarily at Russia. We are able to assert on authority which cannot be questioned that the relations of this country and the Government of the Czar have become regrettably impaired in consequence of Muscovite duplicity with respect to the future of Manchuria. This will be shortly proved."

PLACE TEMPORARILY FILLED.

John Kenrick Appointed Temporary Secretary-Librarian of Hamilton Library.

Hamilton, Feb. 12.—The meeting of the Public Library Board yesterday afternoon was very tame. Contrary to expectations, the members had little to say. Rev. Dr. Lyle is the only member who has been accused of carelessness or wrong-doing who spoke up. He admitted he was not a business man, and that he had been duped by the missing librarian treasurer. He confessed signing two or three cheques in 1900 in excess of the number he should have signed. Warren Burton made no statement at all. John Kenrick was appointed temporary secretary of the board, as well as librarian. The Literary Committee was instructed to define Mr. Kenrick's duties and report at a meeting of the board to be held on Friday at 3 o'clock.

It is expected that the auditor will be able to make a report at that meeting.

NOMINATIONS IN LISGAR.

Independent, Liberal and Conservative Are in the Field For Good.

Winnipeg, Feb. 12.—Nominations for the bye-election in Lisgar were held in Baldwin yesterday. Robert Lorne Richardson, editor, Independent; Duncan Alexander Stewart, farmer, Liberal, and James Melvin Toombs, merchant, Conservative, were nominated. The election takes place next Tuesday.

Reports from Lisgar yesterday are to the effect that the campaign is red hot. Half a dozen meetings are held daily. The principal interest is in meetings where Messrs. Sifton, Toombs and Richardson meet on the same platform.

SAW MILL BLOWN UP.

Boiler Exploded at Pembroke Early Tuesday Evening.

Pembroke, Feb. 12.—A terrible explosion shook this town about 6.30 o'clock last evening, a sawmill belonging to the Messrs. Thackeray & Rawlins was almost destroyed by the boiler exploding. Mr. George Rawlins, one of the proprietors of the mill, was badly hurt, and the engineer, Martin Greber, was crushed badly, and was removed to the hospital.

Arrested in St. Catharines.

Fractured His Skull.

Toronto, Feb. 12.—Francis McGrath, cab driver, died yesterday afternoon at the Emergency Hospital as the result of an accident. While turning the corner of Simcoe and Union streets, shortly before noon, he fell off his seat and fractured his skull. Death ensued about five hours later. Address to Women by the Treasurer of the W. C. T. U. of Kansas City, Mrs. E. C. Smith.

"My Dear Sisters:—I believe in advocating and upholding everything that will lift up and help women, and put little use appears all knowledge and learning if you have not the health to enjoy it.

MRS. E. C. SMITH.

"Having found by personal experience that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a medicine of rare virtue, and having seen dozens of cures where my suffering sisters have been dragged back to life and usefulness from an untimely grave simply by the use of a few bottles of that Compound, I must proclaim its virtues, or I should not be doing my duty to suffering mothers and dragged-out housekeepers.

"Dear Sister, is your health poor, do you feel worn out and used up, especially do you have any of the troubles which beset our sex, take my advice; let the doctors alone, try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; it is better than any and all doctors, for it cures and they do not."—Mrs. E. C. Smith, 1212 Oak St., Treasurer W. C. T. THE OPPOSITION LEADER AND LABOUR.

The leader of the Opposition has shown gross inconsistency and weakness in dealing with the labour question. The other day Mr. Preston, of South Brant, introduced a bill framed with the object of perfecting and extending the scope of the Act respecting Councils of Conciliation and Arbitration. This measure is on the lines of legislation which have proved highly satisfactory in Great Britain, and have had the approval of the labour bodies in Ontario. What was the position assumed by the Opposition leader and his followers on the question? They sneered at and belittled the measure and attempted to throw odium and suspicion on the motives of the gentleman who introduced it, but they are not manly or straightforward enough to oppose it. The Mail and Empire of the 8th inst., reported the leader, (Mr. Whitney) as follows:

"Mr. Whitney saw no harm in the bill, because it was neither good nor bad. It was simply a waste of paper and ink." It was intended perhaps to get a little kudos for the member for South Brant."

Other speakers on the same side followed in the same strain. All of them who spoke on the question denounced the bill as worthless, or worse.

Now, if the Opposition leaders were sincere in these expressions, if he meant what he said, why did he allow the measure to pass a second reading unopposed? Why did he not divide the House on the question? How could he reconcile it with his duty to allow a worthless bill — a measure simply put forward to gain political capital — to cumber the statute book without recording the votes of his party against it? The fact that he did not do so — that he contented himself with sneering, carping criticism, showed the want of settled principle, the same lack of a definite policy, the same shifting, dodging, trimming, disposition that he has so conspicuously exhibited in connection with other questions. He was facing both ways. He dared not put himself on record as voting against a bill favoured by the labour organizations, but he showed himself "Willing to wound, and yet afraid to strike."

It was of a piece with his course as regards the Succession Duties Act, and should the Conciliation Measure prove equally successful, no doubt we shall have the Opposition indignantly denying that they ever opposed the Act—because they had not ventured to record their votes on the question.

NEW ONTARIO.

In connection with the favourable report of New Ontario submitted by the superintendent of the Pioneer farm it might not be out of place to remind the public of the fight which had to be made by the Liberal Government to hold that fertile region for Ontario.

When the Government of Hon. Alexander Mackenzie found that there was a dispute between the Dominion authorities and the Government of this Province, it arranged with the Provincial authorities for the submission of the dispute as to the western and northern boundary of Ontario to a commission of arbitrators.

The arbitrators chosen were men of the highest standing, viz., Chief Justice Harrison, Sir Edward Thornton and Sir Francis Hincks.

There was not the slightest objection to their appointment, the payment of the necessary expenses met with no opposition, and an award was made.

The Conservative Government which succeeded to power in Ottawa, however, declined to ratify the award. For years it refused to do more than acknowledge the receipt of the request of the Government of Oliver Mowat that the award of the arbitrators, made in good faith, should be ratified by the Dominion Government. In vain did the Ontario authorities point to the injurious effects to the territory from the failure of the Dominion Administration to do its duty.

The reply of Sir John Macdonald, as representing the Government at Ottawa, was that not one stick of timber nor one pound of minerals within the disputed territory should be placed under the control of Sir Oliver Mowat, then the Premier of Ontario, and fighting for the maintenance of the integrity of his native Province. Sir John called Premier Mowat "the little tyrant" at that time; he must have been in a bad temper; but Oliver Mowat did not mind being called names when he was fighting a good cause.

When the Conservative Government at Ottawa assumed such an antagonistic position its supporters in this Province took it for granted that unpalatable and unpopular though the anti-Ontario course might be, it had to be adopted, and so we find, on reference to the records, that the Toronto Mail made a bid for the defeat of the Government of Sir Oliver Mowat by bluntly telling the people of the Province that if they wanted to get the disputed territory they should defeat Mr. Mowat, and thus make parties in Ottawa and Toronto "at one with each other." In other words, that Ontario could not get justice while she sent a majority to the Legislature in support of Mr. Mowat, and that by changing the Government of Ontario alone would there be a change in the hostile attitude of the Dominion Government.

The people of Ontario refused to be bulldozed. They stood by Mr. Mowat, Mr. George W. Ross, and Mr. A.S. Hardy. Then other tactics were resorted to by the Dominion Government. It parcelled out the timber and the mineral lands to its political favourites for a mere song. It invited the Norquay Government of Manitoba—politically in accord with it—to claim possession of the territory of Ontario as far east as Rat Portage, and it so irritated the people of this Province as to bring a section of the people to the verge of civil war.

To make matters worse Mr. Laurier, (now Prime Minister of Canada), who was then leader of the Quebec Liberal contingent in the House of Commons, was attacked by his political opponents in that province for being politically in accord with Oliver Mowat, who was regarded as standing out for the territory north of the height of land being kept for Ontario to the prejudice of the Province of Quebec. Appeals were made to the sectional interests of the people of Quebec and it was persistently represented that Mr. Laurier and his friends had sacrificed the interests of Quebec, by agreeing to an award that was highly favourable to Ontario. How unfair this attack was subsequent history has shown. For after resisting the award made by Chief Justice Harrison, Sir Edward Thornton and Sir Francis Hincks for many years, causing go end of bad feeling, and retarding the progress of the province, the opponents of the Ontario Government were compelled to admit that Oliver Mowat and his colleagues were right, that the arbitrators were right, and that the parcelling out of Ontario's northwestern territory to political favourites was altogether unwarranted.

It was a notable fight for Provincial rights and for the territory belonging to this fair province. If the Dominion Government of that day had had its way this province would have been despoiled of over 100,000 square miles of territory containing, as has since been proved, hundreds of millions of dollars worth of farm land, timber, and minerals. Without these resources, which the friends of Mr. Whitney, are ready and willing to give away for next to nothing, to their political friends, the Province of Ontario would have been greatly crippled in its ability to provide for the care of the aged, the sick, the insane, the deaf and dumb, to aid in advancing the agricultural development of the country and the schools, to all of which the Government has been a most liberal supporter.

It was indeed fortunate that the province then had a Government, as it has had ever since, which stood up for the rights of Ontario, and refused to permit her to be despoiled either for the extension of Manitoba or for the benefit of the election fund contributors of the administration at Ottawa.

FRIED ONIONS

Indirectly Caused the Death of the World's Greatest General.

It is a matter of history that Napoleon was a gormand, an inordinate lover of the good things of the table, and history further records that his favourite dish was fried onions; his death from cancer of stomach it is claimed also, was probably caused from his excessive indulgence of this fondness for the odorous vegetable.

The onion is undoubtedly a wholesome article of food, in fact has many medicinal qualities of value, but it would be difficult to find a more indigestible article than fried onions, and to many people they are simply poison, but the onion does not stand alone in this respect. Any article of food that is not thoroughly digested becomes a source of disease and discomfort whether it be fried onions or beef steak.

The reason why any wholesome food is not promptly digested is because the stomach lacks some important element of digestion, some stomachs lack peptone, others are deficient in gastric juice, still others lack hydrochloric acid.

The one thing necessary to do in any case of poor digestion is to supply those elements of digestion which the stomach lacks, and nothing does this so thoroughly and safely as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Dr Richardson in writing a thesis on treatment of dyspepsia and indigestion, closes his remarks by saying, "for those suffering from acid dyspepsia, shown by sour, watery risings, or for flatulent dyspepsia shown by gas on stomach, causing heart trouble and difficult breathing, as well as for all other forms of stomach trouble, the safest treatment is to take one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after each meal. I advise them because they contain no harmful drugs, but are composed of valuable digestives, which act promptly upon the food eaten. I never knew a case of indigestion or even chronic dyspepsia which Stuart's Tablets would not reach."

Cheap cathartic medicines claiming to cure dyspepsia and indigestion can have no effect whatever in actively digesting the food, and to call any cathartic medicine a cure for indigestion is a misnomer.

Every druggist in the United States and Canada sells Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and they are not only the safest and most successful but the most scientific of any treatment for indigestion and stomach troubles.

OUR PIONEER FARM.

The annual report of Mr. A.E. Annis, Superintendent of the Provincial Government's pioneer farm at Dryden, says: "During the year 4,660 acres were sold to forty-five different parties, five of whom came from Manitoba, three from England, one from Scotland, and the remainder from old Ontario. Since this settlement was opened up five years ago, 41,300 acres of land have been sold, and 149 lots in Dryden village.

"This year has been fairly favourable for clearing land, and the settlers have taken advantage of it, as I think more land has been cleared in 1901 than in any two previous seasons. During the year a new frame school was erected in Wainwright.

"The gold claims south of Dryden have had considerable work done on them during the season. One company is shipping 300 tons to the reduction works at Keewatin. This locality is apparently one of the best in the Rainy River district, having large veins, and the gold evenly distributed in them.

"The water-power at this point is still unused, except by the planing mill. This would make an excellent site for a grist mill."

Hay made a splendid showing during the past summer, but oats and barley on the farm were injured by hail. Frost came too late to do any damage.

"Small fruits, especially raspberries and black currants, have done well. In the spring we put out a number of different varities of apple trees, with the expectation of finding some of them suitable to our climate. The trees all made considerable growth during the season, and have been wrapped in tar paper for protection in the winter."

Ever have a pair of shoes that twisted out of shape before they were half worn out?

That was because of poor lasting—the stretch had been left in them.

"Slater Shoes" are lasted on machines which automatically stretch the leather to the exact point where there is no stretch left.

Only good leather can stand this process, but it takes all the stretch forever out of the shoes.

No breaking in, no bursting out, no twisting, no unsightly warping—"Slater Shoes" keep their shape till worn out. Goodyear welted.

Unexpected Ending to the Budget Debate Tuesday Night.

THE PROHIBITION BILL TO-DAY

Hon. E. J. Davis' Telling Speech on the Progress of Ontario—A Forceful Criticism of the Opposition's Amendment—Debate's Sudden Ending After Mr. Crawford Had Spoken—The Division.

Toronto, Feb. 11.—This afternoon in the Legislative Assembly there was no abatement in the volume of Prohibition petitions, a large number of which were presented. Among the bills introduced were measures by Mr. Leys to amend the act respecting street railways, by Mr. Tucker to amend the County Councils Act, and by Hon. J. Dryden to amend the act respecting the Sam Jone scale.

Mr. Matheson enquired respecting the return of the evidence taken by the School Book Commission ordered by the House.

Hon. R. Harcourt explained that some of the evidence was in the form of short hand notes which had not been written out in full. A lengthy report containing the most material portion of the evidence had been published some five or six years ago. As soon as it could be done the remaining evidence would be brought down.

Mr. Foy resumed the debate on the budget. He argued that the trust funds in the hands of the Dominion Government were not available to pay the debts of the province, as they were held for a specific purpose. The mere fact that they were trust funds showed that they could not be set off as against provincial liabilities. He objected to the provision of the Supplemental Revenue Act under which municipalities were prevented from taxing upon a fair and proper basis some of the corporations which had been laid under tribute by the Provincial Government. By his South Dakota investment Hon. John Dryden had put into the hands of a rival country an argument which they could use against Canada as a field for immigration. He quoted from the writings of W. T. Stead of the Review of Reviews, in which Mr. Dryden's action was referred to.

Hon. Mr. Dryden in explanation said he had never invested in a ranch in Dakota. He had invested his money in cattle which were pastured in Dakota, which was an entirely different matter.

Mr. Foy did not appreciate the difference, holding that Mr. Dryden's action tended to depreciate Canada in the eyes of intending immigrants.

The Progress of Ontario.

Hon. E. J. Davis said that the budget of Ontario compared most favorably with that of any province of Canada and any state in the American union. All through the Treasurer's speech there was an exultant note of hope and confidence. It was a frank, fair and impartial statement. The independent press and the sentiment of the business community endorsed the financial management of the province. The course of the Opposition in contending that the Government was in an insolvent position was unpatriotic. He enlarged on what the Government had done for the development of the country, for the promotion of education and for the unfortunate classes. The fact that the receipts exceeded the expenditures by some $400,000 and that the expenditures had been kept well within the estimates were evidences of splendid financial management. No Opposition speaker had as yet stated that any single item of the expenditure was improperly made. Who complained of the expenditure on agriculture or on education? The Government had been charged with delay in the development of New Ontario. The Liberals had had to fight session after session in order to hold New Ontario which the Opposition were willing to surrender. It was no wonder that for many years they were unable to make any progress in developing the country. It was a fair answer to the men who asked, "What were the Government doing to develop New Ontario for so many years?" to say that they were fighting for the rights of the people of the province. Notwithstanding the difficulties they had had to encounter there were now 150,000 settlers in the districts of Muskoka, Parry Sound, Nipissing and Algoma, and a railway mileage of 1,854 miles. The development of the iron smelting industry in New Ontario was due to the policy of aiding railway construction. There had been a most extraordinary mining development in the Sudbury district where the output had more than doubled in two years. The increase in Government expenses had been very small compared with the growth of the country. In 1873 there were 46 officials in the Parliament Building getting salaries amounting to $46,-618. There were in 1901, 49 officials receiving 52,-593. There were enormous quantities of pine still unsold in addition to pulp wood and other valuable timber. Sufficient to provide a revenue for all time as pulp wood would reproduce itself under a system of reforestry. It was advisable to sell timber wherever there was a danger of loss by fire, from railroad construction or mining development. The progress of settlement had been very marked lately, and 1903 was going to be the banner year for colonization. If a large area of pine were destroyed because the Government had neglected to sell it, when it should have been disposed of they would justly lay themselves open to severe criticism. He contended that timber was not in any sense capital, but simply the first crop removed to make room for more valuable products. In non-agricultural regions the land would be reserved for growing pine or pulp wood. He reviewed at some length the history of the manufacturing clause in timber licenses, proving conclusively that the claim of the Conservatives to have originated that policy was utterly unfounded, pointing out that the Government had first adopted it in 1890. It was temporarily discontinued at a time when the U. S. tariff premitted the importation of Canadian lumber into that country and re-imposed in 1898 as a result of the exclusion of Canadian lumber from American markets.

After Recess.

It had been alleged that the lumbermen and those who obtained pulp concessions were favored at the expense of the settler. This was not the case. There had been some trouble arising under old licenses which gave the lumberman all the timber, but since 1887 the licenses only gave the lumberman the right to cut pine and as soon as the settler was located he had a right to all the timber except pine. Under more recent licenses the lumberman was given ten years to remove all the pine, any remaining after that period belonged to the settler. Difficulties sometimes arose from settlers taking up land not fit for farming, simply with a view of cutting timber and then taking up another lot. The apparent discrepancies between financial statements of different years as to the amount of the surplus arose from the fact that in some former years the statement of liabilities included only those presently payable and not the railway liabilities which were not then due. In answer to a question by Mr. Matheson, he asserted that the trust funds in the hands of the Dominion Government were available to defray provincial liabilities. It was only reasonable he held, that posterity should pay a portion of the expense of building the railways of which they would reap the benefit. Reverting to the question of settlers' rights he said that in free grant locations the settler could take all the pine he needed for building and fencing purposes, and also could remove any trees necessary for clearing his land.

Mr. Miscampbell's Amendment.

In the first place he would call attention to the fact that Mr. Miscampbell's amendment was a want of confidence motion. It could not be amended. It did not affect present agreements. Under the agreement now existing as regarded Niagara Falls one-half of the power generated was controlled and could be distributed in Canada at prices not greater than those charged in the States. The water power at Port Frances could not be developed without joint action between those on both sides of the line, and in negotiations now in progress it was stipulated that one-half should be used in Ontario; and in arrangements with Quebec in one case it was provided that all the power should be used on the Ontario side. The interests of the people were safeguarded in all agreements made as to water power. The motion appeared to mean that the Government could be called upon by any municipality to develop any water power to furnish power, light and heat—perhaps at an enormous expense. Wherever it was practicable the Government was authorizing the municipalities to develop water powers at their own expense. The Crown proposed to retain the rights in the water powers, to charge a reasonable rental therefor, and to enable municipalities to develop them in the interests of the whole people.

Mr. Crawford said he did not know whether Mr. Dryden had any money invested in the Dakota Cattle Ranch Company or not, but he knew that he (Mr. Crawford) had not a dollar invested in it. Mr. Pettypiece, who had assailed the Minister of Agriculture on that ground through his paper, ought to reiterate that statement on the floor of the House, or else to apologize for it. Neither the Premier nor any of his followers had a word to say in defence of the Minister of Agriculture. There was evidently a want of harmony among the occupants of the Government benches. He urged that owing to the quarantine regulations the live stock of Ontario was deteriorating. The live stock exporting interest also suffered owing to railway discrimination against Ontario, as compared with the U. S.

It had generally been expected that the Premier and Messrs. Stratton and Whitney would speak, but to the surprise of everyone the debate came suddenly to the close after Mr. Crawford had taken his seat, and the question was put on Mr. Miscampbell's amendment. During the interval while the whips were hunting after the absentees Capt. Robson of East Middlesex favored the House with "The Stein Song." The amendment was defeated in a straight party vote: Yeas, 39; nays, 41. The motion to go into Committee of Supply was declared carried on the same division.

The division was as follows:

Yeas—Allen, Barr, Beatty (Leeds), Brower, Carnegie, Carscallen, Crawford, Duff, Ellber, Fallis, Foy, Fox, Gallagher, Hoyle, Jamieson, Jessop, Joyat, Kidd, Kribs, Lucas, Matheson, Monteith, Morrison, McLaughlin, Reid (Durham), Robson, Thompson, Tucker, Wardell, Whitney—39.

A FEARFUL COUGH.

Mrs. William Crooks, of Ottawa, Tells of Her Experience With Powley's Liquified Ozone--It also Cured Her and Her Little Son of Measles.

A continued bad cough is an indication that your system does not possess the vitality to throw it off. The cough keeps getting worse, the inflammation keeps spreading; soon you find your lungs are affected and you have consumption. Take it in time with Powley's Liquified Ozone, feed the blood oxygen and you'll make all the tissues of the body healthy and your cough will stop. You will prevent any danger of pneumonia, pleurisy or consumption by this means. It cures disorders by destroying the germs that produce them.

The Ozone Co., Limited—Gentlemen: I take pleasure in testifying to the wonderful merits of your remedy, Ozone. I had been suffering some days, in June last, not knowing the cause, when measles made itself manifest. I was very bad, but the Ozone brought me to my feet in about nine days, when my little son, then just a year old, took the disease and weak as I was, I had to care for him. I gave him Ozone, also with excellent results. With the measles I also had a fearful cough on my lungs, and it seemed at times the volume of mucus would choke me, so that there were grave doubts of my recovery. But thanks to this most wonderful remedy, I am quite restored to health and have since proved Ozone to be valuable as a general household remedy, also as a great antiseptic for poisoned children.

(Signed) MRS. WM. CROOKS, 82 First Ave., Ottawa, Ont.

Powley's Liquified Ozone is not a medicine, contains no alcohol and is not a combination of drugs. It is Nature's element, oxygen, prepared in such a way that the system can use it and benefit thereby. There are many people who have been pronounced as hopelessly incurable who have lived to bless Powley's Liquified Ozone for their recovery.

FIRE MEN ENTERTAINED.

At Mr. Harry Longs Last Night—Very Enjoyable Evening.

A jolly company sat down to supper at Mr. Harry Long's last night, and the occasion will be long remembered by those whose pleasure it was to attend the same. It was the occasion of a complimentary supper by Mr. Long to the members of the Peterborough Fire Brigade as a slight recognition of the services they rendered when Mr. Long's premises were threatened with complete destruction during the burning of the Crystal Block. In addition to the Fire Brigade Mr. Long invited Mr. R. G. Sturgeon, who at great risk of life, superintended the work of pushing in the north fire wall of the Crystal Block, that remained standing, and which was in immanent danger of falling into Mr. Long's building with results which would be most destructive. Messrs. Grant and Ross, the electricians, who assisted Mr. Sturgeon in the work were also present. A very appetising repast was served, after which an informal programme of speeches, songs, etc., was run off. Mr. Thomas Rutherford, Chief of the Fire Brigade, thanked Messrs. Long Bros. for their kind hospitality, which he assured them was appreciated by his men. Mr. Long replied in fitting terms, expressing his appreciation of the noble manner in which the firemen performed their work and the daring manner in which Messrs. Sturgeon, Ross and Grant heaved in the north fire wall of the Crystal Block.

During the evening Mr. Sturgeon was made the recepient of a handsome presentation. It was as follows:

Peterborough, Feb. 11th, 1902.

Mr. R. G. Sturgeon:

Dear Sir,—Enclosed you will find cheque. Kindly accept same for thoughtfulness in saving our property from further loss during the raging storm of Sunday Feb. 2nd, and risking your life in so dangerous a place. Also accept our warmest thanks. We are,

Yours truly,

HARRY AND JAMES LONG.

Messrs. Moore, Metheral and Grant contributed to the programme by several vocal selections.

WITH ALL SAINTS' GIRLS.

The Young Ladies of the South End as Usual. Provided a Splendid Programme.

The school room of All Saint's church was filled, last evening, by those who entertained pleasant memories of former entertainments given under the auspices of the Girl's Guild. The apartments were very prettily decorated and small tables were scattered through the rooms on which games were played, giving the affair that appearance of informality, which is so characteristic of functions at All Saint's.

Miss Meharry opened the musical programme with a piano solo which she rendered with good effect. This was followed by a vocal trio by Messrs. J. Legg, J. Browne and Rev. W. L. Armitage. Master Freddie Hooper, who is a prime favourite, in a couple of recitations acquitted himself splendidly as usual. Mr. James Browne then sang "The Fatal Rose of Red," and in response to an insistent demand for an encore gave "Play in Your Own Back Yard." Mr. Chas. Akey read an amusing account of the experiences of ministers in the City of Windsor with the numerous wedding parties that come across the river. Mr. Joe Legg then sang "In the House of Too Much Trouble," and as an encore a duet was sung by him with Mr. Armitage, "Life's Dream is O'er." Throughout the evening a number of selections were given by Mr. Douglas with his graphophone. Refreshments were served at the close.

If you want a real good crayon enlargement, have Whiten make it for you. Only the best quality of photos taken at Whiten's. Pictures framed at Whiten's Studio, 158 Hunter street west.

THE LATE DR. FIFE.

His Demise Occured Early This Morning—A Lingering Illness—A Well Known Physician.

The death of Dr. J. A. Fife which occurred at the family residence, No. 631 George street, at 2 o'clock this morning though anticipated brought great grief to a wide circle of friends and acquaintances. For some twelve months past Dr. Fife's health has been such that he was forced to discontinue his professional duties and for the past several weeks his end has been only a matter of time. Paralysis was the early cause of the deceased's illness, afterwards followed by a general breaking up of the constitution.

Joseph Alexander Fife, M.D., of Peterborough, was a native Canadian of Scottish descent, as indicated by his name. His grandfather, John Fife, left Grenock, Scotland, May 24, 1820, and settled the same year on lot 22, concession 4, Otonabee. John, the eldest of this family (which comprised seven sons), assisted during 1820-21, in the survey of Douro and Dummer. On his first arrival in Canada the late Dr. Fife's father left his family in Kingston, while he came to Otonabee, selected a location, and built a log house thereon, bringing his family in there in the year 1820. When Thomas, the father of the subject of this sketch, was eighteen years of age, he took up lot 26, concession 5, Otonabee, where he hewed out a home in the wilderness, in which Dr. Fife was born, his mother being a daughter of John Beckett, from Renfrewshire, Scotland. His grandfather died on the old homestead in 1859. Young Fife having received his preliminary education in Peterborough and Victoria College, Cobourg, entered the Victoria School of Medicine in 1860. Three years later he went to Washington, with a view to admission to army or navy practice, and at once received the commission of Assistant Surgeon in the navy. He was in Admiral Dahlgren's Fleet, in the South Atlantic Squadron, and was present at the bombardment of Charleston, S. C., and was nearly two years on blockade duty. After the war was ended he took a regular course in Bellevue Hospital, N. Y., subsequently returning to Toronto, and completing his regular medical course at Victoria. On receiving his degree he commenced practice in Brampton, then in Hastings, but soon afterwards removed to the Town of Peterborough, where he successfully engaged in the practice of his profession. The deceased was married to a daughter of the Rev. Ashton Fletcher, of Woodstock, Ont.

Mrs. Fife survives her husband together with the following sons and daughters: Messrs. Wm. Fletcher, of Holand, Man., Ashton T., of Rat Portage and J. Harold, of Vancouver, B. C., and Miss Mary H. A., and Miss Alice L. O., who reside at home. Mr. Ashton Fife has been home for some weeks in anticipation of his father's death.

The late Dr. Fife was well known throughout this district. He was a man of many amiable qualities, upright and straightforward, zealous in the work of the church with which he was identified, a warm friend, and a devoted husband and father. He was prominent in the management of the affairs of George street Methodist church and at the time of his demise was a member of the Trustee Board.

The funeral will take place at 2 o'clock on Friday afternoon. A service will be held at George street Methodist church before the remains are conveyed to their last resting place in Little Lake Cemetery.

AN OYSTER SUPPER.

And a Pleasing Programme at St. John's—The Girls Guild.

The Sunday school room of St. John's church was comfortably filled last evening by a very appreciative audience, which assembled to listen to an enjoyable programme provided by the Young Girls' Guild of that church. The Rector, Rev. J. C. Davidson acted as chairman, and at close of the following programme an adjournment was made to the basement, where an oyster supper was served and greatly enjoyed by all.

ELECTED OFFICERS.

The Annual Meeting of the 57th Regimental Band—The Management.

The annual meeting of the 57th Regiment band was held last evening in the band hall. There was a good attendance of the members and the utmost interest was manifested in the proceedings. The reports of the secretary and treasurer showed the year just closed to have been a most successful one, not only from a financial standpoint, but in point of solid advancement musically. The hearty support extended by the citizens generally not only enabled the band to meet its heavy obligations for new instruments and general equipment during the year, but to carry over a small balance.

The year just entered upon will call for the best efforts of the management, who have to face a debt of some $600 for the quartette of saxaphones purchased some four weeks ago, as well as provide for the ordinary working expenses of the organization. To arrange for this outlay as far as possible an appeal will be made to the generosity of the citizens, who will be asked to assist in the liquidation of the debt by subscription.

The election of officers resulted as follows, the retiring president, Mr. Gliddon, being accorded a hearty vote of thanks for his services during the year;

President and Manager—Mr. Robt. Mein.
Secretary—Mr. J. A. Harper.
Treasurer—Mr. Robt. Beach.
Librarian—Mr. Geo. Grange.
Advisory Board — Mr. Joe Halpany, chairman, and Messrs. F. C. Miller, W. E. Loch, E. Cronk, W. Hughes, Harry Clarke, R. Shelton, W. Cunningham and Thos. Bisch.

Mr. Jos. Crowe, as an acknowledgement of his efficient and painstaking work in connection with the band, was appointed an honorary member of the Advisory Board.

FUTURE PROVISION.

There are two periods in a man's life, when in the natural course of things, he is unable to take care of himself—his childhood and his old age. During the whole of our lives we are consumers; during middle life only we are producers. It is therefore the aim of every man to put by enough during middle age, so that he will have an independent income for his old age. But, under ordinary circumstances this is often a hard thing to do. Men at that time of life generally find themselves with a family to provide for; perhaps their whole income is required to meet the household expenses, and it is impossible to find a remunerative investment for their small annual savings.

An Imperial endowment policy, as issued by the Imperial Life Assurance Company of Canada, Toronto, is an ideal investment for a man in this position. Should he die at any time the insurance will provide for his family and leave them in an independent position. At the same time he is providing an income for his old age, which will enable him to end his days in comfort. With an "Imperial Endowment Policy" a man need have no fear for his own future, or the future of his wife and family.

A TALE OF A SLEIGH DRIVE.

Disappointed Pleasure Seekers Have an Experence Monday Evening.

On Monday evening a sleigh load of young people from town drove out from town to Lakefield with visions of a good night's sport at one of the village hotels dancing merrily in their young minds. But the "best laid plans of mice and men gang aft aglee" and after an exciting and ever-memorable trip over drift-bedecked roads, the hotel was reached—very late in the evening—too late in fact for the proprietor, who it seems, had received no word of their coming. He refused to stir from his cot, and as a result the young people were obliged to hold an emergency meeting, and draft a plan of campaign. By a unanimous vote it was decided to get back to Peterborough as quietly as possible, but (as the song says) "'twas a sad trip coming back." When a short distance out of Lakefield, something become radically wrong with the sleigh, and as a result the young people were obliged to pile out, and take their positions on the many drifts, where they resembled so many goblins in solemn conclave. An outburst of genuine disgust greeted the driver's ears when he informed the bunch that the sleigh was hors de combat, and he politely asked them to "go away back, etc.," until he could invade the surrounding country and hunt up a hay rack. He was successful in his mission, and a unique sight was witnessed by early risers on Tuesday morning as they gazed on a hay rack loaded down with half frozen humanity, touching only the high places on the back streets.—Com.

TO UPSET THE MAYOR.

An Action to Disqualify Lindsay's Town Council.

They are having a lively time in civic circles up on Lindsay at present and matters have about reached a climax. On Saturday at Osgoode Hall, affidavits were filed by Arthur D. Mallon, mail clerk, a defeated candidate at the recent municipal election, in a motion to unseat John Ingle, Mayor, and John Hore, Alexander Jackson, John O'Reilly and W. M. Robson, councillors. The allegations are that they diverted certain school funds for waterworks and park purposes, having already spent $960 out of an appropriation of $5676.

BADLY CRUSHED.

Wm. Hamilton of Kinmount was Injured by a Falling Tree.

William Hamilton, a resident of the neighbourhood of Kinmount, is lying in the Nicholls Hospital, and grave fears are entertained for his recovery. Hamilton was taken to the hospital on Monday night, as a result of injuries he sustained while working in the woods near Kinmount. It appears that a falling tree pinned him to the ground, causing severe injuries to his breast, and otherwise disabling him.

Hamilton was attended by a Kinmount physician, who decide dat once that his patient should be removed to the Nicholls Hospital.

HOCKEY MATCH TO-NIGHT.

Royal Military College Cadets Play the Peterboroughs.

First Game in the O. H. A. Semi-finals—Other Hockey News of the Day.

TO-NIGHT'S GAME.

The remarkably good game which is being played by the Cadets of the Royal Military College, Kingston, this year, should ensure to-night's match ranking among the best that have been played here in recent years. The Cadets have just come out victorious in a battle royal with Queen's II, having defeated that team by a score of 9 to 7 in the first game, and 2 to 0 in the second. At Pittsburg, the military men made a far better showing than either the Frontenacs or Queens I team, and by all accounts they are playing a very dashing game. This will be the first time that the best team of the Royal Military College has journeyed to Peterborough, and the seven should receive a splendid reception. It was the Cadets who first introduced the game in Canada and they have always been represented in the Ontario Hockey Association.

COLTS IN PORT HOPE.

The Port Hope Guide gives the following account of the recent game which the Peterborough Colts played with the T. C. S. team in Port Hope:

"Trinity College School hockeyists shut the Peterborough Colts out last Saturday by a score of 4 to 0. The Electric Town boys arrived here at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, by train scheduled to arrive at 12.50, the delay being caused by a snow blockade near Millbrook.

It was after four o'clock before the game was commenced, and in the meantime quite a large number of spectators had congregated to witness the struggle. T.C.S. had much the advantage in weight, and the immediate predictions of many, were that unless the visitors excelled in stick-handling and skating, there was hardly a chance of their winning.

Referee Jack Swainland, the redoubtable point player of the "Green Horns" called the players to order and imparted a little advice as to how to avoid being ruled off, etc., and then set the puck travelling. T. C.S. at once pressed hard and displayed some very good combination, which apparently upset the Colts' plans, for the puck scarcely got past centre in the direction of a home team's citadel, before a score was effected. Then the College slogan, of a "Zip boom bah" nature conveyed the hitherto pent up feelings of the student, to their comrades on the ice, who "dug in" harder than ever.

A little bunch of town boys went over on t'other side and cheered lustily for the Peterborough boys, which put new life into the Colts, and for a time Trinity was kept busy. The visitors showed they could skate fast and also handle a stick well, but lacked combined play. Their shooting was exceptionally fast and accurate, but it was all done at long range, which was just pie for Smith, who handled many very cleverly. The College continued a clean combination game, and kept scoring as a consequence, the tally at half time showing T.C.S.—3. Peterborough — 0.

The Colts mended their ways as soon as the second half opened and kept the College on the jump continually, but the latter's defence was steady and every little rush attempted by the visitors would end in a mix-up, and then the school boys started the "com." going, only to be disappointed when goal-keeper Davidson was reached. The College, however, added one more before full-time making 4 to 0. The teams and officials were:

Colts—Goal, R. Davidson; point, I. Hamilton; cover point, G. Lee; forwards, W. Kennedy, B. Cameron, G. McGrath, B. Parker; umpire, H. S. White; timekeeper, E. Beamish.

Trinity College—Goal, Smith; point, Bevan; cover point, Caldwell; forwards, Rodgers, McPherson, Kidd, Deacon; umpire, Hammond; timekeeper, Morris. Referee, Jack Swainland.

The Colts' forward line do not appear to understand the art of "getting in" on the flags.

Hamilton and Lee are both good men and are adopting the same style of play as is now being so successfully used by the seniors.

The College forwards are rather deficient in skating and could easily be better stick-handlers, but their unselfish style of play is commendable. They never hold the puck when an opportunity is open for a pass, which qualification is a good one indeed.

The present team is the best T.C.S. has had for several years, and with proper instruction they should win back the lost laurels won in days gone by, when the Seagram boys, Rusie Gamble, Geo. Chadwick, Billy Greenfield, Stairs, Sinclair and Bob Harvey constituted the team."

HOCKEY.

The Lindsay Post says:—"President Paton has received a letter from Mr. Beaton of the O.H.A., dated Feb. 1st. Mr. Beaton says if he had known that the rest of the players would have gone on strike if Dennistoun did not play in the game with Port Hope he would have advised the club to default that game to Port Hope and play only an exhibition game with them. As to the district schedule, he sympathized with the position of Lindsay at the time, but felt that the matter should be adjusted by the district clubs, for he could not see how two clubs would force an advantage over one club. He certainly thought it was a distinct hardship for Lindsay to have to play the district as originally arranged."

To-morrow night the event of the season so far in hockey circles will take place. The Kingston team will endeavour to turn down Peterborough's speedy aggregation and may get disappointed in the attempt. The boys had an excellent practice last night, the final work out before the great game. They are in the pink of condition.

CURLIANA

The Lindsay rink, composed of Messrs. J. D. Flavelle, G. A. Little, L. V. O'Connor and R. H. Cuthbert, with W. R. Widdess as spare man, left on Saturday morning for Winnipeg. Miss Flavelle accompanies her father to Winnipeg and will act as the lady mascot for the rink. A very large number of curlers and their friends were at the Lindsay station to give them a good send-off. The curlers wore their colours and carried their brooms, indicative of the expectation that Lindsay expects her rink to give a good account of themselves on the ice and to make a clean sweep of the good feelings and respect of every curler at the bonspiel. It may be of interest to know that the bonspiel at Winnipeg commences on Wednesday morning. The draw for the Grand Challenge Cup — the blue ribbon event of the meeting — will be made on Tuesday evening. It is expected that the Lindsay men will play a friendly game on Tuesday against a rink from the Assiniboines of Winnipeg.

Owing to the championship hockey match this evening the scheduled curling matches have been indefinitely postponed.

RUGBY.

A despatch from Olivet, Michigan, says that there is a concerted movement on foot among Michigan colleges to do away with football. At a meeting of the College Branch of the State Teachers' Association, it was voted to recommend that all colleges unite in prohibiting the game.

The faculties of nearly all colleges in the state are now considering the recommendation. Its opponents regard the game as physically injurious, and say that it has not performed the offices which its friends claim for it, namely that of increasing the attendance.

BASKET-BALL.

A meeting of the captains of the Senior B. B. League is called for this evening at 7.30 sharp to decide upon the date and officials for the final game between Dunsford and Richardson. Great interest is centred in this game, which should draw a large attendance of spectators. In all probability the game will be played next Saturday evening.

Summer Resort.

The first step towards making Fenelon Falls a summer resort will be taken, as soon as spring opens, by the Cameron Lake Summer Resort Association, who are now making preparations to erect two cottages, 16 by 24 feet, on the site purchased last year from Mr. Richard Byrnell. The contract for building them will be let in a few days, and three or four applications from persons who wish to rent them have already been received.

TALK TO YOURSELF.

To the Editor of the Examiner,—

Dear Sir, — I notice in last night's paper a sketch entitled "Talking to Ourselves," and was greatly amused. This person seems to be adapted to mind-reading, and would like to make himself smarter than anybody else. This person seems to have a fashion of reciting passages from the Bible. There seems to be a class of people that make themselves busybodies enough to fret and whine over other people's faults—straining at gnats and at the same time swallowing a camel. Don't meddle with a dog, and you will never get bit.

A MILLIONAIRE SOCIALIST

Editor Wiltshire Who Has Come to Canada to Circulate His Magazine.

Deputy Madden of the United States Postoffice Department has ruled that Wiltshire's Magazine, a Socialist publication, cannot be permitted to use the United States mails on the usual conditions accorded like publications that are not Socialistic. Mr. Wiltshire has arrived in Toronto, and has found Postmaster-General Mulock less intolerant and is now sending his 30,000 magazines to subscribers in the United States via Canadian mailing regulations. Thus he gets his publication to the readers of it in Uncle Sam's domains, and our Postoffice Department gets the revenue.

Fortune in a Harpsichord.

It is said that a foreman stereotyper in a London printing works has had a curious windfall. Going to a sale of musical instruments he purchased an old harpsichord for 20 shillings, because, having a hobby for fretwork, he fancied the wood of the front panel. When he got his purchase home he dissected it. He then discovered that the harpsichord had a double back, and presently between the boards he found very old Bank of England notes, the total face value of which amounted to $150,000.

Medicine Bottles as Gods.

A lady missionary in Burma some time ago gave the following account of how she was the innocent cause of the worship of medicine bottles having been instituted. In one of her tours she came upon a village where cholera was raging. Having with her a quantity of a famous pain killer, she went from house to house administering the remedy to those attacked and left a number of bottles to be used after she had gone.

Returning to the village some months subsequently she was met by the head man of the community, who cheered and delighted her by this intelligence: "Teacher, we have come over to your side. The medicine did us so much good that we have accepted your god."

Overjoyed at this news, she was conducted to the house of her informant, who, opening a room, showed her the pain killer bottles solemnly arranged in a row upon the shelf, and before them the whole company immediately prostrated themselves in worship.

Wearing Out the Nerves.

Many people wear themselves out needlessly. Their conscience is a tyrant. An exaggerated sense of duty, says the London Doctor, leads many a person to anxious, ceaseless activity, to be constantly doing something, overpunctual, never idle a second of time, scorn to rest. Such are in unconscious nerve tension. They say they have no time to rest, they have so much to do, not thinking they are rapidly unfitting themselves for probably what would have been their best and greatest work in after years. Self control of nerve force is the great lesson of health, and therefore of life itself. To understand how to relax is to understand how to strengthen nerves. Hearty laughter is a source of relaxation, as are also all high thoughts, as those of hope, beauty, trust or love. Relaxation is found in diversion.

Cramps are Like Burglars.

they come unexpected, and when they are least welcome. Be armed with a one minute cure for cramps and keep Polson's Nerviline handy; it acts instantaneously. Nerviline's anodyne power is unique, for its composition expresses the highest medical progress of the age. Polson's Nerviline is a true comfort in the family for in all dangerments of the stomach and bowels it is an absolute specific. Nerviline has five times greater medicinal value than any other remedy and is sold in large 25 cent bottles. Try it.

A Contractor.

"What does your father do?" asked the teacher of the new boy.

"He's a contractor," was the reply.

"A railway contractor?"

"No, ma'am; a sausage contractor. He ties up the ends after another man has filled them."

Different Methods.

"Whatever became of Lamb?"

"Oh, he played the markets and went broke."

"And Wolff, what became of him?"

"Oh, he worked the markets and got rich."—Puck.

COFFEE GRAINS.

Americans are the greatest coffee topers in the world.

One-half of the world's production of coffee berries comes to the United States.

Every week more than $1,000,000 is sent out of the United States in payment of coffee.

Last year Germany and France together only consumed half as much coffee as the United States.

The coffee grain is the seed of a pulpy fruit which resembles a cherry and is very sweet and palatable.

In Abyssinia the coffee plant grows wild in great profusion and derives its name from Kaffa, a district of that country.

The coffee plant is indigenous to Asia and Africa, but the greater part of the world's product now comes from the western hemisphere.

Most of our coffee comes from South and Central American countries. The rest comes from Porto Rico, Java and the Philippines, with a little from Hawaii.

The use of coffee as a beverage began in southern Arabia in the latter half of the fifteenth century. It was introduced into Constantinople in 1554 and into Venice in 1615.

As a Cure For Piles

Dr. Chase's Ointment Never Disappoints—It Has Won World-wide Fame on Account of its Magical Control Over the Most Severe Cases of Itching, Bleeding and Protruding Piles.

Doctors may tell you that nothing short of a surgical operation will cure piles. In this they are mistaken, as we can prove in a host of cases where Dr. Chase's Ointment has been used. It is not infrequent that people tell us that Dr. Chase's Ointment has succeeded in effecting a cure after operations had failed. There is too much risk in a surgical operation, too much suffering and too much expense. If you take the advice of scores and hundreds of your friends and neighbours, you will avoid operations, and resort to the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment. It will relieve you almost at once. It will thoroughly cure you in a remarkably short time.

Mr. J. Wolfe, Arnprior, Ontario, states:—"I have used Dr. Chase's Ointment for piles, and can assure the public that there was never anything on the market to equal it. I was disappointed time and time again when trying remedies for the ailment, and you can scarcely imagine my gratitude when I found that Dr. Chase's Ointment was an effective and thorough cure for this ailment. From the first application this magical ointment gave me relief, and a few boxes perfectly cured me. Since being cured of piles I always keep Dr. Chase's Ointment in the house and find it useful in scores of ways as a treatment for every form of itching skin, chafing and skin irritations."

Dr. Chase's Ointment is indeed useful in scores of ways, as Mr. Wolfe says, and people who once make the acquaintance of Dr. Chase's Ointment are loath to be without it in the house. For pimples, blackheads, eczema, salt rheum, chapped hands and face, chilblains and each and every form of raw, itching of chafed skin, it is an incomparable treatment. It is especially recommended as a cure for piles, because it is, so far as we know, the only actual and guaranteed cure for every form of this wretched and loathsome disease. 60 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. 11

No Cause For Care.

A Welsh editor had misspelled the name of a famous poet of Wales.

"Why do you spell Llywarch Hen's name Liwyarch?" asked a friend of the editor.

"Why? Does he object?" asked the editor.

"Object!" echoed the other. "Why, he has been dead 1,200 years."

"Oh, then, I don't care a toss," said the editor.

THAT AWFUL DEPRESSION

"I have proved Dr. Von Stan's Pineapple Tablets to be the only effective remedy for my dyspepsia. You may publish this that all sufferers from Indigestion and Dyspepsia may find the relief I did.

Snow From a Clear Sky.

The most wonderful snowstorms of all that may be seen every winter in the Adirondacks are those that prevail when the sky is cloudless. Of these there are several varieties. Every week or two we would see what looked like a fog form about the distant hills and then come drifting across the creek valley. Doubtless it was a real snow laden cloud that had been drifting along until it struck our level (1,200 feet above the sea) in the Adirondacks, when the conditions became favorable for the release of its feathery burden.

We saw these clouds fill the air with flakes that were driven along almost horizontally by a strong gale, although the tops of our old hemlocks and spruces rose into the clear air and unobstructed sunlight above the highest level of the snow producing air stratum. We even saw the snow so thick in the air about us that the trunks of trees six feet above the earth were not visible, although the treetops could be seen, and the sun shone down through the shallow storm with strength enough to cast distinct shadows.

We have stood on a quiet, sunlit hilltop and looked down into a valley less than 100 feet below us, where a snowstorm was raging with violence and the temperature was frigid.

IT SAVES EVEN AT THE ELEVENTH HOUR.

Paine's Celery Compound

Has Given a New Lease of Life To Men and Women Pronounced Incurable.

Life saving is a great and glorious undertaking, the most blessed and noble work that human skill can engage in.

Professor Edward E. Phelps, M.D., LL.D., the great and eminent physician when he devised his wonderful Paine's Celery Compound, gave mankind a health restorer that for many years people had earnestly desired and prayed for. The great doctor's study of the nervous system and diseases such as nervous debility, paralysis, neuralgia, rheumatism, liver and kidney troubles, led him on to his marvellous discovery. Paine's Celery Compound has been tested by physicians and has never failed to meet their expectations. It has cured desperate cases at the eleventh hour and has brought joy and gladness to many a home.

If you are still struggling with disease and sickness, dear reader, give this best of medicines a trial at once; it will, we assure you, fully meet your case

A Man In the House.

There is a young criminal lawyer in Memphis, Tenn., who on the occasion of his becoming of age began the celebration of his birthday in a way that caused his household a great deal of consternation.

On the eve of the fete, shortly after midnight, the young man's family were suddenly startled from their slumbers by a loud voice in the house calling: "There's a man in the house! There's a man in the house!"

The valiant pater familias rushed from his room, bearing in his hands a heavy billet of firewood, to learn the cause of the disturbance and to capture the intruder. His son was standing in the hall, shouting at the top of his voice.

"Where's the man?" exclaimed the old gentleman.

"Here, sir; here!" proudly replied the young man. "This is he. At last I'm twenty-one!"

$500 Reward

will be paid by Merrill the druggist, Brantford, to any firm who can produce more testimonials for a cough and cold cure than he can for his celebrated Four T's which cures coughs and colds in 24 hours. One quarter million bottles sold in five years proves it the best lung remedy made. Sold in 25c bottles at Ormond & Walsh's drug store.

Piper Legends.

The Wends, who, we believe, are the ancestors of the modern Prussians, are the center of many legends. The Pied Piper of Hamelin was a Wend; so also was the piper of the Hars mountains, who appeared so many days a year and played unearthly tunes and whosoever heard at once fell into a frenzy, from which there was no escaping. All these pied and weird pipers assembled once a year at the Brocken, where there was a general carnival, the arch fiend leading the concert on a violin, witches rolling around and fiddling on the skulls of horses and the pipers adding the concert of their unholy instruments.

Twenty Years of Bronchitis.

Captain Dunlop, of Kingston, commander of the steamer "Bohemian," of the R. & O. Fleet, suffered unceasingly for twenty years, and although he took treatment all that time permanent relief was not obtained until he took Catarrhosone, which cured him quickly and permanently. The Captain says that Catarrhosone is the best cure for bronchitis on the face of the earth, pleasant to use, quick to relieve and sure to cure." Catarrhosone is a wonderful treatment for all diseases of the Throat, Lungs and Bronchial Tubes. Two months' treatment price $1; small size, 25 cents. Druggists, or Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

The Champion Thin Man.

A knot of men was gathered in the smoking room at the club the other evening. All ordinary topics had been exhausted, and they finally entered upon a contest to see who could tell the most remarkable story about the fat men or the lean men they had seen. A veritable Ananias was awarded first prize without a dissenting voice when he asserted that he had met in his travels a man so thin that he could "go through a flute without striking a note."

FRANKS OF CUPID.

Some Celebrated Men Who Married Their Domestic Servants.

Many celebrated men have married their domestic servants. Sir Henry Parkes, premier of New South Wales, is an example. One night when dining at a friend's house he was struck by the appearance of a servant girl who waited upon the table and persuaded his host to allow her to enter his employ. This she did and for a short time held the position of cook in Sir Henry's household. Then he made her Lady Parkes.

But more illustrious than this is the case of Peter the Great. One day he was dining at the house of Prince Menshikoff. He noticed one of the servant maids particularly, and, though she was not handsome, she caught his fancy. Her name, the prince told the czar, was Martha. She had been a servant in the house of a Lutheran minister of Marienburg, and when that city was captured by the troops of Russia she had been taken prisoner by General Bauer, who had passed her over to the prince, whose servant she was. The count politely made a present of her to the czar, who eventually married her.

William Cobbett, the great writer, when he was only twenty-one years of age one morning chanced to see a buxom servant girl busily engaged in washing the family linen. The girl was pretty, so Cobbett spoke to her, learned her name and the same evening called upon her parents and said he would like to marry their daughter. The parents of the girl informed the young man that they had no objections to him as their son-in-law, but that he would have to wait until their daughter was of a marriageable age. Five years later Cobbett, true to his early love, married her.

Southey on Wordsworth.

Of Wordsworth, Southey writes in 1808, says Harold S. Scott in The Atlantic: "He has written a masterly poem called 'The White Doe of Rilston Hall; or, The Fate of the Nortons.' The poem is incomparably fine. It would amuse you to hear how he talks of his own production. His entire and intense selfishness exceeds anything you could have conceived. I am more amused at it than offended; not being sufficiently attached to him to feel pain at perceiving his faults, and yet respecting him far too much on the average of his qualities to be disgusted. It is so pure and unmixed a passion in him that Ben Jonson would have had him in a play had he been his contemporary."

"Dry as Statistics."

It is fairly obvious that the study of statistics is not exactly what would be termed a popular pastime, says Winthrop M. Daniels in The Atlantic. Librarians do not discover any extensive demand for statistical literature. Sir John Lubbock, if I remember rightly, found no place for a single volume of figures in his hundred best books, and in that flood of articles on "Books That Have Helped Me, by Authors Great and Authors Small," the same significant silence seemed to be maintained. There were some very curious books that had apparently proved helpful to certain persons, but there was unbroken testimony of a negative kind that nobody had ever been helped by a blue book.

To say of anything "as dry as statistics" is at once to consign it to the nethermost limbo of aridity. Such is the verdict upon the finished statistical product. As for the methods employed in constructing such tables—weighted averages, index numbers or curves of error—these to the wayfaring men are hidden and ingenious refinements of cruelty, to be avoided at all hazards or at least forgotten with a shudder and a prayer.

How He Fooled the Dog.

A gentleman who is fond of studying wild animals in their natural surroundings once had an opportunity of seeing for himself an example of the cunning for which the fox has become proverbial.

As he was standing near the bank of a river one winter day, he saw a fox run out upon the ice and make straight for a hole. At the edge of the opening he stopped, turned, followed his tracks back to the bank, ran down the stream and paused to await developments.

In a little while a dog came tearing out of the woods, with his nose close to the ice and snow. He ran along the ice with his head down, following the scent until he reached the opening. It was then too late to check his speed. He plunged into the water and was lost under the ice.

The fox meantime had waited in plain sight to watch the effect of his little trick. After the dog came into view the fox remained perfectly motionless until he saw his old enemy disappear. Then, with a look on his face which seemed to combine a good natured grin with a mild contempt, he went nonchalantly off about his business.

A Curious Palm of South America.

One of the most curious palms in the world is called the ita and is very abundant on the banks of the Amazon, Rio Negro and Orinoco rivers. In the delta of the latter it occupies swampy tracts, which are at times completely inundated and present the appearance of forests rising out of the water. The swamps are inhabited by a tribe of Indians called Guaranes, who subsist almost entirely upon the produce of the tree. During the annual floods they suspend their houses from tops of the tall stems of the palms. The outer skin of the young leaves is made into cords for hammocks, and the soft inner bark yields a nutritious farinaceous substance.

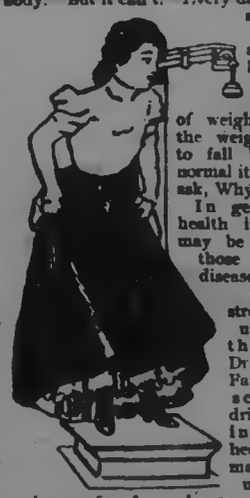
WOMAN'S WEIGH

Does not always keep pace with woman's will. There are energetic, home-loving women who by sheer force of will keep themselves going, and fancy that strength of will can take the place of strength of body. But it can't. Every day will see a loss of strength, and that loss will be indicated by a loss of weight. When the weight begins to fall below the normal it is time to ask, Why?



In general, ill health in women may be traced to those womanly diseases which sap the strength and undermine the vitality. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription dries enfeebling drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. Where the disease is marked by loss of flesh, there is a steady regaining of weight coincident with the cure which proves the renewal of health to be thorough and permanent.

"Three years ago," writes Mrs. John Graham, of 2018 Plumb Street (Frankford), Philadelphia, Penna. "I had a very bad attack of dropsy which left me with heart trouble, and also a very weak back. At times I was so bad that I did not know what to do with myself. I came to Philadelphia two years ago, and picking up one of your little books one day began to read what your 'Favorite Prescription' had done for others. I determined to try it myself. I took seven bottles, and to-day I am a strong, well woman, weighing 166 pounds. Have gained 29 pounds since I started to use your 'Favorite Prescription.'"

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cleanse the bowels and stimulate the sluggish liver.

EVENING GOWNS.

Leaf and Flower Designs Ornament the Richest of Them.

Handsome gowns are made of white and black mousseline de soie. A favorite way of trimming the white gowns consists of stamping them with floral designs. These designs are outlined with silver spangles, and the inner shading is done with washes of gray water color. This gives a very shimmering and dainty effect. A gown recently made by Worth for Minnie Maddern Fiske carried out this idea. It was relieved by touches of turquoise blue liberty satin.

The beautiful evening gown in the illustration is made of sheer white all over lace. It has two linings, the upper one of mousseline and the under one of taffeta. The skirt and waist are covered with leaf applications of black mousseline outlined by silver spangles. The stems joining these leaves are also of silver spangles. Here and there is placed a fluffy pale yellow rose made out of chiffon, with a flower center. The belt is of folded panne. The sleeves reach to the elbow and consist of two small shoulder capes, into which are gathered soft transparent puffs of mousseline. JUDIC CHOLLET.

Celt and Saxon.

One of Sheridan's tales was of an Irishman who met a Briton, of the true John Bull pattern, standing with folded arms in a contemplative mood, apparently meditating on the greatness of his little island.

"Allow me to differ with ye!" exclaimed the Celt.

"But I have said nothing, sir," replied John Bull.

"And a man may think a lie as well as publish it," persisted the pugnacious Hibernian.

"Perhaps you are looking for fight?" queried the Briton.

"Allow me to compliment ye on the quickness of yer perception," said Patrick, throwing down his coat, and then they pitched in.

A Curious Indian Custom.

In the original settlements in British Columbia a peculiar institution occasioned gala times for the red men now and then. This was the "potlatch," a thing to us so foreign, even in the impulse of which it is begotten, that we have no word or phrase to give its meaning. It is a feast and merrymaking at the expense of some man who has earned or saved what he deems considerable wealth, and who desires to distribute every iota of it at once in edibles and drinkables among the people of his tribe or village. He does this because he aspires to a chieftainship or merely for the credit of a "potlatch," a high distinction. Indians have been known to throw away such a sum of money that their "potlatch" has been given in a huge shed built for the feast, and blankets and ornaments have been distributed in addition to the feast.

Something About Faith Cures.

What a great variety of faith cures there must be, some have faith in so-called divine healers, others in certain doctors and still others in the medicines they use. Every person who has tested Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills has faith in them, but faith or no faith they cure just the same, for they act directly and specifically on the kidneys, liver and bowels, and make these organs healthy, active and vigorous. Judging from the enormous demand for these Pills there must be hosts of people that have faith in them.

A Table Decoration.

At a banquet given recently in Paris by a French countess the guests received a most astounding surprise. In the center of the table was what appeared to be a huge pile of roses, and just before soup was served the roses parted, disclosing a large birdcage. This suddenly opened, revealing a beautiful young lady adorned with wings. She remained in her strange position during the dinner and introduced each new dish by singing a couplet.

A Great Increasing Army.

Composed of men and women that spend heart and soul in the vain effort to overcome a lack of vigour in the body. To replace inertia by vigour, to make good, red, blood, that will build up the system, to have strong nerves, you must eat more, assimilate more. How can it be done? By using Ferrozone. It invigorates, strengthens, possesses magical health giving powers. Get Ferrozone today and make yourself strong and well.

His Method.

The little girl who was visiting at a neighbor's house had gone out to look at the horses.

"Here's one of them," she said, "that has watery eyes and coughs and hangs his head just the way papa's horse did last summer."

"What did your papa do for his horse?" asked the owner of the animals.

"He sold him," was the innocent answer

The Grumpy Bachelor.

A wealthy gentleman who owns a country seat on one occasion nearly lost his wife, who fell into a river which flows through his estate. He announced the narrow escape to his friends, expecting their congratulations.

One of them—an old bachelor—wrote as follows: "I always told you that river was too shallow!"—Tit-Bits.

None Too Liberal.

"Mr. Linger spends a great deal of time with you, Molly," said Mr. Kittish to Miss Frocks.

"Yes, but that's all he does spend."

No man can be brave who considers pain the greatest evil of life or temperate who regards pleasure as the highest good.

HOPE ABANDONED.

Survey Ship Egeria Brought Back Warship Wreckage But Did Not Find the Missing Condor.

Victoria, B.C., Feb. 12.—All hope for the missing sloop of war Condor which left here Dec. 2, just before the big storm, which wrecked the Collier Matteawan off Cape Flattery, and which had not arrived at Honolulu at the last reports from the islands, was abandoned with the arrival of the survey ship Egeria from a trip along the west coast of Vancouver Island this afternoon.

The Egeria went as far north as the Scott Islands, off the north end of Vancouver Island. At Clayquot on the west coast, her officers found wreckage from the Condor, which shows that she must have gone down or was smashed to pieces by heavy seas.

This wreckage included a deck grating marked with the broad arrow of the British navy, a signal box recognized as one from a British warship, sheathing and part of a top mast. It is hardly probable that the ship could have withstood a storm which would wash these articles from her deck.

The Condor was a sloop of 980 tons, indicated horse power 1,400, speed 13 knots. Her officers were: Commander, Clifton Slater; lieutenants, B. Mason (navigation), and Henry V. F. Proctor; surgeon, T. S. Hartley; assistant paymaster in charge, William H. Franklin; certificated engineer, George J. Detten; engineer, D. A. Burns.

Commander Slater's wife is living in Victoria, B.C.

The crew numbered 130 officers and men.

DR. MUELLER'S MISSION.

Entrusted With a Letter From Kruger to Roosevelt.

Brussels, Feb. 12.—Dr. Mueller, who is on his way to New York with despatches from the Boer delegates in Europe to President Roosevelt, is entrusted with a letter from Mr. Kruger to President Roosevelt. After a discussion, in which the opinion of the Boer delegates was considerably divided, Mr. Kruger and Dr. Leyds convinced the others that it was not wise, in view of the reply of the British Foreign Minister, Lord Lansdowne, to the note of the Netherlands, on the subject of peace in South Africa, to make overtures to Great Britain regarding obtaining permission to open telegraphic communication with the Boer leaders in the field.

PATRIOTS IN SYDNEY.

Six Thousand Persons Express Confidence in Great Britain.

London, Feb. 12.—A despatch to The Times from Sydney says a great patriotic demonstration took place in the Town Hall of that city Monday. The Mayor presided, and prominent New South Wales politicians were among the speakers. Six thousand persons were present.

Amid tremendous enthusiasm resolutions expressing confidence in the British Government's conduct of the South African war and in Lord Kitchener, and depreciating the slanders upon the British troops, were unanimously passed. The meeting expressed the sentiment that the colonies should stand shoulder to shoulder with the empire in the hour of need.

TOLSTOI DYING.

Aged Russian Socialist Said to Be Near the End.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 12.—Count Leo Tolstoi has suffered a relapse and is dying.

Col. Steele Makes Suggestions.

London, Feb. 12.—Lord Strathcona has received a letter from Col. Steele, who is in command of a division of the South African Constabulary. In this letter Col. Steele states that there will be a great opening in South Africa for Canadian trade. This is especially the case, he says, in regard to flour and lumber. The supplies of the former are not very good, as compared with the quality of Canadian flour, and lumber is scarce and dear.

NEW CATTLE MARKET.

The Union Stocks Yards Company, Limited, are affecting a great transformation in that section of Toronto Junction immediately north of the C. P.R. and west of Keele street. They have acquired about a hundred acres of land, upon which are some sixty houses, brick, roughcast and frame. Already several houses have been transplanted and the sites formerly occupied by them covered by new cattle pens.

The importance to the agricultural interest and to dealers and butchers of suitable stock yards, with all the conveniences for feeding, exhibiting and selling live stock, cannot be overestimated. Suitable stock yards, with modern equipment, as surely as owners and breeders recognize the advantages they offer, attract around them kindred industries, such as abatoirs, packing-houses and the industries which depend upon the by-products of the abatoir for their raw material.

The company have secured a franchise, which covers exemption from taxes for thirty years on 100 acres of land and all buildings erected by the company, or by any third party engaged in the meat trade or other kindred industries that may be established upon the land. The location of the yards in Toronto Junction is looked upon with great satisfaction by the people of the town and vicinity, who realize that such an undertaking as that which the Union Stock Yards Company have commenced will do much to centralize the trade there, and by providing a constant market for stock of all kinds, will assist greatly in expanding the already large cattle-raising industry in Ontario. The shareholders, having before them the object lesson afforded by similar enterprises elsewhere, look forward with confidence to handsome returns from their investment.

Peterborough was perhaps slow in not making an effort to have stock yards of this description established here. There is perhaps no better place in Ontario than Peterborough for an enterprise of the kind, as excellent facilities are offered in the form of railroads, waterways, etc. Peterborough has missed an opportunity not offered to many, and there is reason to believe that the Toronto Junction people will never regret their undertaking.

THE SOLDIER AND HIS POT.

Fulham, Eng.

Dear Sirs,—

The pot of Kelpion issued in our C. I. V. kit, was one of the few things we took from Cape Town to the front with us.

It was very useful, indeed one of the finest and quickest remedies for cuts, sprains, skin diseases, wounds and bruises.

Your Kelpion surprised every one who used it for the way it cured veldt sores, and it ought to command a large sale in South Africa, if advertised for that reason.

I have heard praises from all C. I. V's, and Regulars, who used it, and I guarantee that every C.I.V. will recommend it.

LAKEFIELD.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Mr. Bravender, one of the directors of the Lakefield Portland Cement Co., who has been in the village for a couple of weeks, returned to his home in Warner's, New York, on Saturday last.

Mr. T. Aubrey Kilbourn took a trip to Toronto on Thursday to meet his parents who were on their way to New York, from where they will sail for the Holy Land.

Mr. John Dinwoodie has returned from Campbellford, where he has been visiting his brother for a couple of weeks.

The Craig House was the scene of quite an exciting incident the other night, when owing to a defect in the electric light wiring, some of the decorations in the dining room took fire, and fell on the table, setting fire to the table, and a couple of chairs. Had it not been for the timely arrival on the scene of some of the ladies of the house, who raised an alarm, a very serious fire would have resulted.

Mrs. Sedgwick of Ashburnham, who has been visiting Mrs. H. G. Fitzgerald, has returned home.

HEART FAILURE.

The Great Number of Cases of Sudden Death from this Cause, makes the following Story of the Greatest Importance.

How often are these awful words, "Heart Failure" spoken or written in explanation of a sudden and unexpected death!

There are many, who although still alive, are hanging over the brink of the grave every moment. The slightest reason may in the twinkling of an eye bring their lives to a sudden stop.

Much of the palpitation and other forms of Heart Trouble is caused directly by the Stomach, and the following letter explains one man's painful predicament in this way and how he was cured.

Mr. A. D. Miller of Wilberforce, Ont., writes.

"For four years previously to the summer of 1900, I had been troubled with Dyspepsia and Indigestion. During the summer of 1900, my doctor treated me for Liver Complaint, but instead of getting better I was gradually growing worse.

"My appetite was very irregular and I would bloat very much after eating. I also had palpitation of the heart, and sometimes my heart was so bad that I could not sleep at night at all on account of its beating so hard.

"I was very much run down and so very weak, in fact I was hardly able to get around.

"I heard of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets and began to use them, and before I had used half a box I was greatly improved.

"I continued and in a very short time was completely cured. I was well and felt like a new man. My heart trouble disappeared altogether and I have not had the slightest trace of it since."

Mr. Miller was cured to stay cured. He didn't get sick again when he stopped using Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets for they had cured him completely and permanently. Much of the Heart Failure is caused by bad stomach action.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets cure all forms of stomach troubles.

THE ACT OF MANITOBA

A Referendum on Premier Ross' Prohibition Bill.

THE NUMBER OF VOTES TO CARRY

A Majority of the Number Cast at the Coming Provincial General Elections Required—Vote To Be Taken October 14 Next—Act Will Become Operative If Carried on May 1, 1904.

Toronto, Feb. 12.—There was a great rush to the Parliament Buildings this afternoon, caused by the announcement that the Premier would introduce his Prohibition bill. All the available space in the galleries was occupied long before three o'clock and a large number were accommodated with seats on the floor of the House. A considerable number of potitions in favor of a prohibitory law were presented.

A number of bills were introduced, including measures to amend the Municipal Act by Messrs. Carscallen, Russell, Smith, Auld, Crawford and Hill, to amend the Division Court Act by Mr. Barr, and bills to amend the Public Parks Act, Public Libraries Act, Election Act, Manhood Suffrage Registration Act and Assessment Act by Mr. Carscallen.

The Prohibition Bill.

Hon. G. W. Ross introduced his Prohibition Bill under the title of "The Liquor Act, 1902." He alluded to the long continued agitation and discussion regarding license legislation and the tendency to increase restrictions on the sale of liquor, the effect of which had been to reduce materially the number of places in which liquor was sold. Before the passage of the Crooks Act in 1875, there were in all 6,185 places in which liquor was sold, while last year there were only 2,950. In 1875 there was one license to every 278 persons, now there was only one to every 700. He pointed out that in 141 municipalities there was no licensed place for the sale of liquor, while 435 had only one license in each. The result of the system of stringent restriction was that Ontario was the most temperate province in the Dominion, as the statistics showed. The high water mark of license legislation was reached in 1897. While the improvement of that law was under consideration they were met with Prohibition in Manitoba and a strong agitation for similar action here. The point to consider was whether they would go on in improving the license system or introduce Prohibition as far as lay in their power. The Government proposed to introduce a bill in the terms of the Manitoba Act and then to submit it to the people to say whether it should come into force.

The Constitutional Question.

The proposed action of the Government in referring the matter to the people had been criticized, but as a matter of fact Prohibition had never been regarded as a party question. For 30 years Prohibition had been before the people, but neither party had chosen to present it as a party issue. They were now presenting it as a great question, so important as to overshadow party issues, and to submit it to the best thought of the people without regard to their political affiliations and he thought they would get a better considered and a more judicial decision in that matter than in any other way. The bill might be quoted as a precedent for the referendum and he was fully aware of the responsibility of introducing it. He had asked Sir John Bourinot, as a constitutional authority, whether it was a constitutional proceeding and had received a memorandum from him which he would read. The document referred to the plebescite, the submission of bylaws, etc. to the popular vote and held that a statute might constitutionally be conditional, that is to say, it might be made to depend upon a future event. Sir John quoted the new constitution of Australia, showing that the referendum was recognized there in the case of a dead-lock between the Upper and Lower Houses. That constitution had been recognized by the Imperial authorities. If the principle was unconstitutional the British Parliament would not have authorized it in the case of Australia. The opinion of Sir John Bourinot was that the Government was acting within its rights and in a perfectly constitutional manner in passing a bill subject to the referendum. The opinion of the Privy Council in the Queen vs. Hodge was that the Legislature had plenary power within constitutional limits, as fully as the British Parliament. No one would doubt that that body had full power to pass an act subject to popular vote if they saw fit. He quoted other authorities to show that conditional legislation was within the powers of the House. Sir John Thompson, speaking as to the Prohibition plebescite, which he strongly opposed, said: "I have no doubt that we can change and mould our constitution in that respect as we please." Hon. David Mills, Sir John Macdonald, Sir Mackenzie Bowell and others had fully accepted the constitutionality of the principle of the referendum. It was not well to stickle too strongly for precedent. We should act in the living present and not be content to be in leading-strings forever, or be guided by hands that had long ago mouldered into dust. Lord Salisbury had pronounced strongly in favor of the referendum. The Ontario Legislature being a single chamber it was their duty to see that in questions like this, involving strong feeling, there was some way of ascertaining the sober second thought of the people. The referendum had been accepted as a plank of the Conservative party in England. It had the advantage of disentangling the issues and presenting a question on its own merits. Miss Frances Willard had expressed herself strongly in favor of direct legislation and Dr. Lyman Abbott had praised it as the highest form of democracy. By way of precedence he quoted a number of questions which had been decided in Australia by the referendum. In the United States every constitutional amendment and various other matters were referred to the people. In our own province we had the referendum in the Dunkin and Scott Acts, as well as in many municipal matters. Even in England the principle was recognized in connection with temperance legislation.

HON. G. W. ROSS.

The Majority Required.

As to the proportion of the vote required to make the referendum operative they had the example of the U.S. in prohibitory matters and the McCarthy Act in favor of a three-fifths majority. He quoted the opinion of Hon. Alex. Vidal, and other well-known temperance leaders, to the effect that there should be a strong preponderating majority for the enactment. This was also Hon. Alex. Mackenzie's view. Sir Leonard Tilley, an eminent temperance worker, also favored a three-fifths vote because a law passed by a bare majority would be incapable of enforcement and would only injure the temperance cause. The sentiment in favor of a prohibitory law should be so preponderating as to give it efficiency and vitality. The Dunkin Act was now in force in only 3 municipalities and the Scott Act once largely adopted had been discarded as ineffective. In the United States Prohibition had been in force in 16 states. Now it was in operation only in eleven. Steady progress was better than a furious onslaught resulting in a reaction. He disclaimed having originated the referendum as a means of escaping a difficulty. It was proposed in the Senate by Hon. Alex. Vidal in 1875, and was approved by a large temperance convention held that year. The proposal was advocated by the Dominion Alliance in 1890. The action of the Alliance was a pretty good answer to the charge of shirking their responsibility. He reviewed the course of the Government in pledging themselves to give such measure of prohibition as came within their power. It would be unworthy of him to attempt to explain away the force of the pledge given by Sir Oliver Mowat in 1894. The public understood the Government to mean that if partial prohibition was sustained in Manitoba the same would be given in Ontario. In fulfilment of this pledge he introduced the bill, assuming a measure of responsibility to the promises that Sir Oliver Mowat made. They were asking the country whether such a public sentiment existed as would make a Prohibition bill effective. The referendum would be based upon the parliamentary franchise. He was disposed to favor very strongly requiring a majority of the whole number entitled to vote, but there were objections, as there were deaths and unavailable absentees to be considered. The law should have something stronger at its back than the Scott Act. They had, after considering other propositions, finally fixed upon requiring a majority of the number of the electors who cast their votes at the coming Provincial elections. It had been represented that a bare majority should suffice, but experience had shown that something more was required. It was proposed to hold the election on the second Tuesday in October. It would be held separate from other elections. A temperance man who would grudge the time lost in voting for prohibition would be little use in enforcing prohibition. In cases where elections went by acclamation the average percentage cast in the Province would be taken as that of the constituencies. The bill did not provide for compensation, but it was a question which might have to be considered in the future were the bill adopted. He hoped the bill would conduce to the moral elevation of the people. (Applause.)

Mr. Whitney asked when the bill would come up for a second reading.

Hon. G. W. Ross replied that it would come on inside of a week.

After Recess.

Mr. Garrow's bill respecting the town of Goderich, Mr. Hill's bill respecting the County of York, and Mr. McKee's bill respecting the Windsor, Essex and Lake Shore Rapid Railway Co., were read a second time.

The following bills were read a third time. Respecting the Town of Dresden, Mr. Lee; respecting the London Street Railway, Mr. Leys, and to amend the act incorporating the Haliburton, Whitney and Mattawa Railway Co., Mr. Pyne.

Mr. McLaughlin's bill to amend the Municipal Drainage Act was withdrawn at the request of the Attorney-General, who said that it was a question coming within the jurisdiction of the Dominion Railway Committee.

The following bills received second readings: To amend the Assessment Act, Mr. Pyne; to amend the Municipal Act, Mr. Brown; to amend the Toll Roads Expropriation Act, Mr. Leys; to amend the Municipal Act, Mr. Leys; to amend the Agricultural and Arts Act, Mr. Dryden; to amend the Devolution of Estates Act, Mr. Gibson.

On motion of Hon. R. Harcourt, who explained that the measure provided for the grouping of school sections in certain cases, the bill to amend the Public Schools Act was read a second time.

Mr. Garrow in moving the second reading of his bill respecting expert witnesses, said that the engagement of expert witnesses had become a scandal in the administration of justice. The bill proposed to limit the number of such witnesses called in civil cases.

Mr. Whitney expressed himself as heartily in accord with the bill.

Hon. J. M. Gibson said that in all probability the Dominion Parliament would take similar action to suppress the scandal in connection with criminal cases.

The House went into Committee of Supply and passed a number of items.

PROVISIONS OF THE ACT.

The Manitoba Act prohibits, briefly, the sale of liquor within the province, except by licensed druggists, the keeping of liquor, except in private dwelling houses; exception being made for its use for mechanical, medicinal or church purposes.

The word "liquor" includes all fermented, spiritous and malt liquors, and all combinations of liquors, and all drinks and drinkable liquids which are intoxicating.

Carroll's Re-Election.

Ottawa, Feb. 12.—The nomination in Kamouraska will take place on Feb. 28, and the election on March 7. There is no likelihood of Mr. Carroll, the new Solicitor-General, being opposed.

PAYING FOR THE WAR.

Granted that the Boer war will cost £250,000,000, the British papers are now figuring out who pays the shot. The war is being paid for partly out of the revenue for the year, partly out of the proceeds of loans. Of course the taxpayer will have to liquidate the loans or go on forever paying interest on them, which amounts to the same thing, so far as his pocket is concerned. The liquor drinkers will pay the largest sum, viz., £79,250,000, or nearly one-third. The income taxpayers will contribute £32,500,000. Dead men, in the way of estate duty, succession duty and legacy duty, will pay £32,500,000. Tobacco users follow next with £25,000,000. Tea drinkers will put up £12,800,000, and sugar eaters £9,775,000. The people who write letters, send postal and money orders, despatch telegrams and send newspapers, books and parcels through the post will pay £7,250,000 towards the war expenses. The miscellaneous crowd of people who pay stamp duty will pay among them £5,000,000 towards the cost. Then there is the payer of land tax and house duty. The whole group of these taxpayers will give a sum of £4,825,000 towards paying for the war. Coffee, chocolate and cocoa drinkers will contribute £750,000. Even the eaters of plum and other puddings will help by paying the customs duty on currants and raisins. Their share of the expense will be £500,000. The total of these contributions amounts to £230,550,000, leaving a deficit of ten and a half millions. This will be met by the rent of the Crown lands, the interest on Suez canal shares, the profits of the Mint, the duty on figs, plums, chicory and railway tickets, and many small receipts, such as conscience money, Bank of England payments, the Naval prize fund, and the contributions from India and Cape Colony.

PROHIBITORY LEGISLATION.

Prohibitory, or any other kind of legislation, must become a dead letter if not properly supported by public opinion, and the effect of its adoption is to be injurious, rather than helpful, to the cause of temperance. Considering this fact, as well as the limited nature of prohibition which it is possible for the provinces to enact, it seems a most fair proposition to ask that 50 per cent. of the voters be in favour of prohibition as a condition of putting the Manitoba Act in operation.

Sir Leonard Tilley and Hon. George Foster are both on record as stating that emphatic mandates were a prerequisite to the reasonable enforcement of prohibition, while more recently we have the following expression of opinion from leading Toronto clergymen:

Principal Caven. No one, it seems to me, who adequately weighs all that is involved, would wish to have such legislation adopted on a bare majority vote. I am quite aware that in making any definite proportion of votes necessary to validate legislation, there will always appear to be something arbitrary, but it is essential that legislation of the character in question should be sustained by such strength of public opinion as to render its enforcement both possible and morally salutary. I should greatly doubt the wisdom of making less than three-fifths of the votes polled necessary to the adoption of the measure. Should four-fifths of the possible vote be polled in the referendum, this, measured by the vote in ordinary provincial elections, would be counted large. Three-fifths of such a vote would be less than half the possible vote. Were less than four-fifths of the whole votes recorded, all the more necessary that a bare majority should not give effect to the measure.

Chancellor O. C. S. Wallace: I am of the opinion that if only a bare majority of the people of Ontario should vote for prohibition it would be perilous to enact a prohibitory law — perilous to the morals of the province at large and perilous to the cause of prohibition.

Chancellor Burwash: I am quite sure that any law will fail which has not behind it the moral convictions of the majority of the people. At present I think the referendum should precede the action of the Legislature for two reasons, as a proof that we are ready for prohibition and for its educational effect as a part of our preparation. We have perhaps lost ground in the matter of temperance sentiment during the last two or three years. A woman like Mrs. Nation, to say nothing of milder forms of eccentricity, does immense harm to the cause of temperance. The referendum to be satisfactory should first of all call out a substantial vote, say two-thirds of all the voters, and then give us a clear majority of all the votes cast.

Principal Sheraton: It seems to me that the vote necessary should not be less than three-fourths. In the Dominion plebiscite, while there was a bare majority in favour of prohibition, that majority was in reality a minority, on account of the large number of voters who through indifference did not go to the polls.

Rev. John Potts, D. D.: Prohibitory legislation is not like any other kind of legislation, and is of the first importance that it be supported by a very decided public opinion. I would regard prohibitory legislation on a bare majority vote as demoralizing to the temperance cause in Ontario. In the event of a referendum, the highest interests of temperance would, in my judgment, be best served by requiring from sixty to seventy per cent. of the votes polled, as a condition of such legislation being made law.

Rev. Dr. Warden: I understand that by prohibition is meant the prohibition of the sale by retail, of intoxicating liquor in the province of Ontario. The manufacture is not to be affected, nor exportation, nor importation for private use. Under these circumstances, should the Government decide on a referendum, there ought in my judgment, to be in favour of prohibition at least two-thirds of the vote polled, and this two-thirds should constitute considerably more than 50 per cent. of the voters of the province. To be effective, a law must accord with the conscience of the people; otherwise its violation will almost certainly be winked at, and law itself be brought into disrepute.

For Singers and Speakers.

The New Remedy for Catarrh is Very Valuable.

A Grand Rapids gentleman who represents a prominent manufacturing concern and travels through central and southern Michigan, relates the following regarding the new catarrh cure he says:

"After suffering from catarrh of head, throat and stomach for several years, I heard of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets quite accidently and like everything else I immediately bought a package and was decidedly surprised at the immediate relief it afforded me and still more to find a complete cure after several weeks' use.

"I have a little son who sings in a boy's choir in one of our prominent churches, and he is greatly troubled with hoarseness and throat weakness, and on my return home from a trip I gave him a few of the tablets one Sunday morning when he had complained of hoarseness. He was delighted with their effect, removing all huskiness in a few minutes and making the voice clear and strong.

"As the tablets are very pleasant to the taste, I had no difficulty in persuading him to use them regularly.

"Our family physician told us they were an antiseptic preparation of undoubted merit and that he himself had no hesitation in using and recommending Stuart's Catarrh Tablets for any form of catarrh.

"I have since met many public speakers and professional singers who used them constantly. A prominent Detroit lawyer told me that Stuart's Catarrh Tablets kept his throat in fine shape during the most trying weather, and that he had long since discarded the use of cheap lozenges and troches on the advice of his physician that they contained so much tolu, potash and opium as to render their use a danger to health."

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets are large pleasant tasting lozenges composed of catarrhal antiseptics, like Red Gum, Blood Root, etc., and sold by druggists everywhere at 50 cents for full treatment.

They act upon the blood and mucous membrane and their composition and remarkable success has won the approval of physicians, as well as thousands of sufferers from nasal catarrh, throat troubles and catarrh of stomach.

Carefully Avoid Substitutes and Imitations.

At the present time the Diamond Dyes are the only package dyes absolutely guaranteed by the manufacturers. The great popularity of the Diamond Dyes has brought forth many imitations and vile deceptions in the shape of home package dyes. These imitations, cheaply produced, are sold by some dealers for the sake of the extra profit they bring, and many are urged to buy them. If you would avoid trouble and disaster, refuse these adulterated dyes when they are offered to you, and insist upon getting the Diamond Dyes.

The manufacturers of Diamond Dyes will be pleased to send post free to any address their Diamond Dye Mat and Rug Designs. If you are a lover of pretty room ornaments, write to The Wells & Richardson Co., Limited, 200 Mountain street, Montreal, P. Q.

Toronto, Feb. 12.—At a meeting yesterday afternoon of the Railway and Transportation Committee of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, which was presided over by Archibald Campbell, M.P., the proposal of the Halifax Board of Trade, that the Intercolonial Railway be handed over to the Canadian Pacific Railway was discussed at some length. The meeting came to no definite decision, but it was the general feeling that the transfer should not be made.

A SPLENDID CAREER

Lord Dufferin, the Eminent Diplomat, Has Passed Away.

STATESNAN DIED AT CLANDEBOYE

Sketch of His Brilliant Services to His Country—His Term of Office in Canada—The Great Diplomat Never Entirely Recovered From the Shock of His Son's Death and Financial Trouble.

London, Feb. 13.—The Marquis of Dufferin, former Governor-General of Canada, and who had filled many high diplomatic posts in the English service, died at 6.25 o'clock yesterday morning at his residence, Clandeboye, County Down, Ireland. Lord Dufferin had long been in ill-health. He passed away peacefully after a night of total unconsciousness.

Lord Dufferin never wholly recovered from the shock which he experienced as the result of the death of his son, Lord Ava, in South Africa, and the failure of the London and Globe Finance Corporation, Limited, and kindred companies, of which he was a director, completed his breakdown. With the exception of his youngest son, Lord Hamilton Temple Blackwood (who is with his regiment, the 9th Lancers, in South Africa), all the family were present at the deathbed. Lord Clandeboye, the eldest son, who is a clerk in the Foreign Office, and who married Florence, daughter of John H. Davis of New York, succeeds to the title.

The funeral of Lord Dufferin will be private. His remains will be buried in the graveyard at Clandeboye, Feb. 15.

The papers comment on Lord Dufferin's paltry pension of £1,700 yearly, which necessitated mixing up in city companies. The St. James Gazette says: "It is not a pleasant reflection, that, if the nation had acted with justice towards such a man as it has now lost, he might have been spared the humiliation which he brought upon himself in consequence of the circumstances in which he was left in the last days of his brilliant career."

Sketch of His Career.

Frederick Temple Blackwood, Marquis of Dufferin and Ava, P.C., K.P.G.C.B., G.C.S.I., G.C.M.G., G.C.I.E., D.C.L., LL.D., F.R.S., was born at Florence, Italy, in 1826. His father was Price, the fourth Baron of Dufferin and Clandeboye, and his mother the author of "The Irish Emigrant's Lament." He was educated at Eton and Christ Church, but left the university without taking a degree. In his 15th year he succeeded to the title on the death of his father. In 1850 he was created an English Baron, with the title of Clandeboye. In 1855 Lord John Russell went to Vienna as British plenipotentiary, and Lord Dufferin accompanied him as special attache. On his return he made an extensive yachting tour in northern seas, and gave his observations to the world in a series of papers, entitled "Letters From High Latitudes." These letters were graphic, forcible and brilliant, and the author proved that he had a seeing eye.

In 1860 Lord Dufferin was appointed commissioner to Syria on behalf of England. His path there was beset with difficulties, but so well did he acquit himself in the opinion of the government that on his return he was created a Knight Commander of the Bath. He moved the address in the House of Lords on the occasion of the death of the Prince Consort, and his speech on that occasion was remarkable for its eloquence. In 1860 he married Harriet Georgina, eldest daughter of the late Archibald Rowan Hamilton of County Down, Ireland, and in 1863 he was appointed Under-Secretary of State for India, and this position he held until 1866, when he was offered the Governorship of Bombay. He refused this offer, and instead accepted the Under-Secretaryship of the War Department. In 1868 he became Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, which position he retained until his appointment to the Governor-Generalship of Canada, on May 22, 1872.

He came to Canada with a name prominent in literature and with a reputation as an orator. He was no sooner settled at Rideau Hall than he set out to make himself familiar with the affairs of the country, and in a short while he was able to enter with a full knowledge and sympathy into all of them. In education and all other matters of public concern he took a deep interest, and visited every portion of the country with his wife. Returning to England after his term of office had expired in Canada, he was sent to Russia on a mission of much diplomatic importance, and here his suavity and tact stood him in excellent stead. He was subsequently in 1881 sent as Ambassador to Turkey, and in 1884 was made Viceroy of India. In 1889 he went as Ambassador to Italy, and in 1891 held a similar office to France, retiring in 1896. Lord Dufferin was Warden of the Cinque Ports and Constable of Dover Castle from 1891 to 1895, and Lord Rector of St. Andrew's University from 1901 to 1896.

BRITAIN AND JAPAN

Text of the Treaty Signed Between the Two Powers.

CHINA'S OFFICIALS IMPRESSED

The Alliance Agreement Recites That the Two Governments Were Solely Actuated by a Desire to Maintain the Status Quo—Regarded in Japan as an Offensive and Defensive Alliance.

London, Feb. 13.—Following is the text of the Anglo-Japan agreement, concluded between Lord Lansdowne and Baron Hayashi, the Japan Minister:

The Treaty.

"The Governments of Great Britain and Japan, actuated solely by a desire to maintain the status quo and the general peace in the extreme East, and being, moreover, especially interested in maintaining the independence and territorial integrity of the Empire of China and the Empire of Corea, and in securing equal opportunities in those countries for the commerce and industry of all nations, hereby agree as follows:

"Article 1.—The high contracting parties, having mutually recognized the independence of China and Corea, declare themselves entirely uninfluenced by any aggressive tendencies in either country, having in view, however, their special interests, of which those of Great Britain relate principally to China, while Japan, in addition to the interests she possesses in China, is interested in a peculiar degree, politically as well as commercially, in Corea. The high contracting parties recognize that it will be admissible for either of them to take such measures as may be indispensable in order to safeguard those interests if threatened either by the aggressive action of any other power or disturbances arising in China or Corea, and necessitating the intervention of either of the high contracting parties for protecting the lives or property of its subjects.

"Article 2.—If either Great Britain or Japan, in defence of their respective interests as above described, should become involved in war with another power, the other high contracting party will maintain strict neutrality and use its efforts to prevent other powers from joining in hostilities against its ally.

"Article 3.—If in the above event any other power or powers should join in hostilities against that ally the other high contracting party will come to its assistance and conduct the war in common and make peace in mutual agreement with it.

"Article 4.—The high contracting parties agree that neither of them will, without consulting the other, enter into separate arrangements with another power to the prejudice of the interests above described.

"Article 5.—Whenever in the opinion of either Great Britain or Japan the above-mentioned interests are in jeopardy, the two Governments will communicate with one another fully and frankly.

"Article 6.—The present agreement shall come into effect immediately after the date of its signature, and shall remain in force for five years from that date. In case neither of the high contracting parties should have notified, 12 months before the expiration of the said five years, of its intention of terminating it, it shall remain binding until the expiration of one year from the day on which either of the high contracting parties shall have denounced it, but if, when the date fixed for its expiration arrives, either ally is actually engaged war the alliance shall, ipso facto, continue until peace is concluded."

Equal Opportunities.

On Jan. 30, Lord Lansdowne forwarded the agreement to Sir Claude Macdonald, the British Minister at Tokio. In a long message he says the agreement is the outcome of the events of the past two years. He declares Japan and England believe that all nations should in China and the adjoining regions, as well as within the limits of the Chinese empire, be afforded equal opportunities for the development of their commerce and industry, and that peace should not only be restored, but should for the future be maintained. From the frequent exchanges of views which have taken place between the two Governments and from the discovery that their eastern policy was identical, it has resulted that each side has expressed a desire that their common policy find expression in an international policy of binding validity.

The despatch, after paraphrasing the objects and purposes of the agreement, continues:

"His Majesty's Government has been largely influenced in their decision to enter upon this important contract by the conviction that it contains no provision which can be regarded as an indication of aggressive or self-seeking tendencies in the regions to which it applied. It has been concluded purely as a measure of precaution, to be invoked, should occasion arise, in defence of important business interests. It in no way threatens the present position of legitimate interests of other powers. On the contrary, that part of it which renders liable to be called upon by the other for assistance can operate only when one of the allies finds himself obliged to go to war in defence of interests which are common to both, when the circumstances in which he has taken the step are such as to establish that the quarrel has not been of his own seeking, and when, being engaged in his own defence, he shall find himself threatened, not by a single power, but by a hostile coalition. His Majesty's Government trusts that the agreement may be found of mutual advantage to the two countries; that it will make for the preservation of peace, and that should peace unfortunately be broken, it will have the effect of restricting the area of hostilities."

Enthusiasm in Japan.

Yokohama, Feb. 12.—The Premier, Viscount Katsura, announced in the Diet to-day the signature of the Anglo-Japanese treaty, which is here regarded as being practically an offensive and defensive alliance. The news of the signing of the treaty has been received with enthusiasm throughout Japan.

Votes Manchurian Pact.

Pekin, Feb. 12.—The news of the signing of the Anglo-Japanese treaty of alliance became known to a few diplomats here to-day, and was an absolute surprise. The treaty is regarded as the most important made in Far Eastern politics of recent years. It is not doubted, among the diplomats here, that the new alliance will effectually veto the signing of the Manchurian treaty. The Chinese officials who were informed of the signing of the treaty expressed the greatest satisfaction. They said British prestige in the Far East had been given a tremendous advancement.

Malt Breakfast Food

The people of the Maritime Provinces, Quebec, Ontario, Manitoba, Northwest Territories and British Columbia, are now enjoying the blessings that flow from the use of Malt Breakfast Food. Users of oatmeal and other grain foods, have given up these starchy and indigestible products and have made Malt Breakfast Food their favourite breakfast dish. A well-known citizen of Victoria, B. C., writes as follows:

"Your Malt Breakfast Food before it was sold by grocers here, was strongly recommended to me by a relative in Ontario, who was using it every morning with great satisfaction. My wife introduced Malt Breakfast Food some two months ago. It has been of special benefit to my eldest daughter, whose appetite was becoming uncertain and weak. Malt Breakfast Food has strengthened her digestion and improved her health wonderfully. We have all benefitted from the use of Malt Breakfast Food, and would not think of giving it up. It is the best and most delightful of all breakfast foods." All live grocers.

OSHAWA MIRACLE INVESTIGATED.

A Sworn Statement of Facts Almost Beyond Belief.

The Toronto Mail and Empire Sends a Reporter to Oshawa—His Inquiries Result in Complete Verification of Original Story.

Very many startling stories of wonderful cures by Dodd's Kidney Pills have been published in these columns, and in other newspapers all over the country from time to time.

Every one has been so well authenticated as to leave little room for doubt, and yet the statements made and the cures reported, have, in many cases, been so nearly miraculous as to be almost beyond belief.

Recently The Mail and Empire of Toronto, and other papers, published a dispatch from Oshawa, in which it was said that a mechanic in the Oshawa Malleable Iron Works, had been cured of paralysis by Dodd's Kidney Pills, and that, after he had been absolutely helpless for four months, and had been given up by the physicians at the hospital in Toronto.

This was too much for many people to believe, and numerous demands were made on the paper in question for a verification or correction.

One correspondent signing himself "Medicus" in a letter to the Mail and Empire openly disputed the possibility of such a cure.

To get at the real facts a reporter was sent to Oshawa, and the result was a complete, and very satisfactory confirmation of the original despatch. To put the matter absolutely beyond question the following sworn statement was secured:

THE STATEMENT OF MR. BROWN.

In the fall of 1897 I was taken ill with what most of the doctors called paralysis, and others nervous prostration. It commenced with a stiffness and soreness in the calves of my legs and gradually increased till I could not move either of my arms or legs, having lost all power in them. I could not have raised my arms to my head to save my life. For over four months I could not stand or walk alone a single step. I doctored with all the local doctors, and then with a Bowmanville doctor. Each one gave me some different medicine, but the more I took the worse I got.

At last the Bowmanville doctor told me that nothing could be done for me unless I went to the hospital in Toronto where they might perhaps have some later treatment for paralysis which would fit my case. I went there toward the end of January, 1898, and remained under treatment in that institution for a little over four weeks. All was in vain, I got worse. Twelve doctors told me I could not recover, and that nothing could be done for me, so as I was getting worse every day, and there was no hope of their being able to help me in the least, I was removed to my home here. I was like a baby, unable to move.

At this extremity someone advised me to use Dodd's Kidney Pills, and my wife bought a box. We had not the least idea that they would help me, but like a drowning man I grasped at every straw. After I had used the first box the numbness began to leave my finger tips, and I felt a little better, and kept on using the pills. By two months time I could walk a little and shortly afterwards was able to go short distances without assistance.

The first time I went down town one of the doctors who had given me up saw me across the street, and not being able to believe his eyes, went to my brother Robert and asked, "Is that your brother Joe?" Robert told him that it was I, and he said in astonishment, "Well, I never expected to see him around again."

I used altogether twelve boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and by the first of May I was able to start to work again in the shop here, and I have never been sick or off work a day since, and that is over three and a half years ago.

I am glad of the opportunity to make this statement for I am sure that I owe my life, health and strength to work to that great remedy, Dodd's Kidney Pills.

(Signed,) Joseph Brown.

Sworn Confirmation.

CANADA,

To Wit:

I, Joseph Brown, of the Town of Oshawa, in the County of Ontario, and Province of Ontario,

Do solemnly declare that the above statement, signed by me, is absolutely true, and I make this solemn declaration, believing it to be true, and knowing that it is of the same force and effect as if made under oath, and by virtue of the Canada Evidence Act, 1893.

(Signed,) Joseph Brown.

Declared before me at the Town of Oshawa, in the County of Ontario, this 15th day of January, A.D., 1902.

J. F. Grierson. (Seal.)
A Notary Public.

This, therefore, is the true story in detail, of this most remarkable case. No room is left for doubt or dispute, and the original Oshawa despatch is confirmed in all its particulars.

If this is possible — and no one can now doubt it — then one can easily understand how any of the many wonderful cures reported have been accomplished by the same means, Dodd's Kidney Pills.

A Choice of Professions.

"If I had not been brought up a dean," says Dr. Hole of Rochester, "there are three other vocations I should have liked to have followed—master of a pack of hounds, head gardener in a large nursery or a bookseller. I think the last is the best office of the three."

MARRIED AT ALLANDALE.

Mr. Walter Dredge of Town Weds Miss Agnes Speir Yesterday Afternoon.

An interesting event took place at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, at the residence of Mr. Robert Spier, Allandale, when his daughter, Miss Agnes Elizabeth, was united in marriage to Mr. Walter Dredge, of town.

The interesting and pleasing ceremony was performed by Rev. J. P. Wilson, of the George street Methodist church, in the presence of a large number of invited guests. The bride was prettily costumed, and carried a large bouquet of flowers. She was attended by Miss Dredge, sister of the groom, who also carried a beautiful bouquet.

Mr. Alexander Spier, brother of the bride, performed the duties of best man.

After the ceremony the party sat down to a sumptuous wedding dinner, at the conclusion of which they received the congratulations of their friends.

The bride was the recipient of a large number of handsome presents, and is very popular amongst a wide circle of friends. The newly-married couple will take up their residence in Peterborough.

PRETTY HOME WEDDING.

Mr. Albert Atchison of Cavan United in Marriage to Miss Hattie M. Staples.

The residence of Mrs. Moffatt, No. 263 Hunter street, was the scene of a very pretty home marriage on the afternoon of the 12th inst. The principals were Mr. Albert Atchison of Cavan Township, and Miss Hattie Margaret Staples, sister of Mrs. Moffatt. The bride was supported by her youngest sister, Miss Effie Staples, of Apsley, and the bridegroom by his brother, Mr. W. J. Atchison.

The bride and bridesmaid were uniformly dressed in brown poplin, trimmed with blue silk and white lace, and each bore a rich bouquet.

The marriage was witnessed by a small company of near relatives and acquaintances of the families, whose handsome presents bore testimony to their esteem and good wishes.

The Rev. R. Macknight, B.A., of the Boys' School, was the officiating clergyman.

Mr. and Mrs. Atchison took the afternoon C.P.R. train for their home in Cavan.

FELL AND BROKE HIS NECK.

Former Peterborough Man Pitched Down Flight of Stairs.

A despatch from Cornwall says :

Cornwall, Ont., Feb. 10th. — On Saturday night, R. Way, C. E., an old man of 83 years, fell downstairs and broke his neck. He resided with his nephew, and was alone in the house with the latter's two children, aged 15 and 7 years. The younger child was preceding him on the stairway, when the old man suddenly fell to the floor. Death was instantaneous. Deceased was a prominent land surveyor on the Isle of Wight in his younger days. He was a bookkeeper in Peterborough for twenty years before coming to Cornwall. He was unmarried.

The deceased gentleman will be remembered by many old residents of Peterborough. He lived in the vicinity of Auburn for years, and was at one time a bookkeeper in the Auburn Woollen Mills.

REV. MR. McAMMOND.

The Perth Minister Could not Stand the Gossip and Resigned.

Perth, Feb. 12. — The citizens of this town were greatly surprised when it was announced that the Rev. Foster McAmmond, pastor of the Ashbury Methodist church, has resigned his position, and will not again enter the ministry. The unfortunate Syracuse affair of a few months ago, and the talk of gossippers, was the cause of his resignation. Mr. McAmmond was very popular, both with the members of his own congregation and those of other denominations. On Sunday evening he will preach his farewell sermon.

The attendance was very large and the services were conducted by Rev. J. G. Potter and Rev. D. O. Crossley, interment being in the Little Lake Cemetery. "DID YOU SEE THE OWL?"

A Beautiful Mottled one Secured by Mr. S. D. Carver.

For the past few weeks the farmers living in the vicinity of the Gravel Road have been greatly annoyed by the nocturnal visitations of an owl, which was fast depleting their hen-roosts in the most scientific manner. Mr. S. D. Carver, the other day observed a large white and black mottled owl fluttering around some corn shocks which had been left out in the fields. It was looking for mice, presumably, but all it got on this particular trip was a charge of No. 6 shot, which, however, failed to accomplish its mission. Mr. Carver knew that there were more ways of killing a dog than by hanging him, and prepared a trap by nailing a board on a post and placing a steel trap thereon with a mouse for bait. Both the mouse and the trap were firmly nailed to the board and subsequent events proved that the latter precaution was a wise one. The owl spotted the mouse last night and immediately swooped down upon it with the result that the trap nipped its leg. The trap was a strong one—guaranteed to hold a fox—and it was well that such was the case as the bird must have made desperate efforts to escape judging by the warped and twisted condition of the jaws. Mr. Carver walked out to the field and administered the coup-de-grace with a stick, and Mr. Hudson will mount the Bird. It measures four feet eight inches from tip to tip.

SPORTING PASTIMES.

HOCKEY.

If the team plays in Kingston to-morrow night the line-up will be the same as last night. If they do not go a practice will be held on Saturday night.

The Keene hockey team will drive over to Norwood on Friday evening play their return game in the semi-finals of the Trent Valley League series.

CURLIANA.

Winnipeg, Feb. 12.—Play in the fourteenth annual Winnipeg curling bonspeil began to-day with the New York Life Challenge competition, in which 112 rinks are entered. There were many exciting games. Chief interest centred in the contests in which Lindsay, Nelson and St. Paul rinks took part. Dunbar of St. Paul pulled out a good victory from Anderson of Winnipeg with his last stone. Flavelle of Lindsay played Hill of Sintalute and won by eight points. The Nelson rinks were pitted against strong opponents. Wilson lost to Cannon of Belmont by several points, and Rae of Nelson won from Rutledge by one point, an extra end being necessary to decide the winner. A rink from Duluth is expected to-morrow to swell the large number of visitors.

BASKET-BALL.

The date for the final game in the Basket-ball League Series has been set for Saturday night of this week, at nine o'clock sharp. As this is the last game of the series, and will decide the championship of the League, a good attendance is looked for. The teams competing are Nos. 1 and 2—Dunsford and Richardson—and the teams will line up as follows:

No. 1—Dunsford, Capt., McGrath, Brown, Finnie, Dodge.

No. 2—Richardson, Capt., McLennan, Froude, Dobbin, Campbell.

Referee—H. Ernest Ayers.

There will be a preliminary game at 8 o'clock on Saturday night between the drafting department of the Wm. Hamilton Mfg. Co., and the Brownies. Mr. Walter Maguire will referee the game.

MR. L. P. HEYD NOMINATED.

Unanimous Choice of the East Victoria Liberals.

An Excellent Convention at Fenelon Falls—Address by Hon. J.R. Stratton, Mr. Heyd. Mr. James Dickson and Others.

Fenelon Falls, Feb. 12.—An excellent convention called to nominate a Liberal candidate for the East Riding of Victoria, for the Local Legislature, assembled here to-day. The roads were very heavy but by 2 o'clock representatives from all portions of the constituency were present. The first business was the election of officers, when Mr. James Dickson, Fenelon Falls, was elected president, and Mr. E. Fitzgerald, Fenelon Falls, Secretary.

At the conclusion of the formal business the President asked the delegates to give the most earnest consideration to the selection of a candidate. He had heard the names of two local men mentioned but had had letters from them stating that they were not candidates, but would cordially support the nominee of the convention. At this point he mentioned the name of Mr. Louis F. Heyd, K.C., of Toronto, who had come up to address the meeting, and he thought it was the wish of the assembled delegates that Mr. Heyd should be the candidate. Mr. Heyd would give their expression of confidence proper consideration. He merely mentioned this, for no effort had been made to bring Mr. Heyd's name before the people up to this time, and the delegates would have to judge him for themselves. He announced that Mr. Heyd would address them, but before calling upon him, he would ask Hon. J. R. Stratton, Provincial Secretary in the Ross Administration, to speak.

Mr. Stratton is not a stranger to the people of the riding, and on rising to speak was received with rounds of applause. He dealt at some length with the progressive policy of the most progressive Government of the Dominion, and contrasted it with the reactionary tactics of the Opposition. In concluding his address he referred to Mr. Heyd, and assured the delegates that if they desired a local man who could win the constituency he had no advice to offer, but if they could unanimously unite on an outsider he would recommend to them Mr. Heyd, as a man who could win. (Cheers.) The matter was entirely in the hands of the delegates, and the Government would accept the decision of the convention. (Applause.)

Mr. Heyd in his opening remarks, thanked the delegates for the kindness of their reception, and assured them that no one would give them more cordial support for the candidate they would choose, than he would, no matter who the man might be. (Hear, hear.) He was a busy man, and the place where he had most friends was in Brantford, where he was born, and where he practised law for years. (Applause.) He was now practising law in Toronto. It was true that he had many friends in Brantford who desired him to represent South Brant, but as his brother, Mr. C. B. Heyd, was the member for South Brant in the House of Commons he thought that even though his friends pressed him it was better that their opponents could not raise the cry that both Houses were represented by one family, no matter how good they were. (Applause and cheers.) He was assured by members of the Government and other leading members of the party that they would welcome his services in the Legislature, and if in this capacity the electors of East Victoria desired him he would be a candidate at the next election, providing the convention he was addressing was absolutely unanimous in choosing him. (Applause.) Mr. Heyd next proceeded to deal with some of the questions of the day, and for nearly an hour kept the close attention of the audience. At the conclusion of his address he left the hall, and the chairman called for nominations.

Mr. John Austin of Kinmount, the Liberal candidate in 1898, spoke of past contests, and suggested that the nomination of Mr. Heyd be made by a standing vote, without a formal motion.

The next speaker was Mr. Henry Graham, who moved that the nomination be tendered to Louis F. Heyd, K. C., Toronto. This was seconded by Mr. John Maxwell and others. The chairman waited for a few minutes, but no other nomination was made, and he asked the meeting to express their wishes by a standing vote. This was heartily responded to by every man in the hall rising to his feet and giving three cheers for their choice, Mr. Heyd.

Mr. Heyd was then asked to return to the hall, and as he made his way to the platform he was congratulated on all sides. In acknowledging the honour done him he assured the meeting that he had the good-will of the Government, and with the co-operation of those who had just chosen him to be a candidate he carry the constituency. (Cheers.)

Short addresses were delivered by Mr. R. J. McLaughlin, Lindsay, and others, and one of the best conventions ever held in East Victoria concluded with cheers for the Government would carry the constituency. (Cheers.)

ANOTHER WIN FOR PETERBORO.

R. M. C. Team Defeated by 13 Goals to 1.

LOCALS PLAYED BRILLIANTLY.

The Visitors Were Big and Burly but Were not Fast Enough to Elude Their Checks.

The Royal Military College Cadets must be wondering yet as to what kind of a combination it was which they were "up against" last night, when they tackled the Peterborough Intermediates.

It was the first of the home and home games which were ordered to be played between the two teams in the Intermediate Semi-finals of the O. H. A., and the Cadets came to Peterborough with their laurels fresh upon them through having succeeded in winning both their games with the Queens II. team. Naturally they expected to get a piece of the game, but they never had a look in. Big and burly they were, with three six-footers figuring on the team, but it was no weight contest they were in but one requiring brains, speed, grit, stick-handling and the power to shoot quickly and accurately. In all of these requisites the visitors were clearly out-classed by the home team. Not that the game was without interest for on the contrary it abounded in fast, pretty plays, but the big fellows could never get away from their checks far enough to be able to risk trying to pass the puck and every attempt at individual rushes was most capably handled by the Peterborough defence men, who all played a faultless game. It would be hard to have to particularize amongst the forwards as to which played the best game. Where Roy Armstrong and Whitcroft may have excelled in dodging, still their rushes were started time and again by Morgan, who fed them in great style and, who also did splendid work in the scrimmages in on the nets. Graham excelled himself in "following up" and no matter who went up the ice with the puck Chris was generally to be found as a side partner. Harold Armstrong was as brilliant as ever and Glover behind him looked after everything which got past the cover point, his quick reliefs at close quarters being quite a feature. Wasson did not have more than half a dozen hard ones to tackle. Of these only one got by him and it was a sizzler, from Dunlop, which just skimmed by the end of his glove as he jumped for it.

Carr-Harris was easily the best man of the Cadets. He made some beautiful individual rushes from point, and on the forward line could undoubtedly have done good work, but he was too far back to ever hope to get through the entire Peterborough seven without losing the puck. On one occasion he got clear in to Wasson, but Ernie was able to handle the shot although it came fast and at pretty close quarters. Deyell in goal for the Cadets stopped a lot of fast ones but they came too quickly for him, towards the close particularly.

The style of play of the two teams differed vastly. As usual the Peterboroughs attempted little or no body-checking but relied almost entirely on quickness of eye to intercept the puck in a pass or take it off an opponent's stick. The visitors slashed considerably and when they managed to catch one of the Peterboroughs put him up into the air, a particular set being made for Harold Armstrong in this respect. The local men, however, took their bumps and came back for more. Towards the close the Cadets used their bodies too freely and in consequence no less than eight of them were ruled off at different times. Referee Scooley, of Osgoode Hall, watched the game closely and would stand for no rough work, and he was also particularly quick in his off-side rulings.

The teams lined up on the ice as appended:

R. M. C. — Goal, Deyell; point, Carr-Harris; cover point, Ramsay; forwards, Dunlop, Trotter, Biggs, (capt.) and Weatherbe; umpire, Patterson; timekeeper, Hoyles.

Peterboroughs — Goal, E. Wasson; Point, R. M. Glover; cover point, Harold Armstrong; forwards, Roy Armstrong, Harry Morgan, Chris Graham, and Fred Whitcroft; umpire, Jas. McCabe; timekeeper, Alex Gibson.

The game did not start until twenty minutes to nine, as the referee was slow in turning up. The Cadets started off with a rush on the flags and although the nets were cleared, they were back again in a moment, and it looked as though the Peterboroughs had their work cut out for them. A long lift of Glover's was promptly returned, but Morgan was able to reach up and pull it down. He started a rush and passed to Harold Armstrong, whose shot almost got through Deyell. Before he could relieve, the Peterboroughs were upon him, and there was a lively mix-up around the Cadets' nets for some minutes before the play moved out to centre ice. Whitcroft and Roy Armstrong made a neat little run, but the resulting shot was well handled by Deyell, who also took care of one which came from a fast trip up the ice by Morgan and Roy. Finally, Harold Armstrong got away and passed to Roy, whose shot was stopped, but before the goal could be cleared, Harold returned the puck, and it lodged safely in the net, scoring first blood for Peterborough. Time, 10 minutes.

The visitors were not a bit disheartened, but started out to play harder than ever, and made things so warm in Peterborough territory that Wasson had to extend himself twice to save his goal. Both stops earned him hearty cheers, as they were brilliant. Harold relieved after the last one and carried the puck out to Roy, who passed to Whitcroft, the latter scoring. Time 1 1-2 minutes.

Honours seemed evenly divided in the next game until Glover started a rush. The puck passed from Whitcroft to Morgan, who slipped another one in past Deyell. Time, 5 minutes. Score, 3—0.

The next one went the Cadets' way, when Dunlop made an exceptionally nice side shot which never stopped until it struck the net. Time, 4 minutes. Score, 3—1.

Harold Armstrong then took a hand at scoring, and a swift wrist shot from centre ice was effective. Score, 4—1.

Whitcroft got the puck on a pass from Morgan at the face-off and slipped through the whole bunch to score. Time, 1-2 minute. Score, 5—1.

The whistle blew for half-time, and the knowing ones prepared to see some great "doings," as the Peterboroughs were now to shoot into their favourite goal at the south end.

The Cadets evidently decided that a defence game was the best course to adopt during the remainder of the match and when the teams came out on the ice again after half time Carr-Harris, Ramsay and Weatherbe were all lined up on the defence side of centre and it is a safe guess that they are the biggest men playing hockey to-day. They were too big, as a matter of fact, to handle themselves well, and the nimble Peterborough forwards flashed by them with a rapidity which seemed to dazzle the visitors at times.

From the face-off the puck went into Peterborough territory, Graham brought it out and went up the ice for a try. The shot was stopped and then Roy Armstrong dodged through the crowd and scored in 1 minute. Score 6-1.

Once again Graham got through the Cadet defence but his shot was blocked as was one a minute later by Roy Armstrong. Then Morgan and Roy gave a pretty exhibition of combination work and the latter tallied. Score 7-1.

The next game was a long one, as the visitors seemed to adopt the tactics of letting the puck take care of itself and devoted themselves to putting the local men out of business. It was eleven minutes before Whitcroft came in with a rush and put a fast one past Deyell. Score 8-1.

The next game was tallied as a result of Graham starting a rush and passing to Roy Armstrong. Time 5 minutes. Score 9-1.

Then Morgan took the puck from the face-off and dodging past Ramsay passed to Roy who scored in one half minute. Score 10-1.

Harold Armstrong was put on the fence for using his stick too promiscuously in a scrimmage and the Peterboroughs put fresh ginger into their play to make up for his absence with the result that two games were scored in his absence. Whitcroft went the length of the rink alone and scored in 1-2 a minute, and then Carr-Harris made a great dash from the other end of the rink. He scattered the Peterboroughs before him like chaff and went in at Wasson in a manner which gave the impression that he was going to go clear through the net himself. It looked like a score sure but Wasson was equal to the occasion and neatly corraled the puck at the same time giving Carr-Harris a shunt into the corner. Whitcroft again got hold of the puck and scored from centre ice. Time 1 1-2 minutes. Score 12-1.

The disc came in to Glover from the face-off and the Cadets were hot after it, but Glover came through the crowd with it and essayed a dash up the rink. He passed to Roy Armstrong, but the shot was blocked. Then Whitcroft and Graham got in some nice combination work and the latter tallied. Time 1 1-2 minutes. Score 13-1.

NOTES.

The Cadets "won"—Peterborough, 13.

The locals feel confident of being able to defeat the R.M.C. men on their own ice by a substantial score.

It has not yet been fully decided whether Peterborough plays in Kingston on Friday or Monday.

There are not many teams which use that low wrist shot which the Peterboroughs have perfected.

Referee Scooley stated after the game that the Peterboroughs were the fastest team he had seen this year, and the Cadets were the biggest. He admired Glover's quick lifting at close quarters very much.

Our Port Hope friends were kind enough to post the Cadets as to how to nullify the effect of Armstrong's rushes. Harold was able to score two goals, however, notwithstanding this great (?) handicap.

FUTURE PROVISION.

There are two periods in a man's life, when in the natural course of things, he is unable to take care of himself—his childhood and his old age. During the whole of our lives we are consumers; during middle life only we are producers. It is therefore the aim of every man to put by enough during middle age, so that he will have an independent income for his old age. But, under ordinary circumstances this is often a hard thing to do. Men at that time of life generally find themselves with a family to provide for; perhaps their whole income is required to meet the household expenses, and it is impossible to find a remunerative investment for their small annual savings.

An Imperial endowment policy, as issued by the Imperial Life Assurance Company of Canada, Toronto, is an ideal investment for a man in this position. Should he die at any time the insurance will provide for his family and leave them in an independent position. At the same time he is providing an income, for his old age, which will enable him to end his days in comfort. With an "Imperial Endowment Policy" a man need have no fear for his own future, or the future of his wife and family.

Sharp Attack of Lumbago.

Know what Lumbago is? Pain catches you right in the small of the back,—makes stooping over or rising up excruciating agony. Wrong kidney action is the cause of the trouble, and if you let Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets set the kidneys working right you'll be quickly cured.

Here is some evidence:

Mr. James A. Searle, the well and favorably known boot and shoe merchant of Norwich, Ont., made this statement:—"During a recent sharp attack of Lumbago, in which the pain was extremely severe, I took a bottle of Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets. They took the pain out of my back so quickly, and as far as I can see made a cure that is so permanent, that I consider them unequalled for that most prevalent and painful affliction. I am only too pleased to recommend them to other people who may be suffering as I was."

WITH AX AND BLOCK.

Criminal Executions in Prussia Still Performed by the Headsman.

Seventeenth century methods still prevail in Prussia in the matter of the execution of criminals. The man sentenced there to suffer capital punishment is led to the fatal block, and his head is chopped off with identically the same sort of ax as that which was used to put a period to the career of Charles I. in the Tower of London on that fateful 30th of January 252 years ago. Practically the only difference between the twentieth century execution and that of the time of Cromwell is that the condemned is not put to death publicly.

In many parts of the German empire the guillotine has taken the place of the gallows and the block, but in Prussia old fashioned justice clings tenaciously to the old fashions, and not the rope nor the automatic knife nor the power of electricity has been able to displace the broadax as the law's official implement of death. The only concession made to modern sentiment is in the garb of the executioner.

This functionary does not, as in the earlier times, dress in doublet and hose and hide his ensanguined identity behind a frightsome mask. Instead, he appears at the execution garbed in a frock coat of somber hue and correct cut, and he wears upon his head, even when delivering the death stroke, a tall silk hat. His three assistants are similarly attired.

Why this garb was chosen no one can say authoritatively. It is one of those things the origin of which appears to have been forgotten with the originators. But it is the lawful costume, prescribed in the regulations, which apply also to the twelve civilian witnesses who must attend an execution, with the result that a stranger witness is unable to say until the ax has fallen which of the other fifteen silk hatted, frock coated individuals grouped about him is the man who lives by death.

Professor Edward E. Phelps, M. D., LL. D., according to the ethics of honest and reputable physicians, gave to the leading medical men of the world his wonderful prescription Paine's Celery Compound as soon as it was perfected. For this reason Paine's Celery Compound has never been included among patent medicines. Coming from so high a source and being so thoroughly tested and so strongly recommended, physicians prescribe it with confidence.

Paine's Celery Compound rapidly gains in fame as a disease banisher; all who have tried it gratefully acknowledge its curing and life-giving power. It drives the poison germs of deep-seated diseases from the blood; it brings buoyancy of spirit in place of lassitude and despondency; it enables the overtaxed and broken-down system to start fairly on the road to health; it gives sweet sleep so necessary to brain and nerves. It strengthens, invigorates and gives tone to the system, makes pure blood, is food and nourishment for nerves and tissue. It makes sick people well. Mr. R. McMullin, Camden, N. S., writes as follows about his cure:

"For over four years I have been in poor health, and received treatment from two doctors besides using seven kinds of patent medicines. I also sent to New York and got a month's treatment of a special medicine, but no good results came from it. I was run-down, suffered terribly, could not rest at night, and every morning had a severe pain in my back, dizziness in my head, and vomited bitter green matter, and had no appetite. I heard of Paine's Celery Compound and decided to give it a trial, and am happy to report that it worked wonders. The pains are all gone, I rest well at night, my appetite is good, and my health is now splendid. Paine's Celery Compound has worked miracles for me. I recommend it to all sick people as the best medicine."

Terrific Thunder.

The largest rainfall on earth has been recorded at Chera Punji, on the bay of Bengal, but the most violent thunderstorms ever observed are probably those of French Guiana. At Cape Orange, some forty miles south of Cayenne, a French naval officer saw the rills of the coast hills turned into waterfalls by a cloudburstlike storm, while the crashing thunder peals were incessant and often almost deafening, so much so, indeed, that some of the sailors began to mutter long forgotten prayers, probably thinking the day of judgment near at hand.

will be paid by Merrill the druggist, Brantford, to any firm who can produce more testimonials for a cough and cold cure than he can for his celebrated Four T's which cures coughs and colds in 24 hours. One quarter million bottles sold in five years proves it the best lung remedy made. Sold in 25c bottles at Ormond & Walsh's drug store.

Another Canadian Dead.

Ottawa, Feb. 12.—A cablegram to Lord Minto from the Casualty Department at Cape Town, announces the death on Feb. 9 of enteric fever, of Byrtle Davidson of the South African Constabulary, son of William Davidson of Woodstock, Ont.

The Pilot Suspended.

Halifax, Feb. 12.—There is little hope of saving the steamer Grecian, which is still in the same position on the rocks at Sandwich Point. The evidence of Pilot Fleming was taken, and he has been suspended.

Burdock Blood Bitters Makes Permanent Cures

Of such severe diseases as scrofula, running sores, salt rheum or eczema, shingles, erysipelas and cancer, as well as boils, blotches, pimples, constipation, sick headache, dyspepsia, and all disorders of the stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels and blood.

We have proved by the dozens of testimonials published lately that Burdock Blood Bitters always does its work thoroughly and completely, so people know that when B.B.B. cures them they're cured to stay cured.

FLOWER AND TREE.

Keep begonias where the air is not too dry, and they will not drop their leaves.

In watering house plants sufficient should be given to soak the soil thoroughly.

A tree is nearly dormant in winter, especially one that has been lately transplanted.

Plants in a dormant state require very little water during the winter, and an excess will cause decay.

Drenching rosebushes with strong quassia tea is a good curative of bugs and other destructive insects and pests.

To root cuttings quickly fill a saucer full of sand, into which the slips may be set. Keep the sand the consistency of mud.

Never give up a decaying rosebush until you have tried watering it two or three times a week with soot tea for a short time.

Repotting of plants becomes necessary for two reasons—the plant uses up the available fertility in the soil and fills the pots with roots.

To prevent crotched trees from splitting after they come into bearing twist and fasten two small limbs together, and as the stem grows it will prevent splitting.

Cuttings of quick growing herbaceous plants, like heliotrope, verbena, phlox, geraniums, root quickly, chrysanthemums quickest of all. Choose cuttings when the plants are most vigorous.

Quaint Plea For a Pension.

All sorts of special pleas have been made in applications for pensions. One of the most ludicrous was made in Portland. When the applicant was asked is he ever served in the army or navy, he said, "No." Asked as to what grounds he based his application on, he said that he was in eastern Oregon when the Indians went on the warpath; that in making for a point of safety he and some other men were attacked by the Indians, one of the other men being killed and another wounded. He escaped on account of the fleetness of his horse, but the encounter caused him such excitement that he had had occasional fits ever since, and on account of the fits he thought he was entitled to a pension.

Webster and Disraeli.

Disraeli once met Daniel Webster at a time when American statesmen were rarer visitors in England than they now are. "He seemed to me," "Dizzy" reported, "a complete Brother Jonathan—a remarkable twang and all that. He also goes to the lev-ee," added Disraeli, strongly accenting the last syllable. "Dizzy" nevertheless noted the American orator's "fine brow and beetled, deep set eyes," but it was Sydney Smith who declared of him that no man could be so wise as Daniel Webster looked.

Passing of a Star.

"Madam," said the facetious boarder, "this turkey reminds me of a steadily waning dramatic star."

"Well," said the landlady, "I suppose you want somebody to ask you why."

"Because," said the facetious boarder, "it comes on in smaller and yet smaller parts."

Cramps are Like Burglars.

they come unexpected, and when they are least welcome. Be armed with a one minute cure for cramps and keep Polson's Nerviline handy; it acts instantaneously. Nerviline's anodyne power is unique, for its composition expresses the highest medical progress of the age. Polson's Nerviline is a true comfort in the family for in all dangerments of the stomach and bowels it is an absolute specific. Nerviline has five times greater medicinal value than any other remedy and is sold in large 25 cent bottles. Try it.

When Woods Decay.

Tests have been made to determine the variations in the length of time that is required to produce decay in different kinds of woods when buried under the surface of the ground. The birch and aspen were both found to decay in three years, the willow and the buckeye in four years, the maple and the red beech in five years, elm and ash in seven, while the larch, juniper and arbor vitæ were uninjured at the expiration of eight years.

Five Views of a Man.

A healthy man, a man with a cough, a man with congested lungs, a man in consumption, a dying—now head man. All from neglecting, when the cough started, to take Four T's, the great guaranteed one day cough and cold remedy. Price 25c bottle at Ormond & Walsh's drug store.

SKATING COSTUMES.

They Are Elaborately Trimmed With Braid and Fur.

Skating costumes are of great interest for the moment. Never have they been so chic. It is considered the proper thing to make them of frieze and trim them with bands of fur, velvet or braid. A costume recently made of this material had a short Eton jacket cut very short all the way around in order to show a wide belt of folded panne. From this in the back depended smart little postilion tails of the goods. There was also a tucked blouse front of this velvet, and around the bottom of the ankle length skirt there were three bands of it cut on the bias and stitched. This costume was brown, and its somberness was relieved by buttons of turquoise and silver.

Today's picture shows a child's dress made of old rose cashmere. The little waist is bloused both back and front, and the fullness at the neck is laid in tucks. For trimming there are small strappings running horizontally and two wide straps which reach from the shoulders to the waist. The little bishop sleeves are laid in tucks and the fullness confined into a narrow cuff. The belt is of black velvet. The skirt is short, reaching only to the knees.

JUDIC CROLLET.

CHOSEN FROM A MULTITUDE.

The Preference Shown by Thinking People for Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine—Record Sales Last Month.

Considering the large number of remedies for coughs and colds that are now offered to the public, and in view of the fact that nearly every druggist has a preparation of his own which he makes an effort to substitute for the medicine asked for, it seems truly remarkable that the demand for Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine should increase by such leaps and bounds.

During October the sale of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine exceeded by several hundred bottles the record of any previous month in its history. When it is remembered that this preparation receives very little newspaper advertising the evidence seems to be conclusive that it makes its way by sheer force of merit.

Thinking people recognize the harmfulness and danger of using strong drugs which are said to cure a cold in a few hours. They prefer to cling to Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, which they know beyond a doubt to be a thorough and effective treatment for coughs, colds, croup, bronchitis, whooping cough, throat irritations, asthma, and even consumption itself.

The combination of linseed and turpentine, with half a dozen other ingredients of equal value for treating colds, in such proportions as they are found in Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine has proven to be a perfect protection against such developments as pneumonia, consumption, and serious lung troubles. You can with certainty rely on this preparation to afford prompt relief and perfect cure.

Do you suppose that the sale of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine would be more than three times that of any similar preparation if it was not the most effective remedy that money can buy? It has stood the test and proven itself worthy of the confidence that is placed in it. People recommend it one to another, and so the good news spreads. Be sure you get the genuine, with Dr. Chase's portrait and signature on the wrapper. 25 cents a bottle. Family size, three times as much, 60 cents. At all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates and Co., Toronto. 12

Sublime Mourning Customs.

All Hebrews are superstitious about death, and, although they hold festivals in memory of departed friends, they will usually carry a dying person to some abandoned hut, there to drag out his remaining days without food, medicine, water or attendance. After the death of a husband or a wife the survivor cuts the front hair short and fasts for twenty-five days.

A "HEROE'S" TONIC

For soldier or civilian South American Nervine proves itself the greatest of system tonics, nerve healers and blood cleansers.

A battle-scarred veteran just home from the war in South Africa, who was all run down and weak, the aftermath of that dread weldt fever, says: "I found South American Nervine a remarkable medicine and heartily recommend it to everybody in need of a good tonic." It's a grand remedy for all "run down" people. One bottle gives great relief. A few bottles never fail to cure. 50

THE CHINA EASTERN

SHOWING THE PROGRESS ON RUSSIAN RAILWAY CONSTRUCTION.

The Government Is Completing One of the Most Wonderful Systems in the World—Great Train Ferry and Ice Breaker on Lake Baikal—Rear End of Trans-Siberian Express.

The Chinese Eastern railway through Manchuria is completed, and now after ten years of unremitting labor Russia's great project of connecting Moscow at Port Arthur may be said to be practically completed. It is not as yet an all-rail route, but it is combined with steamers, making of the trip a longer one than will be necessary when the line of rails is completed, but under present conditions it is expected that the time necessary to make the journey from end to end of the route will soon be reduced to 28 days or less.

In the building of this great railway Russia has depended entirely upon her own engineers and laborers. They have worked at times under the greatest possible difficulties, and in the ten years that have elapsed since the first tie was laid have spent of the Government's funds the sum of $172,525,000. The distance covered between St. Petersburg and Vladivostock is 6,677 miles and the rates of fare are as follows.

First class	$128.75
Second class	87.55
Third class	46.35

The Manchurian road consists of two branches: The principal, from the station Manchuria to Sungari, 580.7 miles long; and the south line, from Sungari to Port Arthur, 612.6 miles. The Usurijsk line to Vladivostock is 137.9 miles in length.

The Trans-Siberian road was built with light rails—some of which only weigh twelve pounds to the foot—wooden bridges, light equipment, cars without trucks; and in many cases the track was laid on marshy soil. As a consequence, it has been impossible to make time or take care of the business offered. These defects, however, are being remedied as rapidly as the means can be provided to meet the expenses, which in some sections will amount to 50 per cent. of the original cost.

The conductors, porters and trainmen are all Russians, and do not understand English, but occasionally one is found who speaks a little German or French.

The route is through a country resembling prairie land in this country, and is quite as hot and dusty during the summer months.

It requires eight days to make the journey over the first part of this road, which ends at Irkutsk, where all passengers change cars. Trains leave Moscow for Irkutsk twice a week—Wednesdays and Saturdays at eight o'clock p.m.—and leave Irkutsk for Moscow on Mondays and Fridays at midnight. Each train consists of nine cars, and they carry second-class carriages as well as first, and are very comfortable; the passengers all eat in the same restaurant cars, and excellent buffets are to be found at the various stations on the route.

The train de luxe, consisting of vestibuled cars, leaves Moscow every ten days. The cars are high and roomy and are lighted by electricity. Each has four compartments, exclusive of the general parlor, which is in the centre, and is provided with a table, lounging chair, maps, mirrors, etc. Three of these compartments are for four persons and one is for two. The berths ran crosswise, are unusually high and are luxuriously furnished. The wood is of dark red color, ceilings white, and the walls are overlaid with gray stamped leather. The divans are covered with dark red leather and are converted into beds at night. There are plenty of racks for baggage and hooks for clothing. The floor is covered with linoleum in the summer and heavy carpets during the winter. In the aisle along the side into which the rooms open there are collapsable seats, which will answer for a short time while looking at the scenery. There are call bells for the porter and waiter in the restaurant car. The toilet rooms on this train are tiled and the upper part is of light wood, but both sexes use the same room and travelers are advised to carry their own toilet articles. There is plenty of cold water, which is a luxury on a European railway train. Little or nothing is seen of the porter after he makes up his beds in the morning, and the presumption is he sleeps all day. At the rear of the last car is an observation parlor, from which a fine view of the country can be had.

From Irkutsk to Lake Baikal is a three-hour run. At the lake, which is 39 miles across, the trains are run onto the immense train ferries, capable not only of carrying three ordinary trains at one time, but of breaking their way through three feet of ice as well. To overcome the necessity of these ferries the railroad is now being built around the south end of the lake, but this portion of the line will not be completed earlier than 1903.

From the east side of Lake Baikal the train proceeds to Stretinsk, on the Chilka river, the actual terminus of the line, a 64-hour run. Steamers with indifferent accommodations and food run regularly from Stretinsk to Khabarovsk, on the Amur river, which occupies 15 days, more or less, according to the depth of the water and length of stoppages.

The railway is completed from Khabarovsk to Vladivostock, a distance of 400 miles, requiring 20 hours for transit.

Russia realizes the absolute necessity for additional railroads in order to move her crops and insure the settlement of her uninhabited territory, and has already made elaborate plans for the next decade; but while she possesses natural resources of practically unlimited value, she lacks for the present the ability to build the roads without the aid of foreign capital.

The great prospects of railroad building in European Russia are lines direct to Viatka and Kief. The first would, it is estimated, open the enormous agricultural northern district and very materially affect the importance of St. Petersburg. A direct line to Kief would diminish the time taken in going to that town by at least one-half.

An imperial ukase has been issued ordering the construction of the Orenburg-Tashkent railroad, in order ta relieve the famine-stricken population of the eastern provinces of Russia and give employment to the iron works in the same provinces, which are suffering from want of activity.

The new line runs from Orenburg to Iletzki station, thence along the northern shore of the Caspian sea to Kazalinsk, on the Syr-Daria river, through the towns of Perovsk and Djulek, Turkestan, and digresses somewhat north from the current of the Syr-Daria, toward Tashkent. The line will be 1,068 miles in length. From Orenburg to the Mugodjarsk mountains it will cross an area of 365 miles of good farming land, besides touching the rich Iletzki salt mines. The next district is a desert, where the nomad Kirghiz live. From Kazalinsk the line will cross the fertile valley of Syr-Daria, with a population of 1,500,000, whose trade amounts to about $25,750,000 per year. The Taschkent and Chikment districts are the principal exporters of cotton, and they will be given a new market by means of this line.

Good Boys

Are the bad boys very often. The boy that's good for anything is generally pugnacious. He's a healthy animal, and the healthy animal will always fight for his rights.

When a boy shuns the rough sports of his companions he is apt to be a weakling, and to be conscious of the fact.

A great many mothers have testified to the wonderful curing and strengthening power of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. All strength comes from food after it has been perfectly digested and assimilated. By curing diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, "Golden Medical Discovery" enables the perfect nourishment of the body, which is thus built up in the only way a body can be built up—by food.

There is no alcohol in "Discovery," and it entirely free from opium, cocaine, and all other narcotics.

"Dr. Pierce's medicine has done wonders for my two sons," writes Mrs. M. Hartrick, of Demster, Oswego Co., N. Y. "Both had scrofula. My eldest son was taken two or three years ago with hemorrhage from the lungs. It troubled him for over a year. He took Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and has not had one in over a year. My youngest son had scrofulous sores on his neck; had two lanced, but has not had any since he commenced to take your medicine."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, in paper cover, sent free on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. For cloth binding send 50 stamps. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

HOPEFUL VIEW

The hopeful view consumptives take of their own cases is strongly in their favor. Each year is showing a larger percentage of cures.

One of the best reasons for good hope is the record of Scott's Emulsion as a medicine for consumptives. So long as the system is strong enough to use medicine of any kind it can use Scott's Emulsion.

The reason for its helpfulness in this disease is because of its long tolerance by the patient; one does not tire of it as quickly as other medicines and that is where the great benefit comes.

Studied Indifference.

"Why did we arrive late and leave before the opera was over?" asked the youngest daughter. "It was very enjoyable."

"Of course it was," answered Mrs. Cumrox; "but, my dear, we had to show people that we didn't care whether we got our money's worth or not."

Satisfactorily Explained.

"John, when you came home last night you talked and acted very queerly. You were lifting your feet endeavoring to step over imaginary obstacles."

"Oh, yes, my dear. All the evening I felt as if I were walking on clouds. You remember we had angel cake for supper."

A Peep Into the Future.

John B. Clark expresses his belief in The Atlantic Monthly that a hundred years hence Manhattan Island will have streets in several stories and that rifles, cannon, warships and the wasteful burning of coal to make steam will be things of the past.

A Pecuniary Fatigue.

"Don't forget," said the willing worker, "that money talks."

"Yes," answered Senator Sorghum a little glumly, "but I can't help wishing that you boys would select another phonograph occasionally."

His Last Venture.

"What is our old friend Hardup doing nowadays?"

"Oh, he's gone into real estate."

"That's the very last thing I should have supposed he'd do."

"It was. He's dead."—New York Times.

Why He Didn't Jump.

Here is one that a young man who knows a good story when he hears it heard one railroad man tell another in a depot up the line the other day:

"We picked up a new Irishman somewhere up country an' set him to work brakin' on a construction train at 3 cents a mile for wages. One day when him an' me was on the train she got away on one of them mountain grades, an' the first thing we knowed she was flyin' down the track at about ninety miles an hour, with nothin' in sight but the ditch an' the happy huntin' grounds, when we come to the end. I twisted 'em down as hard as I could all along the tops, an' then of a sudden I see Mike crawlin' along toward the end of one of the cars on all fours, with his face the color of milk. I thought he was gettin' ready to jump, an' I see his finish if he did.

"'Mike,' I says, 'for heaven's sake don't jump!'

"He clamps his fingers on the runnin' board to give him a chance to turn round an' lookin' at me contemptuous, answers:

"'Jump, is it?' Do yez think I'd be afther jumpin' an' me makin' money as fast as I am?"

Something About Faith Cures.

What a great variety of faith cures there must be, some have faith in so-called divine healers, others in certain doctors and still others in the medicines they use. Every person who has tested Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills has faith in them, but faith or no faith they cure just the same, for they act directly and specifically on the kidneys, liver and bowels, and make these organs healthy, active and vigorous. Judging from the enormous demand for these Pills there must be hosts of people that have faith in them.

A Boston Translation.

Little Emerson—Mamma, I find no marginal note in elucidation of this expression, which I observe frequently to occur in my volume of "Fairy Tale Classics," "With bated breath." What is the proper interpretation of the phrase?

Mamma—"With bated breath," my son, commonly occurs in fairy tales. Your father often returns from piscatorial excursions with bated breath. The phrase in such instances, however, has no significance as applying to the bait employed to allure the fish, but is merely an elastic term of dubious meaning and suspicious origin, utilized, as I have already intimated, simply because of the sanction which it has gained by customary usage in fairy tales generally. Do you comprehend, Emerson?

Little Emerson—Perfectly, mamma.—Judge.

A Great Increasing Army.

Composed of men and women that spend heart and soul in the vain effort to overcome a lack of vigour in the body. To replace inertia by vigour, to make good, red, blood, that will build up the system, to have strong nerves, you must eat more, assimilate more. How can it be done? By using Ferrozone. It invigorates, strengthens, possesses magical health giving powers. Get Ferrozone today and make yourself strong and well.

The Betel Nut.

Betel nuts, the produce of the areca palm, are chiefly used as a masticatory by the natives of the east. They are too small to be applied to many ornamental uses, but are occasionally employed by the turner and wrought into beads for bracelets, small rosary cases and other little fancy articles. In the Museum of Economic Botany at Kew there is a walking stick made of these nuts, sliced, mounted or supported on an iron center.

A Zoo Discussion.

"You know," said the orang outang, "that man is descended from a monkey."

"Yes," answered the chimpanzee, "and his descent has been very great. But let us set it down to his credit that he tries to rise again. Every now and then you hear of some men who is doing his best to make a monkey of himself."

Quick Work.

"That editor is terribly slow at reading manuscript."

"Think so? Why, I know the time he went through twelve stories in less than a minute."

"Gracious! When was that?"

"When the elevator broke."

THE LITTLE BLUE BUTTON.

The "little blue button" referred to, is the badge of the "Bar Tenders' Union."

The little blue button, the bartenders wear,
The little blue button that drives away care;
When you are dry, morning, noon or night,
Go to a place that you know is all right,
Drink and be merry, for you know the old song—
You never miss your rations till your money is gone.

The little blue button you see every day,
The little blue button has come to stay,
It is worn by good fellows, both young and old,
And many a story about it's being told;
Wherever you go it's a bright shining light,
And it's worn by the boys you know are all right.

The little blue button, it tells its own tale,
The little blue button will never grow stale;
When you are down-hearted and feel rather queer,
Change from your whiskey and take a little beer;—
It will make you happy, light-hearted and gay,
Then let her go, Gallagher, for the rest of the day.

MOUNT PLEASANT.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The beginning of the year 1902 will be long remembered by the inhabitants of this town. For three days we received no mails, one day in January and two days in February. No service was held in either of our churches for the last two Sabbaths. The quarterly service at Cavanville prevented Rev. H. V. Mounteer coming on the first Sabbath of the month; the storms of the 2nd and the 8th insts., prevented the Rev. Wm. Kannawin reaching his appointment here. Considering our situation, would it not be advisable to have a missionary in our midst during the winter season? However, we are consoled by the fact that we are no worse than many other parts of our great Dominion.

On account of the severe storms and snow blockades this locality has been cut off from intercourse with our market town, Peterborough. We hope the "Marconi System" will soon be established, so that we may be able to get the news direct from all parts of the world without any hindrance from storm or tempest.

Be ready for the cheese and butter factory entertainment, which is expected to be announced to the public as soon as the roads are passible, and the severe storms over. This, if not the last of the season, is intended to be the best. Come one and all, and enjoy a feast.

A Mother's Medicine.

There is never any question of the value of Dr. Pierce's Favourite Prescription in the minds of those who have used it as a preparative for maternity, and for the reason that every woman who has experienced maternity has a standard of comparison by which she can measure the difference in her condition with and without the health giving aid of "Favourite Prescription."

For example, Mrs. S. E. Rose, of Big Otter, Clay Co., West Va., writes Dr. Pierce as follows: "I am the mother of five children and have been as high as eight days in the doctor's hands, and never less than two days at any time until the birth of my last child. Then I had used two bottles of 'Favourite Prescription,' and the doctor was with me only two hours."

Every mother will appreciate the force of that testimony. There is no chance for error or forgetfulness in such a case. It is a plain statement of fact; one hundred and ninety-two hours of suffering reduced to two hours by the use of "Favourite Prescription."

This shows what help "Favourite Prescription" renders in extreme cases. In the ordinary case of childbirth the use of this medicine makes the baby's advent practically painless. Thousands of women testify to this. Mrs. W. J. Kidder, of Hill Dale Farm, Enosburg, Vt., says that she was in fast failing health, and with the trial of motherhood before her, when she began the use of "Favourite Prescription." The result was, to quote the exact words of her letter;—"I began to improve immediately; my own health became excellent and I could do all my own work. I had a short, easy confinement, and have a healthy baby boy."

Dr. Pierce's Favourite Prescription, by its remarkable tonic properties, puts the system on a basis of sound health. Nature does the rest. Nervousness, sleeplessness, morning sickness, loss of appetite, despondency and anxiety are all cured by the use of "Favourite Prescription." It gives great physical vigor and muscular elasticity, which explains the practically painless birth hour. It also induces a free flow of the nutritive secretions, so that the mother is abundantly able to nurse and nourish her babe.

Is it any wonder that many a grateful woman's letter ends in terms similar to that of Mrs. J. W. G. Stephens, of Mita, Northumberland Co., Va., who writes; "I unhesitatingly advise expectant mothers to use Dr. Pierce's Favourite Prescription."

Coincidences of Dates.

Attention has often been called to the curious fact of the date Sept. 3 figuring so largely in the history of Oliver Cromwell. That very dominating man was born on Sept. 3, 1599; he won the battle of Dunbar Sept. 3, 1650; that of Worcester Sept. 3, 1651, and he died Sept. 3, 1658. But we have lately come across some coincidences of dates which, so far as we know, have not been noticed before. The number 88 seems to have had fatal influence on the Stuarts. Robert II., the first Stuart king, died in 1388; James II. was killed at the siege of Roxburghe Castle, 1488; Mary, queen of Scots, was beheaded in Fotheringay, 1588 (new style); James VII. (II. of England) was dethroned in 1688; Bonny Prince Charlie died in Rome, 1788, and with him died the last hopes of the Jacobites.

Woman is as Old as She Looks.

It is not age but disease, weakness and ill-health that makes women look old, care-worn and wrinkled. You cannot look your best unless you feel well, strong and vigorous, with pure, rich blood and steady nerves. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food makes good looks because it makes good health, restores the healthful glow to the complexion, rounds out the form and gives elasticity to every motion of the body.

READY FOR THE OPENING.

There Will Be Few Absentees at the Opening of Parliament To-Day.

Ottawa, Feb. 13.—Everything is in readiness for the opening of Parliament to-day. Senators and members were arriving all day yesterday, and there will be few absentees when the ceremonies which mark the inauguration of the session take place. In addition to the leaders of Ottawa society, many ladies from a distance are here to witness the opening of Parliament, and there is every prospect that the function will be one of the most brilliant witnessed for years. An unprecedented demand for tickets of admission has been made upon the Usher of the Black Rod, and Mr. Molyneux St. Main, the new incumbent of the office, has had an exceedingly busy time endeavoring to meet the numerous applications.

The Speech From the Throne.

There is, as usual, much speculation as to the legislative program which will be outlined in the speech from the throne. Good grounds exist for believing that while the bill of fare to be set before Parliament will be light, measures of considerable public interest will be promised.

A Short Session Expected.

In Ministerial circles the belief is entertained that the session will be a short one, and if it is unduly prolonged the fault will not rest with the Government. Most of the Departmental reports have been printed and will be laid on the table of the House at once. The estimates have been printed and will be brought down probably on Monday, or very soon afterwards. The Auditor-General's report will be forthcoming within a very few days. Hence there will be nothing to prevent the House from getting down to business at once and making such steady progress as will bring the termination about the middle of May.

Mrs. Ross, wife of the Premier of Ontario, arrived from the west last night, and will attend the opening of Parliament to-day.

THE LUMBERMEN.

Pertinent Paragraphs in President John Waldie's Annual Address.

Toronto, Feb. 13.—President John Waldie presided at the annual general meeting yesterday of the Lumbermen's Association of Ontario, and in his address said:

"We do not think the interests of this country are forwarded by negotiations with the United States, looking to a renewal of any kind of reciprocity treaty, nor by discussions about the 'balance of trade.' We serve our best interests by pressing our own provincial and Dominion Governments to legislate for Canada alone, and it would be unwise for a member of this association to speak of any legislation that we are promoting, as retaliatory.

"We believe the Dominion Government should put wood products on the dutiable list, so that in a period of depression (and to offset the American cut on through rates from the south), a tariff would act as a hinderance and thus prevent Canada from becoming a slaughter market. While the theories of protection and free trade may be discussed academically, this country asks for legislation to suit the conditions that exist here."

The officers elected were: John Waldie, president; Robert Watt, 1st vice-president; N. Dyment, 2nd vice-president, W. B. Tindall, secretary, treasurer.

The old Board of Management were re-elected.

SAVED BY DUST.

How a Handful of Soldiers Fooled General Early.

"Did I ever tell you how clouds of dust once saved Washington city from what many people believe would have been certain capture at the hands of the Confederates?" asked a member of the old Veterans' Reserve corps, which was on duty at Fort Stevens during the war.

"It was when the Army of Northern Virginia was just outside the Capital City. You may remember that General Early, who was in command of this particular division of the Confederate forces, in writing to refute statements published in northern papers to the effect that he could easily have marched into Washington, said: 'I knew the defenses were weak when I arrived, but my troops were so exhausted from the enforced march that a halt was absolutely necessary, and the next morning I knew, by clouds of dust, that re-enforcements had arrived.'

"That dust, gentlemen, was raised by a few men, not exceeding 100, of the Veteran Reserve corps. The temporary commander of this company, a stout man of medium height, whose name or rank I did not learn, because he wore no blouse or insignia, placed the men in line in the rear of and between Fort Stevens and Fort Slocum. After making a short speech in which he urged every man to do his best he directed us to march down some distance on the grass past Fort Stevens. Once there he told us to break ranks and right about, returning in the middle of the road and kicking up all the dust we possibly could.

We doubled on the line, marching down on the grass and coming back in the dusty road. It was a dry season, and we all had on broad soled shoes. We made the dust fly, I tell you, and it is no wonder General Early thought re-enforcements by the thousands had come to the relief of the handful on duty at the forts."

The Talipot Palm of Ceylon.

The talipot palm of Ceylon has gigantic fanlike leaves, which when fully expanded form a nearly complete circle thirteen feet in diameter. Large fans made of them are carried before people of rank among the Cingalese. They are also commonly used as umbrellas, and tents are made by neatly joining them together. They are used as a substitute for paper, being written upon with a stylus. Some of the sacred books of the Cingalese are composed of strips of them.

Silenced.

A young man in a railway carriage was making fun of a lady's hat to an elderly gentleman in the seat with him.

"Yes," said the elderly gent, "that's my wife, and I told her if she wore that bonnet some fool would make fun of it."

The young man was silent for the remainder of the journey.

OTTAWA IN HER GLORY

Brilliant Opening of Parliament Thursday Afternoon

THE SPEECH FROM THE THRONE

Many Causes For Congratulation—Further Development of Trade With Other Countries—A Reference to Marconi's Wireless Telegraph—Direct Steamship Line to South Africa—Proceedings in Both Houses.

Ottawa, Feb. 14.—Typical Canadian weather favored the ceremonies at the opening of Parliament yesterday. The Parliament grounds and buildings, draped in a mantle of snow, looked most picturesque in the rays of the sun, and hundreds of spectators stood around to witness the arrival and departure of the Governor-General and other celebrities. The Senate Chamber was filled with handsomely gowned ladies and officers in gorgeous uniforms. It was a most brilliant spectacle, compared with the last opening, when Queen Victoria's death cast a gloom over society functions.

His Excellency the Governor-General was escorted from Rideau Hall by a squadron of the Body Guards. In front of the House of Commons a guard of honor from the Foot Guards received His Excellency with a royal salute, and the guns of the field battery at Nepean Point thundered out a salute.

Lord Minto having seated himself on the throne in the Senate Chamber, the Commons were summoned by Mr. Molyneaux St. John, Usher of the Black Rod, and the speech from the throne was then delivered, as follows:

Speech From the Throne.

Hon. gentlemen of the Senate:
Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

"In meeting you again at the commencement of another session of Parliament, it is my first duty to express the deep sense of our gratitude to Divine Providence for the many blessings which Canada has received during the past year, and particularly for the exceptionally bountiful harvest in Manitoba and the North-west Territories.

It was very gratifying to note the cordial reception tendered by all classes of the people to the Prince and Princess of Wales on the occasion of their visit in September and October last, the only regrettable feature being the limited time at their disposal, which prevented their visiting many important centres of population. It is, however, a great satisfaction to know that Their Royal Highnesses enjoyed their tour through Canada and carried away the most pleasant recollections of their visit to this part of the empire.

The assassination of President McKinley has elicited a universal feeling of sympathy and sorrow throughout the civilized world, and, though Canada has happily so far been free from crimes of this character, the close proximity to the United States may make it advisable to join our efforts to the efforts of the United States and other nations and to provide by legislation for the adequate punishment of those who, either by speech or writing, incite fanatics to the perpetration of such horrible crimes.

The returns of the late census will be laid before you, and while the absolute increase in the number of population is not so great as might have been expected, the evidences of growth in wealth and in the general tokens of prosperous development are highly satisfactory. There is good reason also to believe that the increase of population during the latter half of this decade has been very greatly in excess of the average of former years, and that in the near future we may look for a much more rapid growth than occurred during the period covered by the last two censuses.

Application having been made by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company for approval of an increase of its capital to meet the demand for additional rolling stock and other improved facilities for handling the growing traffic, my Ministers availed themselves of the opportunity to stipulate that the long-pending question of the power of the Governor in Council to regulate the tolls of the company should be submitted to the courts for a judicial decision. The correspondence and other papers will be laid before you.

The inventor, Mr. Marconi, having met unexpected obstacles to the carrying on of his experiments in wireless ocean telegraphy in a sister colony, my Ministers deemed it expedient to invite him to continue his operations on the coast of Nova Scotia, and they availed themselves of his presence in Canada to enter into negotiations resulting in an arrangement through which, should the project prove as successful as is hoped for, the Government and people of Canada will enjoy the benefits of the invention on every favorable terms, including rates for transatlantic messages very much below those now existing.

I am pleased to inform you that the display made by Canada of her products at the several expositions at which they have been exhibited during the last year has attracted much attention, and has already resulted in many inquiries and orders for our goods.

I may also congratulate you on the satisfactory condition of the revenue and on the steady and continuous expansion of the general business of the country as evidenced by the increased volume of exports and imports.

With the view of still further facilitating and developing our trade with other countries, it will probably be found expedient to increase the number of our commercial agencies, and Parliament will be asked to consider the advisability of making additional provision for that purpose.

I have also pleasure in informing you that the Governments of Australia and New Zealand have accepted an invitation from my Government to attend a conference in London next June for the consideration of trade, transportation, cable and other matters of intercolonial concern, and it is hoped that the meeting may lead to an extension of Canadian trade with those important portions of His Majesty's dominions.

I have further to advise you that my Government, having caused inquiry to be made, has reached the conclusion that the establishment of direct steamship service with South Africa would enable Canada to secure in that country a profitable market for her varied products, and, to that end will endeavor to arrange for such a service.

His Majesty has been graciously pleased to invite the Premier to be present at the ceremonies attending his coronation. It is to be hoped that the presence of the leading statesmen of the several colonies upon this occasion will afford an opportunity for the discussion of subjects of mutual interest, which may considerably affect the development of our trade and commerce in the near future with the mother country and with our sister colonies.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

The public accounts for the last year and the estimates for the succeeding year will be laid before you without delay.

Honorable gentlemen of the Senate:
Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

I commit the above matters and all others which may be submitted to you to your earnest consideration, and I rely upon your wisdom and prudence to deal with them in the manner which, under Divine Providence, may prove most conducive to the best interests of Canada.

Largest Since 1896.

It is generally conceded that the attendance at the opening was the largest since 1896. The formalities lacked nothing in brilliancy of military, social and official display.

Lady Minto, who entered upon the Premier's arm, wore a beautiful train gown of white satin and a superb diamond brooch. Lady Laurier's gown was of rose-colored silk, and sequined lace. She carried a handsome bouquet of American beauty roses.

Senators Introduced.

The business of the Senate sitting consisted in the introduction of the new Senators, Messrs. Gibson, McMullen (Ontario), Thompson (New Brunswick), Robertson (Prince Edward Island), Church (Nova Scotia), and Brequet (Montreal). The Senate address, in reply to the Speech from the Throne, will be moved on Monday by Mr. Brequet, seconded by Senator Thompson.

In the Commons.

First, and most interesting of the formal proceedings in the House of Commons, was the introduction of members elected or re-elected since last session. This was accomplished to the usual accompaniment of party applause.

The Liberal members introduced were: Hon. James Sutherland, North Oxford; Mr. Farquharson, Queen's, Prince Edward Island; Archie Campbell, West York, Ont.; Alexander Gibson, York, N.B.; Dr. Beland, Beauce, Quebec; Mr. Charbonne, L'Islet; Mr. Brunet, Montreal Centre, and Mr. Beith, West Durham.

The Opposition members did their cheering while Mr. Borden and Mr. Monk introduced Mr. Lennard, Laval, Que.; Mr. E. Guss Porter, West Hastings, and Mr. Avery of Addington.

The House then decided to take up to-day the consideration of the Speech from the Throne. The address in reply to it will be moved by Mr. Campbell of West York, and seconded by Dr. Beland.

Lord Dufferin's Death.

The Governor-General cabled yesterday on behalf of the Cabinet an expression of sincere regret at the death of Lord Dufferin, formerly Governor-General of Canada, and of sympathy with the bereaved widow and family. Lord Dufferin's portrait in the news room of the House of Commons has been draped with crepe.

ANOTHER FROM HAMILTON.

Mayor Hendrie's Bookkeeper Leaves His Employ and the City.

Hamilton, Feb. 14.—Reputations are tumbling like houses of cards nowadays here. Another citizen has been added to the list of the missing, and it is alleged by the police that he is considerably short in his finances or those of his employers. At a recent private meeting of the Library Board, Mayor Henry reproached the members for the freedom they allowed Lancefield in letting him patronize the pool room instead of attending to his office duties. A member told the Mayor he had better look after an employe in an office with which the Mayor was associated, as that employe had been frequently in Lancefield's company at the pool room. The name was demanded and given, and E. W. Cleversley, a bookkeeper for Hendrie & Co., was later brought on the carpet. He admitted that he had been "playing the races" with Lancefield. Now Cleversley is absent from his desk, and it was said by the police yesterday that his accounts were from $1,700 to $2,000 short. It is said he has left the city. Hendrie & Co. say he is not now in their employ.

Jesuits May Now Remain.

London, Feb. 14.—Refugees of the Roman Catholic orders are entitled to domicile in England. The Jesuits now established in this country and those that have recently been driven from France cannot be expelled. This is the decision of Magistrate Kennedy of the Marlborough Street Police Court, and is a severe blow for the Protestant Alliance, which had brought information to have the Jesuits banished. Officials of the Protestant Alliance say the matter will not be allowed to rest here.

THE BUDGET DEBATE.

The debate on the Budget in the Ontario Legislature, which has been under way for about three weeks, came to a conclusion on Tuesday night, the leader of the Opposition, Mr. Whitney, not having made any other than interjectional contributions to the discussion. The debate was conspicuous, judging from the newspaper reports for the strength and effectiveness of the addresses, which came from the Government side of the House, with their buoyant tone, hopefulness for the future and faith in the resources of the province and in the progressive policy of the Government in regard to utilization and development of these resources. On the other hand the speeches coming from the Opposition ranks, while some of them were commendable for good manner of delivery, were weak in attack and argument, petty in detail, and lacking in the fire and vim which a hopeful fighting spirit would have evoked.

The substance and, especially, the tone of the Opposition speeches on the budget suggested "that tired feeling," which must come from struggling on without the inspiration of a definite policy, without the cohesion it should bring or the esprit du corps which a strong cause and a good policy might be expected to create. The debate developed, on the part of the Government, an inassailably impregnable position in regard to the finances,—an excess on the past year's operations of about $400,000 of estimated over actual expenditure, nearly a million and a half of cash in the bank to the credit of the Province and that after every public service had been adequately provided for. So solid and satisfactory is the provincial position that Hon. Mr. Davis's challenge thrown out in his speech which closed the debate, asking the Opposition to name a State in the continent whose financial position could compare with that of Ontario, found no takers, for the simple reason that no such state or country could be found. The debate also brought into high relief, the Government's aggressive policy both in regard to past and future application, looking to the development of our great resources and the advancement of every interest in the newer as well as more settled portions of the Province. The budget debate, especially that of the closing session of the legislature is generally utilized in appealing more to the country at large than to the House, the aim of the respective parties being to place their oppositions and claims for support at the coming election as strongly as possible before the people. So far as we can judge from the press reports, the Government has developed notable strength in this regard while the Opposition has shown more conspicuously than ever the weakness of its cause.

Astonishing Success of the World's Great Cereal Food,

Malt Breakfast Food

The history of food products for the last twenty years cannot point to a success so marked and so astonishing as that attained by Malt Breakfast Food. The best grocers in Canada and Newfoundland are most agreeably impressed with the heavy demand, and say positively that Malt Breakfast Food is their great leader.

Malt Breakfast Food is fast displacing other grain breakfast foods, because it possesses virtues and qualities unknown to other existing foods. No other food is so delicious to the taste; no other so appetizing and nourishing. It is therefore fair to claim that Malt Breakfast Food is the acme of perfection as far as a health food is concerned. It truly makes the weak strong and keeps the strong in the bloom of health. If you would add to the pleasure of your morning meal try Malt Breakfast Food. See your Grocer.

THE HOUSE IN SUPPLY

What Mr. Gibson's Marriage Act Amendment Provides.

SOME PUBLIC BILLS REPORTED

Hon. Mr. Harcourt Explains the Increases Under the Head of Education For Public Libraries in Remote and Rural Sections—The Education of the Blind—Very Little Criticism.

Toronto, Feb. 13.—In the Legislative Assembly to-day the following bills were introduced: To amend the Local Courts Act, Mr. Graham; respecting electric railways, Mr. Mackay, and to amend the act respecting the Devolution of Estates.

The House went into committee on the bill to amend the Marriage Act. Hon. J. M. Gibson explained that the act made no change in the existing laws as to marriages of consanguinity, but simply provided that a list of the prohibited degrees should be printed upon the forms used in the issue of marriage licenses. The bill was reported with a slight amendment.

The Government bills to provide for the revision of the Statute Law; respecting mortmain and the disposition of land for charitable uses, and respecting the Imperial Statutes relating to property and Civil Rights were reported from Committee.

Hon. J. M. Gibson moved the second reading of the bill to amend the Land Titles Act, explaining that it was intended to meet cases in which there had been an omission to place upon the registrar, covenants under which the land had been sold The bill received a second reading.

Mr. Harcourt's bill to amend the Public Schools Act and Mr. Dryden's bill to amend the Agriculture and Arts Act, were reported from Committee.

In Committee of Supply.

The House went into Committee of Supply and passed the remaining items for Civil Government.

When the item of Administration of Justice, $448,581, was reached Mr. Hoyle drew attention to the fact that in some cases where official fees had been commuted for a fixed salary the latter had considerably exceeded what had been received as fees.

Hon. Mr. Gibson said that though this had been the result of the commutation system in some cases, yet taking the entire list it would be found that the receipts from fees were substantially in excess of the amount paid in salaries for these services.

The item passed.

Under the item of education, $785,699, Hon. R. Harcourt explained some of the increases, among the most noticable being increases from $46,000 to $48,000 for public libraries, and from $1,200 to $2,000 for traveling libraries for remote and rural sections. The province was greatly to be congratulated on the good effected by these libraries.

Mr Whitney complained that books which were classified as "Religion," "Science," etc., did not properly come under those headings.

Technical Education.

Mr. Harcourt said that there was wide room for differences of opinion as to the classification of books, but claimed that all the works put in circulation were of an instructive character. Referring to the item of $10,000 for Technical Education he spoke warmly of the good accompanied by technical training, including the teaching of domestic science. No fewer than 300 girls had taken the course in domestic science in Brantford, and the tentative movement had proved so satisfactory that the number could be greatly increased in future. A first-class School of Technology had been established in Toronto, its facilities had been greatly increased, it had received the support of the Toronto City Council and the results had surpassed their expectations. It was also the duty of the Federal Government at Ottawa to aid in the work of Technical Education if full justice was to be done to the work. In Germany technical education was in charge of the Minister of Commerce. The same rule obtained in Washington, and it was suggested that the department charged with promoting the country's commercial interests should be charged with the matter of encouraging manual training.

Mr. Hoyle said that Mr. Preston had condemned the $10,000 grant to technical education as unworthy of the province. He held the same opinion, and thought that the Administration should do its duty before asking aid from Ottawa. He would be pleased at all times to aid the Government in dealing with the matter in a comprehensive spirit.

Mr. Harcourt claimed that the action of the Government had sown the seed and the result would be seen in a greatly increased demand for technical instruction throughout the province. He was glad to have the honorable gentleman's assurances of support in any further action which he might take to promote the movement.

The Blind Institute.

Some discussion arose after recess in connection with the item of $32,701 for the Blind Institute, which is a slight reduction from last year's amount. Hon. Mr. Stratton, in answer to a question from Dr. Jessop, explained that none were debarred from entering the institution on the ground of inability to pay the fees. The teaching comprised, in addition to reading from raised letters and the ordinary branches of education, a training in music, by means of which a number of the inmates became fitted to earn a living as piano tuners.

Mr. Whitney suggested that the blind and deaf and dumb institutions, which required peculiar supervision from an educational standard, should be under the Educational Department rather than that of the Provincial Secretary. Hon. J. R. Stratton said that there was force in the suggestion and that the Government would consider it. He would not be at all averse to the transfer of some of these institutions from his department to that of one of his colleagues. There was ample accommodation at the Blind Institute for all the blind children of the province. The ordinary age limit was sixteen, but in some special cases pupils over that age had been admitted. Mr. Preston asked whether the Government had any policy as to making provision for blind adults. Mr. Stratton replied that they had considered setting apart a portion of the institute for this class.

Immigration.

Mr. Duff questioned whether the province received full value for the vote for immigration, $4,825. He thought more agricultural immigrants from the Old Country should be secured. Hon. E. J. Davis said that 2,000 agricultural laborers had immigrated last year who had settled in all parts of the province. The item passed.

The items under the head of Maintenance and Repairs of Government and Department Buildings were passed after considerable discussion, and the committee rose.

A Labor Deputation.

The Government was waited upon last night by a large deputation of labor men, and many were the requests they made. There were about 75 in the deputation, which was introduced by Mr. Graham, M.P.P., and this is what the Government was asked:

That the appointment of plumbing inspectors be made compulsory in all cities of 25,000 or over; that the Government establish a printing bureau; that the law requiring the use of sanitary labels on clothing be enforced; that the securing of immigrants by state aid be discontinued; that the Hare-Spence voting system be introduced; that additional factory inspectors be appointed, and that they be placed under the charge of the Bureau of Labor; that no more brooms be made at the Central Prison, or that the brooms made there be labelled, and that the law prohibiting Sunday baking be not interfered with.

The Premier assured the deputation that its requests would be looked into.

Hand in Their Report.

The assessment commission, appointed by the Government to investigate and report upon the assessment system of the province, completed its labors yesterday and handed their report to the Attorney-General. The report will likely be laid upon the table of the House in the course of a few days.

FRIED ONIONS

Indirectly Caused the Death of the World's Greatest General.

It is a matter of history that Napoleon was a gormand, an inordinate lover of the good things of the table, and history further records that his favourite dish was fried onions; his death from cancer of sto-much it is claimed also, was probably caused from his excessive indulgence of this fondness for the odorous vegetable.

The onion is undoubtedly a wholesome article of food, in fact has many medicinal qualities of value, but it would be difficult to find a more indigestible article than fried onions, and to many people they are simply poison, but the onion does not stand alone in this respect. Any article of food that is not thoroughly digested becomes a source of disease and discomfort whether it be fried onions or beef steak.

The reason why any wholesome food is not promptly digested is because the stomach lacks some important element of digestion, some stomachs lack peptone, others are deficient in gastric juice, still others lack hydrochloric acid.

The one thing necessary to do in any case of poor digestion is to supply those elements of digestion which the stomach lacks, and nothing does this so thoroughly and safely as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Dr. Richardson in writing a thesis on treatment of dyspepsia and indigestion, closes his remarks by saying, "for those suffering from acid dyspepsia, shown by sour, watery risings, or for flatulent dyspepsia shown by gas on stomach, causing heart trouble and difficult breathing, as well as for all other forms of stomach trouble, the safest treatment is to take one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after each meal. I advise them because they contain no harmful drugs, but are composed of valuable digestives, which act promptly upon the food eaten. I never knew a case of indigestion or even chronic dyspepsia which Stuart's Tablets would not reach."

Cheap cathartic medicines claiming to cure dyspepsia and indigestion can have no effect whatever in actively digesting the food, and to call any cathartic medicine a cure for indigestion is a misnomer.

Every druggist in the United States and Canada sells Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and they are not only the safest and most successful but the most scientific of any treatment for indigestion and stomach troubles.

FREEDOM OF OLD LONDON.

This High Honor Given to the Colonial Secretary Mr. Chamberlain.

London, Feb. 14.—This metropolis bestowed its highest distinction on Joseph Chamberlain, the Colonial Secretary, yesterday, when, at the Guildhall, it conferred on him the freedom of the city in a gold casket. Mrs. Chamberlain accompanied the Colonial Secretary, and they were greeted on their arrival with a fanfare of trumpets. Mr. and Mrs. Chamberlain were conducted to the library, where they were received by the Lord Mayor, Sir Joseph S. Dimsdale, and the Lady Mayoress.

In replying, Mr. Chamberlain disclaimed any intention of making political capital out of the occasion, and he said he thought he might in behalf of the Government make an appeal for national support. The Government had two great national objects in view—to establish beyond question British authority in South Africa, and to maintain the unity of the empire. Both objects were involved in the South African war.

After a reference to shallow observers abroad who foretold Great Britain's downfall, Mr. Chamberlain concluded with paying a glowing tribute to the colonies, who throughout the war had demonstrated their intention to share the obligations as well as the privileges of the empire. It was a long step towards the consolidation which was now within measure of practical accomplishment.

HOME DYEING MADE EASY.

DIAMOND DYES GIVE PERFECT RESULTS.

"Home dyeing is easy and pleasant work." This is only true when the Diamond Dyes are used. Diamond Dyes are put up in over 50 different colours for silk and wool, with special dyes for cotton. No other dyes are so strong and brilliant, no others so fast and durable, no others can do such a variety of work. With the Diamond Dyes, any woman or girl can do as good work as the professional dyer. No wise woman can afford to risk her goods with imitation or common dyes when the Diamond Dyes are fully warranted to give perfect results. Ask for the Diamond Dyes; refuse all substitutes that may be offered to you.

SANDWICH SHOOTING AFFRAY.

Wounded Man Is in a Serious Condition, Says the Doctor.

Windsor, Feb. 14.—Dr. Ashbaugh, who is attending Frederick Hardis, the man shot by Farmer Francis in Sandwich South Wednesday, says the wounded man is in a serious condition, the result of exposure. After being shot Hardis ran two miles to Tecumseh Village, and was afterwards obliged to drive 12 miles to Windsor in an open wagon before having his injuries dressed.

Hardis contradicts Francis' version of the shooting. He says that he asked Francis for his wages, that he did not threaten Francis with a weapon of any kind, and that Francis shot him without provocation. He is a middle-aged Swede, whose home is some where in the United States. He has been working for Francis almost two years. The neighbors say that he is not of a quarrelsome disposition.

Francis sticks to the story of self-defence. It is said that about nine years ago, when Francis kept a saloon in Walkerville, he got into trouble by threatening to shoot a man. He was released yesterday afternoon on $1,000 bail.

IT MAKES FOR PEACE

Lords Lansdowne and Cranborne Explain Japanese Alliance.

LORD ROSEBERY ADDS APPROVAL

Treaty Is For Mutual Defence in Case There Are Aggressions by Other Powers on Signatories' Interests—The United States Informed in Advance—Some Fears of War With Russia.

London, Feb. 14.—The Parliamentary Secretary of Foreign Affairs, Lord Cranborne, replying in the House of Commons yesterday, to Henry Norman (Liberal) said that the Anglo-Japanese treaty of alliance was communicated to the United States Government before its text was published, and that the United States did not express any opinion on the subject.

Lord Cranborne added the information that Manchuria was no more excluded from the scope of the agreement than any other province of the Chinese Empire.

The substance of the agreement, Lord Cranborne also said, was communicated to Germany.

Mr. Norman said he objected to the British-Japanese treaty on the ground that it was evidently an anti-Russian threat, and that it tied Great Britain to the wheels of Japanese policy, whereby she might be forced to go to war against her own interests.

Lord Cranborne explained that the contracting parties were only bound to undertake mutual defence of their interests when the danger was due to the aggression of others, and the power called upon to help the other must judge whether the conditions of the treaty had been fulfilled.

The Liberal leader, Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, thought that the identical interests of Great Britain, the United States and Japan could have been sufficiently secured by an interchange of notes, instead of by an explicit undertaking of this kind.

The Government leader, A. J. Balfour, said that there seems to be an impression that something hostile to peace was behind the agreement. That was not so. The treaty made strongly for peace, because even the most adventurous nation would shrink from attacking Japan with the knowledge that Great Britain would also have to be encountered. The treaty was not unfriendly to other nations. It would, Mr. Balfour hoped, have a sobering effect on the Continental schools of thought, which imperilled the world's peace.

Continuing, Lord Cranborne said Russia had recognized Japan's special position in Corea, by the agreement of 1898, and almost every power had endorsed the principle of the open door and the territorial integrity of China. The new treaty, therefore, was merely along the lines already accepted by almost every power. Great Britain's commercial position in China was of the greatest importance, and who could say what its importance would become in the future, with China's infinite capacity for expansion? Great Britain's commercial position, though great, was not unchallenged. Spheres of influence did not suit her. She wanted the whole of China open to industrial enterprise. The Government was bound to take every care in safeguarding its commercial rights in the Orient. Japan's special interest was governed by her geographical position. Japan's army and Great Britain's navy were acting in concert, and were peculiarly able to maintain the foregoing policy.

Lord Cranborne said, in conclusion, that he would supplement his earlier statement regarding the United States by saying: "Throughout all the doings in China the relations between Great Britain and the United States were marked by the greatest cordiality. At almost every crisis and in the case of every small difficulty which had arisen during the negotiations at Pekin, the United States and British representatives had always acted together."

"There is no doubt," he said, "that in this agreement we shall command the full approval of the Government of the United States."

This statement was received with cheers.

In the Lords.

The Foreign Secretary, Lord Lansdowne, in the House of Lords yesterday, made a somewhat similar reply on the subject of the new dual alliance, to the one made in the House of Commons by the Under Foreign Secretary, Lord Cranborne. The object of the alliance was threefold—the maintenance of the status quo, the policy of the open door and the maintenance of peace in the far east. No other power's interests in the far east were at all comparable with those of Great Britain and Japan.

Lord Rosebery expressed general approval of the treaty. He said the effect of the treaty would be felt in a great part of Europe and in the rest of the civilized world.

Approve the Treaty.

Pekin, Feb. 13.—The Anglo-Japanese alliance became generally known here to-day, and has created a profound sensation.

Those British and Japanese residents of Pekin, whose opinions are worthy of consideration, believe the alliance insures peace and will effectually check dismemberment schemes of the other powers.

OSHAWA MIRACLE INVESTIGATED.

A Sworn Statement of Facts Almost Beyond Belief.

The Toronto Mail and Empire Sends a Reporter to Oshawa—His Inquiries Result in Complete Verification of Original Story.

Very many startling stories of wonderful cures by Dodd's Kidney Pills have been published in these columns, and in other newspapers all over the country from time to time.

Every case has been so well authenticated as to leave little room for doubt, and yet the statements made and the cures reported, have, in many cases, been so nearly miraculous as to be almost beyond belief.

Recently The Mail and Empire of Toronto, and other papers, published a dispatch from Oshawa, in which it was said that a mechanic in the Oshawa Malleable Iron Works, had been cured of paralysis by Dodd's Kidney Pills, and that, after he had been absolutely helpless for four months, and had been given up by the physicians at the hospital in Toronto.

This was too much for many people to believe, and numerous demands were made on the paper in question for a verification or correction.

One correspondent signing himself "Medicus" in a letter to the Mail and Empire openly disputed the possibility of such a cure.

To get at the real facts a reporter was sent to Oshawa, and the result was a complete, and very satisfactory confirmation of the original despatch. To put the matter absolutely beyond question the following sworn statement was secured:

THE STATEMENT OF MR. BROWN.

In the fall of 1897 I was taken ill with what most of the doctors called paralysis, and others nervous prostration. It commenced with a stiffness and soreness in the calves of my legs and gradually increased till I could not move either of my arms or legs, having lost all power in them. I could not have raised my arms to my head to save my life. For over four months I could not stand or walk alone a single step. I doctored with all the local doctors, and then with a Bowmanville doctor. Each one gave me some different medicine, but the more I took the worse I got.

At last the Bowmanville doctor told me that nothing could be done for me unless I went to the hospital in Toronto where they might perhaps have some later treatment for paralysis which would fit my case. I went there toward the end of January, 1898, and remained under treatment in that institution for a little over four weeks. All was in vain, I got worse. Twelve doctors told me I could not recover, and that nothing could be done for me, so as I was getting worse every day, and there was no hope of their being able to help me in the least, I was removed to my home here. I was like a baby, unable to move.

At this extremity someone advised me to use Dodd's Kidney Pills, and my wife bought a box. We had not the least idea that they would help me, but like a drowning man I grasped at every straw. After I had used the first box the numbness began to leave my finger tips, and I felt a little better, and kept on using the pills. By two months time I could walk a little and shortly afterwards was able to go short distances without assistance.

The first time I went down town one of the doctors who had given me up saw me across the street, and not being able to believe his eyes, went to my brother Robert and asked, "Is that your brother Joe?" Robert told him that it was I, and he said in astonishment, "Well, I never expected to see him around again."

I used altogether twelve boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and by the first of May I was able to start to work again in the shop here, and I have never been sick or off work a day since, and that is over three and a half years ago.

I am glad of the opportunity to make this statement for I am sure that I owe my life, health and strength to work to that great remedy, Dodd's Kidney Pills.

This, therefore, is the true story in detail, of this most remarkable case. No room is left for doubt or dispute, and the original Oshawa despatch is confirmed in all its particulars.

If this is possible — and no one can now doubt it — then one can easily understand how any of the many wonderful cures reported have been accomplished by the same means, Dodd's Kidney Pills.

WHY YOUR HELP.

Reasons Urged for Helping the Free Hospital for Consumptives.

In the letters being received by Sir Wm. R. Meredith, Mr. W. J. Gage and other trustees of the National Sanitarium Association, containing contributions for the furnishing of the new Free Hospital for Consumptives in Muskoka, some very forceful reasons are given why this work should be completed with the least possible delay.

The fact that so many are waiting for admittance to the free hospital—those whom death may overtake if too great delay is experienced—is perhaps the most urgent of all reasons for opening the doors of the Free Consumption Hospital quickly.

The splendid record of the work done in the Muskoka Cottage Sanatorium—the many cures effected and the many helped to new life—is evidence that the Association is working along right lines.

But of the letters: Mr. H. P. Dwight, in sending a contribution of $100, says:—"I have had special opportunities of knowing of the good that has been done by means of the Muskoka Sanatorium, and I feel that it is only right to state that it is hardly possible to conceive of any enterprise in the Dominion more worthy of support and encouragement." A prominent Toronto manufacturer, who stipulated that his name should not be used, and enclosing $50, says:—"I wish you great success, and on behalf of the whole community, for whom you are so strenuously and practically working, I offer you sincere thanks."

A citizen of one of our northern towns, who has opportunity from time to time to study conditions in Gravenhurst, sends $50, and writes:—"We often speak of the good work in which you are engaged and often while at Gravenhurst we had an opportunity of seeing some of the benefits of the same. May God prosper you in your noble work is our sincere wish." Crossley and Hunter, the well-known evangelists, in sending their cheque for $50 from their home in St. Thomas on New Year's Day, say:—"We feel confident that if people could visit the Sanatorium that has been in existence for years, and become impressed, as we were by our visit, as to the excellence and necessity of the institution and the good work that is being done, they would feel it a most desirable opportunity and a rare joy to have a share in furnishing the new Free Hospital."

These letters might be largely multiplied. They all tell the one story of the practical and helpful character of the methods adopted to assist the consumptive to health. The new hospital draws very nearly to completion. Within a few weeks it will be safe to announce that workmen are entirely out of the building, so generously given by two Toronto citizens. Furnishing and equipping is the immediate work. Whilst the trustees feel grateful for the hearty responses in many ways to their appeal, yet a much larger sum must be secured in order to furnish and equip so that patients can be at once admitted. Contributions, large or small, will help to this end, and the hope is that the response will be prompt. The sum of $50 will furnish a bed. Contributions may be sent to Sir Wm. R. Meredith, Chief Justice, 4 Lamport Avenue, Toronto; Mr. W. J. Gage, 54 Front Street West, Toronto; or to the National Trust Co., Limited, Treasurer, 22 King Street East, Toronto.

MR. BRITTAIN'S ADVENTURES.

A Correspondent Furnishes the Examiner With the Following Item.

Mr. F. H. Brittain, of town, took a stroll up to Chemong Park on Sunday last, wishing to see the appearance of the country in its beautiful white robe, and we understand he saw it with a vengeance.

Leaving town at 1.30 p.m. he proceeded up the steep hill leading out to Chemong, and his first experience resulted in an almost total disappearance in the depths of a huge snowdrift at the top of the hill, caused by the strong drifting winds we have lately been favoured with. After struggling out he resumed his onward course, and with the exception of one or two detours through fields, kept manfully to the middle of the road, sinking from about four inches to occasionally a foot or so in the snow and finally arriving at Chemong Park Hotel at 4 p.m.

After enjoying a repast fit for a King at the famous Chemong Park Hotel, he started back on his dark and lonely journey to Peterborough, leaving at 7 p.m., and arriving back at Beterborough at 9.15 p.m., thoroughly satisfied that he had seen "Nature in her wildest aspect," and although somewhat dampened in body, in other respects no worse for his little outing.

THE LATE WM. HAMILTON.

The works of the William Hamilton Manufacturing Company are closed to-day and the big flag is hanging at half mast out of respect to the memory of the founder of the business, who passed away yesterday afternoon shortly after five o'clock.

The death of Mr. William Hamilton, Sr., though sadly anticipated for some time, has greatly pained the community, and the announcement will be received in manufacturing and trade circles throughout Canada with sincere grief. His death came as the result of a paralytic stroke received nine years ago last June, since which time he has been incapacitated from attending to business, but his bodily vigour was not so greatly impaired as to prevent him being driven abroad daily until only a short time ago. During the last year, however, the weight of advancing years told upon his robust constitution in connection with his illness, and the members of the family were aware that the end could not be far off. His decline within the last few weeks was of such a nature that his death was expected almost hourly.

The name of William Hamilton will always live in Peterborough, being indissolubly associated with the advancement of the town as a manufacturing centre. Coming here early in life he invested his capital in the establishment of a foundry, and from this the present magnificent works grew step by step as the town increased in size and importance as an industrial centre. He was born in Swinton, Berwickshire, Scotland, in 1823 and was the son of William Hamilton. He came to Canada in 1844 and worked at the machine business in both Cobourg and Hamilton. In 1848 he went to Buffalo and afterwards lived in Cincinnati and Madison, Indiana, in each of which places he was interested in his chosen occupation. Two years later he went to Shelbyville, Ind., where he started a foundry and machine shop under his own name. It was in 1856 that he came to Peterborough and established an industry for the manufacture of saw-mill and general machinery and thus laid the foundation for the present works, which have achieved an enviable reputation throughout the Dominion and stand at the head of the industries engaged in the tool and machinery manufacturing business in Canada.

Mr. Hamilton took no active part in public life and owed his high standing in the community entirely to his personal record for integrity, coupled with a high sense of honour. His ability and shrewdness as a business man were responsible for the establishment of an industry in Peterborough, which from a small beginning attained such proportions as to give the firm a continental reputation. In politics Mr. Hamilton was a Reformer. He was a member of St. Paul's church.

Late in the forties, the deceased was married to Miss Margaret Patterson, in Indiana, who survives him with six children, viz., Mrs. George Munroe, and Mrs. A. E. Leoh, of town; Mrs. Bruce Ludgate, of Pittsburg; Misses Jessie and Annie, who reside at the homestead; and Mr. William Hamilton, Jr., President and General Manager of the Company.

The funeral will take place on Saturday afternoon, at two o'clock, from the family residence, Reid street.

HOCKEY.

A practice will be held to-morrow night and it will be necessary for the players to have their out-fits ready after the practice, as the train will leave, it is expected, at 8 Monday morning.

The Woodstock Bohemians, who were called to win the O.H.A. Intermediate championship by the Toronto papers have been put out of business by Galt.

Kingston papers think that the Cadets will yet win the round against Peterborough.

Mr. R. Glover will go down to Norwood to-night to referee the match between Keene and Norwood in the semi-finals of the Trent Valley league.

Over $6000 has already been raised for the erection of the new rink in Port Hope. It is to be the finest in Ontario—that is, with the exception of Peterborough's new structure, of course.

Fenelon Falls has a great team this winter and they are very ambitious. They started off to capture the scalps of several O. H. A. teams but were prevented from carrying out their programme by reason of the blockade on the railway lines. However, the Cataract Town men made their way as far as Midland, a town that possesses one of the fastest teams in the Intermediate series of the O.H.A. The Fenelon town managed to tie the home team after a hard fought battle. Concerning the game the Lindsay Post Says:

"The Fenelon Falls team returned yesterday from Midland, where they played an exhibition game with the team of that town. During the progress of the game Patterson, of the Fenelon Falls team, was slightly injured. The game resulted in a tie—6 all, which is a creditable showing for the Cataract Village lads, considering that they were up against a strong O.H.A. seven and on strange ice. Arrangements are about completed for a game here on Monday, when the northern boys will attempt to administer defeat to the locals."

TWO MORE FOR FLAVELLE.

Winnipeg, Feb. 13. — All to-day's games in the big Manitoba curling bonspiel, were in the Walkerville competition for prizes presented by Hiram Walker & Sons, with 110 rinks entered. The weather was mild but the ice was in good condition, and the curling of the finest. All the rinks from a distance were very successful in to-day's games. R. H. Dunbar of St. Paul, had a good victory over Craddock of Rathwell, winning by 5 points. J. D. Flavelle, the Lindsay expert, met rinks from the far west and won both games. He defeated James McKenzie of Indian Head, 15 to 13, and won from Griffith of Glenboro, 15 to 2. The Nelson, British Columbia, team, had a victory and a loss. Rae of Nelson, won from McNeill of Calgary, 10 to 7. Wilson, also of Nelson, lost to Jones of Roland, 13 to 12. C. Edwards, of North Dakota, lost to Jas. Steele, of Boissevain, 14 to 9. The Duluth rinks arrived to-day and played their first game, making a tidy victory over J. McIntosh, of Oak River, 14 to 7. The play to-morrow will be in the Royal Caledonian game.

PETERBOROUGH'S NEW RINK.

We Will Have one of the Best in Ontario.

An Enthusiastic Meeting Which was Held Last Night- Mayor Denne Occupied the Chair- Company to be Floated.

It will be gladsome news to the lovers of hockey, and to many others, in town, to know that Peterborough will in all probability have one of the finest skating rinks in the Province by this time next year. The size of Peterborough's hockey rink has been a source of much adverse criticism for some years on the part of visiting teams who possessed more up-to-date rinks, and, indeed, on the part of referees and officials of the O. H. A.

Peterborough never tried to justify its position, but merely told its critics to wait awhile. This "while" has at last come, the question of a new rink for Peterborough is a live issue, and the matter is being taken up at the right season, when the town has a winning team in the O.H.A., and when hockey enthusiasm is running high.

Last night a meeting was held in the office of Messrs. Hatton & Bradburn, for the purpose of taking preliminary action regarding the erection of the structure. Although the meeting was not very extensively advertised, and it was not intended that much more than an informal talk should take place over the matter, still the meeting got down to business, and determined on some definite line of action. The chair was occupied by His Worship Mayor Denne, who has exhibited a deep interest in the matter of a new rink. Mr. Hatton acted as secretary.

The matter was informally talked over by the 30 or more gentlemen present. There were no long-winded speeches; it was purely an informal talk, and it was unanimously agreed to organize a company with a capital of $10,000. Messrs. W. A. Sanderson, H. LeBrun and G. W. Hatton were appointed a committee to obtain information as to plans, site, etc., to report at a metting to be held on Monday night.

It is proposed to have one of the finest hockey rinks in the province. The $10,000 capital will be divided into 1000 shares of $10 each, and last night about $1000 was subscribed.

The result of the next meeting will be anxiously awaited and the hearty co-operation of the citizens is asked in the matter.

WHO IS LOTTIE?

A High Flyer Who is Reportd to Hail From Peterborough.

The press agent who got the New York papers to print the following story may be a trifle careless about geography and climatic conditions, but he is certainly a good "booster":

"Little Lottie Brandon, the young woman holding the 100-mile record for fast bicycle riding, and who is the first girl ever to attempt to ride the cycle whirl at Keith's Theatre, New York, is a hearty young Canuck who hails from the Georgian Bay District, in the Province of Ontario, round about the region of Peterborough.

"Up in this country they have snow seven months in the year, and this young lass, to facilitate herself in her travels, used to carry a little bob sled and a pair of Norwegian skates with which to help her getting over the country. This made her strong of limb, so that when the springtime came and the bicycle craze was at its height, she determined to get a machine.

"It was not long ere her wonderful speed attracted attention. Overtures were made to the little lady to enter first one and then another match, with the result that she holds numerous records. Not satisfied with this, Lottie attempted trick riding. She is the only girl who ever rode down a shoot-the-chute incline, standing on the seat of her wheel. This feat she accomplished last summer at Coney Island."

NO-DICTATION.

Rev. Mr. Dupraw Thinks a Man Should Smoke if he Wants to.

At a tea meeting at Canifton recently there was a tilt between two ministers over the cigarette. According to the report, Rev. C. H. Fusee started in by saying that the article in question was a little paper filled with tobacco, with a fire at one end and a fool at the other. Rev. Mr. Dupraw was present and immediately took exception to the remarks of the rev. gentleman from Melrose. He said he would smoke a cigar or a cigarette if he wanted to, and he did not think he would make a fool of himself in doing so. A heated discussion followed between the two preachers, until Mr. N. Vermilyea, who was chairman, arose to call them to order, and to pour oil on the troubled waters. "The politician will have to quiet the preachers" he remarked pleasantly. Rev. Mr. Fusee tendered an apology to Mr. Dupraw, but the latter would not accept it. Rev. Mr. Fusee was pastor of the Warsaw and Stony Lake circuit for three years and is well known in this district.

ST. LUKE'S NOTES.

At the meeting of the Men's Guild of St.Luke's Church last night, Rev. Mr. Langfeldt read a paper on "Christian Science," in which he attacked the members of that sect on many different points of their creed. A number of "Scientists" were present, and at the conclusion of the paper an informal discussion was entered into in which views on Christian Science were interchanged.

On April 14th, the Guild will entertain the members of St. Andrew's Young Men's Guild.

WEDDING BELLS.

Nuptials of Mr. Fred Lang and Miss Susan E. Storey.

A very pleasant event took place at Chestnut Grove, Emily, on Wednesday evening, when Mr. Fred Lang claimed for his bride Miss Susan E., daughter of Mrs. David Storey.

Promptly at five o'clock the bridal party entered the parlour and took their places beneath a beautiful arch of English ivy and roses. The bride was given away by her brother, Mr. James A. Storey of Smith.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. H. B. Rowe, of Omemee, in his usual pleasing manner, and was witnessed by a number of friends.

The bride wore a very handsome gown of white mousselaine, the skirt en traine and trimmed with lace and frills. The bodice was ornamented with tucking, lace and ribbon.

A bouquet of white carnations was carried by the bride, who also wore lilies of the valley in her hair.

Two nieces of the bride, Miss Maggie Switzer and Miss Elma Storey, assisted her and were prettily attired in dresses of white mousseleine with trimmings of lace and blue ribbon. They each carried a bouquet of white carnations.

Mr. Herbert Lang, of Smith, and Mr. John Lang, of Owen Sound, were groomsmen.

After Mr. and Mrs. Lang were warmly congratulated by their friends the company entered the prettily decorated diningroom, where an elaborate wedding supper was served.

Many beautiful presents testified to the high esteem in which the bride and groom are held.

The gift of the groom to the bride was a beautiful gold bracelet and a locket set with pearls and opals.

Mrs. Lang's going away dress was of blue cloth with blue and white toque and fur coat.

After a very pleasant evening the happy couple left for their home amid showers of rice and best wishes of all present.

THE LITTLE BLUE BUTTON.

The little blue button the bar-tenders wear
Is the sign of the red-nose and men on a "tear";
They'd like you were dry, morn, noon and night,
For they furnish the stuff that will soon make you tight.
Drink and be merry—they quote an old song,
But they don't give a "jigger" when your money is gone.

The little blue button you see every day,
The little blue button it won't do to say
Is worn by good fellows both young and old;
Its the brazenest lie that ever was told,
Wherever you go its bright shining light,
Like Will-o-the-Wisp leads to a sad plight.

The little blue button it tells its own tale—
The red nose, the big head, and beer that is stale;
So when you're downhearted and feel rather queer,
Be sure to shun whiskey—much less take a beer
Which makes you light-headed and somewhat too gay,
With the cooler for dwelling the rest of the day.

Composed for all the boys,
N. Y. Z.

FUTURE PROVISION.

There are two periods in a man's life, when in the natural course of things, he is unable to take care of himself—his childhood and his old age. During the whole of our lives we are consumers; during middle life only we are producers. It is therefore the aim of every man to put by enough during middle age, so that he will have an independent income for his old age. But, under ordinary circumstances this is often a hard thing to do. Men at that time of life generally find themselves with a family to provide for; perhaps their whole income is required to meet the household expenses, and it is impossible to find a remunerative investment for their small annual savings.

An Imperial endowment policy, as issued by the Imperial Life Assurance Company of Canada, Toronto, is an ideal investment for a man in this position. Should he die at any time the insurance will provide for his family and leave them in an independent position. At the same time he is providing an income for his old age, which will enable him to end his days in comfort. With an "Imperial Endowment Policy" a man need have no fear for his own future, or the future of his wife and family.

SALT AND PEPPER.

Many Think They Are Only of Value In Seasoning Food.

Salt and pepper, as generally considered, are of value in bringing out the flavor of the food to which they are added. That they have any value from a health standpoint is not so generally recognized. You may know that a lump of salt is good for a horse, but you do not stop to consider how important salt is for your own well being. In eastern countries the condiments, such as pepper, are used to profusion in all foods. Gastric troubles common enough in other countries are conspicuously absent, and the free use of pepper has much to do with that fact. Salt and pepper work against fermentation. When the stomach is out of order, or, as the common saying is, upset, it is in a state of fermentation.

A certain very wise physician who has advanced to the point where drugs seem the unimportant thing and common sense the important in making the sick well is advocating the use of pepper and salt even in a glass of milk. It improves the flavor to a remarkable degree, a fact you can prove to your own satisfaction by taking two glasses of milk, one in its original simplicity, the other changed by the addition of a pinch of salt and a dash of pepper, then sip a little of each. The chances are that you will prefer the seasoned milk. Besides improving the flavor and overcoming the tendency toward fermentation the pepper will practically disable any microbes that may be floating in the fluids. Thus the gastric juices will perform their perfect work of changing microbes to food.

One of the best remedies for a disturbed digestion is hot water to which have been added salt and paprika. If taken a full hour and a half before breakfast, a cupful of this very palatable drink will completely cleanse the stomach and leave it in good condition. Out of a hundred persons selected at random it is no exaggeration to say that eighty eat too much and also that these same eighty fail of proper mastication. Weakened digestions are of course the direct result of overeating and insufficient mastication, and weakened digestion means undermined systems. At the extremes of life, youth and old age, it is wisdom to make the diet much the same. A child's nourishment should be very simple, so in old age it should grow plainer and plainer.

THE BEEHIVE

AN ARCHIPELAGO OF 30,000 ISLANDS.

Historic interest surrounds the locality, and health and life permeates the atmosphere among the 30,000 Islands of the Georgian Bay—that great eastern arm of Lake Huron which is visited by thousands of tourists each year. Splendid fishing, good boating and bathing, houseboat and camp life galore, immunity from Hay Fever, magnificent scenery among the tortuous windings of navigable channels, and good hotel accommodation are some of the attractions. Write for handsome illustrated descriptive matter giving full particulars, list of hotels, rates, etc., to M. C. Dickson, D. P. A., Toronto.

Never Loses a Servant.

Every one acquainted with a certain practical millionaire living in a cross street not far from the Fifth avenue highlands wonders how he manages never to lose a good servant. He explains his system in a few words: "I pay fair wages, tip my servants when they deserve it and encourage my guests to do the same. If you dine with me this evening and are particularly pleased with your waiter, Armand, you are at liberty to remember him to the extent of a dollar, no more. Make the tip a quarter, a half, three-quarters, if you please, but never more than a dollar. If you do, he will give me the surplus, and I shall have to return it to you. Tip my butler, my cook, my maids, if you will, but not on the sly. Do it openly, as they are taught to avoid deceit."

Valley Forge.

My impression had been that Valley Forge was a wild glen high among the mountains, where winter frosts and snows held unrelaxing sway for many long, dark months every year. But really its situation is neither lofty nor remote, and the rigors of the cold are not nearly what they would be in our more northerly states. Comparatively little snow falls, and often there is not a week's sleighing the winter through.

The valley is only twenty-three miles from Philadelphia, with which it has direct communication by a railroad that skirts along the Schuylkill river.—Clifton Johnson in Woman's Home Companion.

IT WAS A PRETTY PISTOL.

But It Proved Too Expensive For the Bachelor Girls.

"No, we don't keep a pistol in our apartment any more," said the girl who draws for the magazines and shares a small flat with a young woman who teaches in one of the private schools; "not since an experience we had last winter. Before that we did, and we had a perfect beauty of a pistol, too," she added in a tone of regretful reminiscence, "silver mounted and handle inlaid with pearl. We spent a good deal more than we could afford for it, but we didn't like those plain steel things. Now it's gone, though. I had to give it away, and I don't suppose Marian will ever consent to our having another.

"You see, this is what happened: I was the one who knew more about handling a pistol, so I used to sleep with it under my pillow. We were both awfully afraid of burglars, and after there had been a series of robberies in our neighborhood we were so terror stricken that we were ready to take alarm at the slightest sound. One night, to our horror, we were both aroused by a creaking noise and then a light bump, just as if some one, tiptoeing around, had stumbled against something. For an instant we were simply paralyzed with fright. Then, looking tremblingly about the room, I made out over in one corner a tall, dark figure, perfectly motionless. I reached cautiously for the pistol, aimed it and fired twice. The figure did not fall, and the horribly strange thing was that it did not move or make a sound. Yet I felt sure I had hit it.

"Although we were frightened half to death we felt we must get up and light the gas to investigate. By that time people from the other apartments in the building were rushing to our door to find out what the shots meant. Well, the light revealed matters. I had simply ruined Marian's new forty dollar coat which hung on a hook in that corner. The noise we heard? Oh, that was some one on the floor below who had come in late and stumbled against a chair."

A Turquoise Peculiarity.

About one woman in three cannot wear turquoises without turning them green. Some turquoises will turn green after being worn by any woman. Jewelers of the first class guarantee to replace turquoises if they turn green, and the annual cost of the replacements is stupendous. One jewel house has tried the experiment of having all its employees go around with dozens of turquoises strapped next to their skin to try to detect the green ones, but even when they have passed this test some of them will be brought back by customers, having turned a hideous green. No reason is known for the changing of color.

Moody and the Questionable Book.

Some one asked the late Dwight L. Moody if he had read a certain book. He replied: "No; I believe there is poison in it. At least I have heard so on good authority." The friend said, "But wouldn't it be well for you to read it for yourself?" "No," said Mr. Moody. "If I take poison in my stomach, the doctor has to come with a stomach pump to take it out. Why should I take poison in my mind? I might never be able to get it out."—Margaret Bottome in Ladies' Home Journal.

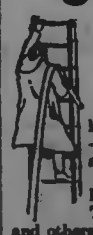
Twenty Years of Bronchitis.

Captain Dunlop, of Kingston, commander of the steamer "Bohemian," of the R. & O. Fleet, suffered unceasingly for twenty years, and although he took treatment all that time permanent relief was not obtained until he took Catarrhozone, which cured him quickly and permanently. The Captain says that Catarrhozone is the best cure for bronchitis on the face of the earth, pleasant to use, quick to relieve and sure to cure." Catarrhozone is a wonderful treatment for all diseases of the Throat, Lungs and Bronchial Tubes. Two months' treatment price $1; small size, 25 cents. Druggists, or Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

Fighting the Fires.



Hard life the plucky firemen lead; out in all sorts of weather, —losing sleep, catching cold and straining their backs.

Hard to have strong, well kidneys under such conditions. That's why firemen, policemen and others, who are exposed to the weather, are so often troubled with Weak, Lame Backs and with Urinary Troubles.

DOAN'S Kidney Pills

are helping hundreds of such to health.

Mr. John Robinson, chief of the fire department, Dresden, Ont., says:

"Prior to taking these pills I had kidney trouble which caused severe pain in the small of my back and in both sides. I had a tired feeling and never seemed to be able to get rested. However, I commenced the use of Doan's Kidney Pills, and after taking three boxes am completely cured. I have now no backache or urinary trouble, and the tired feeling is completely gone. In fact, I am well and strong."

LONGER COATS

Three-Quarter Length Coats and Postilion Backs Popular.

Now that the weather has become more severe the coats belonging to tailor mades are longer. Three-quarter lengths are seen very much at fashionable gatherings, and where the short Eton front is preserved it has added to it a postilion back. The full fledged Russian blouse is very handsome for those whose height will permit them to wear it. These blouses are made of rich velvets and trimmed with bands of fur. The linings are of white satin, and they usually have one large lapel of white lace or embroidery. They are belted in with stitched satin girdles having jeweled buckles or slides.

Broadcloth tailor mades will always be popular on account of the fine figure they give a woman. Black broadcloth suits are relieved with stitched bands of colored cloth or velvet. Persian trimmings figure on the most handsome imported costumes, and a fluffy front of chiffon or lace is a necessity for dressy occasions.

Bias bands of velvet, braid and stitched strappings of peau de sole figure on all the more ordinary suits.

Today's cut shows a black broadcloth tailor made. The jacket has an Eton front and a postilion back. There is a triple collar, the middle one being of Persian panne. The fluffy front and stock are of chiffon, and the vest is of Persian panne. The skirt has a graduated flounce. JUDIC CHOLLET.

GET COMFORT.

There is little comfort in life when a person is afflicted with pain. Donald Babcock, farmer, Harrowsmith, Ont., was a sufferer from rheumatism for years. When advised to take Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure he did so, and two bottles of this wonderful preparation, with two boxes of Climax Iron Tonic Pills, completely cured him. He has not had a twinge of pain since, and attends to his duties regularly. This great blood purifier is put up in bottles containing ten days treatment. Price 50 cents at all drug stores or The Dr. Hall Medicine Co., Kingston, Ont.

DISTRESSING ASTHMA.

To Be Cured This Disease Must Be Fought in Early Stages.

In popular usage asthma is a term employed to describe a well known condition, yet it is significant of the broadened knowledge of diseases in general that, as a distinct disease, the name is applied in a more and more restricted sense by physicians.

For example, the asthma of which Dr. Johnson complains in his later years, as recorded by Boswell, is so clearly set forth by the faithful biographer that the modern physician is even now able to determine that an affection of the heart was responsible for it.

Asthma is often a family affection and is frequently traceable to parents, grandparents or great-grandparents. Most sufferers are of an excitable, emotional or nervous temperament. It bears a rather striking analogy to epilepsy in that its attacks are characterised by suddenness and influenced by strong emotions, like fear or grief, and not infrequently occur at night, when the sufferer may be plunged from deep sleep into an attack. In both diseases excitement during the day is often followed by attacks.

Physicians believe, however, that a high strung organization alone is not sufficient to develop the disorder, but that some other source of irritation must be added—that is, some faulty state of the system elsewhere, like disease of the digestive tract, harmful factors circulating in the blood, obstacles to free breathing in the nose and others.

Whatever may be the source they must be dealt with energetically and at an early stage, since long standing cases of asthma invariably develop changes in the lungs and heart which are permanent. The disease can then be dealt with only by measures aimed at palliating and cutting short the separate attacks and with no reasonable hope of an actual, permanent cure.

For the young sufferer and for those in the early attacks of asthma the writer would emphasize the necessity of a thorough search for and the removal of any and every error in hygienic living in order to avoid the suffering of the chronic asthmatic and the further diseases which it brings in its train.—Youth's Companion.

Cold Affects the Liver.

Severe Headaches, Constipation and Kidney Disorders the Result—Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills Correct the Action of Filtering and Excretory Organs.

The liver is very easily affected by change of temperature, nervous strain and over-eating, and is the cause of more pains and aches than any other organ of the body. It is the duty of the liver to filter from the blood the poisonous bile, which it passes into the intestines to act as nature's cathartic. One of the first results of a sluggish, congested liver is constipation, alternating with looseness of the bowels and what is commonly called biliousness.

Bitter taste in the mouth, sallow complexion, a coated tongue, severe headaches, pain under shoulder blades, fulness in right side, dizziness, ill-temper, peevishness and depression of spirits are indications of an ailing liver. The remarkable effectiveness of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills in regulating the action of the liver, kidneys and bowels easily places it first as a treatment for derangements of these organs. There are few people who are not more or less subject to biliousness in the winter season, when more or less confined to the house, and so rendered sensitive to change of temperature. Meat diet and the artificial foods of winter also tend to make the liver sluggish, the kidneys inactive and the bowels constipated.

The promptness with which Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills correct the action of the filtering and excretory organs and rid the blood of poisonous bile impurities commend them to reasoning people as a suitable family medicine to be kept in the home all the time. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are prompt, pleasant and natural in action, far-reaching in effect and perfectly scientific. They have proven their right to your confidence in scores of thousands of cases, many, no doubt, in your immediate locality.

Do not imagine that you are experimenting when you begin to use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. If your liver, kidneys or bowels are deranged their proper portion will set them right. It does not seem wise to suffer from biliousness, kidney disease, constipation or similar ailments when you may as well keep your health in perfect order with this tried and tested remedy. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Company, Toronto.

His Fall.

Customer—I understand that your chef has been discharged.

CHERRY'S BAD HEART

Put him "down and out" so far as working was concerned, but Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart made a man of him again.

Heart weakness and fainting spells were so acute that Wm. Cherry, of Owen Sound, Ont., had to quit work. His sufferings were very great. One day a druggist said: "Cherry, try Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart; it must be a good thing for it has a large sale." He did so, and took five bottles. To-day he takes his place beside the other workmen, and does as big a day's work as any of them, thanks to this great remedy. 51

ZUNI INDIAN MAGIC.

A PERFORMANCE THAT PUZZLES ALL WHO WITNESS IT.

This Wonderful Feat Rivals the Famous Mango Growing Trick of the Hindoos—Scientists Are Unable to Solve the Mystery.

Nearly everybody has heard of and wondered at the mango growing trick of the Hindoo, by which he makes a seed sprout before the astonished eyes of the European and reach maturity in a very short time.

But few are aware that an equally amazing feat is regularly performed by the Zuni Indians on this continent. Their medicine men at the annual "corn festival" do a stunt of which no satisfactory explanation has ever been advanced. Scientists seeing it have been made, as a cowboy described it, to "look like 30 cents."

Preparation is made for this extraordinary Zuni performance by spreading a large square of clean, yellowish sand on the ground before the southern aperture of the medicine lodge. This sand is carefully smoothed and packed so as to present a firm, level surface.

Around the edges of the sand square are then drawn, by means of a ceremonial arrow, figures representing the Great Spirit, the earth, the sun, the sky and the rain. There are also the symbols for corn and for a bountiful harvest.

The indentations made by the arrow are then filled in with pigments, the clouds and sky with blue, the earth with black and the harvest with chrome yellow. The center of the square is left vacant. When completed, this sand painting is a fine specimen of barbaric art and is far from displeasing to a civilized eye.

When the hour arrives, the officiating medicine man takes his seat in the opening of the lodge facing the sand square. On his right and left, extending out around the square, the chiefs and warriors range themselves according to rank. When all are in position, the medicine man fills the ceremonial pipe with tobacco, lights it and blows one puff of smoke to the east, one to the west, one to the north, one to the south and two to the heavens. He then addresses those assembled, recounting the religious history of the tribe, its wanderings and famine and the benevolence of the Great Spirit in the past. He closes with a prayer for the continuance of fatherly care.

Then he takes a grain of corn from the medicine bag at his waist, thrusts the sacred arrow into the center of the sand square, withdraws it, drops the grain into the opening and carefully smooths down the sand. Resuming his seat, all the assembled chiefs light their pipes and smoke in silence.

If the Great Spirit condescends to answer the prayer of the medicine man, as generally happens, the grain of corn will sprout and send forth a shoot.

After an interval of fifteen or twenty minutes the sand seems disturbed at the spot where the corn was buried. Soon slender light green blades of sprouting corn appear above the surface. The plant rises naturally and rapidly during the day.

By the next sunrise the silk and tassel appear. By noon the ear and stalk have reached full maturity.

Then ripening begins. Finally the blades and husks turn yellow and rattle when they are shaken by the wind. All this, mind you, has been done in thirty-six hours.

On the morning of the second day the corn growing is complete. The medicine man now addresses the watchers, who in company have "watched" the plant grow, for it is never left alone. With appropriate ceremonies he symbolizes the harvest by stripping the ear of its husks.

The corn he places in the medicine bag for future ceremonies, while the stalk is pulled up by the roots and hung over the door of the lodge. The long vigil of the watchers is now ended, and they seek much needed rest and food in order to be ready for the rain dance on the following day.

Every white man witnessing one of these ceremonies is deeply mystified. Above all, he is filled with admiration for the old medicine man. So natural and mysterious has been the process that the spectator feels at times disposed to believe in the presence of some supernatural power.

Yet every sane person knows that this performance has nothing unnatural about it. No white man, however, has discovered the secret. The absence of stage paraphernalia and the crude mechanical knowledge of the Zunis add to the mystery of the whole thing.

Various theories have been advanced in explanation. One is that some shrewd old medicine man discovered by accident some peculiar natural chemical that has the power of forcing the growth of a grain of corn and that this secret has been handed down from one generation of priests to another.

Another favorite explanation is that by great skill the medicine man is able to hypnotize the entire circle of spectators and so produce the result without apparatus of any kind save a yellow stalk of corn from the last harvest.

Others say the feat is accomplished by elaborate machinery concealed in a pit.

But nobody knows exactly.

Plays It Only Once.

"In his time," quoted an actor, "a man plays many parts."

"Yes," admitted the man who had "backed" a show, "and some of them he plays many times, but there's one he never duplicates. He never plays 'angel' but once, for no fellow has the money to repeat it."—Chicago Post.

ONE WOMAN

With two faces; one face bright with health, the other face pinched and drawn by illness. Many a woman can take the portrait of herself made but a few years ago, and holding it by her face in the mirror realize a similar change.

Behind this change in form and feature is always disease, and generally disease which affects the womanly organism. The backache and bearing-down pains put a heavy strain on the nervous system. There is loss of sleep, lack of appetite, and, as a natural result, loss of strength and flesh.

Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures diseases of the womanly organs. It establishes regularity, dries enfeebling drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

"Words cannot tell what I suffered for thirteen years with womb trouble and dragging-down pains through my hips and back," writes Mrs. John Dickson, of Grenfell, Assiniboia Dist., N. W. Ter. "I can't describe the misery it was to be on my feet long at a time. I could not eat nor sleep. Often I wished to die. Then I saw Dr. Pierce's medicines advertised and thought I would try them. Had not taken one bottle till I was feeling well. After I had taken five bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and one of 'Golden Medical Discovery' I was like a new woman. Could eat and sleep and do all my own work. I would entreat of any lady suffering from female weakness to give Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription a fair trial, for I know the benefit she will receive."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure biliousness and sick headache.

LADIES AT DINNER.

From the Position of Carver to the Principal Seat.

The presence of ladies at dinner was brought about by necessity more than by the gallantry due to their sex. Servers and henchmen were superseded by lady carvers, who worked at a side table. In Elizabethan times at private dinners it became usual to place the principal joints and grand pieces at the upper end of the table, above the salt, so the chief guests could see the joints and secure choice helpings. We have something of this kind in the habit which prevails at restaurants of first showing the game, poultry, etc., to the diners before carving. The place which came to the fair sex from necessity was soon claimed by them as their right, and they passed from the menial position of carver to the occupiers of the principal seat. The lady had helpers who deemed it an honor to serve her in their turn.

In this duty of semiprofessional carver lies one of the first causes of the paper frills for legs of mutton, etc., for it was used in every case where the operator had to grasp some tangible part of the joint with the left hand. In 1653 a grand dame suggested that it would appear "more comely and decent to use a fork," this in spite of existing prejudice.

It was at this time, too, that travelers from Holland introduced into England the fashion of seating men and women alternately, the adoption of which put an end to lady carvers. Then the author of "The Cook's Oracle" suggested that joints and large birds should be carved before they came to table, thus starting the now prevailing fashion of carving at the side table.

Gifted With No Fatal Power.

Some months ago the father of a young man who had recently entered the married state had occasion to dispatch his faithful but somewhat outspoken old servant to his son's residence.

When he returned, eager to learn the old man's opinion of the lady, he asked:

"Well, you saw the bride, Thomas?"

"Yigh; Aw seed her."

"She's a very rich lady, Thomas."

"Yigh; so she is, Aw've yerd."

"Well, then, what's your own private opinion, Thomas, eh?"

"Aw think she's a reyt bonny wench to tawk to as weel as bein' rich and cliver; bnt, maisther, iv beauty's a sin she wain't ha' that to answer fur!"

Product of the Clove Tree.

The limbs of the clove tree being very brittle, a peculiar four sided ladder is used. As fast as the buds are collected they are spread in the sun until they assume a brownish color, when they are put into the storehouse ready for market. A ten-year-old plantation should produce twenty pounds of cloves to a tree. Trees of twenty years frequently produce upward of 100 pounds each.

Wall Street Methods.

City Nephew—Where is uncle this morning?

His Aunt—He's out in the barn watering the stock.

City Nephew—I'll go out and help him. I learned all about that in the broker's office where I work.

Reasonable.

Happy Hogan—Say, Birdie, didn't yer never have yer picture taken?

Birdie Blinks—Picture nothin'.

Happy Hogan—Never have de price?

Birdie Blinks—Course I had de price, but I never had de nerve.—Judge.

Why She Complains.

"She finds fault with her husband's saving, they say."

"Yes; she says it isn't like her father used to make."

Feline Depravity.

"Oh, Horace," wailed his young wife, "I have just found out that Ajax, our beautiful Angora cat, has been leading a double life!"

"That makes eighteen, I suppose," said Horace. "What has he been doing?"

"You know I let him out every morning, because he seems to want to go and play out of doors. Well, I have discovered that he goes over to the Robinsons and lets them feed him and pet him."

COMPLETED PROVERBS.

"Labor overcometh all things," even the laborer.

"Only that which is honestly got is gain;" the rest is velvet.

"Ignorance is the mother of impudence;" so father is named.

"Let a child have its will, and it will not cry," but its parents will.

"Pity is akin to love," but kinship does not always signify friendship.

"Whate'er is best administered is best" for the one who administers.

"Employment brings enjoyment" when it brings the means to enjoy.

"Possession is nine points of the law" and frequently all the profits.

"A man who will not flee will make his foes flee," but what if his foes be made of the same metal?

"Every man for himself, and the devil take the hindmost," is the cry of those who are well in front.

"A wise man is moved from his course neither by force nor entreaty," but the same often applies to a mule.

"It is hard to pay for bread that has been eaten," but not so hard as to get bread to eat that has not been paid for.

"In matters of taste there can be no dispute," for every man is so firmly convinced that there is no standard by which his taste can be measured.

A Great Increasing Army.

Composed of men and women that spend heart and soul in the vain effort to overcome a lack of vigour in the body. To replace inertia by vigour, to make good, red, blood, that will build up the system, to have strong nerves, you must eat more, assimilate more. How can it be done? By using Ferrozone. It invigorates, strengthens, possesses magical health giving powers. Get Ferrozone today and make yourself strong and well.

What the Barber Pole Represents.

The barbers of long ago were barber surgeons, but the rapid advance of surgical science has caused them to fall from their high estate. The gilt knob at the end of the barber pole of today represents a brass basin, which but a few decades since was actually suspended from the pole. The basin had a notch cut in it to fit the throat and was used in lathering the customer preparatory to shaving him. The pole represents the staff held by the patient who came to the barber surgeon to be bled. The two spiral stripes painted around it signify two bandages, one for twisting around the arm previous to the act of phlebotomy, or blood letting, the other for binding when the operation was completed.

Something About Faith Cures.

What a great variety of faith cures there must be, some have faith in so-called divine healers, others in certain doctors and still others in the medicines they use. Every person who has tested Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills has faith in them, but faith or no faith they cure just the same, for they act directly and specifically on the kidneys, liver and bowels, and make these organs healthy, active and vigorous. Judging from the enormous demand for these Pills there must be hosts of people that have faith in them.

Manx Servants.

Servants in the Isle of Man who refuse to complete the period of service for which they are engaged are liable to curious punishment. In a case before the magistrate at Peel recently William Corlett, a farm laborer, was charged with refusing to carry out his engagement. It was stated that the penalty provided by a statute of 1665 is that the servant is to be kept in prison and allowed one cake and a cup of water per day until he returns to service. Corlett was spared this punishment, as the magistrate was satisfied that he had not engaged to serve a stated period.

The Front End.

A young couple had been married by a Quaker, and after the ceremony he remarked to the husband:

"Friend, thou art at the end of thy troubles."

A few weeks after the man came to the good minister boiling over with rage, having found his wife to be a regular vixen, and said:

"I thought you told me I was at the end of my troubles!"

"So I did, friend, but I did not say which end," replied the Quaker.

WHAT THE BILL MEANS.

Outline of Measure Introduced in the Legislature.

HEAVY PENALTIES PROVIDED

Drug Store Licenses Amount to be Sold Under These Permits Strictly Limited and Only on Prescription.

(The Globe.)

As stated by Premier Ross in his address in the Legislature Wednesday when introducing the act respecting the sale of intoxicating liquors, the measure is identical with the Manitoba bill, with general terms of which the public are fairly familiar. The following summary of the Bill, however, may be of interest, now that the question is before the people of the Province in concrete form. In all the Bill, which may be cited as "The Liquor Act, 1902," contains 223 clauses, 101 of which are devoted to the usual regulations regarding voting, duties of returning officers, etc. These are followed by a number of schedules giving the forms of documents, oaths, etc., usually used in the taking of votes, and the applications of druggists, ministers and others who, upon the act coming into force, shall be entitled to have liquor upon their premises under certain conditions and for specifically named purposes. It is provided that the vote shall be taken on October 14, the ballot-paper bearing the simple, straightforward question, "Are you in favour of bringing into force the Liquor Act, 1902?" Voters will be only those who were entitled to vote at the election which will precede the referendum, and the hours of voting will be the same as in the election, namely, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

In case a majority of the votes cast on the question are in the affirmative, and that the number of electors voting on the question in the affirmative exceeds one-half of the number of electors who voted at the general elections, the act shall be brought into force by proclamation from and after May 1, 1904.

THE PROHIBITORY CLAUSES.

It is provided in sections 151 and 152 that no person shall, within the Province of Ontario by himself, his clerk, servant or agent, expose or keep for sale directly or indirectly, or upon any pretence, or upon any device, sell or barter, or in consideration of the purchase or transfer of any property or thing, give to any person any liquor without having first obtained a druggist's wholesale license or a druggist's retail license under this act authorizing him so to do, and then only as authorized by such license and as prescribed by this act.

No person within the Province of Ontario by himself, his clerk, servant or agent, shall have, or keep, or give liquor in any place whatsoever, other than in the private dwelling house in which he resides, without having first obtained a druggist's retail license under this act authorizing him so to do, and then only as authorized by such license. This section shall not prevent any person engaged in mechanical business, or in scientific pursuits, from having in his possession alcohol for mechanical or scientific purposes, as the case may be, in a quantity not exceeding ten gallons at any one time, but the alcohol used in the preservation of specimens for scientific purposes shall not be included in said ten gallons, or to prevent any clergyman from having in his possession a quantity of wine for sacremental purposes not exceeding two gallons at any one time; but such person in this sub-section mentioned so having in his possession such liquor shall not use or consume, or allow to be used or consumed, any of said liquor as a beverage.

FOR THE SICK.

Nothing in this section shall prevent a public hospital from having liquor in its possession for the use of the patients in the hospital, but such liquor shall not be consumed by persons other than a patient in the hospital, and then only when prescribed for or administered by a physician.

Nothing herein contained shall prevent a sick person from having in his room where he sleeps the liquor prescribed for him by a physician. But no liquor so prescribed shall be consumed or drunk by any other person than the sick person.

Strict interpretation is put upon the words "wholesale and retail druggists," and "private dwelling house."

CLUBS EXPRESSLY BARRED.

It is expressly provided that clubs, associations or unincorporated societies, may not use, barter or sell liquor on their premises, and the same rule applies to boarding houses or lodging houses, where there are more than three lodgers other than members of the family. Brewers and distillers licensed by the Dominion of Canada for the manufacture of liquor shall not be prevented from keeping or having liquor manufactured by them, providing the building containing it does not communicate with any building which under the Act may not contain liquor. Liquor, however, may be held for export sale. "No person shall use or consume liquor in the Province purchased and received from any person within the Province, unless it be purchased and received from a licensee. This section shall not apply to any person who within a private dwelling house innocently uses or consumes liquor not thus purchased and received."

RECORDS OF SALE.

Records must be kept of licensees of all liquors sold, failure to make such record to be prima facie evidence of illegal sale. Liquor shall not be consumed upon a licensed premises, or in a distillery or brewery. Provisions are made for the issuance of prescriptions in cases of need by physicians, dentists, and veterinary surgeons, in the latter cases applying to dumb animals, and limited to one gallon.

PENALTIES AND ENFORCEMENT.

The penalties provided for violations are very severe, ranging in fines from $50 to $1000, and imprisonment from three to twelve months. It is provided that the "duty of seeing that the provisions of this act are complied with and of enforcing the same, and of prosecuting persons offending against such provisions, shall devolve upon the inspectors appointed pursuant to this act. But nothing herein contained shall prevent or be construed to prevent any person from laying an information or prosecuting in respect of any offence, or supposed offence, against the provisions of this act, and the Department of the Attorney-General shall not prevent any such prosecutions." Provision is made for a chief inspector residing in Toronto, for a local inspector for each electoral division, and such further inspectors as may be necessary. Every inspector and every policeman and constable shall be deemed to be within the provisions of this act, and where information is given to such that there is cause to suspect that some person is violating the provisions of this act, it shall be his duty to make diligent inquiry into the truth of such information, and to enter complaint, in his own name, before the proper County Court Judge, Magistrate or Justice or Justices of the Peace, without communicating the name of the person giving such information.

Witnesses must answer questions in prosecutions, and the burden of proving the right to have or keep or sell or give liquor shall be on the person accused of improperly or unlawfully having or keeping or selling or giving such liquor.

RYE BREAD AND COFFEE.

This Is the Staple Food of Workingmen In Germany.

The workingman in Germany must have coffee, and plenty of it, and a little meat. Butter is practically unknown to him, lard being used in its stead. He rarely uses milk, eggs or white flour, and he never thinks of buying any of the better cuts of meat. Canned goods, familiar to every American worker, are absolutely unknown to him.

His staple food is rye bread, which he buys in enormous loaves. His wife or his little girl goes to market for this bread and brings it home clasped in her arms unwrapped. I have seen a little tot of a towheaded girl staggering homeward with a loaf almost as big as she was, and as she walked she gnawed lustily at the flinty end of the loaf. Indeed I have heard it said that the eating of this hard crusted bread gives the German workman teeth of unequaled excellence.

And this bread is good, thoroughly good. The government, which supervises everything and everybody, guards the rye bread of the people with jealous care. The bakers are watched, compelled to give full weight and make good bread. I have eaten it in a number of different towns, and it was always sweet to the taste and wholesome. This bread is fairly cheap, costing usually from 35 to 50 pfennigs (9 to 12 cents) a loaf, though it, too, has risen in price with increased demand.

Upon this great loaf the German empire may be said to rest. All Germany has grown up on it. In one form it is the basic ration of the German army, and many a peasant can live very well for a considerable time though he has nothing else to eat.

Nova Scotians.

Most of the people in Pictou and Antigonish, in Nova Scotia, and a great part of the neighboring counties are descendants of the Scotch highlanders who settled there about a century ago.

In size the sun equals 1,300,000 earths, but owing to its smaller density its weight equals only 300,000 earths.

THE RUSSIAN VIEW

Officials Say Japanese Alliance Agrees With Her Aims.

SHE WOULD HAVE SIGNED IT EVEN

The Hour, However, Doubts That the Eagle Is a Bigger Partner With the British Lion and the Flowery Kingdom in the Preservation of China—Sir William Vernon-Harcourt's View.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 15.—The Russian official view of the Anglo-Japanese treaty was communicated to the correspondent of the Associated Press as follows:

"We accept the news of the entente with the most complete equanimity, and are very happy to ascertain that England and Japan are pledged to maintain the integrity of China and the independence of Corea, two principles which Russia was the first to establish as the basis of her foreign policy in the Orient.

"Russia would willingly have subscribed to the agreements in the preamble. The English-Japanese say their convention has only essentially pacific aims. This makes it all the more astonishing when they speak of war and coalitions. What power they have in view we cannot say. But, in any case, if peace is menaced in the extreme Orient, Russia, for her part, will not fail to take all the measures necessary to safeguard her interests. All Russia's conventions with Japan have aimed at the preservation of the integrity of China and the independence of Corea, and it is true that Minister Kurino came to us immediately to communicate the text of the agreement and give the most amicable assurances.

"We have reason to believe it is not true that America, with which we remain in perfect accord, is a silent partner in the affair. We have given America positive assurances that Russia will do nothing which will disturb the interests of America in China. We do not believe America is anxious about the situation. Furthermore, we have received satisfactory assurances that America is not taking any steps against us in China."

SIR WILLIAM'S VIEW.

Vernon-Harcourt's Strong Opposition to Japanese Treaty.

London, Feb. 15.—Sir William Vernon-Harcourt, in the House, speaking of the Anglo-Japanese treaty, said he was not satisfied with the Government's assurance, especially its motives for concluding this treaty. What was the status quo in the far East, and especially Manchuria, and what if Japan were attacked by a great, overwhelming single power? Was there no obligation to prevent her being crushed by a single power? Moreover, if there was a far eastern war it would not be confined to China and Chinese seas. They would probably be faced by opponents capable of pouring unlimited forces into Persia and Afghanistan and across the India frontier. Consequently the Government was staking upon the throw of dice peace and the future of India.

The allied fleets would be engaged in the Mediterranean and Baltic, as well as in the China seas. Was not the Government, he asked, undertaking such a responsibility lightly? At a time when it was compelled to search throughout the British possessions to strengthen its army, when it had actually depleted the defences of India to get more troops it ought to have had much further information respecting the operations of the treaty and the perils it might involve.

The treaty embodied a policy that was contrary to the wholesome traditions of Great Britain for nearly a century. These had suddenly been abandoned to embark upon a policy the future of which nobody could forecast, a policy which bound the allies to maintain the integrity and independence of China for five years at the price of war, if necessary. All treaties of this nature had an immense evil. They imposed on those signing them the necessity for doing what would be disastrous to their fortunes, or threatened them with disaster at the prospect of refusing to act, which would be injurious to the nation's credit.

THE ADDRESS DEBATE

The Mover and Seconder Praised for Their Efforts.

SPEECHES OF THE LEADERS

The End of the Debate on the Address in Reply May Be Longer Than Anticipated Owing to Action on Transportation Question by Messrs. Maclean and Bourassa—Lady Dufferin's Cable.

Ottawa, Feb. 15.—It was generally expected that the debate on the address would close yesterday afternoon, after speeches by the mover and seconder, and by the Opposition leader and the Premier. That expectation, however, was not fulfilled. Mr. Maclean desired to be heard, and he was given the opportunity last night. Then Mr. Henri Bourassa of Labelle gave notice of an amendment calling for a railway policy which would yield some return to the people for the sacrifices they have made to further the development of trade, and especially to prevent Canadian railway systems from falling under the control of foreign railway corporations. Mr. Bourassa moved the adjournment of the debate, and has the floor for Monday, when he will descant on the motion which he has laid before the House. The obtrusion of the railway question at this stage seems to promise a discussion which may be protected much beyond the ordinary length, since there is scarcely a member of the House whose constituents are not interested to a greator or lesser degree. It is perhaps just as well that the matter has arisen at this early period, although it may be doubted whether any practical results will follow from a resolution such as Mr. Bourassa has framed.

Mr. Campbell's Speech.

Mr. Arch. Campbell, the member for West York, had an attentive and highly appreciative hearing from the House during his speech in support of the motion for the adoption of the address. He is a facile speaker, and he reviewed the leading points in the speech from the throne, and discussed the general condition of the country with an earnestness and eloquence which won repeated rounds of applause. His allusions to the royal visit in September and to the forthcoming coronation ceremonies were most happy. Taken altogether, it was a stirring, patriotic deliverance.

Dr. Beland Also Spoke Well.

Dr. Beland, the young member from Beauce, won encomiums from the Opposition leader and Sir Wilfrid Laurier, which his eloquence and charm of manner well deserved. He first spoke in French and afterwards in English. In both he is equally at home. With a pleasing presence and magnetic personality, Dr. Beland promises to develop into one of the most useful and prominent members of the House.

The Opposition Leader.

Mr. Borden was in a most sarcastic mood, and spent considerable time in criticizing the omission from the speech of matters which he considered should have found mention therein, notably the fast Atlantic steamship project, the exclusion of Canada from the benefits of the minimum German tariff, and the Alaska boundary question. He endeavored to create the impression that there was disunion in the Cabinet in the tariff question by quoting an alleged statement of Mr. Sifton's in regard to the woollen industry, and contrasting with it speeches made by Mr. Tarte in Montreal upon the importance of the manufacturing industries. He concluded with expressions of regret at the death since the last session of three members of the House, Hon. R. R. Dobell and Messrs. Clarke Wallace and Bell, and the passing of the great pro-consul, the late Lord Dufferin.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier's Reply.

The Premier chided the Opposition leader upon his doleful and lugubrious style of speech, and attributed Mr. Borden's melancholy to the fact that the existing progress and prosperity in Canada left him nothing to criticize. With respect to the fast Atlantic service, the Government had four years yet before the time spent by the Conservatives in dealing with it would be equalled. The German imposition of the maximum tariff against Canadian products was due to the denunciation of the German treaty, which the Conservatives had endeavored to effect, but without result. However, attempts were being made to better the trade relations between the two countries, and although they had not yet proved a success, it would be premature to say they were abortive. Mr. Borden was wrong in his statement about the decline of trade with Germany. The Alaska boundary question was in the same position that it was last year, although the Government had pressed upon the Imperial authorities in season and out of season to bring the matter to a close. Nothing could be more unsatisfactory, and even dangerous, than the present state of affairs. Sir Wilfrid could not see, as did some people, that there was any danger in the investment of American capital in Canadian enterprises, but it was a thing to be welcomed. In terms of characteristic eloquence he endorsed what had been said with respect to the death of Lord Dufferin and the three lamented members of the Canadian Parliament. Mr. Monk followed, and reproached the Government for ignoring the transportation question in the speech from the throne.

Lady Dufferin's Cable.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier received yesterday from the bereaved Marchioness of Dufferin the following acknowledgment of the cablegram of sympathy sent by him yesterday on behalf of the Government: "My heartfelt thanks to the Government of Canada for their expression of sympathy with me in my great sorrow. My husband loved Canada, and was ever grateful for the kindness and affection shown him by her people. (Signed) Harriet Dufferin."

PROHIBITION CONVENTION

To be Held in Peterborough on February 20th.

The appended circular has been sent out by the Dominion Alliance:

To the Friends of Temperance in the County of Peterborough:—

The decision of the Privy Council sustaining the Prohibition Act of Manitoba has made "Prohibition for Ontario," the rallying cry for forward action in this Province. The liquor men are marshalling their well organized forces. The friends of temperance must be up and doing. In order to consider the situation, the Executive of the Dominion Alliance has decided to call a Mass Convention of the Temperance Workers of each Electoral Division, that they may consult together and take such action as will best promote the interests of the cause.

You are therefore most earnestly invited to attend a convention to be held in the Y.M.C.A. Hall, Peterborough, on Thursday, February 20th, 1902, at two o'clock. All churches, Young People's Societies and Temperance organizations are requested to send delegates.

Public Meeting in the evening to be addressed by Prof. John A. Nicholls, and others.

Do not fail to come yourself, and urge the attendance of all others who desire to overthrow the liquor curse.

Yours very truly,

JOHN A. NICHOLLS

Provincial Organizer Dominion Alliance.

St. Andrew's Church.

At St. Andrew's church to-morrow the morning subject will be "Christ's Statement regarding the True Religious Life." In the evening the subject will be, "A New Testament Tragedy, or the Strange Choice of Herodias." The choir will repeat the anthem, "O Taste and See that the Lord is Good," at the morning service.

LABOUR UNION'S RAPID GROWTH

Important Meeting of the Local Federal Union.

BENEFITS OF LABOUR BUREAU

Addresses by Secretary Stebbing and Organizer Kennedy—Fifty-nine New Members Installed—Tinsmith's Union Formed.

The regular weekly meeting of the Peterborough Federal Union, No. 8340, took place on Friday evening, and the hall was packed to the doors. Week by week the interest in this important labour organization increases, and the men are rallying their shopmates and fellow-workers with renewed zeal and enthusiasm.

The President, Mr. W. Henry, took the chair sharp on time. For a considerable time before eight o'clock the hall was rapidly filling with members, so that the president and his officers, did not have to wait a moment for a good quorum.

After the reading of the minutes of the last regular meeting by Secretary Redfern, it was announced that a large number of new applicants for membership were in waiting in the ante-room. Treasurer W. Taylor and Financial Secretary A. Kingscote were instructed to proceed and collect the fees after which over fifty new members were initiated.

The chairman then introduced to the meeting Mr. R. Glocking, of Toronto, Secretary of the Ontario Labour Bureau. He asked Mr. Glocking to address the meeting and give them any information which would be of interest to the Union.

Mr. Glocking thanked the chairman for the opportunity of speaking. He said he was always glad when he was within convenient distance of a labour organization, to explain what was being done in the interests of the workingman. Ontario was the first province to establish a Labour Bureau, and it was with a full sense of the responsibility attaching to the proper performance of the duties of the position, that he had accepted the office of secretary. He explained that the object of the Bureau was to obtain information and statistics relating to employment, wages and hours of labour throughout the province, and to solicit information relating to strikes and labour difficulties, trades unions, labour organizations, etc. He pointed out the value and utility of statistics as a factor in perfecting legislation in the interests of the workingmen, and helping to solve many of the difficult questions concerning capital and labour. Mr. Glocking then briefly referred to the important legislation passed by the Government, showing the policy to be strongly in the interests of the workingman. He spoke of the Preston Bill for the conciliation of trade difficulties. This measure, he said, was on the lines of legislation which had been so highly successful in the Old Country, and received the approval of the labour bodies of this province. Mr. Glocking asked the union to furnish him with any information that might be of general interest to wage earners, and not to hesitate to forward him their views and suggestions on all matters in which the Bureau of Labour could be of service to them. The speaker was loudly applauded when he resumed his seat.

The chairman then called on Mr. J. H. Kennedy, of Toronto, who was present as the Business Agent of the Toronto Trades and Labour Council.

Mr. Kennedy said he was there on this occasion as the organizer for the Amalgamated Sheet Metal Workers of America. He had visited Peterborough some months ago in the interests of the local tinsmiths, and was pleased to state that he had just come from another hall in town after completing the organization of another new union to be called "The Tinsmiths' Local Union, No. 194, of the Sheet and Metal Workers." He had installed their first officers and started the men on a prosperous footing. Mr. Kennedy also pointed out the many benefits to be derived from the Bureau of Labour. He thought the Government had stood by workingmen in giving them much important legislation, and thought they were very wise in doing so. Labour men to-day occupied a different position to what they did years ago, and he urged upon the men to show their appreciation of the concessions they had received, and to make the best use of them. (Cheers.)

A vote of thanks to the speakers was then moved by Mr. George Hall and seconded by Mr. R. F. McGregor, and carried.

FIFTY YEARS AGO.

An Incident in Connection With St. Joseph's Church, Douro.

Fifty years ago last Sunday was a great day in Douro. On that day Bishop Phelan of Kingston blessed and erected the Stations of the Cross in St. Joseph's church. The Bishop was assisted on the solemn occasion by Rev. John Butler, Pastor of Peterborough, Rev. James Chisholm, Pastor of Lindsay, Rev. John Bourke, Pastor of Emily, and Ennismore, Rev Hugh Fitzpatrick, Pastor of Douro, and Rev. James Farrally, of the Cathedral staff, Kingston. They have all passed away with the exception of the last named, who is pastor of Belleville. There was a great concourse of people, and the two laymen who signed the official statement in the Parish Register, viz., Mr. George Clark, J. P., and Mr. Michael Walsh, have also passed away. The devotion inaugurated 50 years ago lives and thrives.

THE RUSSIAN VIEW

Officials Say Japanese Alliance Agrees With Her Aims.

SHE WOULD HAVE SIGNED IT EVEN

The Bear, However, Doubts That the Eagle Is a Silent Partner With the British Lion and the Flowery Kingdom in the Preservation of China—Sir William Vernon-Harcourt's View.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 15.—The Russian official view of the Anglo-Japanese treaty was communicated to the correspondent of the Associated Press as follows:

"We accept the news of the entente with the most complete equanimity, and are very happy to ascertain that England and Japan are pledged to maintain the integrity of China and the independence of Corea, two principles which Russia was the first to establish as the basis of her foreign policy in the Orient.

"Russia would willingly have subscribed to the agreements in the preamble. The English-Japanese say their convention has only essentially pacific aims. This makes it all the more astonishing when they speak of war and coalitions. What power they have in view we cannot say. But, in any case, if peace is menaced in the extreme Orient, Russia, for her part, will not fail to take all the measures necessary to safeguard her interests. All Russia's conventions with Japan have aimed at the preservation of the integrity of China and the independence of Corea, and it is true that Minister Kurino came to us immediately to communicate the text of the agreement and give the most amicable assurances.

"We have reason to believe it is not true that America, with which we remain in perfect accord, is a silent partner in the affair. We have given America positive assurances that Russia will do nothing which will disturb the interests of America in China. We do not believe America is anxious about the situation. Furthermore, we have received satisfactory assurances that America is not taking any steps against us in China."

SIR WILLIAM'S VIEW.

Vernon-Harcourt's Strong Opposition to Japanese Treaty.

London, Feb. 15.—Sir William Vernon-Harcourt, in the House, speaking of the Anglo-Japanese treaty, said he was not satisfied with the Government's assurance, especially its motives for concluding this treaty. What was the status quo in the far East, and especially Manchuria, and what if Japan were attacked by a great, overwhelming single power? Was there no obligation to prevent her being crushed by a single power? Moreover, if there was a far eastern war it would not be confined to China and Chinese seas. They would probably be faced by opponents capable of pouring unlimited forces into Persia and Afghanistan and across the India frontier. Consequently the Government was staking upon the throw of dice peace and the future of India.

The allied fleets would be engaged in the Mediterranean and Baltic, as well as in the China seas. Was not the Government, he asked, undertaking such a responsibility lightly? At a time when it was compelled to search throughout the British possessions to strengthen its army, when it had actually depleted the defences of India to get more troops it ought to have had much further information respecting the operations of the treaty and the perils it might involve.

The treaty embodied a policy that was contrary to the wholesome traditions of Great Britain for nearly a century. These had suddenly been abandoned to embark upon a policy the future of which nobody could forecast, a policy which bound the allies to maintain the integrity and independence of China for five years at the price of war, if necessary. All treaties of this nature had an immense evil. They imposed on those signing them the necessity for doing what would be disastrous to their fortunes, or threatened them with disaster at the prospect of refusing to act, which would be injurious to the nation's credit.

THE ADDRESS DEBATE

The Mover and Seconder Praised for Their Efforts.

SPEECHES OF THE LEADERS

The End of the Debate on the Address in Reply May Be Longer Than Anticipated Owing to Action on Transportation Question by Messrs. Maclean and Bourassa—Lady Dufferin's Cable.

Ottawa, Feb. 15.—It was generally expected that the debate on the address would close yesterday afternoon, after speeches by the mover and seconder, and by the Opposition leader and the Premier. That expectation, however, was not fulfilled. Mr. Maclean desired to be heard, and he was given the opportunity last night. Then Mr. Henri Bourassa of Labelle gave notice of an amendment calling for a railway policy which would yield some return to the people for the sacrifices they have made to further the development of trade, and especially to prevent Canadian railway systems from falling under the control of foreign railway corporations. Mr. Bourassa moved the adjournment of the debate, and has the floor for Monday, when he will descant on the motion which he has laid before the House. The obtrusion of the railway question at this stage seems to promise a discussion which may be protected much beyond the ordinary length, since there is scarcely a member of the House whose constituents are not interested to a greater or lesser degree. It is perhaps just as well that the matter has arisen at this early period, although it may be doubted whether any practical results will follow from a resolution such as Mr. Bourassa has framed.

Mr. Campbell's Speech.

Mr. Arch. Campbell, the member for West York, had an attentive and highly appreciative hearing from the House during his speech in support of the motion for the adoption of the address. He is a facile speaker, and he reviewed the leading points in the speech from the throne, and discussed the general condition of the country with an earnestness and eloquence which won repeated rounds of applause. His allusions to the royal visit in September and to the forthcoming coronation ceremonies were most happy. Taken altogether, it was a stirring, patriotic deliverance.

Dr. Beland Also Spoke Well.

Dr. Beland, the young member from Beauce, won encomiums from the Opposition leader and Sir Wilfrid Laurier, which his eloquence and charm of manner well deserved. He first spoke in French and afterwards in English. In both he is equally at home. With a pleasing presence and magnetic personality, Dr. Beland promises to develop into one of the most useful and prominent members of the House.

The Opposition Leader.

Mr. Borden was in a most sarcastic mood, and spent considerable time in criticizing the omission from the speech of matters which he considered should have found mention therein, notably the fast Atlantic steamship project, the exclusion of Canada from the benefits of the minimum German tariff, and the Alaska boundary question. He endeavored to create the impression that there was disunion in the Cabinet in the tariff question by quoting an alleged statement of Mr. Sifton's in regard to the woollen industry, and contrasting with it speeches made by Mr. Tarte in Montreal upon the importance of the manufacturing industries. He concluded with expressions of regret at the death since the last session of three members of the House, Hon. R. R. Dobell and Messrs. Clarke Wallace and Bell, and the passing of the great pro-consul, the late Lord Dufferin.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier's Reply.

The Premier chided the Opposition leader upon his doleful and lugubrious style of speech, and attributed Mr. Borden's melancholy to the fact that the existing progress and prosperity in Canada left him nothing to criticize. With respect to the fast Atlantic service, the Government had four years yet before the time spent by the Conservatives in dealing with it would be equalled. The German imposition of the maximum tariff against Canadian products was due to the denunciation of the German treaty, which the Conservatives had endeavored to effect, but without result. However, attempts were being made to better the trade relations between the two countries, and although they had not yet proved a success, it would be premature to say they were abortive. Mr. Borden was wrong in his statement about the decline of trade with Germany. The Alaska boundary question was in the same position that it was last year, although the Government had pressed upon the Imperial authorities in season and out of season to bring the matter to a close. Nothing could be more unsatisfactory, and even dangerous, than the present state of affairs. Sir Wilfrid could not see, as did some people, that there was any danger in the investment of American capital in Canadian enterprises, but it was a thing to be welcomed. In terms of characteristic eloquence he endorsed what had been said with respect to the death of Lord Dufferin and the three lamented members of the Canadian Parliament. Mr. Monk followed, and reproached the Government for ignoring the transportation question in the speech from the throne.

Lady Dufferin's Cable.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier received yesterday from the bereaved Marchioness of Dufferin the following acknowledgment of the cablegram of sympathy sent by him yesterday on behalf of the Government: "My heartfelt thanks to the Government of Canada for their expression of sympathy with me in my great sorrow. My husband loved Canada, and was ever grateful for the kindness and affection shown him by her people. (Signed) Harriet Dufferin."

PROHIBITION CONVENTION

To be Held in Peterborough on February 20th.

LABOUR UNION'S RAPID GROWTH.

Important Meeting of the Local Federal Union.

BENEFITS OF LABOUR BUREAU

Addresses by Secretary Glocking and Organizer Kennedy—Fifty-nine New Members Installed—Tinsmith's Union Formed.

The regular weekly meeting of the Peterborough Federal Union, No. 2340, took place on Friday evening, and the hall was packed to the doors. Week by week the interest in this important labour organization increases, and the men are rallying their shopmates and fellow-workers with renewed zeal and enthusiasm.

The President, Mr. W. Henry, took the chair sharp on time. For a considerable time before eight o'clock the hall was rapidly filling with members, so that the president and his officers, did not have to wait a moment for a good quorum.

After the reading of the minutes of the last regular meeting by the secretary Redfern, it was announced that a large number of new applicants for membership were in waiting in the ante-room. Treasurer W. Taylor and Financial Secretary A. Kingscote were instructed to proceed and collect the fees after which over fifty new members were initiated.

The chairman then introduced to the meeting Mr. R. Glocking, of Toronto, Secretary of the Ontario Labour Bureau. He asked Mr. Glocking to address the meeting and give them any information which would be of interest to the Union.

Mr. Glocking thanked the chairman for the opportunity of speaking. He said he was always glad when he was within convenient distance of a labour organization, to explain what was being done in the interests of the workingman. Ontario was the first province to establish a Labour Bureau, and it was with a full sense of the responsibility attaching to the proper performance of the duties of the position, that he had accepted the office of secretary. He explained that the object of the Bureau was to obtain information and statistics relating to employment, wages and hours of labour throughout the province, and to solicit information relating to strikes and labour difficulties, trades unions, labour organizations, etc. He pointed out the value and utility of statistics as a factor in perfecting legislation in the interests of the workingmen, and helping to solve many of the difficult questions concerning capital and labour. Mr. Glocking then briefly referred to the important legislation passed by the Government, showing the policy to be strongly in the interests of the workingman. He spoke of the Preston Bill for the conciliation of trade difficulties. This measure, he said, was on the lines of legislation which had been so highly successful in the Old Country, and received the approval of the labour bodies of this province. Mr. Glocking asked the union to furnish him with any information that might be of general interest to wage earners, and not to hesitate to forward him their views and suggestions on all matters in which the Bureau of Labour could be of service to them. The speaker was loudly applauded when he resumed his seat.

The chairman then called on Mr. J. H. Kennedy, of Toronto, who was present as the Business Agent of the Toronto Trades and Labour Council.

Mr. Kennedy said he was there on this occasion as the organizer for the Amalgamated Sheet Metal Workers of America. He had visited Peterborough some months ago in the interests of the local tinsmiths, and was pleased to state that he had just come from another hall in town after completing the organization of another new union to be called "The Tinsmiths' Local Union, No. 194, of the Sheet and Metal Workers." He had installed their first officers and started the men on a prosperous footing. Mr. Kennedy also pointed out the many benefits to be derived from the Bureau of Labour. He thought the Government had stood by workingmen in giving them much important legislation, and thought they were very wise in doing so. Labour men to-day occupied a different position to what they did years ago, and he urged upon the men to show their appreciation of the concessions they had received, and to make the best use of them. (Cheers.)

A vote of thanks to the speakers was then moved by Mr. George Ball and seconded by Mr. R. F. McGregor, and carried.

FIFTY YEARS AGO.

An Incident in Connection With St. Joseph's Church, Douro.

Fifty years ago last Sunday was a great day in Douro. On that day Bishop Phelan of Kingston blessed and erected the Stations of the Cross in St. Joseph's church. The Bishop was assisted on the solemn occasion by Rev. John Butler, Pastor of Peterborough, Rev. James Chisholm, Pastor of Lindsay, Rev. John Bourke, Pastor of Emily, and Emismore, Rev Hugh Fitzpatrick, Pastor of Douro, and Rev. James Farrally, of the Cathedral staff, Kingston. They have all passed away with the exception of the last named, who is pastor of Belleville. There was a great concourse of people, and the two laymen who signed the official statement in the Parish Register, viz., Mr. George Clark, J. P., and Mr. Michael Walsh, have also passed away. The devotion inaugurated 50 years ago lives and thrives.

LETTER TO MOTHERS.

By Mrs. J. H. Haskins, of Chicago, Ill., President Chicago Arcade Club.

Comforting Words to Women Regarding Childbirth.

All who are at all familiar with social life at the southside of Chicago know well the Arcade Club, and will tell you that it is one of the largest and most influential clubs in Chicago. It can be readily understood, therefore, that such a prominent woman as the head of this club could have only one object in view in allowing her portrait and letter to be published in connection with any medicine, and that is, to do good to other suffering mothers. Well does Mrs. Haskins know that there are thousands of women who dread the period of childbirth; thousands who are prostrated nigh unto death at the birth of each child, and for months afterwards are weak and miserable, and almost courting death as a relief from suffering.

A capable mother must be a healthy mother. The experience of maternity should not be approached without careful physical preparation. Care and careful counsel is what the expectant and would-be mother needs, and this counsel she can secure without cost by writing to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass.

Thousands and thousands of women have been carried through this trying ordeal safely and comfortably by a faithful reliance upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and Mrs. Haskins generously loans us her name and portrait to help us to convince all skeptical women that health and happiness abounds in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

MRS. J. H. HASKINS,
President Chicago Arcade Club, Chicago, Ill.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM: — Mothers need not dread childbearing after they know the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. While I loved children I dreaded the ordeal, for it left me weak and sick for months after, and at the time I thought death was a welcome relief; but before my last child was born a good neighbor advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I used that, together with your Pills and Sanative Wash for four months before the child's birth; — it brought me wonderful relief. I hardly had an ache or pain, and when the child was ten days old I left my bed strong in health and happy in mind. Every spring and fall I now take a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and find it keeps me in continual excellent health; $2 or $3 a year keeps me well and strong." — MRS. J. H. HASKINS, 3248 Indiana Ave., Chicago, Ill.

"She is a Pinkham Baby."

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM: — I cannot thank you enough for what you have done for me. I wrote you some time ago about not being able to go my full time during pregnancy. Now, after taking the treatment you advised, we have a dear little girl baby, the joy of our home. I tell my friends she is a Pinkham baby, for had it not been for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound we never could have had her. My health is good, thanks to your medicine." — MRS. HARRY RUBY, Urbana, Iowa.

$5000 REWARD. — We have deposited with the National City Bank of Lynn, $5000, which will be paid to any person who can find that the above testimonial letters are not genuine, or were published before obtaining the writer's special permission. Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

One Hundred and Sixty-One Boys Go Back to Their Parents Et Al in Three Years From Reformatories—The Lands For the Volunteers—175 Acres of Pioneer Farm Cultivated.

Toronto, Feb. 14.—In the Legislative Assembly to-day bills were introduced by Mr. Barr to amend the County Councils Act, by Hon. J. M. Gibson to amend the Statute Law, by Hon. R. Harcourt to amend the High School Act and Mr. Wardell to amend the Assessment Act.

The bills respecting the City of London by Mr. Leys, respecting the Sarnia Street Railway Company by Mr. Pardee and respecting the Sao Paulo Tramway Light & Power Co., Limited, by Mr. Gross, were read a third time.

Questions by Members.

Mr. Miscampbell enquired the cost to the province of the recent smallpox epidemic to date.

Hon. Mr. Stratton replied that the outlay by the Board of Health on account of the epidemic had been $23,809, the cost to 84 municipalities had been $49,744, and the cost to 18 municipalities from which returns had not been received, was estimated at $90,000 during 1901. The estimated expenditure by municipalities during 1902 on this account was $140,000.

Hon. Mr. Latchford, in reply to Mr. Jessop, stated that no one had the exclusive right to fish with nets in the Fifteen and Sixteen Mile Creeks, Lincoln County.

Hon. Mr. Stratton, in answer to Mr. Thompson, said that in 1899 49 boys were discharged from the boys' reformatory, in 1900 63, and in 1901 58, of which total number, 161 were sent back to their parents, relatives or guardians.

Mr. Whitney asked whether it was proposed to allot or locate the lands to the volunteers entitled thereto under the act of last session before the general elections.

Hon. E. J. Davis replied that not knowing when the elections would be held he could not give a specific answer, but he thought it probable that some of them would be located first.

Hon. John Dryden, replying to Mr. Duff, said that 175 acres of the 305 acres in the Pioneer Farm at Dryden were under cultivation.

Second Readings.

Mr. Barr obtained a second reading for his bill to amend the Manhood Suffrage Registration Act by extending its provisions to county towns.

Mr. Fallis' bill to amend the Public Schools Act by giving trustees power to borrow money to build schools received a second reading.

Mr. Auld moved the second reading of a bill to amend the Drainage Act, giving the engineer extended powers enabling him to expropriate land required for drainage purposes. It was strongly opposed by Mr. McLaughlin and Mr. Whitney. Hon. J. M. Gibson would like to have expert advice before positively deciding as to the principle of the measure, but was disposed to allow it to go to committee. It was read a second time.

Mr. Leys' bill to amend the Mechanics' Lien Act also received a second reading.

Provincial Insane Asylums.

Hon. J. R. Stratton presented the 34th annual report upon lunatic and idiot asylums for the year ending 30th Sept., 1901, from which it appeared that the number of patients admitted was 742, being 20 in excess of the previous year. For the previous 10 years the average number of admissions was 780, or 38 per annum more than last year. The average number of applications each month of last year was 78, and the average number of vacancies 26, affording but one-third of the accommodation required. There were at the close of 1890, 3,818 patients in residence, and at the close of 1901, 4,604 patients, showing an increase of 1,286 during 11 years. This does not include the population of the idiot asylum at Orillia, which, during the year had an average of 653 in residence and a number of applications in reserve. A comparison of the proportion of insane people to the general population shows that in New York State the proportion is one in every 320 of the population, in England one in every 300, and in Ontario one in every 371. The expenditure on asylums during last year was as follows: Toronto $100,055; London $116,009; Kingston $74,078; Hamilton $115,-381; Mimico $75,528; Brockville $75,253, and Orillia $67,418, being an aggregate of $623,675, or an increase of $4,441 as compared with last year. The revenue received from 902 paying patients was $90,-677. The annual cost per patient averaged $103.91, and the weekly cost per patient after deducting revenue, $2.

ASSEMBLY NOTES.

The thirty-fourth annual report of the Inspector of Prisons and Reformatories was presented to the House.

The Government was waited on at noon by a deputation from the Ontario Beet Sugar Association. A grant for the Association was also asked. The Premier said that the deputation might rest assured that the Government would do something but how much he could not then say.

Premier Ross left for Ottawa last night on official business.

A largely signed petition from the the citizens of Rat Portage has been presented to the Legislature protesting against the passage of the bill to change the name of the town to Keenora.

A deputation from Rat Portage waited on the Government yesterday afternoon and asked for assistance to build a bridge across the Winnipeg river to improve the Ash River and to repair the docks on the Rainy River.

HAMILTON'S SENSATION.

Lancefield's own Salary Overdrawn $375 and Salaries of Assistants $2,183—Tracing the Missing Librarian.

Hamilton, Feb. 15.—The report prepared by Auditor Scott was presented at the meeting of the Public Library Board yesterday afternoon. As far as he could discover the total shortage is $5,309.09. Lancefield's salary was overdrawn by means to duplicate cheques, $375, and the salary of the assistants was overdrawn to the extent of $2,183. This covers a period of 18 months. Besides this, there was the Government grant, $200; estimated receipts of $401.97 for cards and fines, and rent received for rooms in the building, $150.

Although the Library Board has declined to take out a warrant for the arrest of Mr. R. T. Lancefield, the detectives have been trying to keep track of him. His movements between Thursday of last week and Tuesday night of this week are pretty well known. Lancefield returned from Toronto late on Thursday night, and wandered around the city cemetery on Friday morning. Between that time and Sunday it appears he was under cover. On Saturday night and Sunday he was in his cottage at the Beach. Monday morning found him in a hotel in Beamsville. He was back in the city on Monday night, and was kept under cover till Tuesday night. That evening he was driven to Burlington by E. W. Cleversley, a boon companion, to whom, it is said, Lancefield advanced money to cover a shortage in his accounts with the Hendrie Cartage Co. Lancefield was taken out to Burlington Junction in a closed sleigh, and got passage on a freight train, bound from Toronto to Chicago. It is thought the presence in the city of Inspector Frost of the Montreal Guarantee Co., frightened Lancefield's friends, and they urged him to fly.

Lancefield went away from Burlington in the caboose of a G. T. R. freight train.

Lancefield had his moustache taken off and his hair cut short. Instead of wearing a flat-top stiff hat he wore a rowdy soft felt.

ALLEGED IRREGULARITIES.

Preliminary Hearing of the Election Fraud Cases at Lepden and Montreal—The Results So Far.

London, Feb. 15.—The enquiry into the Mayoralty election scandal began before Judge Edward Elliott at the court house this forenoon. Three witnesses were called, City Clerk Kingston, Harry Merritt, janitor of the City Hall, and M. A. Talbot, by whom the ballots used in the last municipal election were printed. The correct sending out of 10,500 Mayoralty ballots and the receipt of the ballot boxes after the election were established. The City Clerk in his evidence said: "The bundle containing the poll books and voters' lists and deputies' oaths from Mr. Young's subdivision, the witness stated, was found lying on the City Clerk's table on the morning following the election. The bundle from Mr. Kennedy's sub-division was received personally."

Mr. Merritt, the janitor, stated that he had received 40 ballot boxes and he was willing to swear that they were not tampered with.

Mr. Talbot said no other ballots than those ordered by Mr. Kingston were printed at the witness's office.

After the completion of the afternoon session the court agreed to adjourn until Thursday or Friday of next week.

He Voted Twice.

Bowmanville, February 15. — At the bye-election in West Durham on Jan. 15 ult., Samuel Robbins of Cartwright voted twice, first in his own division, and then at Enniskillen, in Darlington, his name being on the lists in both municipalities. Yesterday Mr. R. H. Holland, Police Magistrate, Port Hope, committed him for trial.

For Singers and Speakers.

The New Remedy for Catarrh is Very Valuable.

A Grand Rapids gentleman who represents a prominent manufacturing concern and travels through central and southern Michigan, relates the following regarding the new catarrh cure, he says:

"After suffering from catarrh of head, throat and stomach for several years, I heard of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets quite accidently and like everything else I immediately bought a package and was decidedly surprised at the immediate relief it afforded me and still more to find a complete cure after several weeks' use.

"I have a little son who sings in a boy's choir in one of our prominent churches, and he is greatly troubled with hoarseness and throat weakness, and on my return home from a trip I gave him a few of the tablets one Sunday morning when he had complained of hoarseness. He was delighted with their effect, removing all huskiness in a few minutes and making the voice clear and strong.

"As the tablets are very pleasant to the taste, I had no difficulty in persuading him to use them regularly.

"Our family physician told us they were an antiseptic preparation of undoubted merit and that he himself had no hesitation in using and recommending Stuart's Catarrh Tablets for any form of catarrh.

"I have since met many public speakers and professional singers who used them constantly. A prominent Detroit lawyer told me that Stuart's Catarrh Tablets kept his throat in fine shape during the most trying weather, and that he had long since discarded the use of cheap lozenges and troches on the advice of his physician that they contained so much tolu, potash and opium as to render their use a danger to health."

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets are large pleasant tasting lozenges composed of catarrhal antiseptics, like Red Gum, Blood Root, etc., and sold by druggists everywhere at 50 cents for full treatment.

They act upon the blood and mucous membrane and their composition and remarkable success has won the approval of physicians, as well as thousands of sufferers from nasal catarrh, throat troubles and catarrh of stomach.

Mistletoe.

The prettiest thing about mistletoe is its milky white opalescent berries. The stems and foliage seem to betray the parasite nature of the plant in their unwholesome shade of green, a peculiarly unwholesome shade characterizing the stems. It is an uncanny sort of plant. Most parasites are. Is there anything more positively ghostlike than the plant we know as Indian pipe (monotropa)?

Machine weighs 17 pounds. It is more wonderful than a sewing machine, just as durable, and higher speed.

THE HOME MONEY MAKER

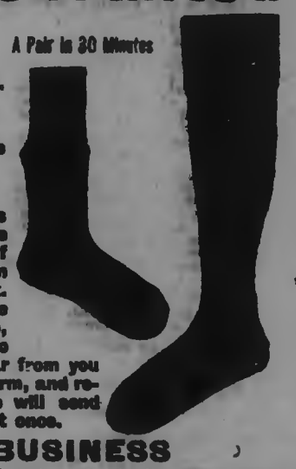
To Work at Their Homes Under the Direction of

The GLASGOW WOOLLEN CO.

37 MELINDA ST., TORONTO,

To Fill Large Contracts—Good Wages Easily Earned.

A Pair in 30 Minutes



We want a few more workers in this locality, at once, and in order to secure your co-operation without the delay of correspondence, we herewith explain our full plan in this advertisement. The work is simple, and the Machine is easily operated, and with the Guide, requires no teacher. If you wish to join our staff of Workers let us hear from you promptly with the Contract, order form, and remittance, as a guarantee, and we will send machine and outfit to begin work at once.

OUR METHOD OF DOING BUSINESS

We wish to secure the services of families to do knitting for us in their homes. Our method is the same as adopted in England. We are the introducers of this plan and the largest knitting concern in Canada.

After long experience, we have been able to produce an Automatic Machine by which all kinds of seamless knitting is now done by our Family Machine, thereby enabling anyone of ordinary intelligence to quickly learn to do the work from the Instruction Guide. All we require is that you use the machine according to directions. The Machine being made expressly for this purpose, and the operation so simple, it cannot possibly make a mistake in its work.

The great demand now is for Bicycle Stockings, Woodmen's Socks, and Motormen's Mittens, and as we are unable to supply the demand, have taken this method of advertising for more help.

The large export trade to the North-west Territories, British Columbia, and the British Colonies, furnishes an unlimited demand for our goods, and, with the combined co-operation of the many families we are employing, together with the large amount of knitting we are able to turn out, by which we save rents, insurance, interest on capital, etc., enables us to undersell any manufacturers of this class of goods, and we have sale for all the knitting we can have turned out.

The price we pay for finished bicycle stockings is $10.00 per hundred, or at the rate of 10c per pair; woodmen's socks, 5c. and motormen's mittens, 12c a pair. All other work in proportion to size.

The machine can be operated by any one of a family, and at our prices any energetic family should be able to sustain themselves comfortably, and in time be a source of independent comfort.

Our plan is to send out each machine to beginners with a sock or stocking partially knitted, and remaining in the machine ready to be continued, and also enough yarn to knit one pair of sample socks or stockings and a simple and complete Instruction Guide, showing how the work is to be done. When the samples have been finished and returned to us satisfactory, we send a quantity of yarn, which you knit and return likewise when finished. We prepay charges on all work one way, and our workers pay return charges. The work, as we have stated, is simple and rapidly done, the machine having a capacity of ten thousand stitches a minute. We have many persons now in our employ who can knit from twenty-five to thirty pairs of socks or stockings a day, and where the time of a family is devoted to the work, you can readily see that $15.00 or $20.00 per week can be easily earned.

We furnish our workers all the materials, yarn, etc., free, and everything that is necessary for the work. We are furnishing the machines only for the exclusive use of those desiring to take employment with us, who must, in order to become a member, send us this Contract Order Form, properly signed by them, and at least one good reference, and remittance accordingly, to give us the necessary assurance that the quantities of valuable yarn we may send from time to time will not be wasted or misappropriated. Our interests are mutual, and this confidence must be established if we are to succeed. We guarantee fair dealing and prompt payment for work, so do not ask us to deviate from our terms, as we cannot make a distinction with one and not another; besides, we are doing an extensive business, and must be governed by business principles.

The manufactured price of the machine is $15, and positively will not be sold to any others than those who will agree to do knitting for us.

If at any time after you commence, and have done an amount of work equal to the purchase price, and wish to discontinue, we will take back machine and refund the amount paid for same, after deducting cost of our expense only.

There is a Large Demand by the Trade for this class of work. Our workers can depend upon it year after year, and if you engage with us (whole or spare time) we will keep you supplied with work as long as you do it satisfactorily for us and return it promptly. We entrust our workers with large quantities of valuable yarn, and as we give references as to our honesty and integrity, we must ask you to do the same, in order that we may know with whom we are dealing.

We have, in as brief a manner as possible, endeavored to show you what our work is, and we simply say as to the machine, it is just what we represent it to be, and will positively do everything we claim for it, or refund the money. Each machine, securely packed with an outfit, is set up for work, thoroughly tested, and a sock or stocking partially knitted before boxing and shipping. Should you decide to engage with us, it will be necessary to send us Cash Contract Order Form, properly signed by you, and at least one good reference, together with the remittance, accordingly, upon receipt of which we will forward machine and outfit ready to commence. Respectfully yours,

GLASGOW WOOLLEN CO., 37 Melinda Street, Toronto

Our References—Express Companies, Banks, or Toronto Business Houses.

If you wish to examine the machine and see the material before undertaking the work, you can do so by sending $2.00 as a guarantee of good faith, and to defray expense of shipping, and we will send everything to your nearest express company, leaving a balance of twelve dollars to pay the agent and 25 cents for the return charges on the money to us.

We are so frequently and unnecessarily asked if one can learn to knit without a teacher. We say, Yes: it requires no teacher; any person of ordinary intelligence who can read the Instruction Guide can learn to knit at once.

Cured After Years of Pile Torture.

James Kenton, Memphis, Tenn. says: "I suffered the tortures of itching piles for years, and not even mercurial ointment would relieve me. One 50 cent box of Pyramid Pile Cure cured me entirely." All druggists sell it. Book, "Piles, Causes and Cure," mailed free. Pyramid Drug Co., Marshall, Mich.

I WILL PAY YOUR BILL

Write Me a Postal.

If you need help, I want you to have my book. I want you to know what my method does. I ask you to test it a month at my risk.

Need me no money. Just tell me the book you need. I will send with it an order on your druggist for six bottles Dr. Shoop's Restorative. He will let you test it a month, and if it succeeds you can pay him $5.50 for it. If it fails, I will pay him myself.

I mean that exactly. Don't say I can't do this. Find out if I do. A postal addressed to me will bring you the order.

I have done this for years, and over half a million people have accepted my offer. My records show that 39 out of each 40 paid for the medicine they took. Yet no patient pays a penny if I fail.

Do you know another remedy that ever cured 39 out of 40 different, chronic cases? Do you know another physician who will make an offer like mine? Don't you know that no other remedy ever compounded could stand such a test?

Then why not ask about mine? If I do not, you have lost a postal. If I do, you may have lost a penny.

I have spent a lifetime on this treatment. I have learned how to bring back the strength to those inside nerves which operate the vital organs. When any vital organ is weak, my Restorative will give it the nerve power to act. There is no other way to strengthen it. In most chronic cases there is no other way to cure.

I know this treatment and you do not. Let me take the risk. Let me attempt to cure you, and if you think I have failed, I will pay the cost.

Simply state which book you want and address Dr. Shoop, Box 49, Racine, Wis.

HOUSE ADOPTS BALFOUR'S RULE.

Requires That Suspended Members Shall Apologize to Commons.

London, Feb. 15.—The House of Commons, under closure, by a vote of 316 to 168, last night adopted that one of Mr. Balfour's new rules of procedure to which there had been the most opposition. This new rule requires that a suspended member shall apologize to the House.

Accused Officer Has Resigned.

London, Feb. 15.—In the House of Commons yesterday, replying to a question, the War Secretary, Mr. Brodrick, said that an officer of the Remount Department, stationed at New Orleans, had been accused of receiving a commission, and had been ordered to sue his accuser or resign from the British army. The officer has resigned. Since then there has been a careful supervision of the purchasing operations at New Orleans.

Ten Years of Blessed Work and Glorious Victories.

Paine's Celery Compound

Has Brought Health and New Life to the Sick and Diseased in Every Part of the Civilized World.

For the past ten years the work of Paine's Celery Compound has been a blessed and cheering one to men and women of every rank in society. In no case has the great medicine failed to benefit and where it is has been used promptly it has in every case brought a cure.

The blessed results that spring from the use of Paine's Celery Compound are not confined to this Canada of ours. The great life-giving medicine has been sent to every quarter of the civilized world, and has cured the sick, restored the weak and depressed to health and strength and caused tens of thousands who failed to find health in worthless prescriptions, sarsaparillas, nervines and pills, Paine's Celery Compound has cured when all other remedies have failed.

It is to this best of all medicines, Paine's Celery Compound, that we would direct the attention of every man and woman suffering from weakness, general debility, rheumatism, neuralgia, heart trouble, dyspepsia, anaemia, blood diseases, liver complaint and kidney trouble. Thousands of grateful letters have poured in testifying to wonderful and permanent cures.

It is foolish and criminal to delay the use of such a disease banisher when others have so clearly demonstrated its value; when many of your friends and neighbours have been made well by its use. The health-giving virtues are so eminently great that the ablest physicians are prescribing Paine's Celery Compound daily for the sick.

If you are weak physically, in the grasp of disease, or simply feeling out-of-sorts, irritable, sleepless or despondent, try one bottle of Paine's Celery Compound, and note well the magical results.

His Reward.

"You remember Bingley, who bought a home on each side of his own dwelling so he could choose his own neighbors?"

"Yes. What of him?"

"Well, he fitted up those houses elegantly and rented them to first class tenants, and they won't associate with him at all because he's merely a landlord."

OSHAWA MIRACLE INVESTIGATED.

A Sworn Statement of Facts Almost Beyond Belief.

The Toronto Mail and Empire Sends a Reporter to Oshawa—His Inquires Result in Complete Verification of Original Story.

Very many startling stories of wonderful cures by Dodd's Kidney Pills have been published in these columns, and in other newspapers all over the country from time to time.

Every case has been so well authenticated as to leave little room for doubt, and yet the statements made and the cures reported, have, in many cases, been so nearly miraculous as to be almost beyond belief.

Recently The Mail and Empire of Toronto, and other papers, published a dispatch from Oshawa, in which it was said that a mechanic in the Oshawa Malleable Iron Works, had been cured of paralysis by Dodd's Kidney Pills, and that, after he had been absolutely helpless for four months, and had been given up by the physicians at the hospital in Toronto.

This was too much for many people to believe, and numerous demands were made on the paper in question for a verification or correction.

One correspondent signing himself "Medicus" in a letter to the Mail and Empire openly disputed the possibility of such a cure

To get at the real facts a reporter was sent to Oshawa, and the result was a complete, and very satisfactory confirmation of the original despatch To put the matter absolutely beyond question the following sworn statement was secured:

THE STATEMENT OF MR. BROWN.

In the fall of 1897 I was taken ill with what most of the doctors called paralysis, and others nervous prostration It commenced with a stiffness and soreness in the calves of my legs and gradually increased till I could not move either of my arms or legs, having lost all power in them. I could not have raised my arms to my head to save my life. For over four months I could not stand or walk alone a single step. I doctored with all the local doctors, and then with a Bowmanville doctor. Each one gave me some different medicine, but the more I took the worse I got.

At last the Bowmanville doctor told me that nothing could be done for me unless I went to the hospital in Toronto where they might perhaps have some later treatment for paralysis which would fit my case. I went there toward the end of January, 1898, and remained under treatment in that institution for a little over four weeks. All was in vain, I got worse. Twelve doctors told me I could not recover, and that nothing could be done for me, so as I was getting worse every day, and there was no hope of their being able to help me in the least, I was removed to my home here. I was like a baby, unable to move.

At this extremity someone advised me to use Dodd's Kidney Pills, and my wife bought a box. We had not the least idea that they would help me, but like a drowning man I grasped at every straw. After I had used the first box the numbness began to leave my finger tips, and I felt a little better, and kept on using the pills. By two months time I could walk a little and shortly afterwards was able to go short distances without assistance.

The first time I went down town one of the doctors who had given me up saw me across the street, and not being able to believe his eyes, went to my brother Robert and asked, "Is that your brother Joe?" Robert told him that it was I, and he said in astonishment, "Well, I never expected to see him around again."

I used altogether twelve boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and by the first of May I was able to start to work again in the shop here, and I have never been sick or off work a day since, and that is over three and a half years ago.

I am glad of the opportunity to make this statement for I am sure that I owe my life, health and strength to work to that great remedy, Dodd's Kidney Pills.

This, therefore, is the true story in detail, of this most remarkable case. No room is left for doubt or dispute, and the original Oshawa despatch is confirmed in all its particulars.

If this is possible — and no one can now doubt it — then one can easily understand how any of the many wonderful cures reported have been accomplished by the same means, Dodd's Kidney Pills.

WILLIAM GOUGH, Florist, Doncaster P. O., Ont.

Wm. Gough's Solemn Declaration.

STATUTORY DECLARATION. DOMINION OF CANADA, COUNTY OF YORK, } To-Wit: In the matter of the cure of WILLIAM GOUGH, of the Township of York in the County of York, Florist.

I, William Gough, of Doncaster P. O., of the Township of York, in the County of York, Florist, do solemnly declare that in the spring of the year 1901 I became seriously ill and called in a doctor. The doctor treated me for a long time and I did not improve. I was then recommended to go to Preston Springs. I went up to Preston Springs and after staying there for some time and being treated, I came back home not improved in the slightest. I was suffering from Diabetes and Rheumatic Fever. I was in bed for a number of weeks and did not improve at all and gradually became worse and was reduced in weight to 120 pounds.

I was then recommended by my friend B. W. Cherry, Grocer at No. 690 Queen St. East, in the city of Toronto, to try Ozone and on his recommendation I began to use it and almost from the very first I began to improve. I continued to use it and I continued to improve until to-day I am better than ever I was and am able to go about my usual work of florist. I have taken in all almost seven or eight bottles of the Ozone and I am sure that my restoration was due exclusively to the use of Ozone. I cannot be too grateful to this great remedy—I shall always keep it in my house. And I make this Solemn Declaration conscientiously believing it to be true, and knowing that it is of the same force and effect as if made under oath, and by virtue of The Canada Evidence Act, 1893.

WM. GOUGH.

Mrs. Dora Gough.

STATUTORY DECLARATION. DOMINION OF CANADA, COUNTY OF YORK, } To-Wit: In the matter of the cure of WILLIAM GOUGH, of the Township of York, in the County of York, Florist.

I, Dora Gough, of Doncaster P. O., in the Township of York, in the County of York, married woman, do solemnly declare that I am the wife of William Gough above mentioned, who was entirely prostrated by Diabetes and Rheumatic Fever. His doctor failed to do him good and he went up to the Preston Springs. He came back not a bit better and I honestly thought he would never be well and that he had come home to die and this was the opinion of all his neighbors.

On the advice of his friend Mr. Cherry, the Grocer, he commenced the use of Ozone and from the very first he commenced to improve. He has now taken about seven or eight bottles and is better and stronger than I ever knew him to be. I am sure that his cure and his restoration to health and to his family is entirely due to the use of Ozone. I always keep it in the house and do not see how I could get along without it as a family medicine. I can confidently recommend it to any one suffering from disease, and I make this Solemn Declaration conscientiously believing it to be true, and knowing that it is of the same force and effect as if made under oath, and by virtue of "The Canada Evidence Act, 1893."

DORA GOUGH.

DECLARED before me at Toronto, in the County of York, this 22nd day of October, 1901. W. J. McDONALD, Notary Public for Ontario.

Henry Edward Reed.

STATUTORY DECLARATION. DOMINION OF CANADA, COUNTY OF YORK. } To-Wit: In the matter of the cure of WILLIAM GOUGH, of the Township of York, in the County of York, Florist.

I, Henry Edward Reed, of the City of Toronto, in the County of York, Gardener, do Solemnly Declare that I am well acquainted with William Gough above mentioned, and knew that he was a sufferer from Diabetes and Rheumatic Fever He was attended by a doctor who was unable to do anything for him. Mr. Gough went to the Preston Springs and came back no better at all. He gradually weakened and was not able to stand up and had to go to bed where he remained for many weeks. I was persuaded in my own mind that he could not possibly get well.

When there was no hope whatever either by himself or his friends and when he was given up to die he was advised by Mr. B. W. Cherry, the Grocer, at 690 Queen St. East, to try Ozone. This he did, and almost from the very first he started to improve and to put on flesh and to-day is as well as ever I knew him to be and weighs about 190 pounds and is the picture of health. I am sure that he was restored to health by the use of Ozone which he has been taking ever since it was recommended to him by Mr. Cherry. That I have known Mr. Gough for the last eighteen years and came over on the same boat with him from England. And I make this Solemn Declaration conscientiously believing it to be true, and knowing that it is of the same force and effect as if made under oath, and by virtue of "The Canada Evidence Act, 1893."

HENRY EDWARD REED.

DECLARED before me at Toronto, in the County of York, this 22nd day of October, 1901. W. J. McDONALD, Notary Public for Ontario.

The rheumatic fever from which Mr. Gough suffered, was caused in the first place by an attack of grip—an attack that might have been prevented or at least robbed of its terrible after effects, if it had been taken in time with Powley's Liquified Ozone. We want you to know of the wonderful power of Ozone to cure disease as shown by Mr. Gough's statement—every word of which is absolutely true. More especially do we desire you to use this extraordinary power as a preventive to disease—to keep the system healthy and prevent the attack of disease-germs or sickness. "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," and you would thankfully recognize this old saying if you were to keep a bottle of Ozone in the house and use it regularly. If you feel the least symptom of rheumatic or kidney trouble—if you have a pain in your back—if you have neuralgic headaches—if there's a sediment in your urine—if it's highly colored—if it burns or scalds—be very careful. These symptoms indicate the presence of uric acid—uric acid produces both rheumatism and kidney trouble.

If you start taking Powley's Liquified Ozone right away you'll save yourself an endless amount of misery. Ozone acts as a "diuretic" which means an agent which will increase the flow of urine from the kidneys. It disinfects the blood—eliminates the poisons from the system—builds up and heals the injured tissues and organs of the body.

The case of Mr. Gough is a most remarkable one. If you doubt it in any way investigate. Then tell your neighbor about it, you may save someone's life

THE CARNIVAL.

There Were a Large Number of Very Handsome Costumes on the Ice.

The first carnival of the season took place last evening, and while there were not as many skaters in costume as in former years, still the turn out was good, and a number of the costumes were very rich and tastefully designed. The grand stand was well filled and the 57th Band discoursed sweet music throughout the evening, the skaters holding the ice until half past ten.

The carnival was given by Mr. Angus McIntosh, the popular and courteous superintendent of the rink, and under his vigilant eye everything passed off without a hitch during the evening.

Mr. Robert Kerr, Mrs. Kerr and Miss Reid used excellent discrimination as judges of the costumes.

Mr. McIntosh desires to thank all who attended, particularly the curlers.

The attraction at the Duncome Opera House this week played to the capacity of the house last night, and is one of more than ordinary merit. We have had many so-called hypnotists and mind-readers visit us in the past few seasons, but Professor Theodore Pull is certainly the king of them all and is very deserving of his title "The World's Greatest." His company of merry-makers are all well known vaudeville artists. The Jolly Pull Company is with us all next week and should certainly play to the capacity of the opera house. Popular prices, 10, 15, and 25c. Monday, Ladies admitted free when accompanied by one paid admission. Plan at Ormond & Walsh's.

LATE DR. FIFE LAID AT REST.

Memorial Service at George Street Church.

REV. J. P. WILSON'S SERMON.

Dr. Halliday Spoke on Behalf of the Medical Profession—Mr. D. W. Dumble's Remarks.

The funeral of the late Dr. Joseph Alexander Fife took place yesterday afternoon from the family residence, No. 631 George street, and was very largely attended by Peterborough's most prominent citizens. The members of the medical profession, with which the deceased had been for so many years prominently identified, were largely represented, whilst the official Board of the George street Methodist Church attended in a body. There were many very handsome floral offerings, and the funeral service throughout was most impressive. The pall bearers were Dr. Halliday, Dr. Carmichael, and Messrs. William Yelland, Frank Hillier, D. W. Dumble and J. A. Fife.

The cortege proceeded to the George street church, where a memorial service was held. Rev. Mr. Secombe, of Keene, offered prayer, and Rev. D. O. Crossley, who was an old collegemate of the deceased, read a passage of Scripture.

REV. MR. WILSON.

Rev. J. P. Wilson, pastor of the George street church, delivered a brief eulogy upon the life of the deceased. He said:

"We are assembled this afternoon to pay the last tribute of respect to one whom to know was to respect and love. The life of the late Joseph Alexander Fife has been passed among the people of this community. Seldom do we witness a life more strong, gentle, true and beautiful. The whole neighbourhood is richer and better because this man has lived and died here. For 50 years he has walked with God. At the early age of 14 years, during a series of meetings held by the late Rev. Mr. Slater, he was converted to God. Though all these subsequent years he has been in communion with the Church of Christ.

It was not my privilege to know Dr. Fife in the days of his vigour, but by reputation I know him, for his name has been known for a long time in our churches as a man connected with every church enterprise. During his late illness I came to know him well. He was a most faithful devoted Christian man and his end was most trumphant. He knew the inevitable course of the disease that carried him away. Yet he entered into the cloud with the courage and faith of a Christian. His faith and hope were strong to the end. The universal verdict respecting him was "For he was a good man." Passing by many of the eminent qualifications with which he was so richely endowed the people saw one more prominently than all the others—His goodness." Mr. Wilson then read a message from Rev. Mr. Shorey, late of George street church, who requested Mr. Wilson "to lay his tribute of respect and esteem upon his bier." "For he was a good man." Goodness as existing in the Deity embraces the principle which leads the Divine Being to bestow blessings on His creatures. Goodness as applied to man is used in a restricted sense and refers to the moral qualities of the heart. It consists in the possession of the Christian graces. St. Paul enumerates them, faith, virtue, knowledge, temperance, patience, Godliness, brotherly-kindness, charity. Christian goodness is necessarily associated with Christian holiness and implies not merely a state in which the sympathies are easily excited by sights of suffering, but "in which the fruit is shown into holiness and the end eternal life."

Nor is it a mere negative state in which there is no marked development of unsanctified nature; but the good man like Barnabus of old, is "full of faith and the Holy Ghost." When the work of creation was completed from the beauty and harmony of its parts and their perfect adaption to accomplish the Divine purposes, everything was pronounced very good. No higher appellation could be given. No higher appellation could be given a man that to say "He was a good man". Man now becomes good, only so far as, by the renewal of the Holy Spirit, he bears the impress of his original nature. So long as sin is cherished in his heart, there is not a moral feature in man pleasing to God. The Being of Infinite Holiness can delight in no principle opposed to His nature. Earth becomes lovely, only as it reflects the pure image of Heaven. Thus can we appreciate this characteristic of the man whom God loves. "For he was a good man."

Goodness is a household grace, adapted to every changing circumstance and to every occasion. Some of the Christian graces seem not to enter into every act of life, but are called out in peculiar emergencies. Patience and resignation exhibit themselves only under the ills of life or in the dark hour of adversity, but Christian goodness, from whatever position it is viewed, is alike conspicuous.

Nothing is more essential to produce Christian influence than goodness. The exhibition of talent of the highest order reproves not the unsanctified heart. The cultivation of the intellect is not necessarily associated with moral culture. The wisdom of the sages is vastly removed from the wisdom of God. It is true, as formerly, the "world by wisdom knows not God." "Though I have the gift of prophecy, and understand all mysteries and knowledge, and have not charity, I am nothing."

Place a good man under those circumstances of life in which worldly principles show their insufficiency, and mark his influence. Worldly prospects may be blighted, his pleasures mingled with bitter tears, yet no dark frown settles on his features as he thinks of the providence of God—no desolation of heart, though the sources of his temporal enjoyments are diminished.

"As some tall cliff that lifts its awful form,
Swells from the vale and midway leaves the storm,
Though round its breast the rolling clouds are spread,
Eternal sunshine settles on its head."

And at the last great day, the commendation is pronounced wholly in view of the moral qualities of the heart; culture, health, influence, and all these things play no part. Talent and health and popularity may be possessed by the most depraved.

We must emphasize the great fact that at the last man is to be commended because of his moral and religious worth—not because he has displayed some act of heroism that no other could display—but because in the daily round of ordinary duty, in the hours of adversity and prosperity which come to all, he practiced justice, fostered affection, cultivated faith and glorified gratitude, endured with patience and melted with mercy, and so you will notice the moral qualities of the sainted only are prominent—their temporal circumstances are rarely referred to unless to show the power of their faith, and by contrast the magnitude of their rewards. So the good man is not afraid to die. Faith builds a bridge across the gulf of death. So our brother passed through life—a good man, in the most essential sense.

A loving husband, a tender parent, a good physician, an upright citizen, and an earnest Christian, has gone to his well-earned rest.

Dr. Halliday then spoke for the medical profession of Peterborough, paying a tribute to the manliness, skill and goodness of his late brother. They had for twenty years stood shoulder to shoulder in the great battle with suffering and disease. He had always found Dr. Fife true and faithful.

THE OFFICIAL BOARD.

Mr. D. W. Dumble spoke on behalf of the Official Board of the George street church, as follows:

To-day we offer to one beloved our last tribute of respect. Before us lies the body, but that which commended him to all amongst whom he mingled is not here. Yet, we who have known and loved him find a sad pleasure in testifying before his remains, ere we lay him in his resting place, that he lived not in vain.

To have been brought into living contact with a good man is a benediction; the silent forces of Nature are the most potent, and so the lives of the pure and good are an exemplification of the power of God in the soul, enforcing more by example than by precept, and lifting men nearer to God.

Our brother, though not ostentatious, was ever decided, and never ashamed of the service of his Master. As a citizen he interested himself in everything that would better the lives of men, and took his stand firmly on the side of purity, morality and temperance. A man simple and without guile—he measured others too often by his own standard, not always to his gain, and yet one never heard a carping or unkind word of those who were unworthy of his trust.

As a physician he gave kindly professional help, never stopping to consider the question of renumeration, but often supplying the needs of the poor with things material.

A man so upright and kind of heart was in his home, as might be expected, respected and beloved.

To the church of his choice he was loyal to a degree; and in faithful and sympathetic attendance at all the services he was constant and true. Devout in his own life he was a help in the devotions of others.

During the many years he was a Trustee and Steward in this church, none could be more faithful. He was wise in counsel, patient in service, generous and considerate of others, and always generous of his means.

During the long and anxious years when great financial responsibility had to be borne, none more cheerfully shouldered his share of responsibility or performed the duties of office, than our Treasurer, Dr. Fife.

We who were brought most in contact with him, have the most sorrow at this parting, yet we thank God for his fellowship on so many miles of the way. We are glad we knew him, and glad we shall ever have with us a memory of a man so true and good. We part in sorrow, yet rejoicing, because we know from the glorious testimony of his life and confession that he has crossed the bar in safety.

We remember that just nine years ago the remains of another true man and servant of God who loved Dr. Fife and, side by side with him, worked with like faithfulness in the Master's service, lay silent where our brother rests. Methinks Heaven will be all the brighter when William J. Mason, and Joseph Alexander Fife shall meet on the Golden Strand.

My brother, we bid thee not "farewell," but adieu.

"We shall sleep, but not forever.
There will be a glorious dawn;
We shall meet to part—no, never,
On the resurrection morn."

REV. MR. YULE RESIGNS.

The Assistant Pastor of St. Paul's Intends Leaving Peterborough.

At a joint meeting of the Board of Managers and the session of St. Paul's Church on Tuesday night last Rev. George Yule, who during the past year has been the assistant pastor of St. Paul's, tendered his resignation, the same to take effect at the end of the present term. The meeting endeavoured to have Rev. Mr. Yule reconsider his action, and it is understood that an increase in salary and other inducements were offered him. The meeting then adjourned until last night, in the hope that the assistant pastor might reconsider his decision in the matter, and remain for another year at least. Rev. Mr. Yule has, however, informed the Board and the Session, that he cannot see his way clear to remain in his present position, and his resignation has accordingly been accepted.

It is stated that the Session will take steps to have the vacancy filled immediately upon Mr. Yule's withdrawal.

THERE ARE OTHER TROUBLES IN SOUTH AFRICA.

Kingsland, England,

Gentlemen,—I have derived great benefit from the use of "Kelpion." I found it an excellent remedy for blistered feet caused by long and weary marching, and for veldt sores it was a fine remedy.

As I was acting as doctor's orderly whilst in South Africa, it fell to my lot to dress the wounds of injured men, and if a man came with a badly inflamed hand or blistered feet, I always recommended Kelpion, and they found that I had not advised them to use it in vain. Just before we crossed the Vaal River I had a small swelling come on the right kneecap which was very painful. I commenced to rub it with Kelpion, and after persevering for three days I was cured. During that three days I marched 40 miles, so it was not rest that cured it. Surgeon-Major Sleman, the C. I. V. doctor always recommended Kelpion.

I must say it was the most useful article in our kit, and I shall never fail to recommend it wherever I go.

THE LATE WM. HAMILTON.

Obsequies This Afternoon—A Large Number Attended the Funeral.

The funeral of the late William Hamilton took place at two o'clock this afternoon from the family residence, Reid street, when Rev. Dr. Torrance conducted a service. The cortege was one of the largest and most representative which ever wended its way to the Little Lake Cemetery, citizens from every path in life apparently desiring to pay a last tribute of respect to the deceased. The men from the works to the number of about two hundred marched in a body.

The flowers received were exceedingly beautiful and very profuse.

Messrs. William Galley, John Rose, William Borland, Robert Robertson, John Robertson and Andrew Macfarlane were the pall bearers, and their aggregate terms of service with the company amount to two-hundred and twenty years.

A number of manufacturers from a distance were in town to attend the funeral, including Mr. John Bertram, of Dundas, and friends from Toronto and Waubashene.

At a meeting of the employees of the company held last evening a resolution of condolence to the family was framed and passed as follows:

Whereas it has pleased the Divine Creator in His infinite wisdom and mercy to remove from this earthly sphere of labour our respected employer, Wm. Hamilton, sr., who departed this life after many years of severe suffering, therefore be it

Resolved, that we, the assembled employees of the Wm. Hamilton Mfg. Co., desire to express to the bereaved widow and family of our late employer, our feelings of most profound sympathy in this sad affliction by which they have been bereft of one who was near and dear to their hearts. And we pray that in this dark hour of trial and tribulation they may be comforted and sustained by consolations of Divine Grace. Be it further

Resolved, that we realize to the fullest extent possible the great loss which the town has sustained by the death of such an estimable citizen.

As an honoured employer of labour for over half a century, his relations with his employees were of the closest kind. He entered fully into their home life, and many of them have had their trouble and sorrow lightened by his sincere sympathy and goodness of heart. Honest in principle and generous in action, his character was of such a nature as to command our sincere respect and esteem.

"Now the labourer's task is o'er,
Now the battle day is past,
Now upon the farther shore,
Lands the voyager at last.
Father, in Thy gracious keeping
Leave we now Thy servant sleeping."

Resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the bereaved family.

Signed on behalf of the employees,—

AN ADDRESS ON CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

Rev. Mr. Lanfeldt's Paper Read Before the Men's Guild.

SOME PECULIAR TENENTS.

The Speaker had Evidently Studied the Subject Closely and Threw Many Sidelights on it.

Rev. E. A. Langfeldt's paper on "Christian Science," which he read before the Men's Guild of St. Luke's Church, Thursday evening, has been the subject of comment to such an extent that, with Mr. Langfeldt's consent, the Examiner is publishing some extracts from the paper which will be found appended:

In these days we come quite frequently in contact with people, who will ask us to give up the religion of Jesus Christ and to adopt new systems which they have devised in its place.

In all the matters of ordinary life we are not ready to accept a substitute unless it seems better and safer than that for which it is offered. We go cautiously and institute comparisons. We enquire into origins, and ask for results. When we pass out of the realm of simple every-day matters into the higher realm of religion, would it be reasonable to be less cautious in adopting changes?

There are, doubtless, many unhappy people to-day, who have swung away from the old faith before they had well considered the new. Their next plunge may be into the dark cavern of no faith at all.

One of the most remarkable movements in modern times is the growth of what is known to-day as Christian Science. In some of its features it is not an absolutely new thing, although it claims to be entirely a new discovery, and presses itself upon the attention of the world as a substitute for views which have been long held and cherished. It antagonizes science, philosophy and religion, and offers itself as a new revelation, which demands the allegiance of all.

Its advocates, drawn largely from the number of those who have hitherto been in the active membership of the church, declare that they have passed beyond the crude and erroneous views which they once thought were tenable, to a newer and wider plane of thought, from whose heights they look with pity upon those who are held in what they now style the bondage of error.

It is, therefore, perfectly proper to examine this new movement, especially as its adherents are presenting their views industriously in many of our communities, and, by unsettling the religious faith of some, are seeking to withdraw them from their allegiance to the Christian church.

Whatever else may be said of Christian Science, most of its forms result practially in the presentation of a substitute for the Christianity of Christ and His Apostles.

In examining Christian Science, I will assure the honesty of many of its advocates, while I am deploring the error into which they have fallen. I have no desire to indulge in ridicule or invective, but to point out the fallacies upon which the system is built.

While there are various bodies who call themselves Christian Scientists, it must be remembered that the claim to the discovery of Christian Science is made by one person, Mrs. Eddy, and that although there are different persons who call themselves Christian Scientists the alleged discoverer of the system does not acknowledge any persons as genuine Christian Scientists except they cling absolutely to the views which she holds. She calls heretics all who do not set forth all its principles precisely as she does. She claims that no variation is possible. We are, therefore, compelled to think of the system as she and her friends publish its tenets.

But before we examine what Mrs. Eddy declares Christian Science is, as she discovered it, it is helpful to study what it is not.

First, then, it is not faith-cure. It is not mind-cure or hypnotism. It is not spiritualism. In the popular mind these are sometimes confounded with it. It radically differs from all these in its claims. It does not profess to cure sickness by the agency of faith, not by the transfer of will-power from the weaker to the stronger, nor by the exercise of any magnetic influence resident in brain and nerves whereby a healing current is made to flow from one to another, nor does it invoke the ministrations of disembodied spirits, whereby subtle spiritual aid is given to those who need it. No, its advocates think it something apart from all these, and repudiate any explanations based upon them.

What is it? According to Mrs. Eddy, she discovered it in 1866, and called it Christian Science.

What are the principles of Christian Science?

1. The leading feature is that everything is mind, and that there is but one mind, which is God. Our bodies, the stars, the trees, the rivers, the walls of the building have no real existence, but are only ideas of mind, something like the visions that come before us in dreams, all unreal, without actual existence or properties.

2. As matter is unreal, matter cannot know or feel anything, and hence matter cannot be sick. Mind, being perfect, cannot be sick either. Hence there is no sickness in the world. What we call sickness is only a belief—not a belief of the All-Divine Mind, but of the mortal mind. That belief is unreal. It has no substantial reality. The mortal mind is unreal.

Once get the belief destroyed, and you have destroyed all sickness. You may go further than this and destroy death also, for there is no death. It is only a false belief which the truth concerning life annihilates.

According to the alleged discoverer of this system, her theory has been verified. She claims to have prevented disease in others, and to have restored the sick by chasing away these baseless beliefs. The book abounds in a large number of cases of reported cures of sick persons, and contains the claim that she has actually raised the dying. (Page 426, Science and Health)

But the philosophy of the book includes other matters besides the cure of disease. It deals with the awful mystery of sin. Sin, according to Christian Science, is only another error similar to disease, and is to be cured in the same way, i.e., you are to get rid of the belief in sin, and then you get rid of sin. It is only a false belief, which the mortal mind cherishes. But sin and the mortal mind being equally non-existent, you chase both away when you bring truth to bear upon them. "Healing the sick and reforming the sinner," are processes of the same nature. Then the same process goes still further. It abolishes death. Even though people die now, the hope is entertained that as the principles of the science are developed, and are better understood, there will come a period when there will be no more dying. There is no real need of dying now, they say; but somehow this false idea of death has so fastened itself upon the race that humanity cannot shake it off, and so people go on seeming to die, just as from the beginning.

Let me put these leading beliefs into a brief sentence; it runs thus,—"Christian Science teaches that there is no such thing as matter, or individual mind, or a personal God, or sin or death."

That is Christian Science. If we accept it, we must cease to believe in the existence of matter; we must ignore our individual consciousness; we must not think of God as a personal Being; we must cease to think of the actuality of sin; we must ignore death. That is what is required of us.

According to Christian Science, we have no personality. God is simply the sum of the universe. Man is an emanation from God. Man is God, as one of the factors whose sum makes God. Matter is only a fiction of the mind. It comes into being when we think about it. There is no matter until you think about it. Then it seems to come into being, but it is non-existent.

Disease has no reality. It is only a physical thing, and physical things are only in the imagination. A man may think he is sick, or deformed, or crushed, or broken, but he is really none of these. He only thinks he is lame, or ill, or mis-shapen. Sickness or deformity are wholly imaginary, and hence need no material remedies. All you have to do is to get rid of the erroneous thought.

It may seem to some in stating these points that it was merely the vagary of someone's imagination, or the twisting out of shape of the views which are advocated. But for every statement, I have the authority of the text book itself upon the subject, and the openly declared views of Christian Scientists.

Now, let us see where this teaching stands. First of all we find that it is absolutely antagonistic to all the learning of the day, so far as the study of the physical sciences goes. If there is no matter, if matter is not real, why study botany? The leaves of the flowers you would analyze are but phantoms, not real. Why study astronomy? Those distant orbs have no existence, if there is no matter; they only seem to be there in the heavens.

Why study anything? "Christian Science proposes the extinction of all belief in matter, and the insistence upon the fact that matter is nothing but an illusion." If so, why study its properties? Perhaps it has never occurred to some advocates of this system that the logic which would enable one to prove the non-existence of matter would more certainly prove the non-existence of spirit. As one well said, "If my consciousness of my bodily members and their states be not trustworthy then nothing to me is trustworthy, and I am left to flounder about in the darkness through the bogs of nothingness."

It is a somewhat new demand that we should be called upon to prove the existence of matter. The great difficulty heretofore has been to convince men that there is anything but matter in this world. The struggle is to teach them to have faith in spiritual verities. Materialism has been the basis of most forms of unbelief. It has encouraged Atheism or the denial of God, and it has encouraged Pantheism, inasmuch as if the personality of Deity be denied, God becomes a mere force in matter. It has favoured Positivism, for that makes God and Spirit mere matters of education.

Now, it becomes necessary to prove the existence of matter. A strange task indeed. Let those who deny its existence, prove their denial. When that is done we shall know what step to take next. Christian Science, then, sets itself against human consciousness, and against all the treasures of human knowledge relating to matter, its existence and its properties.

2. Then, in the next place, Christian Science rejects the clear and simple teachings of the Sacred Scriptures.

Although not always in words opposing or denying their teachings, and although freely quoting them and speaking approvingly of them, it virtually denies what the Scriptures seem to to reveal. It reduced the Bible from an inspired message to a collection of disjointed declarations, capable of being twisted as you please. It puts meanings upon words which they never had before, and arbitrarily declares that such words mean thus. You can read anything you please into any book if you are permitted to change the meaning of words to suit your system.

Some pages of this book are devoted to a glossary to set forth what the author calls the real meaning of certain terms. Perhaps you would feel somewhat more sure that you had got nearer the real meaning of these words, if it were not that the same word may have many meanings. Read any meaning you please into words and change it when you please, and you have the field before you.

It is not necessary to quote from the glossary to show the truth of the declaration that they make the Scriptures another book from what it was intended to be—one that means just what they are pleased to have it mean, whereas it was designed to be a revelation.

Denying the existence of matter, and changing the teachings of the Sacred Scriptures, they go on to deny Personality, both human and divine. They tell us that there is no such thing as the individual mind, and that God is a Divine Principle. We must get rid of personality as usually understood in the church.

What shall be said in reply to this denial of personality? It brings up the whole question of whether this universe has been formed and is upheld by abstract law or by a personal agency, whether there is a perfect God as the intelligent first cause, or whether God Himself is simply the sum of all things, a diffusive principle. Now, to call God mere abstract law is really to declare that there is no God, for law is simply a mode of operation. But as law always implies a law-giver. To call God simply the sum of all things is to bring in a large element of materialism, for "matter must form a constituent element of Deity when regarded in such a light." It is impossible to think of our God existing under such an immeasurably divided form and under such divergent and contradictory conditions."

God's personality is shown in and through the material universe which He has made. He pervades and controls it. The universe exhibits a unity which would be impossible without a guiding intelligence back of it, and exhibits a progressive advancement in better adaptation to higher ends. It seems to be moved along by some intelligence greater than itself, as if some plan were being realized.

Then the personality of God is shown by the manifestation of His spiritual attributes to man. Each man has some inward conviction that the will and purpose of a Superior Being are at work in the world. Each man has a sense of the distinction between right and wrong, and that implies a moral Governor of the Universe. The personality of man is shown first through his own consciousness of having a distinct physical existence, which through all the changes of the body remains the same. Then it is shown by the powers of thought and will, by the consciousness of right and wrong, and by the sense of religion. The recognition of himself under varying circumstances is an evidence of personality. To deny, then, a personal God, and to deny personality to man, is but a step towards the denial of everything. Follow it out to the end and you must declare there is no God, no man, no universe, nothing but blankness.

The inevitable sequence of this reasoning must mean for some persons Atheism, and for others despair. Now, if the fundamental principles of Christian Science are so fallacious, what is to be said about the claim it is making to be a great curative agency for the healing of diseases, and the relief of the sorrows of our present condition?

ACTS AFFECTING THE TOWN

Also the Most Important of the Bylaws An Index of the Contents.

Several months ago Mr. W. H. Moore made a digest of the Acts which had been passed as effecting the town and also of the principal by-laws. Although the compendium was compiled for his own use, Mr. Moore was persuaded to allow the municipality to have the benefit of his work and a neat little volume has been issued which contains a multiplicity of facts concerning the town which are of the greatest interest. Only a few of the volumes are bound in cloth, which seems unfortunate as the book is chiefly valuable as a work of reference and should be graced with a better cover to contents of such importance to the municipality. In the Preface Mr. Moore says:

Having had occasion at times to refer to the particular Acts of Parliament relating to the Town of Peterborough, it recently occurred to me that it would be of advantage to those who had municipal duties to perform and others who took an interest in the Town's affairs, to have the means of learning what were the provisions of these Acts, without suffering the considerable loss of time entailed in searching through the many volumes, in which the Town's special legislation is contained. With this object in view, and at considerable labour, I have collected all these Acts, extending from 1847 to 1901, making a short note only of those which have become obsolete or are of little concern to the Town, such as Acts relating to railways, or of a semi-private character, but showing where these may be found, and giving in full, or nearly so, such Acts as are existing, and refer entirely and are of peculiar interest to the Town. It will be observed that in many instances verbatim copies are not given, yet so closely following the text as to fully retain the sense and force in all essentials, my object being that the layman might read and readily understand the provisions of the various Acts, and that others might also find herein the substance of what they desired and the means on hand for at once turning to the Act, and any section of it, which they wished to consult.

There will also be found copies of two proclamations of the Lieut. Governor of Ontario, the one extending the boundaries of the Town and the other incorporating Jackson Park; also two By-laws, the first for separating the Town from the then United Counties of Peterborough and Victoria, and the second in relation to the taking $120,000 stock in the Port Hope, Lindsay and Beaverton Railway Company, to assist in building the branch line from Millbrook, on which the Town still holds a mortgage in lieu of the subscribed stock, as I considered them cognate to the work, and of sufficient importance to justify a place in it.

I sincerely trust the objects I have had in view have in some measure been attained, and that this small volume may be found a considerable convenience to those who wish to gain information in regard to the subjects I have dealt with.

W. H. MOORE.
Peterborough, January, 1902.

CANDLES.

Their Hollow Light Is Fast Becoming but a Memory.

So markedly is the candle going out of use that the dictionary of a few years hence will probably have to supplement its definition with an illustration. In the glow of electric light, gas and paraffin we are much disposed to pity our immediate forefathers who had to put up with candles.

Yet we retain a strange respect for the candle in certain directions. When we wish to pay the highest reverence, we fall back upon it. The death chamber is lighted with candles. So is the church altar. We cannot but be forced also to the conclusion that higher ideas have been brought out and better matter written by candlelight than have been or probably ever will be by that of gas or electricity.

Shakespeare could not possibly have written all his plays by daylight. Indeed, it is more than probable that the touch of bohemianism in his composition, as in that of his watered down literary descendants today, preferred night to day for turning out its best work. Hamlet's soliloquy upon the existing value of things, Portia's tribute to mercy and the advice of Polonius to Laertes as to the best way of conducting himself in life were probably written between the snuffings of a candle. In particular can one imagine the decisive snuffing and the contemptuous tossing away of the scrap of burned wick at the close of the passage hypothetically disposing of "Cæsar's imperial day."—London Globe.

Malt Breakfast Food

The Only Cereal Product That Can Keep People Well and Strong.

The ordinary grain foods such as wheat, hominy, corn and oatmeal put up in fancy packages to attract the attention of the public, are not true health foods. They are used by many who are not aware of their depressing influence on the digestive organs. The great objection to such foods is the presence of so much insoluble starch, which hampers digestion and causes many serious derangements of the stomach.

Malt Breakfast Food is the only grain food free from starchy ingredients. In its manufacture, the starch of the wheat is converted into maltose and dextrine by the use of pure health-giving Malt. The weakest stomach retains and relishes Malt Breakfast Food. It tones and strengthens the digestive organs and quickly builds up flesh and muscle. Malt Breakfast Food is now recommended by hundreds of physicians as a perfect health food that keeps people well and strong. Your grocer sells and recommends it.

The Hand In Health.

Let us shake hands with a man, and we will tell you something about his health. The firm, hearty handshake of a sincere man may be rather rough, so that one is taught he has a grip, but it indicates stamina. While denoting absence of tact and refinement, it points to physical strength. The flabby hand that returns no pressure belongs to the person who has no great strength of body or mind. The quick, nervous handshake of an excitable, nervous temperament, and its opposite, the nerveless, passive one, belong to persons in ill health. The hand that threatens to collapse or give means fear. The feel of the hand called magnetic indicates health and kindness and a desire to help others. In many ways we may decide character by the hand as well as by the brain.—London Doctor.

Affinity Between Horses.

When the Duke of Wellington was fighting in Spain, there were two horses which had always drawn the same gun, side by side, in many battles. At last one was killed, and the other, on having his food brought as usual, refused to eat, but turned his head around to look for his old friend, and neighed many times as if to call him. All care was in vain. There were other horses near him, but he would not notice them, and he soon afterward died, not having once tasted food since his former companion was killed.—Our Dumb Animals.

They Never Freckle.

What becomes of the theory that all men are born free and equal in the face of the fact that the fair haired children of Russia never freckle? They may play in the sun all day and bear no speckling trace. The proffered explanation is that there is no yellow pigment in their skin.

The Highest Mine.

The highest mine in the world is a tin mine at Oruro, Bolivia, 14,000 feet above the sea.

The Old Plan With Its Difficulty and Expense a Thing of the Past.

Diamond Dye Mat and Rug Patterns Are Popular in All Homes.

The expense of buying suitable material and of stamping outlines of a pattern for a mat or rug is a thing of the past, now that the Diamond Dye Mat and Rug Patterns can be procured at such low prices. Another advantage in using the Diamond Dye Mat and Rug Patterns is that the patterns or design is brought out in lovely and harmonized colours, ready for working. One or more of these elegant patterns should be in every home. When worked up, they look as rich as expensive imported goods, and they wear much longer. Upon receipt of a postal Card with your address, The Wells & Richardson Co., Limited, 200 Mountain Street, Montreal, P. Q., will send you free of cost all the newest designs.

Vapor Baths.

The value of vapor and hot air baths as a means of promoting the respiratory functions of the skin has been recognized from very ancient times.

Polished Floors.

In Europe, where polished floors have so long been popular, it is the custom to polish them carefully and preferably with a cloth fastened on the shoe. Professional cleaners or polishers have learned to skate about at a great rate and to do polishing quickly and well.

Rubrics.

Most of the mediæval manuscripts have the important initials in red ink; hence the term rubrics, from rubrica, red.

Plains of Abraham.

The historic battlegrounds, the plains of Abraham, on which Wolfe and Montcalm met in final settlement of the war, is now the property in perpetuity of the city of Quebec.

Feeding an Army.

For an army of 80,000 men and 10,000 horses for three months it is estimated that 11,000 tons of food and forage are necessary.

The Girl and the Pimple.

Newspapers contained last year the account of a girl who committed suicide because she had a pimple on her face. Merrill's System Tonic from its blood purifying and blood-strengthening qualities, cures not only pimples but blotches of all kinds, also Scrofula, Eczema and Salt Rheum. Three week's treatment 50 cents. Sold by Ormond & Walsh.

A Crazy Professor.

An unusual incident occurred the other day at the University of Budapest. A confirmed lunatic from the local asylum appeared in charge of his keeper and asked to be allowed to pass his examination. He found examination work quite congenial, passed very successfully and returned to his asylum again with his diploma as a professor.

Teeth and Strawberries.

The common strawberry is a natural dentifrice. Its juice without any preparation dissolves the tartarous incrustations on the teeth and also makes the breath sweet and agreeable.

Maraschino.

Maraschino, a sweet and highly flavored liquor, is distilled from cherries bruised, both wild and cultivated kinds of fruit being used.

Ocean Liners.

The boiler tubes of a liner, if placed in a straight line, would reach nearly ten miles and the condenser tubes more than twenty-five miles. The total number of separate pieces of steel in the main structure of the ship is not less than 40,000.

St. Peter's Choir.

The choir of St. Peter's, Rome, consists of sixty boys.

Swiss Glaciers.

With only one exception the glaciers of Switzerland are diminishing steadily. Since 1876 the Rhone glacier has decreased in length at the rate of over thirty-one yards a year.

Holland's Canals.

Holland has nine miles of canal for every 100 square miles of surface, 2,700 miles in all.

Blindfolded Mules.

The mule drivers who take their animals across the South American Andes always cover the eyes of the mules with a poncho while they put on the heavy loads. If they could see, they would be unmanageable; but blindfolded they meekly accept their burdens.

Cucumbers.

Cucumbers, it is said, contain an acid that is helpful in cases of dyspepsia.

Blenheim Palace.

Blenheim palace was built by the British nation for the great Duke of Marlborough at a cost of £500,000 in the days of Queen Anne. In the grounds are a triumphal arch and a column 130 feet high, with a statue of Marlborough on the top. The magnificent park surrounding the place comprises 2,700 acres.

Kummel.

Kummel, a sweetened spirit imported from Russia and Germany, derives its title from the German name of the herb cumin, with which it is flavored, though caraway seeds are also used for the same purpose.

The Persian Crown.

The royal crown of Persia, which dates back to remote ages, is in the form of a pot of flowers, surmounted by an uncut ruby the size of a hen's egg.

Twenty Years of Bronchitis.

Captain Duslop, of Kingston, commander of the steamer "Bohemian," of the R. & O. Fleet, suffered unceasingly for twenty years, and although he took treatment all that time permanent relief was not obtained until he took Catarrhozone, which cured him quickly and permanently. The Captain says that Catarrhozone is the best cure for bronchitis on the face of the earth, pleasant to use, quick to relieve and sure to cure." Catarrhozone is a wonderful treatment for all diseases of the Throat, Lungs and Bronchial Tubes. Two months' treatment price $1; small size, 25 cents. Druggists, or Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

He Likes a Fan.

The Chinaman carries a fan even if he is a soldier on active service or if he is going to his execution.

Merrill Challenges the World.

Merrill, the druggist of Brantford, offers $1000 reward to anyone who will make a better cure for constipation than Merrill's System Tonic. This medicine is not simply a cathartic, but a positive and pleasant to take cure for habitual constipation. In this way it cures dyspepsia, impure blood and nervous trouble. 50 doses price 50 cents, at Ormond & Walsh's drug store.

WHITE FOR EVENING WEAR.

It Is the Height of Fashion This Winter.

One of the latest materials for evening coats is white corduroy. A recent model was built very simply and loosely. For sole ornamentation it had a great collar of lace edged with bands of dark fur. The whole effect was charming and a great relief to the over-trimmed creations of brocade which we have seen so much of this season.

White cloth is being much worn this winter, and there are few costumes more chic than one of this material trimmed with sable or black velvet. White frieze frocks are charming for young girls.

A white crepe de chine or broadcloth skirt is almost indispensable to wear with the light silk and chiffon waists which are so smart this winter. If made of crepe de chine, the skirt should have a tucked upper and a flounce ornamented with insertion or velvet ribbon. A charming model is one where the flounce is laid in graduated folds stitched invisibly. With such a two piece costume the belt should invariably match the waist.

The pretty evening waist here shown is of accordion plaited white chiffon. It has a bolero of white mousseline de sole figured in black and silver. This bolero rises in a point both back and front showing the accordion plaited underblouse. A bow of panne ribbon is carelessly fastened across the front of the decolletage. JUDIC CHOLLET.

CHOSEN FROM A MULTITUDE.

The Preference Shown by Thinking People for Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine—Record Sales Last Month.

Considering the large number of remedies for coughs and colds that are now offered to the public, and in view of the fact that nearly every druggist has a preparation of his own which he makes an effort to substitute for the medicine asked for, it seems truly remarkable that the demand for Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine should increase by such leaps and bounds.

During October the sale of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine exceeded by several hundred bottles the record of any previous month in its history. When it is remembered that this preparation receives very little newspaper advertising the evidence seems to be conclusive that it makes its way by sheer force of merit.

Thinking people recognize the harmfulness and danger of using strong drugs which are said to cure a cold in a few hours. They prefer to cling to Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, which they know beyond a doubt to be a thorough and effective treatment for coughs, colds, croup, bronchitis, whooping cough, throat irritations, asthma, and even consumption itself.

The combination of linseed and turpentine, with half a dozen other ingredients of equal value for treating colds, in such proportions as they are found in Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine has proven to be a perfect protection against such developments as pneumonia, consumption, and serious lung troubles. You can with certainty rely on this preparation to afford prompt relief and perfect cure.

Do you suppose that the sale of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine would be more than three times that of any similar preparation if it was not the most effective remedy that money can buy? It has stood the test and proven itself worthy of the confidence that is placed in it. People recommend it one to another, and so the good news spreads. Be sure you get the genuine, with Dr. Chase's portrait and signature on the wrapper. 25 cents a bottle. Family size, three times as much, 60 cents. At all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates and Co., Toronto. 12

MARRY OR NOT.

A Really and Truly Modern Novel of the Sublimely Soulful Sort.

She stood on the threshold.

Geoffrey d'Odenreid was sitting, or, rather, crouching, before a fire whose jets illumined his tall, bent figure. A covert coat was thrown across his shoulders. He held it together about his throat with one hand. There was something imposing in his attitude and his solitariness. The room was dark except for the fitful flicker of the fire and for a radiant moon which hung in the window pane, flooding the apartment from floor to ceiling.

At the sound of her footsteps he turned. He looked dazed a moment. She noticed that he was deathly pale. He sprang to his feet, jerking the coat from his shoulders. It fell to the floor.

She hesitated and wavered a moment on the threshold.

"Ah!" he murmured. "I thought you would come to me, queen of my soul!"

"Yes," she said as if not heeding his words; "I have came."

"You see," he continued, "it was useless for me to continue to struggle. From the first I knew that I was yours. You see, I needs must feel that the worship I give to you has for an hour at least made our souls one. I sometimes think you must have seen it all on the first night. Ah, from the first I saw you as you are—angel and goddess. There is no act of self repression, no act of self immolation, man may not commit for you, no fond and foolish thing one has read of, but has science believed. Until I met you I did not live—I slept. But now I am awake. Yet I love you, you see, and would like to whisper it into your little ear. But I would not dare. All I would dare is to fall at your feet so—looking up—mayhap you would be kind. I might catch the murmur of your low voice, listen to the music and see love shape himself on your sweep lip. You saw it, did you not, darling, the very first time? You know that never before had I caught sight of love's fluttering garment. Why, it must have been so plain to your deep heart. If you doubted it, it would have been calumny—not to me, but to yourself, your loveliness. You knew from that hour that all else, all others—do you hear?—were chaff borne on the winds, froth lashed away to nothingness on the first breaker of a fathomless sea."

Bertha Detracourt Le Moysmensing stood motionless, clasping and unclasping her hands. In her whiteness she looked like a vision from some other world. Only on her face a strange glow was growing, growing up from her mouth, irradiating her low, broad, moon tonched forehead.

"Jeff," she said slowly, calling him by the dear diminutive she always gave to him when he fell into one of his talking spells, "if you mean business, cheese that lingo and give me plain English, but if you are just doing a language stunt keep moving—you're hitting it up to beat the band."

Turned Down.

"Hello!" said Wandering Willie to Tired Thompson. "Somebody's left an ottermobilly in the road. Let's take a ride."

"Not on your life!" replied Thompson, with his eye on the steering wheel. "That looks too much like brakin' freight cars." — Philadelphia North American.

TEA GOWNS.

Beautiful Adaptations From Historical Models.

Tea gowns have become very important. There is not a fashionable woman who does not possess one or more of these artistic creations. Any model is permissible provided that it outlines the figure and gives no hint of being a wrapper. Historical models are largely followed, principally those of the empire period. Many watteau models are also used and models which belong to no period at all, but combine the best points of each. The finest handwork is seen upon these tea gowns, and hand painted medallions of chiffon or lace are not infrequent.

A pretty model is shown in today's cut. The material is pale green peau de soie, with a full, soft front of chif fon of the same shade. It is made with tight fitting sides and a graceful watteau plait in the back. Wide bands of yellow insertion ornament the entire gown and are disposed so as to give the best effect to a tall figure. The short waist is in a bolero effect, composed of tucks and bands of the insertion. A novel feature is formed by the two knots of narrow black velvet having long streamers of the velvet. The neck is cut V shape both back and front. The sleeves are elbow length, ornamented with three bands of lace and a ruffle of chiffon. JUDIO CHOLLET.

A TILSONBURG BUTCHER.

Pins His Faith to Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets.

Mr. C. H. Parker, Tilsonburg, Ont., the well known butcher of that town, has been using Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets for a backache and kidney trouble that had been bothering him. When asked to give his opinion of these Tablets he made this statement:—

"During a recent, sudden, and sharp attack of backache and kidney trouble, due to cold caught in the shop, I was induced to try Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets. I got a bottle and after I had used half of them the pain was gone. This I think is rapid enough results for anyone. I think they are a mighty good medicine."

Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets are the newest and most effective remedy for backache, lame or weak back, Bright's disease, diabetesm dropsy, puffiness under the eyes, swelling of the feet and ankles, gravel, rheumatism, specks floating before the eyes, kidney weakness of children and old people and all urinary troubles. A Theological Nose.

"I was once showing a young Japanese around Boston," says a correspondent of The Living Church, "and casually dropped into Trinity church with him. He was at the time a recent convert to Unitarianism in his own country and was wide awake to everything connected with American civilization and American Christianity.

"A few minutes after entering Trinity, as we approached the center aisle, I noticed him making a distinct sniffing noise and, looking toward him, saw that he was in the act of smelling, his nostrils moving convulsively after the manner of an animal scenting something. Looking surprised and mystified, I at once asked him what was the matter, and in broken English he replied, 'I smell paganism.'

"This method of detecting false doctrines is capable of some curious developments."

COULD NOT WALK.

Some people become so crippled with rheumatism that they cannot walk for months at a stretch. Mr. John Connell, Bedford Mills, Ont., suffered great agony with muscular rheumatism in his legs and could not walk for two months. Four bottles of Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure made a well man of him. This great blood purifier is put up in bottles containing ten days' treatment, 50 cents, at all drug stores, or Dr. Hall Medicine Co., Kingston, Ont.

Human Traits In Birds.

The human traits in birds are many, as most sympathetic naturalists have testified. Mr. Burroughs has told us that there are jealousies and rivalries among the little winged folk and that the peace of families is often disturbed by outside flirts and lady killers. Quoting this statement in The Dial, another observer gives us to understand that the errant bird husband is duly punished. "I have myself," he says, "seen an English hen sparrow holding a cock by the topknot and dangle him clear off his feet, while her friends punished him with violent peckings."

When He Prays.

"Do you say your prayers?" asked the little girl.

"Well, sometimes," replied the little boy.

"When?" asked the little girl.

"Well," returned the little boy, "when Bob an' I get to playin' an' makin' an awful racket while we're goin' to bed an' we hear pop comin' up stairs two steps at a time we drop right down on our knees an' begin to pray, an' when he gets to our door he don't dare disturb us."

Serene Confidence.

"I am afraid," said the publisher, "that you are harming your reputation by the indifferent work you are putting into this new serial."

"Nonsense," answered the self assured author. "Even if the work is unusually poor the public will take it for granted that I am great. Otherwise I couldn't get such stuff published.

Something About Faith Cures.

What a great variety of faith cures there must be, some have faith in so-called divine healers, others in certain doctors and still others in the medicines they use. Every person who has tested Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills has faith in them, but faith or no faith they cure just the same, for they act directly and specifically on the kidneys, liver and bowels, and make these organs healthy, active and vigorous. Judging from the enormous demand for these Pills there must be hosts of people that have faith in them.

CONSUMPTION

Is like the constrictor which drops its coils around its victim and slowly tightens them until life is extinguished.

Once the coils are drawn tight there is little chance of escape. The one hope of safety is to break loose at the beginning o the attack.

Those who are showing symptoms of lung disease should instantly begin the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It will cure obstinate coughs, bronchitis and bleeding of the lungs. It increases the nutrition of the body, and so restores the emaciated form to health and strength.

There is no alcohol in "Golden Medical Discovery," and it is entirely free from opium, cocaine, and all other narcotics.

"I feel it my duty to give my testimonial in behalf of your great medicine," writes Mr. John T. Reed, of Jefferson, Jefferson Co., Ark. "When I commenced taking Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery I was very low with a cough, and would at times spit blood. I was not able to do any work at all, was weak and my head was dizzy. The first bottle I took did me so much good that I had faith in it and continued until I had taken twelve bottles. Now I do not look like nor feel like the same man as I was a year ago. People were astonished and said they did not think that I could live. I can thankfully say that I am entirely cured of a disease from which had it not been for your wonderful 'Discovery' I would have died."

CHAPTER XXII.

We had entirely forgotten that such a thing as natural ice was never or rarely known at the Cape, and the ice we got in our cream was manufactured by artificial means by a joint stock company, and retailed at, I think, about four-pence a pound. It is expensive eating ice at the equator. After we had left the restaurant, our stomachs heavier, but our pockets lighter, we proceeded but a few blocks till we met another quartette from our troop, and the night atmosphere being sultry the boys were fairly parched with thirst, and dropped into the first "pub" to have it slaked. I refused to enter the house, but told them I would wait for them at the door. There was a big, burly-looking dragoon at the door, too, and after the boys had entered the bar-room, this fellow began blarneying the Canadians, thinking I would consider all this flattery worth one drink, at least, but I agreed with him in every particular, and to tell the truth, he couldn't blarney with one side of me. He talked away good humouredly for some time till he thought I was too slow "to spring," as they call it, and it would be useless to say anything more. Then he instituted a change of tactics, and kindly invited me to have a drink with him—and pay for it, too, I suppose—but again I refused. Whereupon he got quite angry, and impertinently enquired if I had anything against the man of the house. "No," I said, "I never saw or heard of him before." "Well," he said, "if you have nothing against the man of the house can't you be amicable?" "Yes," I replied, "I suppose I could with great effort, but I don't indulge at home, and what I don't do there, I won't do here. I have a conscience, and must govern myself by its dictates." "Oh, you're too good a man to be a soldier," he went on to say ironically; "but I'd be a man, I'd never pull my colours down and drag them through the dirt." "I'll never pull mine down either nor drag them through the dirt," I retorted, "but if they were like yours I would." Just then the other boys came out, and we left the dragoon, whom I never saw again.

It was now time for us to retrace our steps to camp, for the streets were being patrolled by mounted and dismounted troops, but we could not return without bringing some canned meats, fruits, or vegetables, so we dropped into a grocery and fruit store on the way. The proprietor was a jovial fellow and we had a jolly time while he was taking the orders and doing up parcels. Some of the boys enquired of him if he had been up to camp yet. "No," he said, "I haven't been up yet; I don't know how many of my customers and other people have asked me the same question. You know the first contingent was called 'The Thousand Thieves,' and my customers will come in here and say, 'Mr. So-and-So, have you been up to Green Point Camp to see that other Thousand Light-Fingered Gentlemen from America?' We had a good laugh at this, but I think he had his doubts as to whether we would think it fun or not. I don't know why the First Contingent received this appellation, but I presume two or three reckless individuals maligned the whole regiment, and all that followed. The Royal Canadians were of course "the cream" of the land, and the C. M. R. the second skimming; but horrors! if the cream of the land was a thousand thieves, what must the people have been who remained at home?

We hurried back towards camp, losing our way twice, but managed to report at our guard tent before our time expired. It was quite dark, and we stumbled over some queer looking obstacle, which proved to be the picket's reliefs. These fellows are not permitted to remain in the guard tent, so they rolled themselves up in their blankets and lay side by side in the sand, with the starry canopy for a roof. I was greatly disappointed with the general appearance of the city. It certainly presented a pleasing appearance from the sea. From our vessel the scene was grand and inspiring in the highest degree. In the distance was the majestic Table Mountain, over a mile high, and as flat on the top as the deck we were standing upon. About mid-way between the summit and the base was Signal-Hill, and between this and the sea level, on the steep incline, were gardens of evergreens, and an occasional humble abode. At the foot there was almost a superabundance of beautiful tropical foliage, scattered promiscuously among the snowy white cottages of the town. When the sun went down and darkness veiled the earth it added enchantment to our surroundings. The city was brilliantly lighted with many arc-lamps, and the innumerable cottage windows were likewise a blaze of glory. Every vessel in the harbour was aglow, but the grandest of all was the reflection. The harbour was as calm as a mill-pond, and every light in the city, on the bay, and in the starry canopy, was perfectly mirrored in the placid waters. It just seemed as though we were suspended between two firmaments, whose countless orbs emblazoned the heavens. I never went down town again after dark, but had to go as far as the docks several times in daylight for the transport wagons. Here again we find the most inconvenient plan adopted, where a little common sense would have obviated much unnecessary trouble. The harness of the transport teams was all shipped ready made, and no two pieces left intact that could be torn assunder. Men on the transport—and at that time, I was one of them—had to put these together, and fit our horses, which was no easy matter. Collars in particular, were difficult to get fitted properly, and it took us a couple of days to complete our contract. Our horses had never been driven together, and you may be sure we had a picnic going down to the docks. There were eight teams and we all started out, armed with blacksnake whips, one afternoon, at two o'clock, to bring up the wagons. The steam and tram cars were a source of terror to many of our chargers, it was no uncommon sight to see one of our team travelling sideways or backwards as if telling you to come on. When we reached our destination, the teams were all jammed into a narrow space between a storehouse and a mountain of hay. The wagons, like the harness, were in fragments, and of course, we must put them together. The horses were all handed over to three of us, while the remainder went to work at wagon-building. The crazy animals were never a minute at rest, nor content, unless when getting entangled in each others lines. The railway was only a few yards from us and when a train came screeching along—which was about every two minutes—we had a regular stampede. To make matters worse, it began drizzling rain, and none of us had our great-coats, so we got a good wetting. We remained there till about half-past seven in the evening, when we started for camp with just one solitary wagon. Next day and for the two following that, we went down for the wagons and had a similar experience. Now to my mind, this was the height of folly. Why should we go down to the docks daily, forcing ourselves in the way of others, and come landing home with a single conveyance? Each troop had a teamster, and a wagoner, and I can't see why those eight wagon-men couldn't have gone down to the docks in the forenoon, and have set up the wagons or else have accompanied the teamsters and assisted in doing so. It is quite evident it didn't require eight teams to draw up one wagon and why send them all down to the wharf to hamper others in the discharge of their duty? Eight men could have hauled it up for that matter. But this was not the only instance where Tommy was humbugged at the Cape. If there is anything in the world that creates confusion, begets trouble, and fosters discontent in the individual and disgust for everybody and everything, it is to have a legion of self-made authorities, dictating orders, when nine times out of ten they don't know what they're talking about, and really have no reason for interfereing unless to attract attention. You may know beyond a doubt that the party is in error; you may have heard the commander-in-chief's ideas respecting the matter, and may know your arduous labour will be all in vain, but nevertheless "mum" is the word. This seems imperative in the army and one of the great essentials to success, but what I would like to know is, why an officer—commissioned or non-commissioned—will stubbornly refuse to acknowledge his ignorance, and refrain from asking directions from a superior when he fails to understand his orders. But men are often sent to do a certain work without orders, and it is a fact proven repeatedly, that men are compelled by this haughty, self-sufficiency to perform duties not only irksome and unnecessary but not unfrequently fatal, and well-nigh impossible. Our duty on this particular occasion, however, was not attended with any serious after-effects, unless a greater disrespect for the intelligence of our superiors. It was a Monday morning and although we had been in camp for eight days, it was not until now, we had definitely discovered the place where the refuse of the camp should be deposited. For some days after our arrival at Green Point, the garbage had been relegated to a spot in rear of our lines, and toward the west, but one fine day some high authority chanced to pass that way, and gave orders for its immediate removal to a place with a relative position on the east. This, to all intents worked quite satisfactorily till a day or two after, when some still higher authority or maybe the same, thinking we weren't sufficient-employed decided on another change, and a fatigue party was forthwith detailed to remove the whole heap to another spot about two hundred yards more remote. This was the last time it was disturbed, but had we remained at the Cape for another day or two, it is not at all improbable we would have had another scavenger-parade returning it to the place it had first occupied. Why doesn't the proper authority bestir himself at the right time, and not be giving orders how to do a thing after its completed? Is it any wonder men resent such Tomfoolery? They wouldn't be worthy the name if they didn't. I was one of the unfortunates ordered to transfer the rubbish to its last resting place. There was a large party of us, and we were unanimous in our resolve to squander the whole forenoon at the job. The non-com. in charge was a jolly fellow, and unparticular when the contract was completed. Two-thirds of the garbage was sand, and sand is not a light material, so two of us hold an oat sack till a third filled it about half full. This we considered enough, and away we went dragging the sack after us. We were in no hurry, and like the Kaffirs, rested frequently and had a good chat with every span we met on the way. If we made two round trips in the forenoon we congratulated ourselves. We had cullers at work picking out all the wire, scraps of tin, etc., that had been dumped there by the citizens, and this we let remain where it was. The non-com. thought we were too careful of ourselves altogether and begged us to lengthen our pace, and not be always marking time. In spite of all our good resolves, and efforts to keep them, we finished the work by 10 o'clock, and were going through the lines collecting all the scraps of paper, bread, hay, meat, etc., when the elements, moved to compassion, thinking we had faithfully laboured long enough through somebody's negligence or jolly, decided to assist us, and suddenly a mighty wind swooped down over Table Mountain and came roaring up the lines sweeping every light moveable thing before it, carrying all to the sea. There were only a few straggling horses in the lines, and these did their best to break loose and quit the place. Our tent curtains were all rolled and we thought the storm would likely carry the tents away too, but it only razed a few to the ground. We dashed into the tents, and got our sand-glasses on, but the sand could still find its way to our optics, and it was with great difficulty we could see our way, to lower the curtains. It was over in a few minutes, but was wild and blinding while it lasted. When the wind had subsided, there wasn't a particle of refuse in our lines, but a few hundred yards away beside a board fence, the sand was piled up three or four feet deep, and it took about thirty Kaffirs with a number of Cape carts some days to remove it.

NEAVE'S FOOD

The most delicate stomach can take it, and in a very short time a thoroughly healthy condition of body is established, the tissues easily absorb its life-giving particles, and where weakness and discomfort previously existed there is strength and vigour.

Mrs. BLACKMORE, of 1 Marine Parade, Clevedon, writes:—"I have forwarded by this post a photo of our baby girl, age eight months, who has been brought up entirely on Neave's Food, which we found suited her in every respect. . . . We have tried other foods, which ends in restless nights for her and us. We do with pleasure recommend your Food to all our friends."

The Officers and Children of First Church of Christ Scientist Sunday School.

The officers and children of the First Church of Christ Scientist Sunday School, No. 378 Aylmer street, met last night at 6 o'clock at the residence of Mr. R. J. Todd, No. 218 Wolfe street, where a table was spread with many good things, to which the children did ample justice, showing that Christian Science medicine is a very good appetizer.

After this the older members of the congregation assembled and spent a very enjoyable evening, being entertained with an impromptu programme of instrumental and vocal music, recitations, readings, speeches etc.

Old and young returned to their homes satisfied that Christian Scientists not only know how to pray but how to enjoy themselves.—Com.

FUTURE PROVISION.

There are two periods in a man's life, when in the natural course of things, he is unable to take care of himself—his childhood and his old age. During the whole of our lives we are consumers; during middle life only we are producers. It is therefore the aim of every man to put by enough during middle age, so that he will have an independent income for his old age. But, under ordinary circumstances this is often a hard thing to do. Men at that time of life generally find themselves with a family to provide for; perhaps their whole income is required to meet the household expenses, and it is impossible to find a remunerative investment for their small annual savings.

An Imperial endowment policy, as issued by the Imperial Life Assurance Company of Canada, Toronto, is an ideal investment for a man in this position. Should he die at any time the insurance will provide for his family and leave them in an independent position. At the same time he is providing an income for his old age, which will enable him to end his days in comfort. With an "Imperial Endowment Policy" a man need have no fear for his own future, or the future of his wife and family.

LED INTO BOER TRAP

Twelve British Killed and Over Forty Wounded.

MISHAP NEAR THE KLIP RIVER

150 Mounted Infantry Pursued a Single Boer When They Were Attacked on Three Sides—Eight British Officers Made a Gallant Defence—Trapped Soldiers Were All Fresh and Unused to Boer Tactics.

Pretoria, Feb. 16.—One hundred and fifty mounted infantrymen, while patrolling the Klip River, south of Johannesburg, Feb. 12, surrounded a farm, where they suspected Boers were hiding. A single Boer broke away from the house and the British started to pursue him. The Boer climbed a kopje, the British followed. Immediately a heavy fire was opened upon them from three sides.

The British found themselves in a trap, and in a position where they were unable to make any defence.

Eight of the British officers made a gallant effort and defended the ridge with carbines and revolvers until they were overpowered. The British had 2 officers and 10 men killed and several officers and 40 men wounded before the force was able to fall back under cover of a blockhouse.

Lord Kitchener, in addition to reporting the Klip River affair, says: "A party from South African Constabulary line, on the Watervale River, encountered, Feb. 10, a superior force of the enemy, near Vantonderbek, and was driver back with loss."

Unused to Boer Tactics.

London, Feb. 17.—According to a special despatch from Pretoria, the mounted infantry who were trapped at Klip River were all fresh from home and unused to Boer tactics. The bulk of the casualties occurred during the retreat of the British. The killed included Major Dowell, the commander of the force.

The War Costing Less.

London, Feb. 17.—The army estimates disclose a reduction of 30,000 men on the pay rolls in South Africa and a material reduction in the general cost of the service. This is an official indication that the Boer operations are regarded as well nigh at an end.

Details of the loss of Col. Crabbe's convoy disclose a larger Boer success than the earlier despatches admitted, but otherwise there has been no British mishap in a long period.

Dewet's force, originally estimated at 2,000 men, has been reduced by later despatches to one-quarter that number, and figures given for Free Staining burghers in the Orange State are equally elastic.

Gen. Kitchener is concentrating his efforts upon the capture of this force, with Dewet and Steyn, as the shortest and most effective method of ending the war.

Boer Delegates to Washington.

The Hague, Feb. 17.—Intelligence has been received here from Boulogne to the effect that among the passengers who sailed from there Saturday on the Holland-American Line steamship, Rotterdam, were Messrs. Welmarans and Wessels, Boer delegates, and Dr. De Bruyn, secretary of the Boer Embassy. They are traveling under the respective names of Annacker, Aridt and Wormstall. They are going to the United States with a mission different from that of Dr. Mueller, who went in a private capacity.

MRS. DEWET MAY LEAVE,

Boer Commander's Wife Cannot Reside in Cape Colony.

London, Feb. 17.—The War Secretary, Mr. Brodrick, informed questioners in the House of Commons Saturday that he could not undertake to give the House an opportunity to discuss the matter, should the death sentence be passed upon Commandant Kritzinger (who was captured by General French last December) before sentence was carried out. He could not interfere with the discretion of Lord Kitchener.

In regard to Mrs. Dewet, Mr. Brodrick said that there was no objection to her leaving South Africa, but she would not be allowed to reside in Cape Colony.

Mrs. Dewet Unconquered.

Durban, Feb. 17.—Mrs. Dewet, in an interview held at the Maritzburg concentration camp, said that two of her sons were still fighting with their father. She regretted that the Government had not permitted her to communicate with her husband, and said she was certain he would never surrender. Mrs. Dewet declared she would rather see her husband die than submit.

Germany Aids the Boers.

Berlin, Feb. 17.—The German Boer Relief Committee has voted an immediate grant of 300,000 marks, half in cash and half in material comforts, for the use of the Boers in the concentrated camps of South Africa.

TWO CANADIANS ILL.

William Downing and Martin A. Conway Have Enteric Fever.

Ottawa, Feb. 17.—A cablegram from the Casualty Department at Cape Town to the Governor-General, announces that William Downing is dangerously ill of enteric fever at Vet River. His next of kin is his sister, Miss M. Downing of St. John, N.B.

Another member of the South African Constabulary reported dangerously ill of fever is Martin A. Conway, whose next of kin is his brother, W. J. Conway, of Kingston, Kent County, N.S.

STORY OF MASSACRE

Twenty-Five French Murdered on Coast of New Guinea.

AWFUL TALE OF CANNIBALISM

Harrowing Details by M. Rouyer, Survivor of Massacre of French Scientific Mission by Cannibals at Sileraka, New Guinea—Treacherously Attacked by Natives Who Gave Them Friendly Reception.

Paris, Feb. 17.—Le Patrie yesterday publishes a letter, received from its correspondent, M. Rouyer, a survivor of a massacre of a French scientific mission, by cannibals, at Sileraka, New Guinea, Jan. 1. M. Rouyer relates that the yacht Salvatti, with the mission on board, had anchored off the coast of New Guinea, and that a number of the explorers landed. After an apparently friendly reception from the natives, the latter treacherously attacked them during the night, murdering 25 of the party, including Baron Villars, Count de Saint Remy and MM. Hagenbeck and Fries, and wounding 33, including the writer of the letter, M. Rouyer, the chief of the mission, and another Frenchman, named Reimer.

M. Rouyer writes: "We were all sleeping peacefully, when there was a great uproar, and we were attacked by hundreds of natives, carrying torches. Several of us were felled to the ground with clubs, hatchets and spears. Others were overpowered, carried away and bound to trees. I was among this number. I received a blow on the head from a club and fainted. When I recovered consciousness at 5 o'clock in the morning, I found myself tied hand and foot and surrounded by savages, who, believing me to be dead, were keeping me for themselves.

"I saw the body of Baron Villars near me, bound to a tree. His body was naked, his head had been split open, his eyes had been gouged out and his groin was horribly mutilated. The Count de Saint Remy had been decapitated and his head stuck on the end of a spear as a trophy. M. Hagenbeck was spitted on a bamboo and being roasted over a fire. The savages were about to cut him up. I waited my fate. I was afraid to move. My head hurt dreadfully. All around me the ground was strewn with corpses.

"Suddenly a great clamor arose, followed by a fusilade. I opened my eyes and saw Dr. Foriter and the remainder of the mission from the yacht firing on the cannibals. I shouted and the rescuers ran to me and cut cords which bound me to the tree. The cannibals fled, leaving 32 dead. The clothes of M. Fries were found, but his body was missing. He had evidently been devoured during the night.

Prince Henry in England.

Southampton, Feb. 17.—The Kronprinz Wilhelm arrived here yesterday morning. Prince Henry's voyage to England was uneventful.

The Kronprinz Wilhelm, proceeded slowly from Bremen Haven down the Weser, under a cloudless sky and amidst cheers from the people lining the shore.

Prince Henry remained on the bridge of the steamer until the members of the German Embassy at London, who came here to welcome him, went on board. He then received them in his saloon.

The Kronprinz Wilhelm sailed for Cherbourg at 8 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Cherbourg, Feb. 17.—The Kronprinz Wilhelm arrived in the roadstead at 8.40 last evening, after a pleasant passage from Southampton. The weather was splendid, and there was no wind. The Kronprinz Wilhelm resumed the journey for New York at 9 o'clock.

The Unreconstructed South.

Jackson, Miss., Feb. 17.—Mrs. Jefferson Davis appeared before the legislature yesterday, and her presence caused a very affecting scene.

She was introduced to the joint session by Senator Cayce, who eulogized Jefferson Davis and spoke of the undying love of the people of Mississippi for the only President of the Confederate States.

Mrs. Davis burst into tears when she attempted to reply. "Gentlemen," said she, "I shall always tenderly love the people of Mississippi, who clung to the cause of a defeated man. I can say no more."

Mrs. Davis was assisted from the speaker's stand, and the old veterans, citizens and little children crowded around her.

More Bad Ballots at London.

London, Feb. 17.—Judge Edward Elliott Saturday continued his scrutiny of the mayoralty ballots cast in the recent municipal election. The developments were similar to those of the Friday afternoon session, there being in several cases discrepencies between the number of ballots supplied to and received from the deputies. The ballot boxes from Wards 2 and 3 were opened and examined.

The Princess Pays.

Cape Town, Feb. 17.—Princess Radziwill Saturday paid the judgment for £1,150 ($5,750), obtained against her Oct. 12 last, by Mr Thomas Loew, a merchant of this city, for money advanced on a note for £2,000 ($10,000), said to have been indorsed by Mr. Cecil Rhodes, but which the latter repudiated.

GUARANTY BOND GONE.

There Are No Startling Developments in the Lancefield Case.

Hamilton, Feb. 17.—There are no startling developments in the Lancefield case. It is now said that quite a number of new books ordered for the library have not reached there, but have been delivered elsewhere. The trouble over the guarantee bond is said to be due to the fact that the precious document is missing, and there is a dispute going on between the board and the company as to the terms of the bond. Chairman Lyman Lee was Saturday made happy by the receipt of a letter from a singularly sympathetic citizen, who enclosed a cheque for $100 to help meet the shortage. He sent the money, he wrote, because it was high time the services of the board were recognized in a tangible way.

There will be under construction on April 1 of this year 13 new battleships, 22 armored cruisers, 2 second-class cruisers, 2 third-class cruisers, 10 torpedo-boar destroyers, 5 torpedo boats and 8 minor craft. Lord Selborne, First Lord of the Admiralty, announces that a cruisers, 00 torpedo-boat destroyis contemplated, and that important developments are planned in the executive and work departments. A committee will be appointed to consider the establishment of a volunteer naval reserve.

FOR TEN YEARS.

How a Well Known Farmer Suffered—The Story in his own Words—It Should be of Interest to Many.

Mr. John Scaife, of No. 9, Johnson Side Road, Byng P.O., Ont., has given for publication a most interesting story of how he was cured of Dyspepsia and Sour Stomach ailments which has made his life a burden for over ten years.

Mr. Scafe is a farmer well known and highly esteemed. He is one of the oldest residents in the county, having lived there nearly sixty years. In his published statement of his case and its cure he says in part:

"For over ten years I was a great sufferer with Dyspepsia and Sour Stomach which gave me great pain.

"I did not dare to eat any pastry and in fact almost everything I did eat, no matter how careful I was, would cause me a great deal of distress and pain.

"I tried several remedies but nothing would do me any good till one day I was in a drug store in Dunnville and the druggist told me of several wonderful cures of Stomach Trouble and Dyspepsia that had been done by Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

"I made up my mind to try them and bought a box which I began to use at once.

"From the first dose I got relief. I found very soon that I could eat anything I wanted to without the slightest distress or pain afterwards.

"I continued the treatment till I was completely cured and I can honestly recommend Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets as the very best medicine for Stomach Troubles.

"This is over four years ago and as I am still in good health I am satisfied my cure is a permanent one."

What Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets have done for farmer Scaife they have done for thousands of others and they will do the same for any Dyspeptic who gives them a chance.

Preserved by Copper.

The discovery in a Chilean copper mine of the body of an Indian workman who had died there many years ago and who had been preserved from decay by the antiseptic action of copper is reported in an American mining journal. The mine in question is situated in the district of Chuquicamata, in the desert of Atacama. The Indian had evidently been killed by a fall from the roof while engaged in collecting atacamite in a small basket which was still in his hand, his stone implements being found alongside.

THE TRIESTE RIOTS

Twelve Were Killed on Friday and Four on Saturday.

THE TROOPS FIRED RECKLESSLY

Over One Hundred said to Be Wounded—Gravest Riots Which Have Happened in Austria For Many Years—Decision of the Arbitration Tribunal in Favor of the Strikers Quiets the City.

Vienna, Feb. 17.—The riots at Trieste are the gravest which have happened in Austria in many years. The original strike is supposed to be an outcome of Socialist or Anarchist agitation.

During Friday's riots 12 persons were killed and 25 wounded, while on Sunday four persons met their death, including the police commissioner, who was killed by a revolver shot. Some of the reports say that over 100 persons were wounded. There is little doubt that the troops were over hasty.

Dr. Von Koerber, the Imperial Premier, explained to the Reichsrath Saturday that the officer commanding the troops was struck by a stone and fell unconscious, and that the officer next in rank ordered his men to fire, and that the latter were so excited they fired recklessly, with the result that a girl, sitting in a second storey window, and a postal clerk sitting in his office were both shot dead. The Reichsrath unanimously voted a practical censure on the Government for permitting the troops to fire on the mob. The municipal council of Trieste has adopted a similar resolution, and has decided to provide for the families of the victims of the encounters at public cost. It is not unlikely that the municipal council of Trieste will be dissolved for defiance of the Government. All official accounts describe the riots as a "revolutionary outbreak."

A Cabinet council, hurriedly called Saturday night, obtained the sanction of the Emperor Francis Joseph to suspend civil law at Trieste and at many villages in the vicinity, while two battalions of troops were drafted into Trieste. What, however, had a greater effect in quieting the city was the announcement Saturday of the arbitration tribunal in favor of the strikers. Not until an official standing on the balcony of the Town Hall had read the decision aloud and groups of strikers had paraded the streets with white flags to spread the decision, was quiet restored.

ON THE FREE LIST.

Government So Places Several Articles Used by Canadian Manufacturers

Ottawa, Feb. 17.—A number of orders in Council have recently been passed transferring to the list of articles which may be imported into Canada free of duty certain articles entering into Canadian manufactures when imported by the manufacturers for use in their own factories. The articles are as follows:

Hemp bleaching compound for the manufacture of rope.

Silver tubing for the manufacture of silverware.

Steel for the manufacture of cutlery.

Yarn of jute, flax or hemp, for the manufacture of towels.

Steel castings, in the rough, for the manufacture of scissors and handshears.

All articles entering into the construction and forming part of cream separators.

In the case of the hemp bleaching compound, the reason for placing it on the free list, is to enable Canadian manufacturers to produce cordage of a lighter color, so that they may successfully compete with foreign manufacturers.

Another order in Council has been passed providing for the payment of a drawback of the duty paid on imported materials used in the manufacture of machinery and structural iron and steel for use in the construction and equipment of factories for the manufacture of sugar from beet root. By an amendment to the tariff made last session, provision was made for the free entry of such machinery and structural iron and steel, and the object of this order is to place the Canadian manufacturer of these articles in as good a position as his foreign competitors.

The King at Westminster.

London, Feb. 17.—King Edward visited Westminster Abbey Saturday afternoon, accompanied by Viscount Esher, in order to obtain a practical knowledge of the arrangements for the coronation. His Majesty entered unrecognized just as the congregation which had been attending a Lenten lecture filed out, and remained half an hour studying the plans for the temporary alterations in the abbey. He was only recognized on leaving the building by the choir boys in Dean's Yard, who raised a cheer.

Cable Tolls to Be Cut.

Ottawa, Feb. 15.—The understanding the Government has with Mr. Marconi is that in return for a contribution from the Federal exchequer toward the erection of the company's station in Cape Breton for the receipt and despatch of transatlantic messages by the wireless telegraph, the Canadian authorities are guaranteed a reduction in the rates for commercial messages of 60 per cent. That is to say, instead of it costing, as it does to-day, 25 cents a word for cables to England, parties will be able to hold converse with one another across the ocean for 10 cents a word.

LEWIS DISMISSED.

Customs Inspector S. W. McMichael Investigating the Bridgeburg Case.

Buffalo, Feb. 17.—Charles W. Lewis, who for 26 years was employed by the Canadian Government in the customs house at Bridgeburg, Ont., has been suspended and his dismissal from the service is said to be but a question of a few days. James Lawson, collectar of customs for the port of Bridgeburg, says Lewis stole $1,900 in 1901 and that he has probably been misappropriating money at that rate for 20 years. The exact amount of Lewis' alleged shortage will never be known, as the records from which the information could be obtained have been destroyed, presumably by Lewis himself. It is not known what action the Canadian Government will take in the matter. Lewis has not been arrested. It is said he has left Bridgeburg.

Story Verified in Toronto.

Toronto, Feb. 17.—Mr. S. W. McMichael, the Inspector of Custom Ports, when asked on Saturday afternoon as to the truth of the foregoing, replied: "Yes, the statement is true. Lewis was head clerk at Bridgeburg, or Fort Erie, and he is a defaulter to a considerable extent. I have been investigating the case, as it comes under my department. The exact amount of the shortage has not yet been discovered, but, an investigation into his accounts is going on, and will be completed in a few days. In the meantime, Lewis has been dismissed."

FRIED ONIONS

Indirectly Caused the Death of the World's Greatest General.

It is a matter of history that Napoleon was a gormand, an inordinate lover of the good things of the table, and history further records that his favourite dish was fried onions; his death from cancer of sto-much it is claimed also, was probably caused from his excessive indulgence of this fondness for the odorous vegetable.

The union is undoubtedly a wholesome article of food, in fact has many medicinal qualities of value, but it would be difficult to find a more indigestible article than fried onions, and to many people they are simply poison, but the onion does not stand alone in this respect. Any article of food that is not thoroughly digested becomes a source of disease and discomfort whether it be fried onions or beef steak.

The reason why any wholesome food is not promptly digested is because the stomach lacks some important element of digestion, some stomachs lack peptone, others are deficient in gastric juice, still others lack hydrochloric acid.

The one thing necessary to do in any case of poor digestion is to supply those elements of digestion which the stomach lacks, and nothing does this so thoroughly and safely as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Dr. Richardson in writing a thesis on treatment of dyspepsia and indigestion, closes his remarks by saying, "for those suffering from acid dyspepsia, shown by sour, watery risings, or for flatulent dyspepsia shown by gas on stomach, causing heart trouble and difficult breathing, as well as for all other forms of stomach trouble, the safest treatment is to take one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after each meal. I advise them because they contain no harmful drugs, but are composed of valuable digestives, which act promptly upon the food eaten. I never knew a case of indigestion or even chronic dyspepsia which Stuart's Tablets would not reach."

Cheap cathartic medicines claiming to cure dyspepsia and indigestion can have no effect whatever in actively digesting the food, and to call any cathartic medicine a cure for indigestion is a misnomer.

Every druggist in the United States and Canada sells Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and they are not only the safest and most successful but the most scientific of any treatment for indigestion and stomach troubles

Carnegie Says War Cannot Happen.

New York, Feb. 15.—Andrew Carnegie, speaking last night at a reception given him by the Authors' Club, declared that he regarded a war on the United States by a European power or by any combination of powers as an impossibility, and that the large navy now being built by this country is useless for that reason. He said in part:

Some one has referred to steel. That made me think that it is indeed a great matter for this country to feed the whole world as it will soon be doing. It renders us unassailable. No power, in Europe or anywhere else, can take a step against us, even should it declare war. Therefore, the navy is perfectly useless which we are building up.

An Insult to Pharaoh's Remains.

A French Savant returned from Egypt bringing a royal mummy with him, and the case was opened at Marseilles. Being told that it contained a Pharoah, the officer looked up Pharoah in the tariff, but no mention could he find of such an article. Then it occurred to him that a nice high duty was exacted on dried fish, and the savant had to pay as if for that commodity.—London Daily Mail.

AGAINST ANARCHY.

Canadian Law Will Provide For Death Penalty.

Ottawa, Feb. 17.—The measure the Government will introduce in the Commons to avert in this country calamities such as befell our American neighbors in the assassination of President McKinley will contain exactly the same provision as the United States enactment. That is to say, the death penalty will be exacted wherever an attempt is made at assassination, and the conspirator will be held equally to account with the instrument employed to execute the purpose.

Frightful Balloon Trip.

Berlin, Feb. 17.—Some new details of the fearful balloon journey which Capt. Tarisch von Siegfield recently made from Berlin to Antwerp, ending in his death, have been made known by his companion, Dr. Linke.

The distance, 400 miles, was made in 5 hours and 13 minutes. It takes an express train 15 hours to make the run by rail between the twa cities.

At one time the balloon was flying at the rate of 60 yards a second, about two miles a minute.

In five hours, when near Antwerp, the balloon collapsed and was swept across the River Scheldt. Dr. Linke sprang from the balloon when at a height of 15 feet. Capt. von Siegfield tried to do likewise, but became entangled in the ropes and hung by his left foot. The balloon sped on for 200 yards, dragging him head downward. The peasants then secured the balloon with ropes and found that Von Siegfield's head was shattered and his spine broken.

JAMES I. DAVIDSON, EX-M.P., DEAD.

Pioneer of Ontario County Passed Away at His Balsam Home.

Brougham, Feb. 17.—Pickering Township lost Saturday in the death of James I. Davidson, ex-M.P., at his beautiful home near Balsam, one of the few remaining pioneers, and a most respected citizen. Mr. Davidson was of Scotch descent and about 83 years old. He took a great interest in Clydesdale and shorthorn stock-raising in Canada, being himself a most successful importer. In politics Mr. Davidson was a staunch Reformer, being a member of South Ontario for the Dominion House, along with Hon. Edward Blake and others in the John Macdonald time. He leaves two sons, John and James, both of Ashburn, and one daughter, relict of the late William Miller, who, with many grandchildren, mourn his loss.

THOUSANDS KILLED.

Shemakha District in Russia Visited by Terribly Destructive Earthquake.

Berlin, Feb. 17.—It is reported here from Baku, Russian Transcaucasia, that thousands of persons were killed by the earthquakes in the Shemakha district, and that the towns and villages for 20 versts around Shemakha suffered severely.

Shemakha is a formerly important but latterly comparatively insignificant town in Transcaucasia on the Zagolavia, an affluent of the Peersagat, which falls into the Caspian Sea. On the high road to India, it is situated in a mountainous, picturesque country, covered with luxuriant vegetation, 2,230 feet above the level of the Black Sea, and has numerous ruins of large caravansaries, churches and public buildings. Shemakha is the capital of the Khanate of Shirvan, and was known to Ptolemy as Kamachia.

In recent times Shemakha has suffered severely from earthquake. In 1859 the Governor's seat was moved to Baku because of a shock, and in 1872 a still more terrible shock occurred, from which the town never recovered. Before that year there were 130 Armenian silk winding industries there. In addition to the rearing of silkworms, Shemakha produced cotton, wheat and rice, and maintained several tanneries and dyeing works.

The population of Shemakha is said to be about 22,000.

FATAL BOILER EXPLOSION.

Three Men Fatally Injured Saturday at Portage La Prairie, Manitoba.

Portage La Prairie, Man., Feb. 17.—A disastrous boiler explosion occurred at 12.15 here Saturday, and, as a result, three men are fatally injured. The explosion occurred at Angus McLeod's pump shop, and the shock was felt for nearly a quarter of a mile. The pump shop is situated in the business portion of the town, about 100 yards off Saskatchewan avenue, and fragments of the boiler and the building in which it was situated were thrown for several hundred yards. Considerable damage was done to surrounding buildings, such as broken windows, etc. Windows were broken in Carland & Company's store, Hudson Bay Company, the Disciples' and English Churches. The boiler was a 12-horse power perpendicular one, and had been in use only about two months. The cause of the explosion is unknown. Those injured were:

John Braden of Popular Point, injured very seriously.

Fred. Blakely, livery stableman, may also die.

Duncan McLeod, a brother of the owner of the boiler, was also injured and may die.

A team of horses belonging to Mr. Braden was killed.

May Lose His Leg.

Comber, Feb. 17.—While boarding the blind baggage car on the Detroit accommodation here on Saturday morning, Charles Conway met with an accident that will likely result in his losing one of his legs. The train was under headway, and, while endeavoring to grab the iron bar in front of the baggage car, the corner of the car struck him, and in falling his leg went underneath the wheels. The leg was in a doubled position and the wheel passed over the knee. Amputation will likely be necessary.

How is Your Digestion

Is Your Stomach Weak, Inactive and Unable to Properly Digest Food? Does It Subject You to Inconvenience and Distress by Day and Disturb Your Rest by Night? Does Indigestion Acquaint You with the Horrors of Insomnia or the Dreadful Caprices of Nightmare?

If so, you can be relieved and cured. Dyspepsia has no terrors for those who are familiar with the virtues of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. They can bid defiance to indigestion. A "Square Meal" can be made to give rise to a sensation of satisfaction and comfort, and sleep rendered sweet and restful after a hearty repast.

Mr. Thomas Seale, Mayfield, Cala., says; "Have used and recommended Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets because there is nothing like them to keep the stomach right."

Miss Lelia Dively, 4627 Plummer street, Pittsburg, writes; "I wish every one to know how grateful I am for Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. I suffered for a long time and did not know what ailed me. I lost flesh right along until one day I noticed an advertisement of these tablets and immediately bought a 50c box at the drug store. I am only on the second box, and am gaining in flesh and colour. I have at last found something that has reached my ailment."

From Mrs. Del. Eldred, Sun Prairie, Wis.; "I was taken dizzy very suddenly during the hot weather of the past summer. After ten days of constant dizziness, I went to our local physician, who said my liver was torpid, and I had overheated my blood. He doctored me for two weeks without much improvement; I finally thought of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, which I had used long before for various bad feelings, and the first three tablets helped me. They are easily the best all-round family medicine I ever used."

Mrs. G. H. Crotsley, 538 Washington street, Hoboken, New Jersey, writes: "Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets just fill the bill for children as well as for older folks. I've had the best luck with them. My three-year old girl takes them as readily as candy. I have only to say 'tablets' and she drops everything else and runs for them."

A Buffalo mother a short time ago who despaired of the life of her babe, was so delighted with the results from giving the child these tablets, that she went before the notary public of Erie County, N.Y., and made the following affidavit; "Gentlemen—Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets were recommended to me for my two months old baby, which was sick and puny and the doctors said was suffering from indigestion. I took the child to the hospital, but there found no relief. A friend mentioned the Stuart's Tablets and I procured a box from my druggist, and used only the large, sweet, lozenges in the box, and was delighted to find that they were just the thing for my baby. I feel justified in saying that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets saved my child's life. MRS. W. T. DETHLOPE." Subscribed and sworn before me this 12th day of April, 1897. HENRY KARIS, Notary Public in and for Erie County, N.Y."

Rev. J.R. Hoag, of Wymore, Nebraska, writes; "For six years I have been troubled with dyspepsia. Last fall I became very much alarmed at some symptoms of heart trouble, and came to believe there was a sympathetic relation between the two diseases, or rather, that the stomach trouble was the cause of the heart disturbance. I hit upon Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets for a remedy, and invested a dollar and a half for three boxes, which lasted me three months, and I can eat any kind of food I want and have a good, vigorous appetite. Although I am seventy seven years old, I now feel perfectly well, and without being requested by anyone I make this statement as a compliment to the virtues of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets."

Mrs. Lydia Bartram, of Assyria, Mich, writes; "I have suffered from stomach trouble for ten years, and five different doctors gave me only temporary relief. A Mr. E.R. Page, advised me to try Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and four boxes did me more permanent benefit than all the doctor's medicines that I have ever taken."

Mrs. Ira Knowlton, of Butte, Montana, is a most enthusiastic convert to the virtues of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets as a cure for obstinate stomach trouble. She says; "I had poor digestion nearly all my life. It now seems to me that for years I never knew what it was to be hungry, to have a good, natural appetite. I was troubled with gas in stomach, causing pressure on the heart, with palpitation and short breath. Nearly everything I ate soured my stomach, sometimes I had cramps in my stomach which almost resembled spasms. Doctors told me I had catarrh of the stomach, but their medicines would not reach it, and I would still be a sufferer, had I not, in sheer desperation, decided to try Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. I knew they were an advertised remedy, and I didn't believe anything I read about them, as I had no confidence in advertised remedies, but my sister, living in Pittsburg wrote me last spring telling me how Stuart's Tablets had cured her and her little daughter of indigestion and loss of flesh and appetite, and I hesitated no longer. I bought a fifty cent box at my drug store, and took two of the large tablets after each meal, and found them delightful to take, being as pleasant to the taste as carmel candy. Whenever during the day or night I felt any pain or uneasiness in the stomach or about the heart, I took one of the small tablets, and in three weeks it seemed as if I had never known what stomach trouble was. I keep Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets in the house and every member of our family uses them occasionally after a hearty meal or when any of us have a pain or ache in the digestive organs."

Mr. E.H. Davies, of Hampton, Va., says; "I doctored for five years for dyspepsia, but in two months I got more benefit from Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets than in five years of the doctor's treatment."

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets contain no opiates, cocaine or any narcotic, cathartic or other injurious drugs, simply the natural pepsones and digestives which every weak stomach lacks.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets can be bought at any drug store for 50c a box. The F.A. Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich., publish a book about dyspepsia; which they will send you, free and prepaid, if you will write and request it. A post card will bring it. Write to-day.

The Whip Tree.

In the island of Jamaica grows a tree, with the botanic name Daphne lagetto, from the branches of which native workmen make peculiarly strong and excellent whips, which have the handle and lash all of a piece. The handle consists of a part of the stem retaining the bark. For the lash the stem is deprived of bark and then split into strips, which are woven together in a flexible cord six or seven feet in length. The proper taper is afforded by detaching more and more of the strips as the end of the lash is approached.

The Old Way

The science of curing has advanced so slowly that many of us can remember the time when a heavy chest cold was treated in this way. Just think of it—opening the pores of the skin and making it easy to have a worse attack.

"Last May I had an attack of typhoid fever. My doctor checked it but I had the malaria left in my system, which gave me great distress. I tried four bottles of Maltine, with cod liver oil and creosote, but received no benefit from these preparations. I was advised several times by Mr. Martin, 76 Seaton st., to try Ozone. I did so and received great benefit from the first bottle. By the time I had finished the second bottle I felt like a new man. I also had a bad cough and the Ozone cured this. You undoubtedly have the best remedy in the market to-day for people's ills."

(Signed) Alex. Clark, 260 College St., Toronto."

Now-a-days most people use

POWLEY'S LIQUIFIED OZONE

and strengthen the body, instead of making it weak and enervated. You would use it, too, if you once experienced its healing power. Try it on a bad cold; just take it two or three times in hot water before going to bed and wrap up warmly. Your blood and system get the oxygen and it makes you well.

Ozone is oxygen in condensed form—blood food. It contains no alcohol, is not a combination of drugs—is not a medicine.

Mr. Nicholls' Gift to Ridley.

Mr. Frederic Nicholls has presented to Ridley College a combined hall and hockey rink, which is to cost at least $5,000. This generous gift is the outcome of his interest in the new building erected for the junior department, and the acquisition of 70 acres of land for playing-grounds. These new enterprises at Ridley are largely the result of Mr. Nicholls' counsel, energy and financial help. He has now endeared himself to Ridley boys by providing them with the means for winter sport and with a hall for prize day ceremonies. He is also interested in the new wing to be at once erected to provide further accommodation in the already crowded junior school.

THE LATE JOHN CHASTY.

He Passed Away on Wednesday Last, Aged 51 Years—Was Well Known.

On Wednesday, the 12th inst., there occurred the death of one of the most highly respected residents of the Township of Smith, when Mr. John Chasty, of Lot 22, concession 7, passed away after a very brief illness from pneumonia, at the age of 51 years.

Deceased was born at Folley Gate, Okehampton, Devon, England, in 1850, and came to Canada in 1871, and was employed for a number of years with Mr. R. C. Strickland, of Lakefield. After leaving his employ he lived in Douro for a short time and from there he removed to Smith, where he has since resided. In 1877 he married Sarah Hannah Snelgrove, daughter of the late Isaac Snelgrove, of Lakefield, who with three daughters still survive him.

He was a prominent member of the Methodist church of Lakefield, a member of the Canadian Order of Foresters, a member of the West Peterborough Farmers' Institute, and a Conservative in politics.

The funeral, which was largely attended, took place on Friday at 2.30 p.m., from the family residence to the Lakefield cemetery. The services were conducted by Rev. Mr. McCamus in conjunction with Court Lakefield Canadian Order of Foresters.

CHURCH CHIMES.

ST. PAUL'S.

The anthem in the morning in St. Paul's was entitled "Only Wait," and in the evening, "I will Magnify," with solo by Mr. Milne. In the evening Mr. Morphet sang "Jerusalem."

ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH.

At St. Andrew's church last night Rev. J. G. Potter delivered a memorial service to the memory of the late Celia Sanderson, who died so suddenly a week ago. Miss Sanderson was a member of St. Andrew's church, where she will be sadly missed. Rev. Mr. Potter took for his text "A New Testament Tragedy." In referring to the circumstances surrounding the death of John the Baptist, he took occasion to place in contrast the peaceful though sudden death of one who had worshipped in St. Andrew's last Sunday night. Mr. Potter appealed to the parents to do all they could to secure the interest and salvation of their children.

GEORGE STREET CHURCH.

Rev. Mr. Kenny of Millbrook, occupied the pulpit of the George street church yesterday morning and evening. He delivered two thoughtful and earnest discourses and his remarks were much appreciated by all those present.

To the large audience gathered in the evening, he spoke from Exodus xx, 3, "Thou shalt have no other gods before Me." We all have some conception of God, but we do not understand Him, and there are lots of men on earth to-day whose most intimate friends do no understand them. On that last day when all men shall receive justice, some will pass to eternal life whom we may have thought were least worthy, and some whom we have looked upon as being Christians, will come short.

The Bible says God is a jealous God. What does this mean? God has made this world of ours, and all the millions of worlds that surround it. Everything in the world was made by Him. If we could get to some place where God was not then we would be able to worship whom we please; but he has given us all we have and are and is it not reasonable that God should say what His own should do? "No man hath seen God at any time, but we have only to look at the life of Jesus Christ, and see through it, God, for "If ye have have known Me ye would have known the Father," and "I and the Father are one." Then, if we know God we shall know what Salvation is, and become acquainted with the means whereby a man may live in touch with his Maker.

NOW ON EXHIBITION.

A Deer's Head in the Window of the Peterborough Hardware Company.

There is on exhibition in the window of the Peterborough Hardware Company a deer's head which has just been mounted by Mr. E. Elcome, and which is attracting more than ordinary attention. This pride of the forest fell a victim to the rifle bullet last fall in the eastern part of Peterborough County. The remarkable feature about this mounted deer's head is in regard to its horns and spikes, it having no fewer than 25 points in all. This is most unusual, as eight points is generally the number of points that are found on the horns of these animals. The head is otherwise a beautiful specimen, and is mounted with Mr. Elcome's usual good taste.

WEDDING BELLS.

Marriage of Mr. John O'Leary of Otonabee to Miss Margaret A. Quinlan.

The Caughnawaga correspondent of the Norwood Register says: "On Monday morning last a very pretty wedding was solemnized in St. Paul's church, Norwood, when Miss Margaret A., youngest daughter of Mr. Wm. Quinlan, of this place, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. John O'Leary, a most prominent Otonabee farmer.

The duties of bridesmaid were filled by Miss M. F. O'Leary, sister of the groom, and the groom was assisted during the ceremony by Mr. T. Quinlan, brother of the bride.

The bride looked very pretty in a dress of pearl grey silk and carried a lively bouquet; and the bridesmaid wore a dress of dove-coloured silk with white silk trimmings.

After the ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. Father Conway, P. P., was over, the happy couple left the church, the enlivening strains of the wedding march adding, if possible, to their joy. They were immediately driven to the home of the bride's parents where a number of invited guests awaited their arrival. After the usual congratulatory addresses were expressed, a most tempting wedding breakfast was served in the dining hall, which was tastefully decorated for the occasion.

The bride being a general favourite, having gained a reputation for sweetness and kindness of disposition, was the recipient of presents more than usually numerous and useful; some from a distance being very valuable.

Your scribe joins with the many friends of Mr. and Mrs. O'Leary, here, in wishing them a happy and prosperous wedded life."

WEDDING IN CHANDOS.

Miss Annie Bush Married to Mr. Thos. Bullied Jr.

A very interesting event took place on February 12th, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bullied, sr., when their son, Thomas, jr., was united in marriage with Miss Annie Bush, of North Chandos.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. Lord, of the Church of England. The bride was attended by Miss Eliza and Miss Bertha Bullied, whilst Mr. T. J. Wilson and Mr. L. P. Bullied, performed the services for the groom. A number of young people, friends of the family, were present to witness the happy event. A social evening was enjoyed by those in attendance at the wedding, and this was followed by a married people's party the following evening.

MR. MATHER REMEMBERED.

An Otonabee Gentlemen Who is Moving to Peterborough—Two Handsome Chairs.

Mr. George Mather, of Otonabee, who is moving to Peterborough was taken greatly by surprise on the evening of Feb. 5th, when about 40 or more of his friends and neighbours assembled at his residence in the form of a surprise party. Mr. Mather was presented with two handsome chairs and the following address which was read by Mr. Jos. Taylor:

Mr. George Mather:

Sir,—We meet on this occasion to do honour to you as an esteemed friend and successful farmer, and to express our high regard for your worth as an active resident of Otonabee for many years.

As you are about to leave our neighbourhood, we cannot let you go without some tangible token of esteem. We have to regret the departure of yourself and Mrs. Mather from amongst us, because of your social and hospital qualities, as well as the loss of your good judgment and advice in many of the affairs of life.

We hope your future life may be blessed wherever you may be, and that the recollections of your friends and associations at Mather's Corners may afford you some pleasure.

We ask you to accept these two armchairs, one for Mrs. Mather and one for yourself, and

"May God be with you till we meet again."

(Signed,)

MRS. G. HOWSON,
MRS. W. MATHER.
